

A man and a woman are standing on a cobblestone street in a city. The man is wearing a grey suit, a white shirt, and a red tie with white polka dots. He is holding a dark grey bag. The woman is wearing a white long-sleeved shirt and a long, flowing yellow skirt. She is holding a white shopping bag. In the background, there is a large, ornate brick church with a tall spire and a blue and white building with a golden dome. Other people are walking on the street.

Tartaria

Orphan Trains

David Ewing Jr

Tartaria

Orphan Trains

David Ewing Jr

Introduction

Many people around the world have discovered that a few generations ago, their great grandparents were orphans

There is much evidence to show that many of these orphans had been kidnapped away from their families and sold

They were selling the children

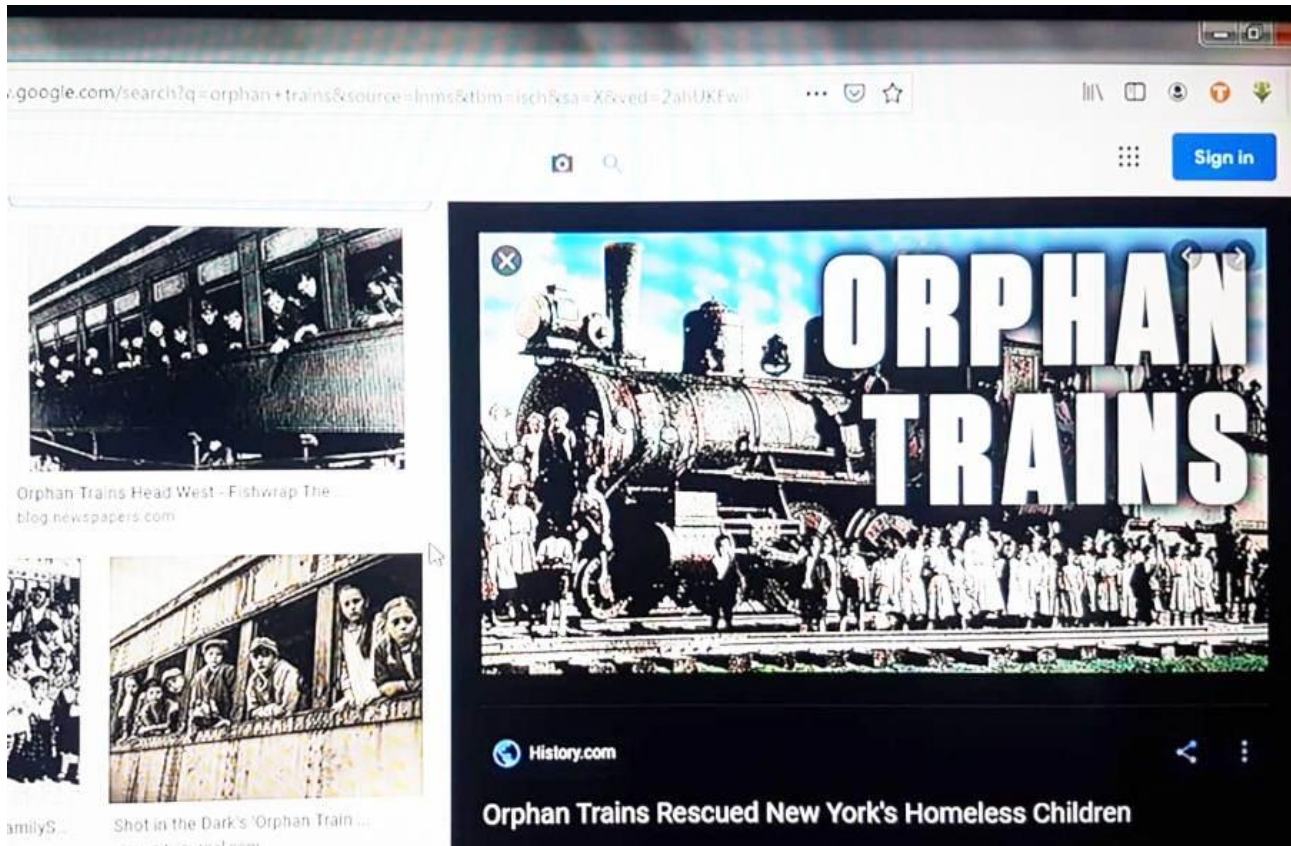

Did they create wars on purpose to create orphans?

Researchers do not believe what historians say about these orphans and many researchers believe that the children were kidnapped or forced away from their families

This book will show some of the facts that researchers mention - and photo evidence is provided to show you that proper research has been done by David Ewing Jr to check what researchers say about this matter

David Ewing Jr has travelled to over 2500 cities and places worldwide and has done much historical research over 20 years and has great knowledge of world history

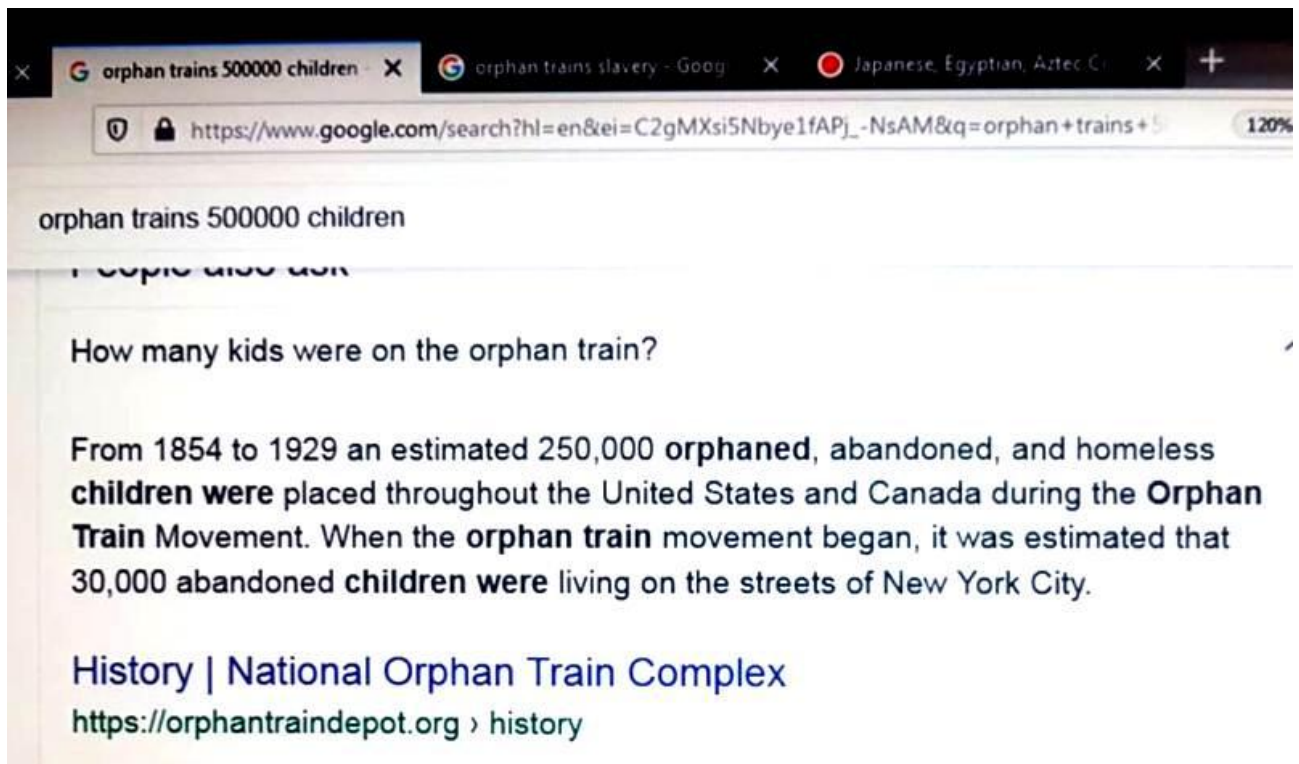

Tartaria - Orphan Trains

What are orphan trains?

Between 1850 and 1930 - an estimated 250 000 children - from cities in America and Europe - were sent to the middle and the west of the North American continent - the Midwest by train.

These trains are known as the Orphan Trains

They were sent by train to so-called FOSTER homes to take care of them. Many other children went to the Midwest by other means of transportation including boat and horse travel. Many of the children were kidnapped or forced away from their mothers and fathers from cities in America and in Europe and the Middle East.

Many of these children were then sold - it was big business - and many were used as slaves in farms and factories - many historians try to show this slavery - as a type of adoption - but it was slavery.

Historians say that these children were orphans. It is estimated that millions of children worldwide were orphans (or foundlings) between 1850 and 1930.

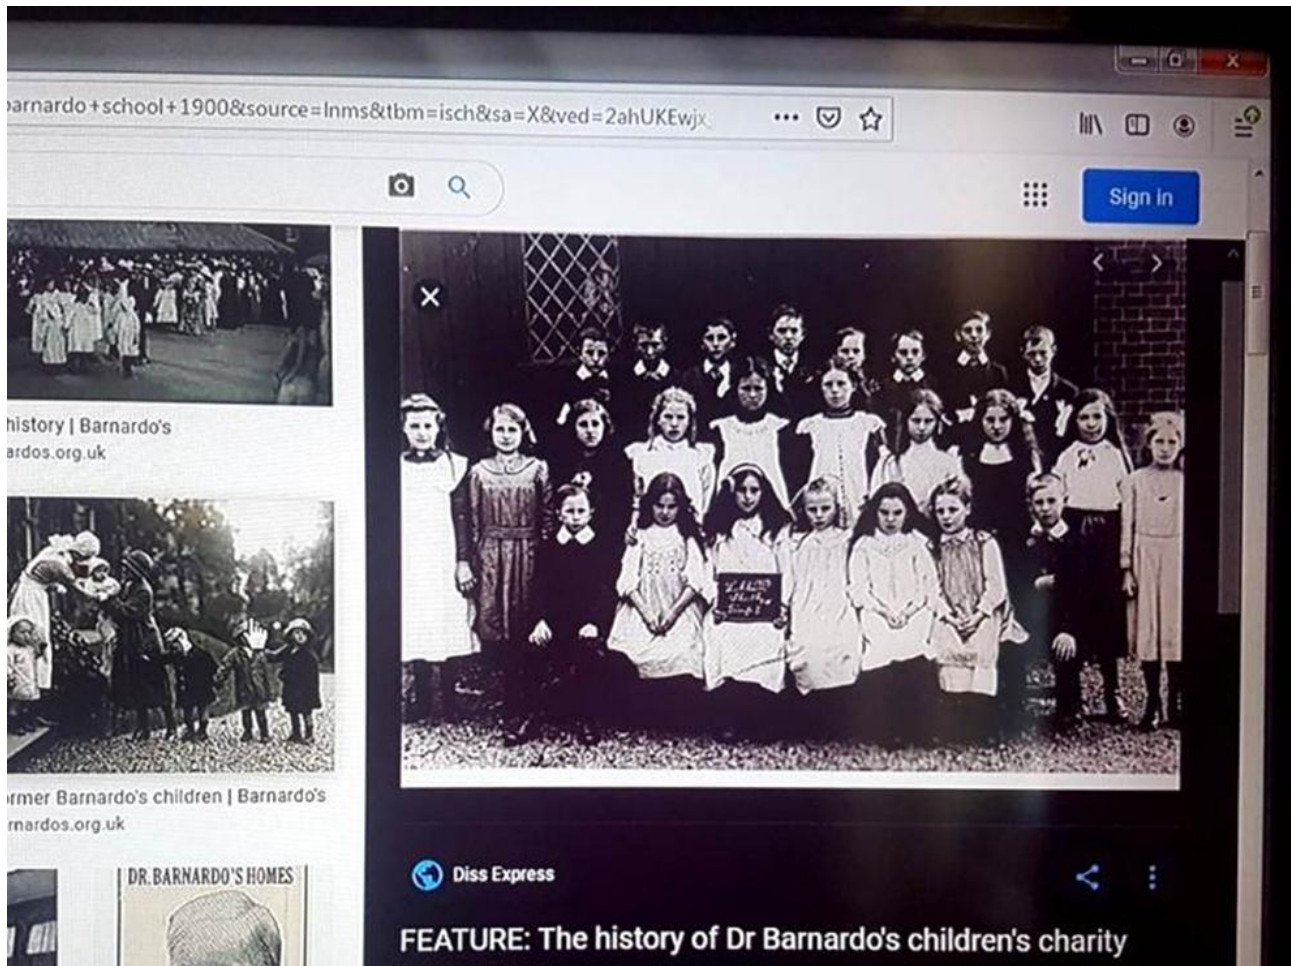

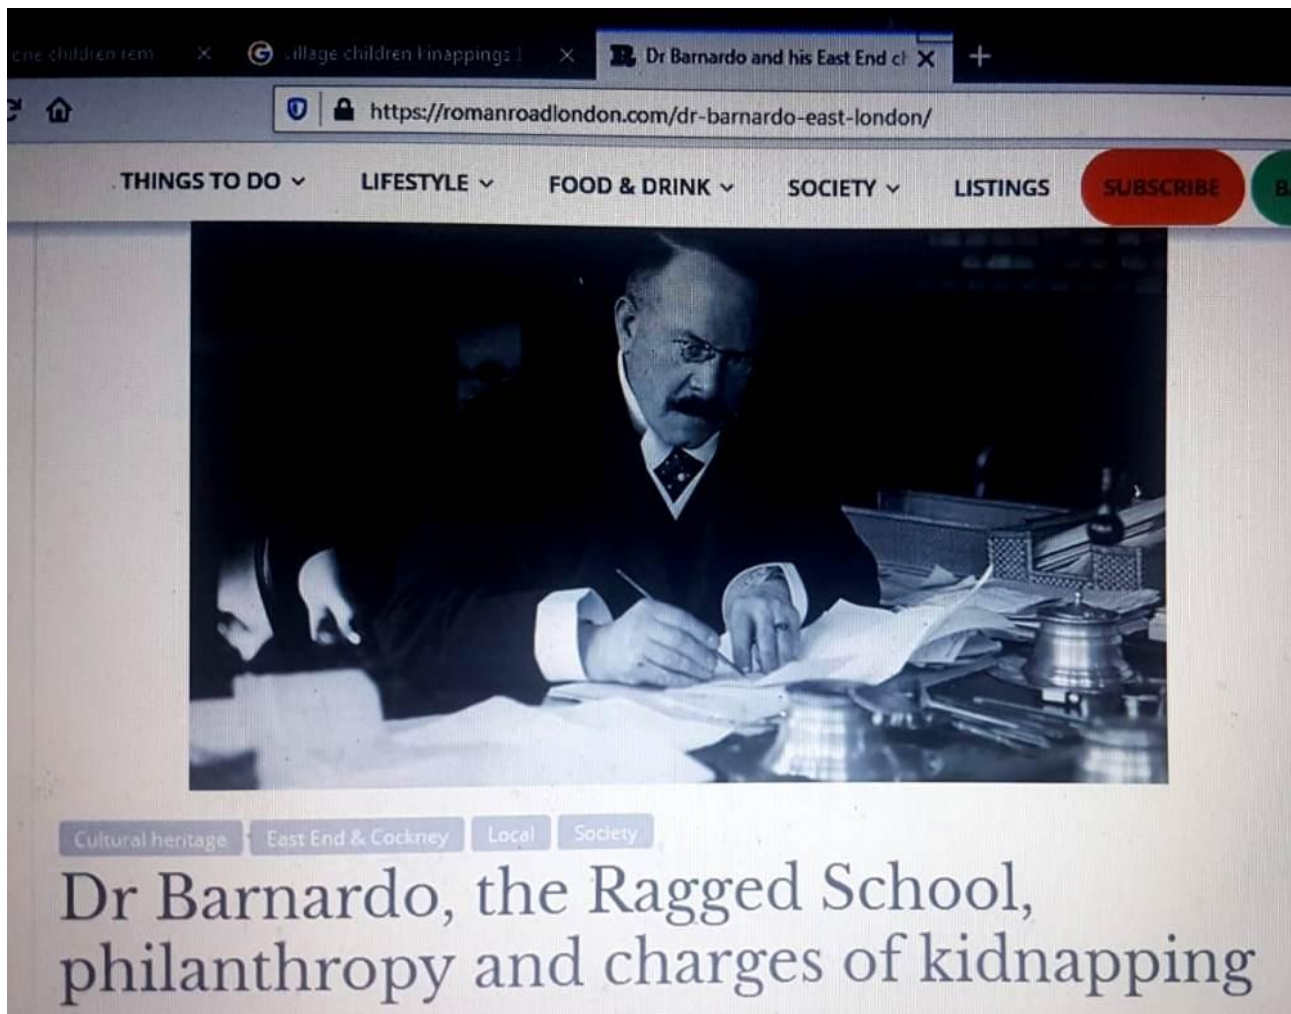

Photo above - Wickham Skeith School - 1913 - England

This place was a school alleged to be for orphans. It was organised by Dr Barnardo.

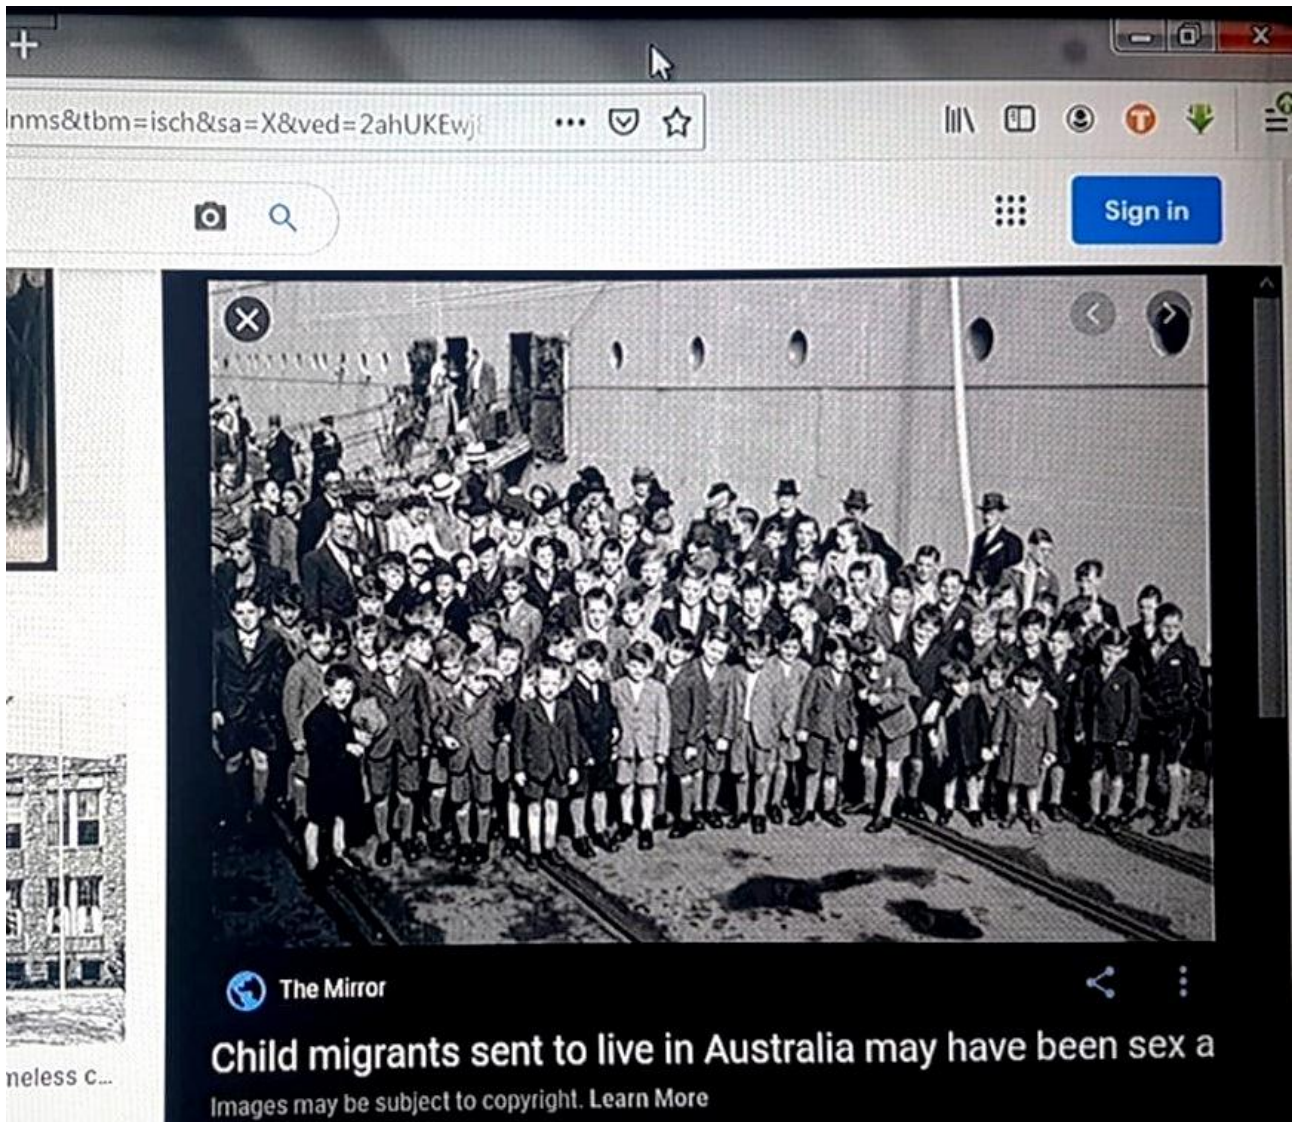

Dr Barnardo was charged over 80 times for the kidnapping of children

Kidnapping children?

Researchers found this very strange. According to historians there were millions of orphans worldwide at the time, something that we do not see in the western world today. Millions of orphans, not a few thousand

Many of these children were given false family names such as Smith and Jones. In other languages, they were given random names also

Evidence clearly shows that there were too many orphans or children who were abandoned

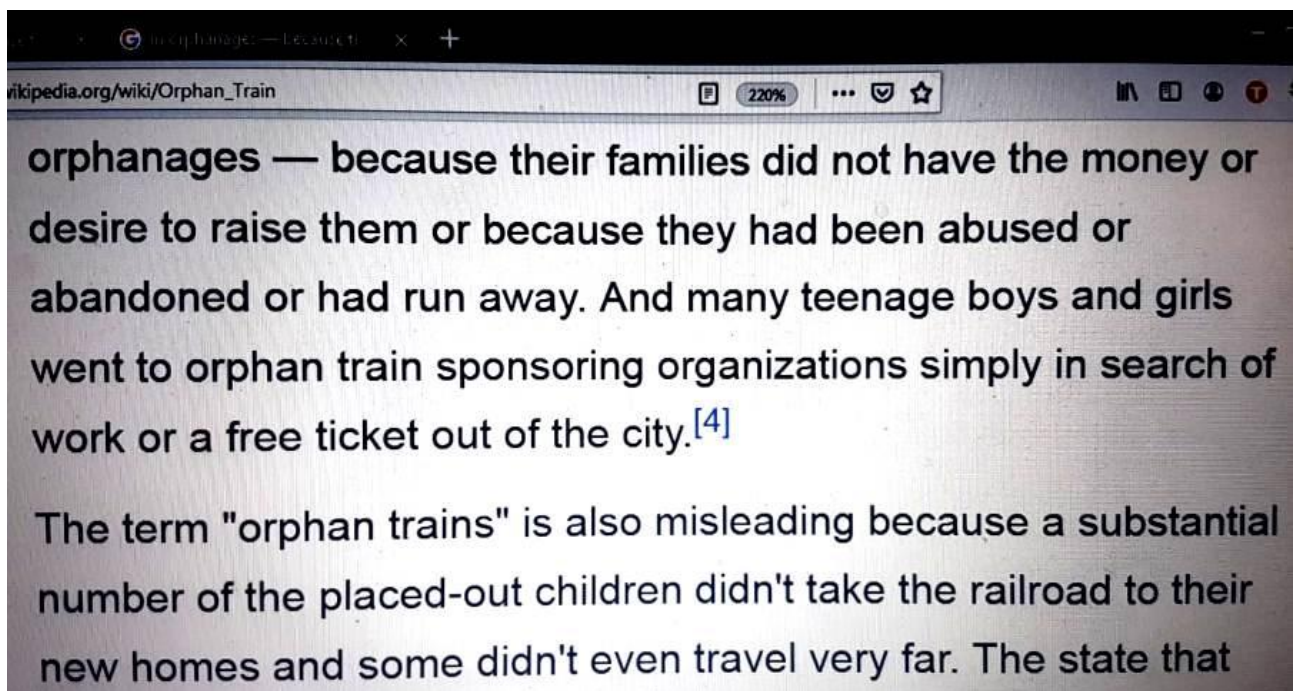

If there were so many orphans, why would there be claims of kidnapping? If there were millions of orphans, then there would be no need for kidnapping

The history did not seem to make sense. Researchers began an investigation to see what was going on during those times. Researchers soon discovered that kidnapping children on a large global scale was going on at the time. Evidence showed that it was deliberately planned and organised by the ruling powers of the time

Many children were sent from Europe to America and Canada and Australia and Scandinavia and Latin America and other places. Who was paying for all the transportation? The shipping costs were not cheap.

Who paid for the shipping costs and the costs to maintain and look after all the children?

Historians say that many of the orphans came from the city areas. Historians say that many of them ran away or had been abused or abandoned. Many of these orphans worldwide were not sent in trains, but were taken by other means of transportation and also to places nearby

Did these things happen naturally or accidentally?

The number of orphans seen in Europe and America during that time period was very high. What made so many children run away? Why and how were the children abused? Why were the children abandoned?

orphans abandoned 1900 - Go X The war babies: no definite info X + https://www.theguardian.com/world/2017/apr/27/first-world-war-illegitimate-babies-soldiers-

The war babies: no definite information obtainable - archive, 1915

27 April 1915: With the establishment of military camps all over the country, a very large proportion of illegitimate children must be the children of soldiers

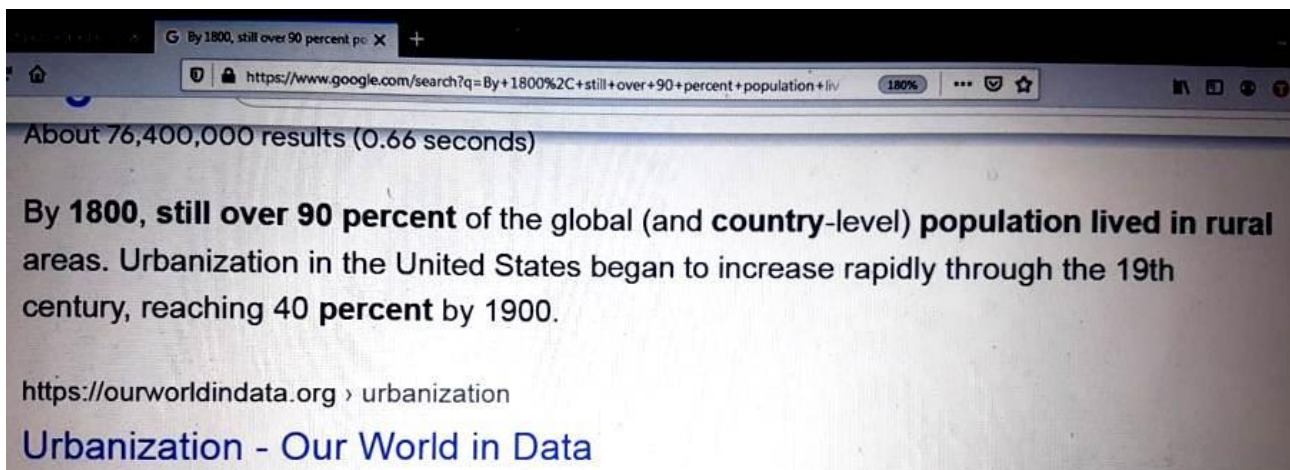

▲ Babies in a nursery in East London in the early 1900s, possibly in a Barnardo's orphanage or hospital ward.
Photograph: Alamy

Why were so many children in city areas running away or being abandoned? Did war have anything to do with this?

In Europe and America, we do not see such things today in big numbers. Something seemed to be wrong.

It is not normal for people to abandon their own children, - and it is not normal for children aged: - 5 or 6 or 7 or 8 or 9, to run away in large numbers.

Who was feeding the children before they were 5 years old? Did the children have mothers and families? Many of the children were alive and were looked after for the first few years and then mysteriously they became orphans. Other children were abandoned when they were babies. Why did such things happen?

In 1800, more than 90 percent of the people of the world lived in the countryside. The result of so many wars and conflicts, most of which involved the great ruling powers, was the great destruction of the countryside and lifestyle of the people of the world

Evidence also shows that the people in the European countryside and in Asia and America were not controlled by nation states in 1700 and borders did not exist the way they do today. The people were free from the laws in city areas, which were made by leaders, who claimed to be the master in those areas. These masters in the city areas - united and formed nation states. The cities that resisted were attacked and destroyed and taken over. This process took a few centuries

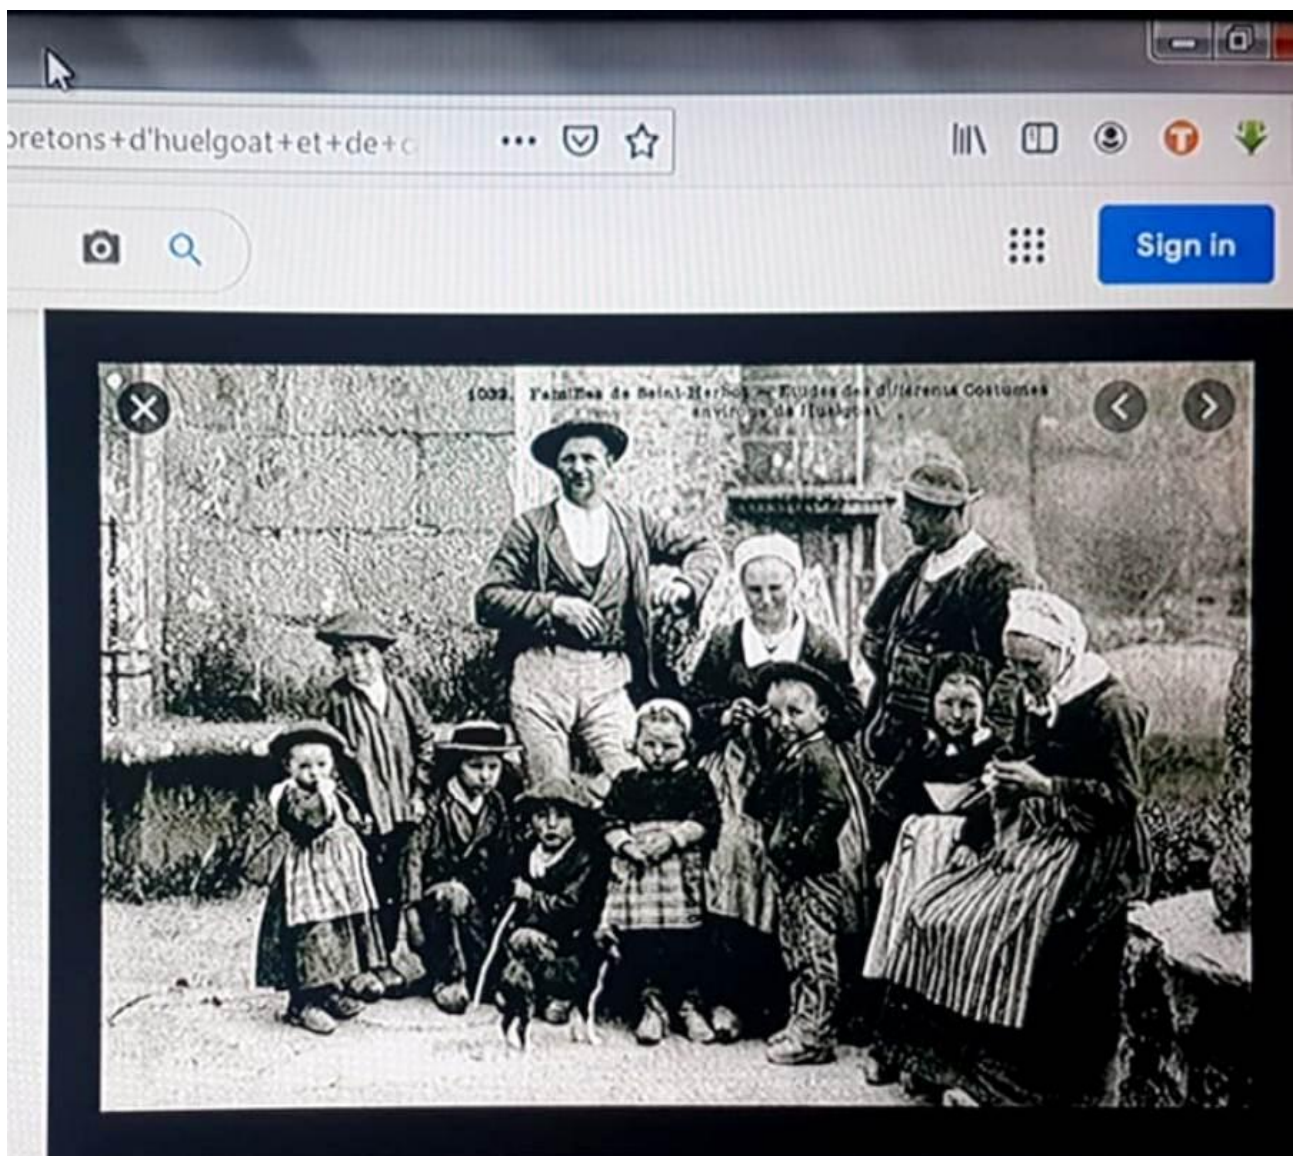

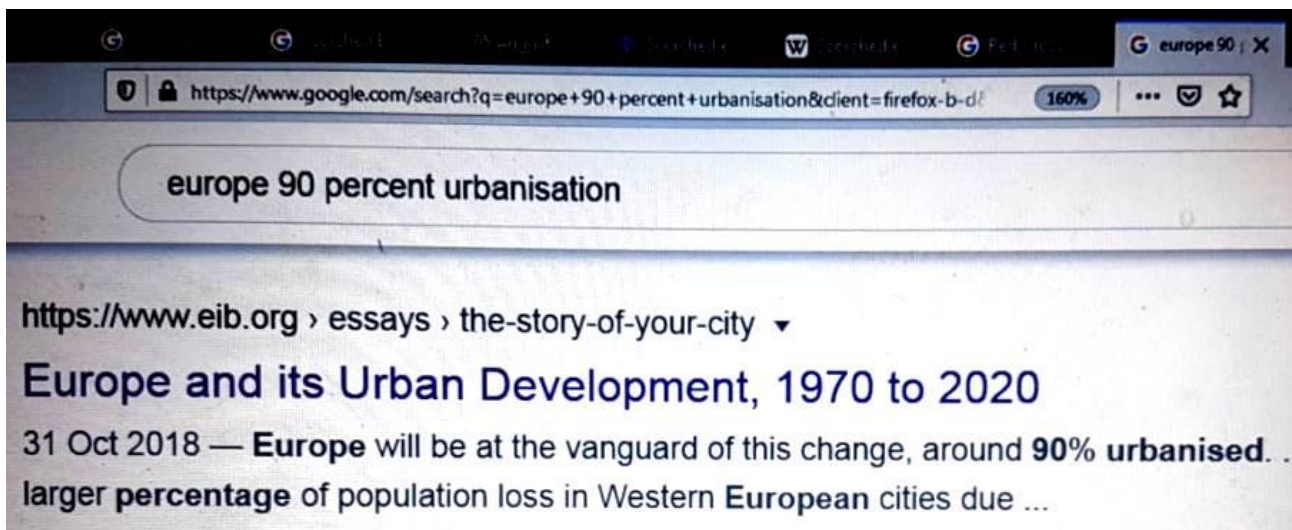

Photo above, people in Brittany, France

The people in the countryside built their own homes and had their own language system and had their own lifestyle and their own laws and had a totally different civilisation compared to the cities. They had their own culture and their own fashion

Today almost 90% of the people in Europe and America live in cities. Note that classification of urbanisation and what is an urban area differs according to different international originations

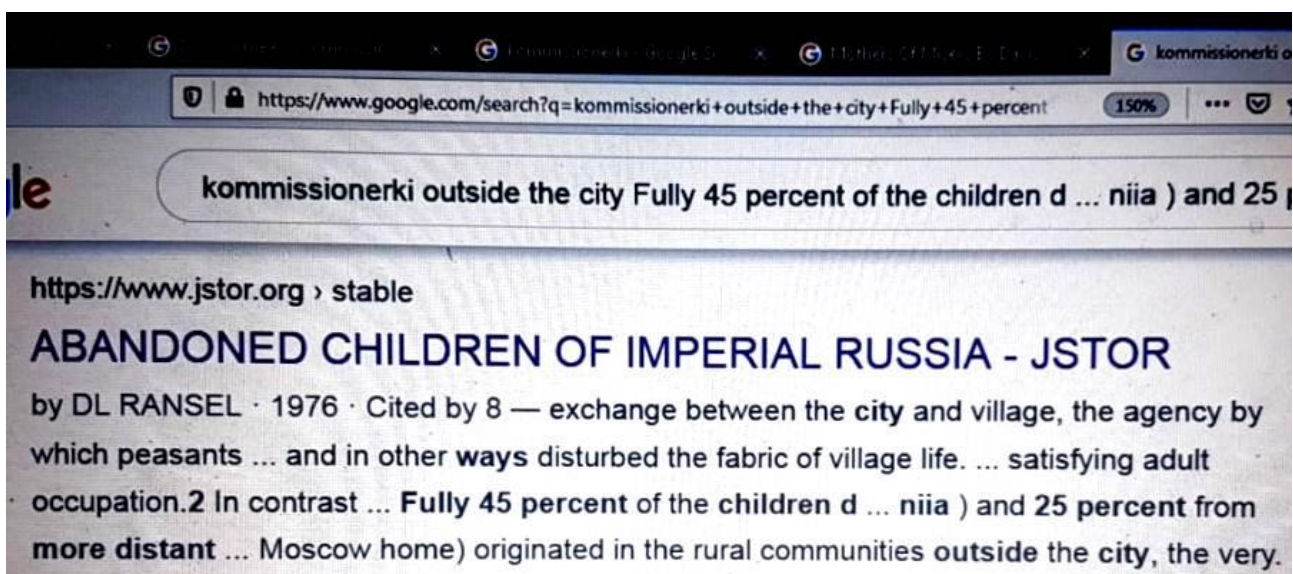

A similar thing can be seen in today's world, especially in regions that are suffering from war or natural disaster. Millions of children in poor countries have become orphans or are abandoned, and many of them are child workers

The wars and conflicts are created by the people in power, and many of the natural disasters have been caused by the people in power. There is much evidence to show that mining and industrial activity is not being practiced fairly or properly in the third world and is a leading cause of many of the disasters

Was all this an accident or was it planned?

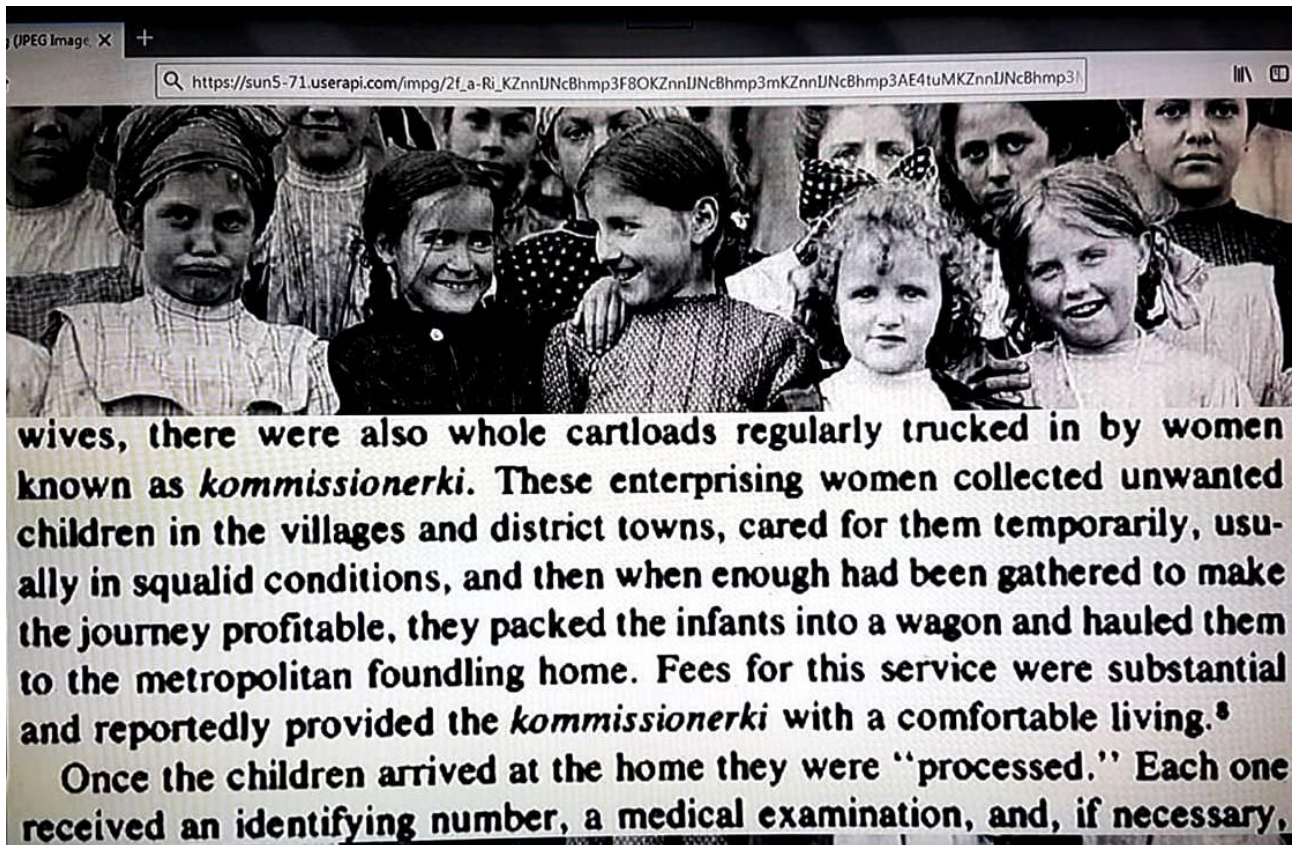

In Moscow, Russia, in the 1880's, - reports showed that thousands of children were classified as orphans or foundlings. A similar thing was seen throughout the world

Evidence showed that 80 percent of the orphans in Moscow came from the countryside, many came from distant places

How were these children found in the countryside?

wives, there were also whole cartloads regularly trucked in by women known as kommissionerki. These enterprising women collected unwanted children in the villages and district towns, cared for them temporarily, usually in squalid conditions, and then when enough had been gathered to make the journey profitable, they packed the infants into a wagon and hauled them to the metropolitan foundling home. Fees for this service were substantial and reportedly provided the kommissionerki with a comfortable living.⁸

Once the children arrived at the home they were "processed." Each one received an identifying number, a medical examination, and, if necessary,

These children were collected from many villages in the countryside in Eastern Europe and Asia by commissioners called - kommissionerki. The children they found or collected - were sold. Historians call it a service fee for collecting the children and the fees were very high. It was a business and thousands of people were involved in this trade and made big money. It was clear that this was a business and involved big money

Were these children really orphans - dying in the countryside? The children were alive when the commissioners found them. They were not dead. They were alive so this means that they were eating food and were being looked after

Did the commissioners really find the children? Or were they being kidnapped away from their families?

Imagine going into the countryside today and finding thousands of children all alone that no one wanted. It was clear that the children were being kidnapped or forced away from their parents and the people involved were making money out of the whole thing

Who wanted thousands of children and why? Who was paying for it? The Russian state in the 18th and 19th and 20th centuries, - was paying for these things and the military was heavily involved. The Russian state was active almost every year in wars and conflicts in Europe and Asia during this time and was heavily involved in moving children from villages to city areas and also sending them to state run new villages.

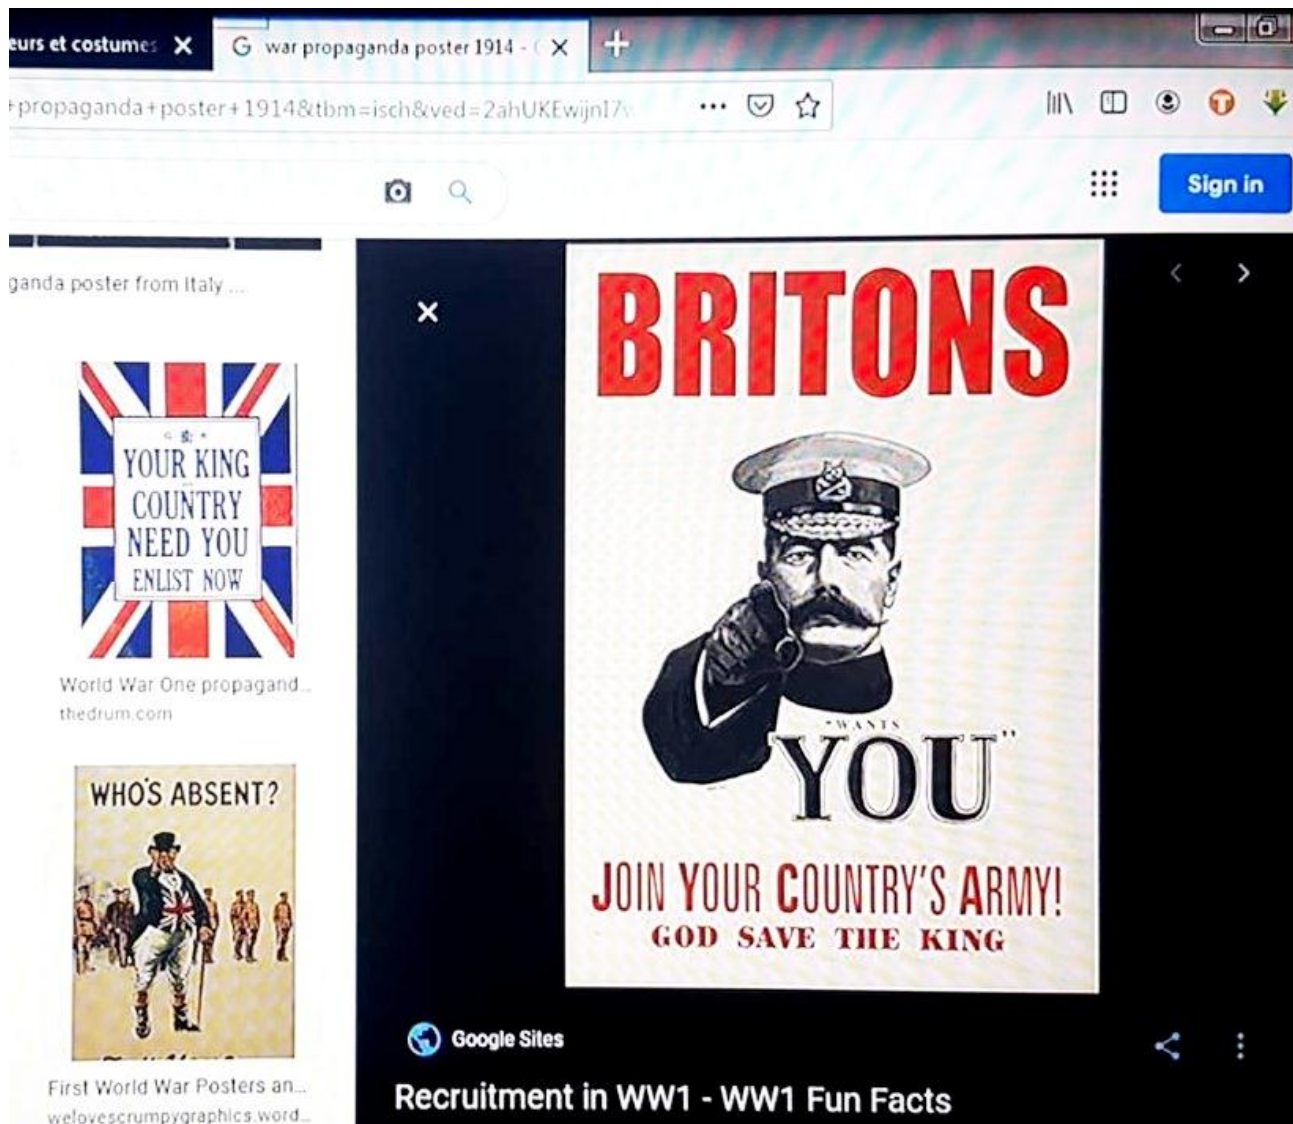

The Russian army was involved in almost half of the lands of Europe in the last 3 centuries

For the military to be involved, it was clear that wars were created on purpose to carry out such plans.

Schools were created to teach these children, new history and new language and new religion, according to the people in power

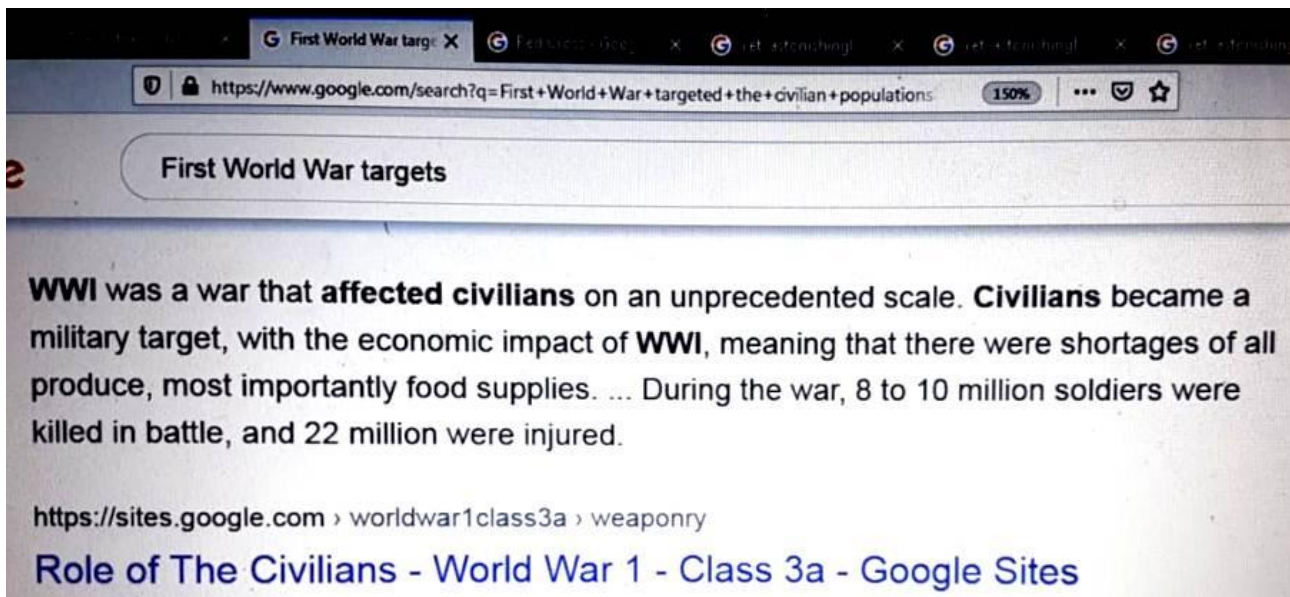

This was being done worldwide - therefore it must have been part of a global plan. To do this globally, means that it was organised by the ruling powers at the time. To have organised such things globally, means that it was planned in advance and also means that there was an aim and objective to what they were doing

Why should ordinary people fight each other for no reason in the countryside? The European nation states created the wars - almost as if they were pretending to fight each other for their own objectives. The people lived in villages and had little connection with the city or state rulers

Researchers found evidence to show that they were creating wars deliberately for their own plans and destroying the countryside and creating poverty. They were kidnapping children. They were stealing children. The excuse was to save the children from poverty and war. But, - they were making the wars, and they sent workers and organisations to save the people and children from the wars, that they created. The village people fought back, and anything that went wrong, was blamed on the other side

So many young boys and men were forced to join the armies - why?

Civilians - ordinary normal people, men and women and children, were a major military target during the First World War. This history is very big, but many people around the world are not aware of it. People in Europe were affected so badly. There were so many wars and conflicts between 1700 and 1950 in Europe that it totally devastated the people in the countryside. People were a major target in all these wars. The nation states wanted to control the countryside and the food supply.

The food shortages during the First World War were very serious. The situation was of course created by the people in power. There were many other food shortages throughout the 18th and 19th centuries in Europe, and this was because the countryside was being destroyed again and again by the many wars. Evidence showed that the people in power were creating all these wars, almost deliberately to achieve their objectives

Was it done deliberately?

Was it done on purpose?

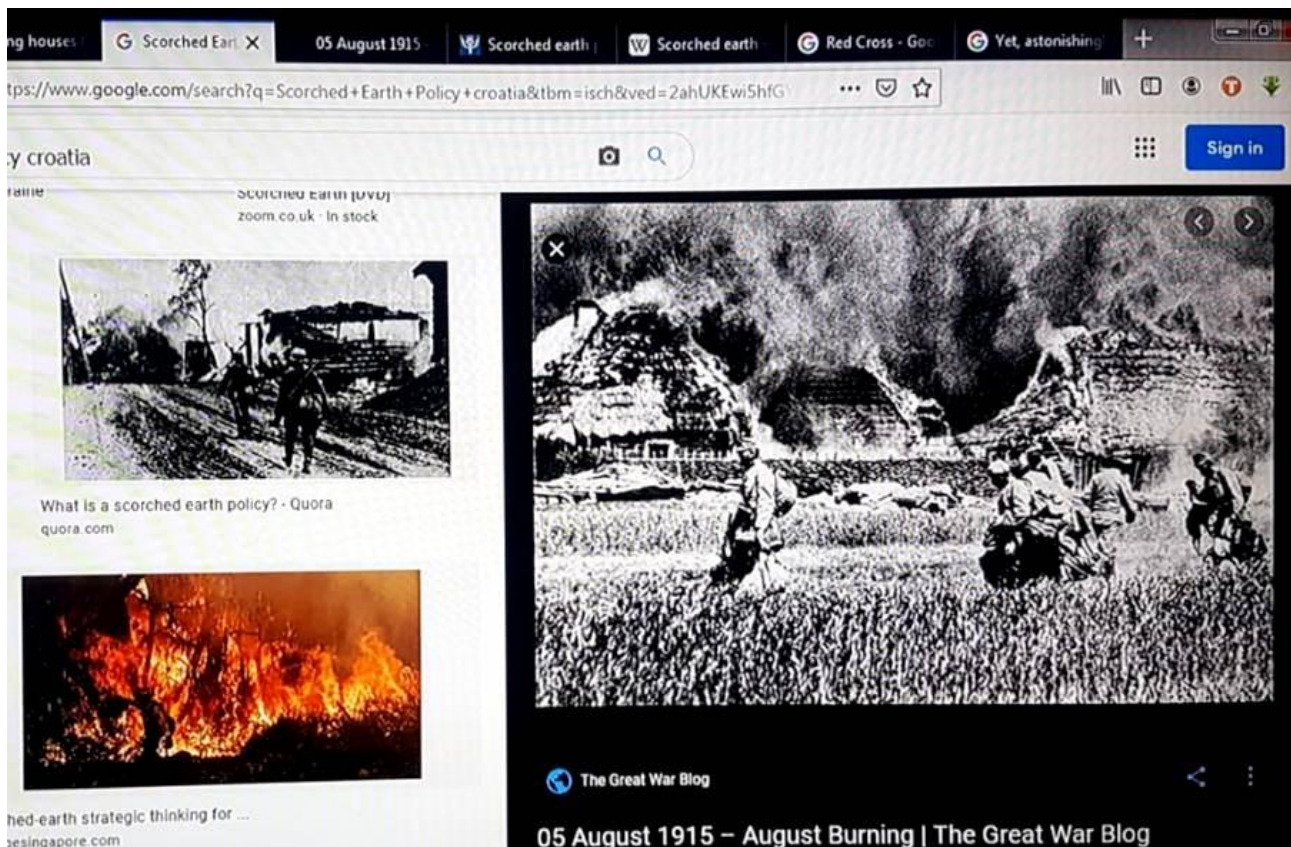

Was the countryside destroyed deliberately?

Was it all part of a plan?

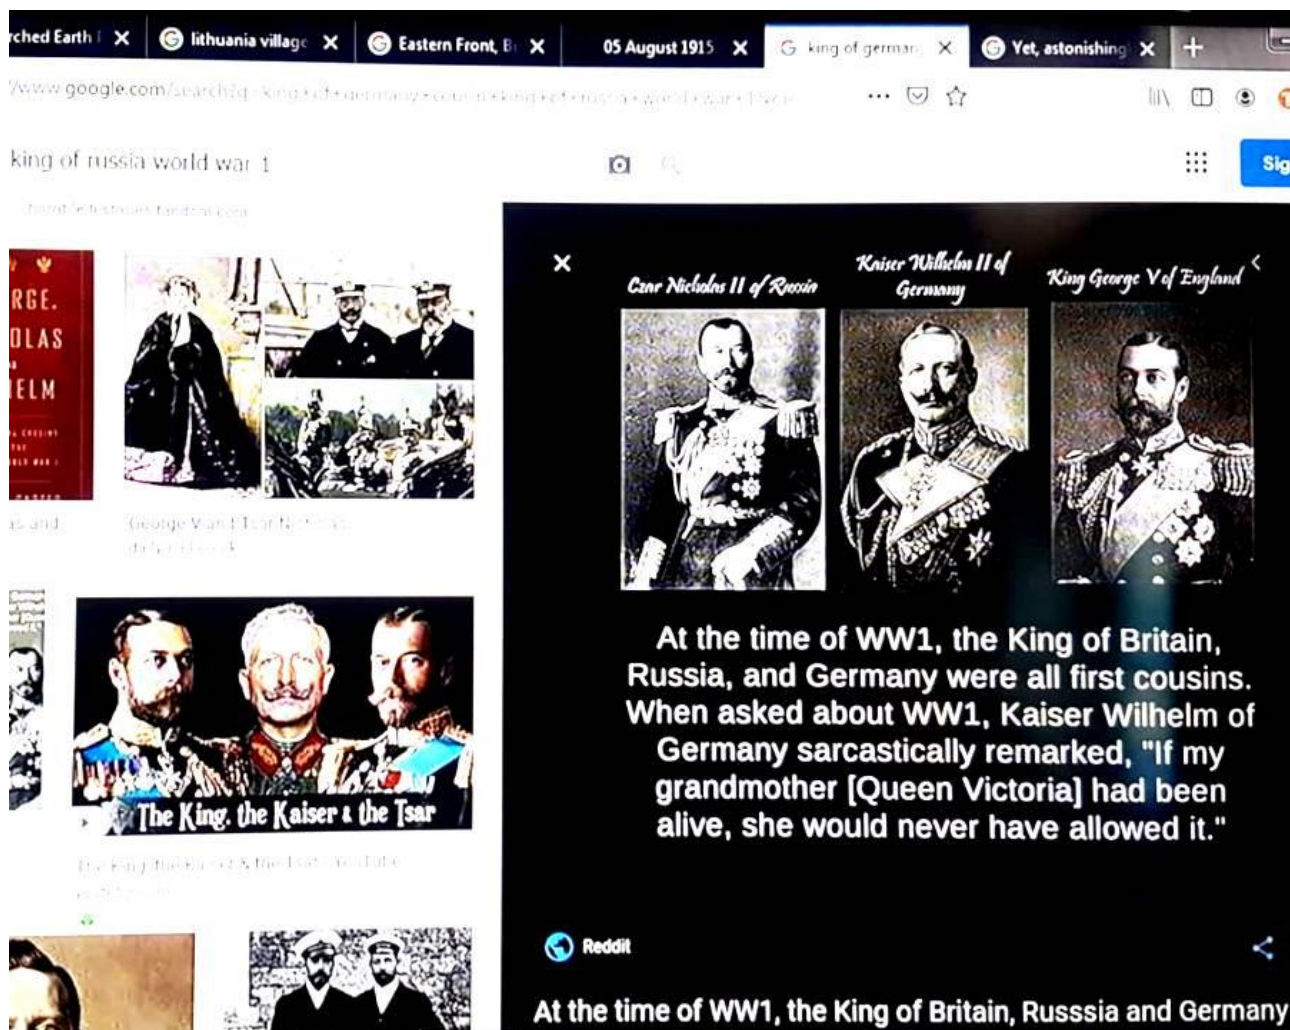

For example - the Russians had a scorched earth policy during the First World War. This meant: - burn and destroy everything, homes and farmland. Historians give an excuse for this: - they say that this happened because the enemy could use these resources. The Russians were fighting the Germans during that war.

This policy of destroying everything was carried out in almost all the wars and conflicts in the 18th and 19th centuries which happened year after year

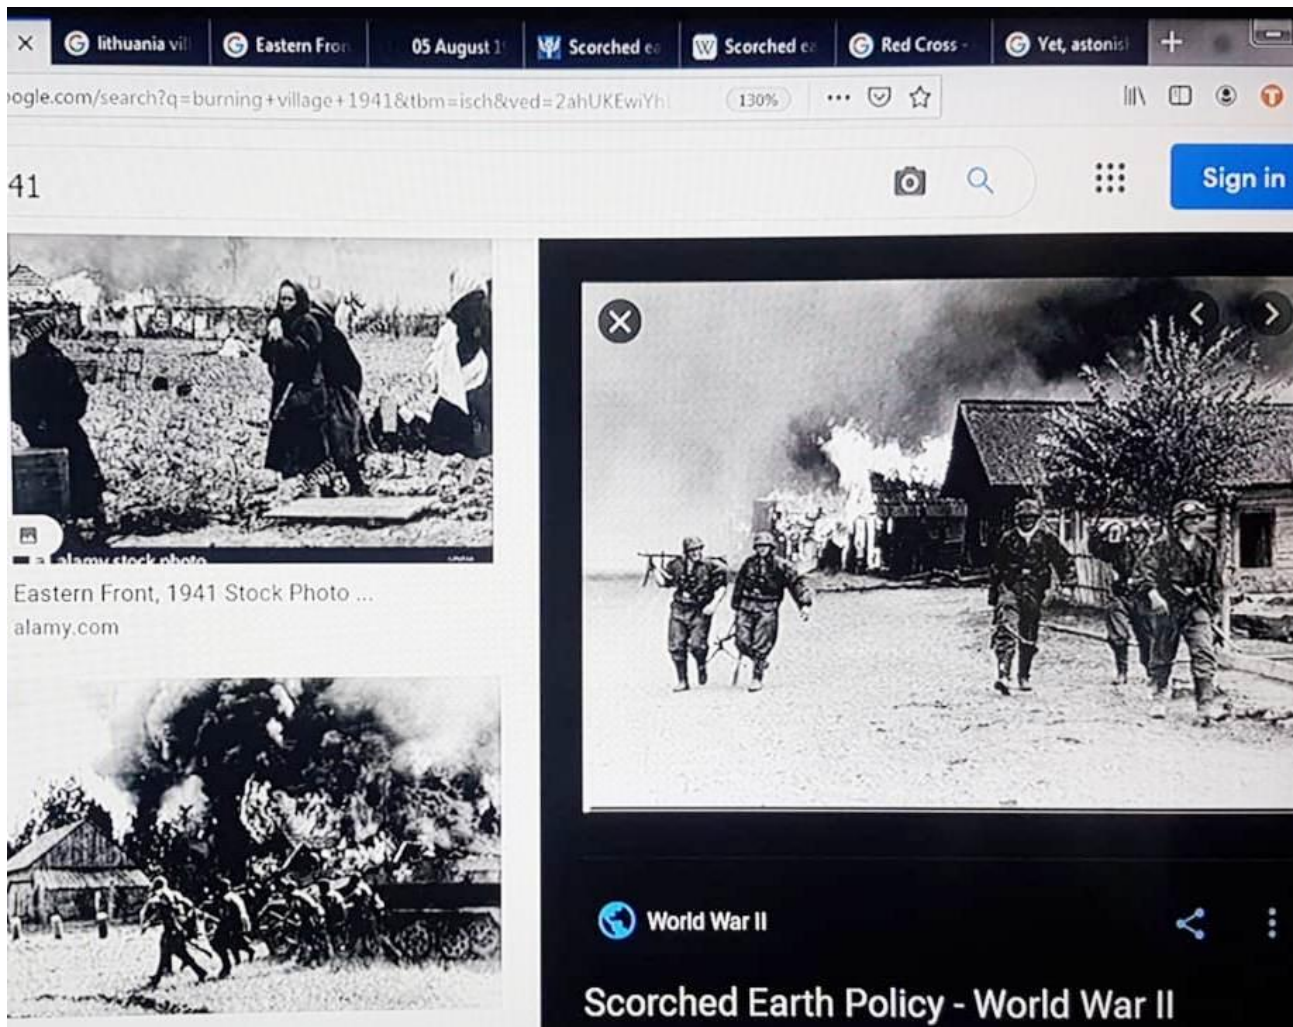

The Germans naturally advanced with their own supplies, but the Russians were burning everything far and wide, which did not seem to make sense. The orders to burn everything came from the top. It was not just the Russians who were burning villages and destroying farmland, everybody else was doing it, and many criminals joined these activities to make financial gains. Evidence shows that such things were happening in many places in Europe at the time and many people were involved.

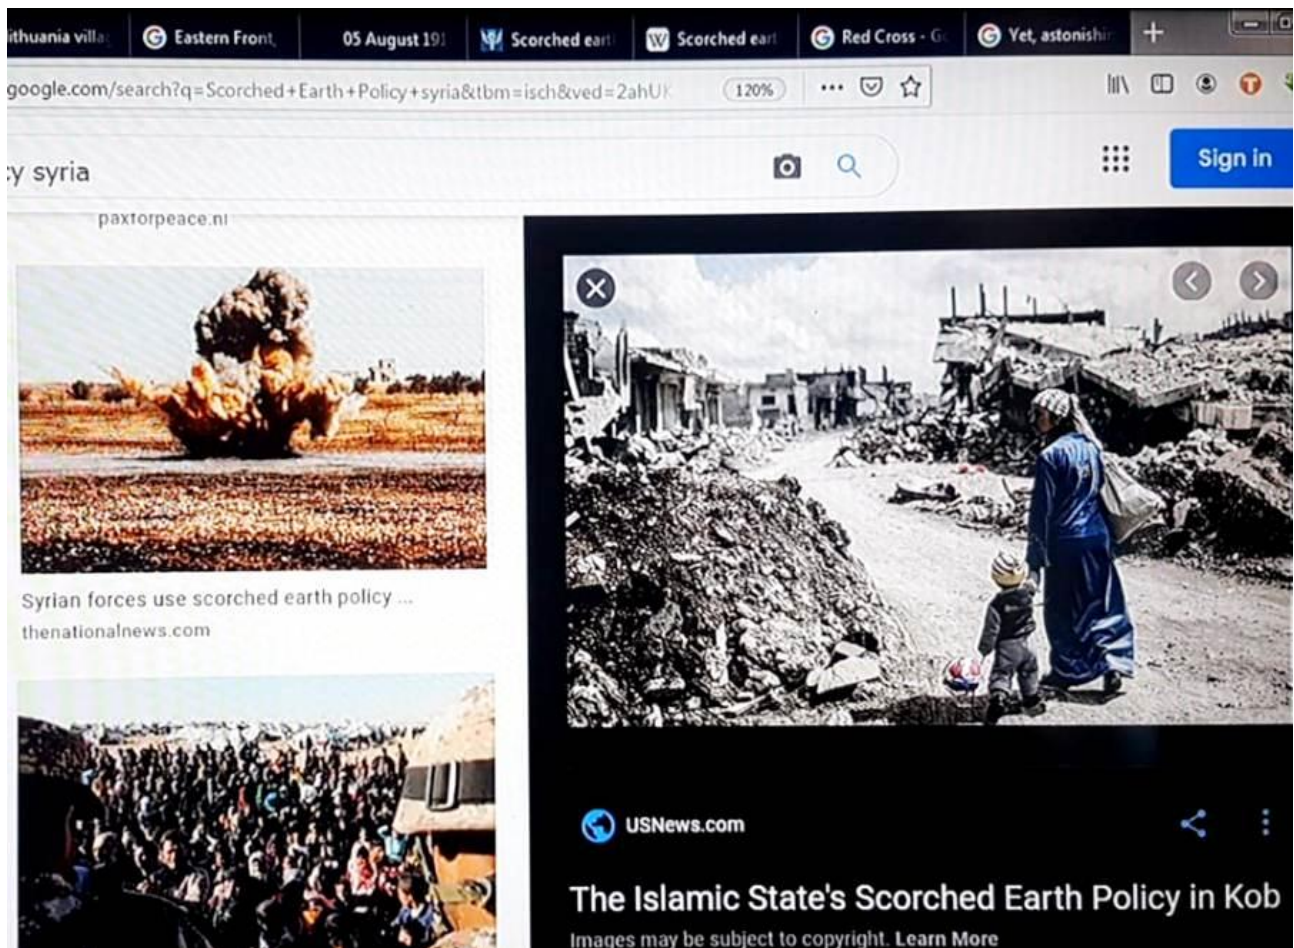

The Russians were fighting the Germans, - and the German were fighting the English - were they not? But the King of Germany and the King of Russia and the King of England, - at the time - they were first cousins? If they were first cousins, then the history of the First World War makes no sense at all. Why would people in the same family fight each other? Or was the history of these families a lie?

Researchers discovered that the history of the people in power was falsified to hide what was really going on, but that story is too long to mention here. Evidence showed that all 3 countries were created and ruled by the same people. But the powers that ruled these nations - only controlled the city areas and had little or no control over the common people in the countryside. The only way to control the common people was to destroy the countryside

During most of the wars between 1700 and 1950, villages and farmlands were burnt systematically. During the Second World War, a lot of burning and destruction was also carried out

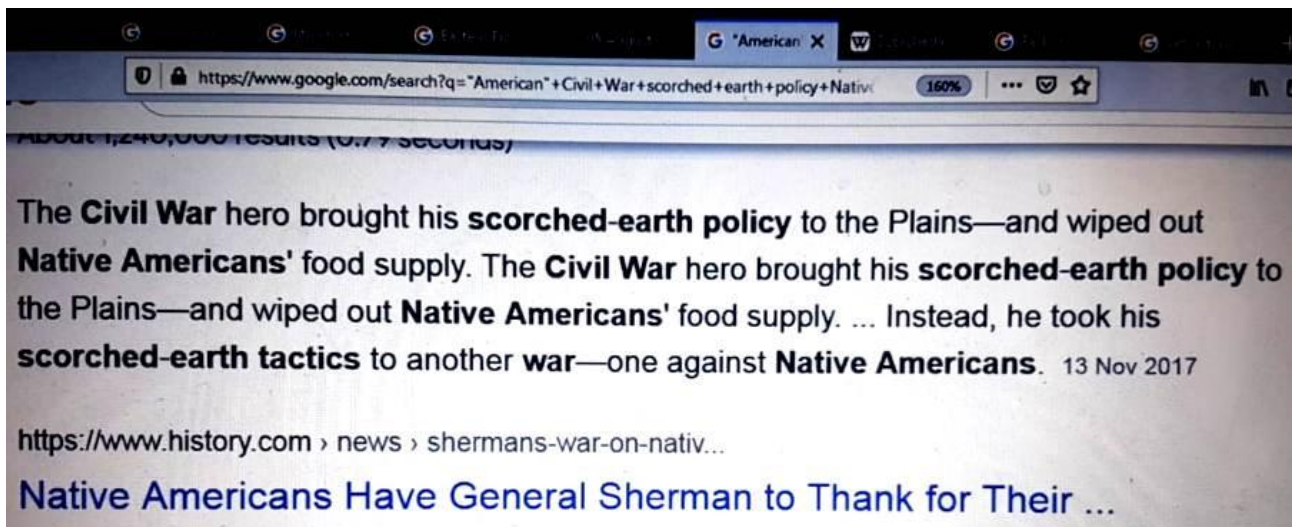

A similar policy is carried out in conflicts today. The countryside and farms are burnt and water supplies are poisoned forcing people to leave villages and go to cities. Such things were seen in Syria and Iraq and Afghanistan and Libya. Were these things being done on purpose to urbanise the people? Were these things being done on purpose to force people to go to live in city areas? Who created these wars and why? The people who created these wars, knew that such things would be a result of these wars

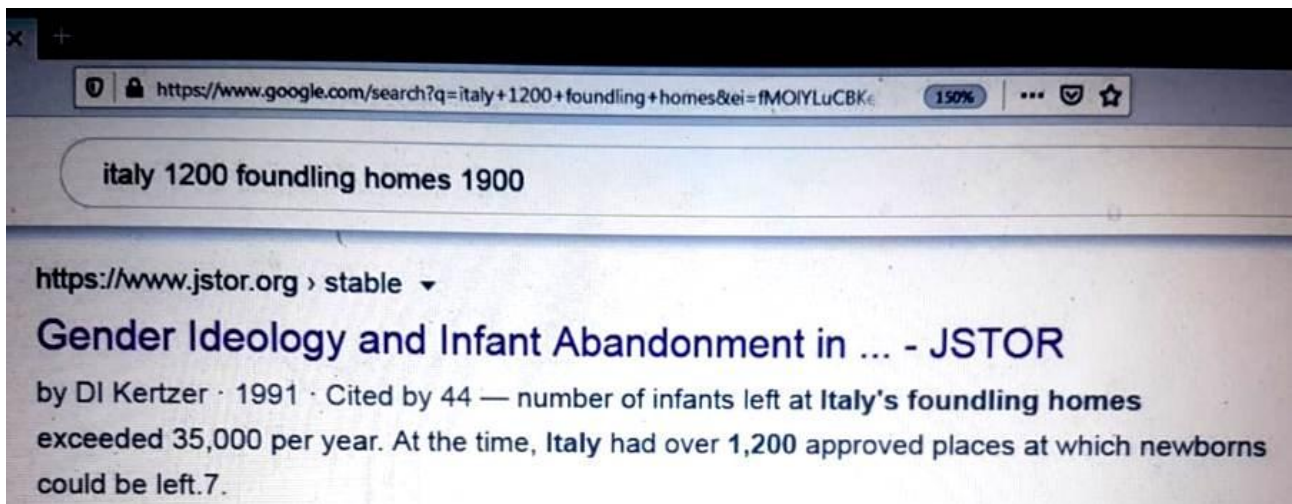

People who have lived in villages in Syria and Iraq and Afghanistan and Libya for centuries, who own their own land, do not suddenly wake up saying - Hey, let's go to Europe or America as asylum seekers. Let's leave our farms and homes and fields. Let's destroy our families and end our way of life

Wars in these regions involved the world powers. The world powers made the wars and at the same time they sent their aid agencies to help the village people leave their homes. Everything was organised. Many decent people who are in the aid organisations did great work to help people. But when everything is examined globally, we can see that both sides were organised at the top by the same people, for their own aims and objectives

Burning the countryside and destroying homes was common in almost all the conflicts in the last few centuries. During the American Civil War this policy was carried out against the enemy and against the Native Americans

Around 1900, over 35,000 children per year were left in children's homes in Italy. There were more than 1200 approved places where people in Italy could leave their babies. Similar things were taking place all over Europe

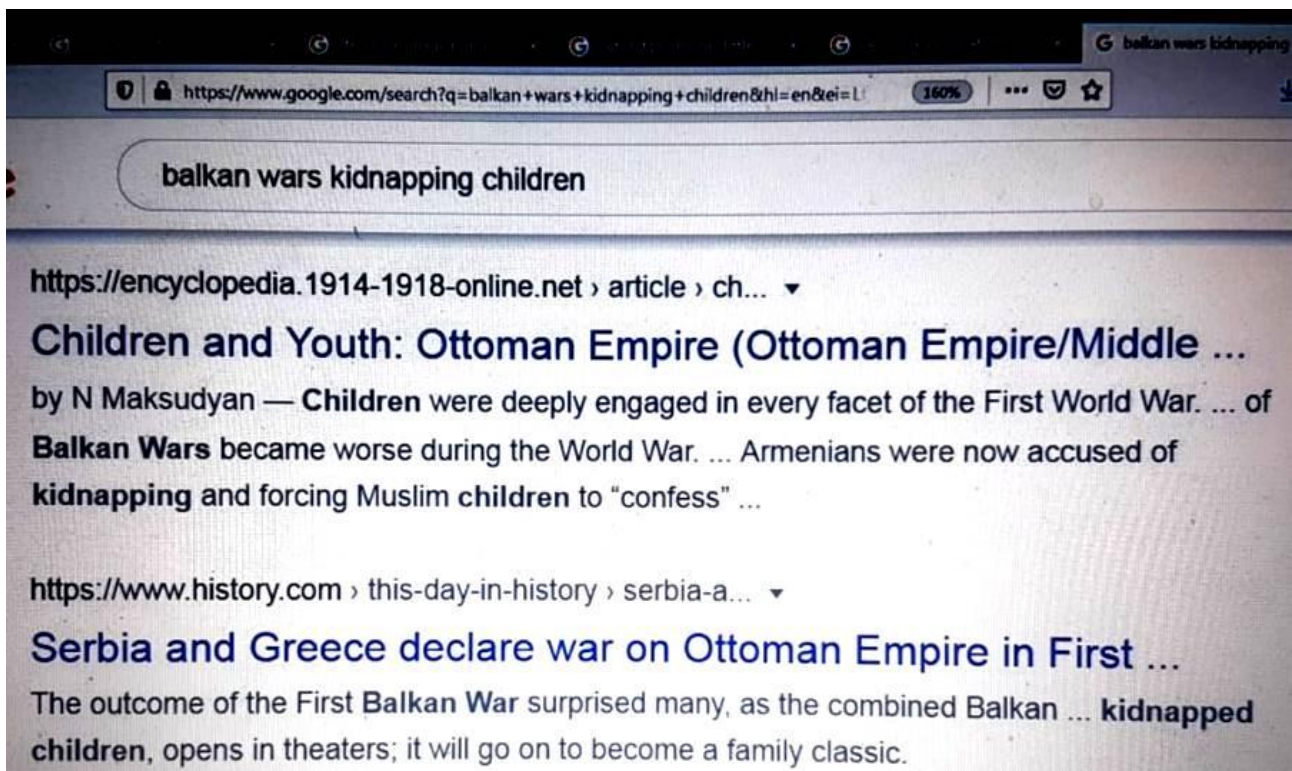

Leave your baby?

People who were running from villages, because of the wars, had nowhere to go in the city areas. The cities were much smaller, with fewer houses than today and many cities were also under attack. Most of the village people could not find houses or anywhere to live. The only way for their children to survive, was to give them away to these orphanages. Many of the village people lost their families, and they basically had no other choice

What was going on?

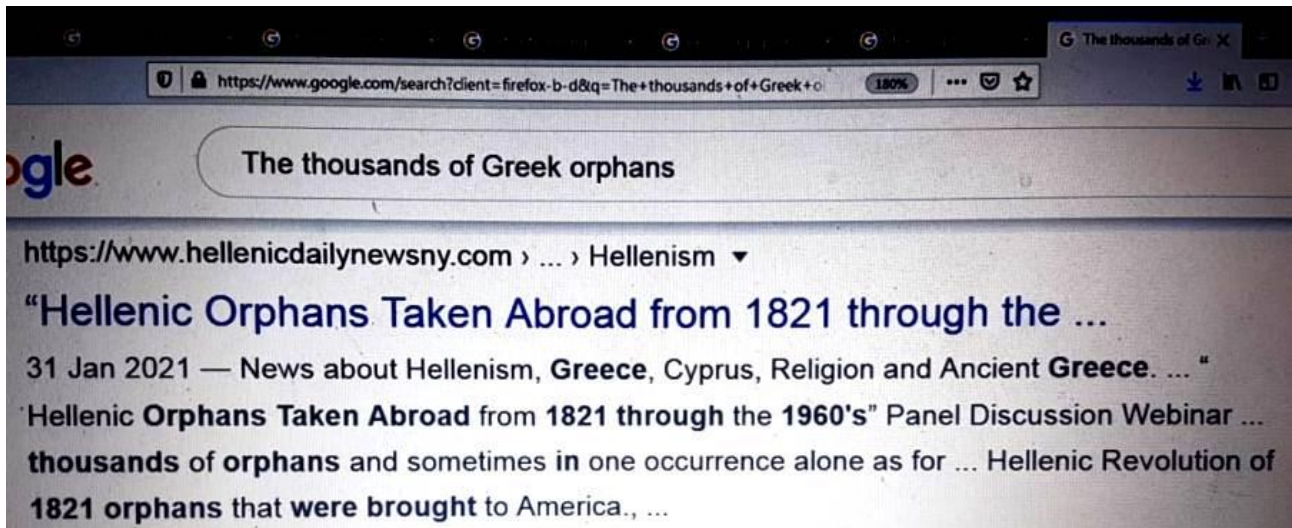

Evidence shows that kidnapping children was very common between 1850 and 1950 all over Europe

In the 19th century and early 20th century, all the modern states in Europe - for example - Italy, Greece, Romania, Bulgaria, Germany, Turkey, England, Russia, France Holland etc. - were involved in the kidnapping of children from villages and taking them to urban areas or sending them far away

People blamed each other for what was happening. The Balkans is a perfect example which what was going on. The Turks blamed the Greeks, the Armenians blamed the Turks, the Albanians blamed the Serbs, the Serbs blamed the Croats, etc. Different stories developed in different parts of Europe regarding why this was taking place. Looking at the global picture, it can be seen that a similar thing was happening all over the world, for the same objectives, planned by the same group of people. They were all doing it, but blamed their neighbour. An easy way to hide what was really going on

For example, thousands of orphans were taken from Greek institutions between: - 1820 to 1960, to many places around the world. The countries in South and East Europe are new nation states that were formed in the last 2 centuries.

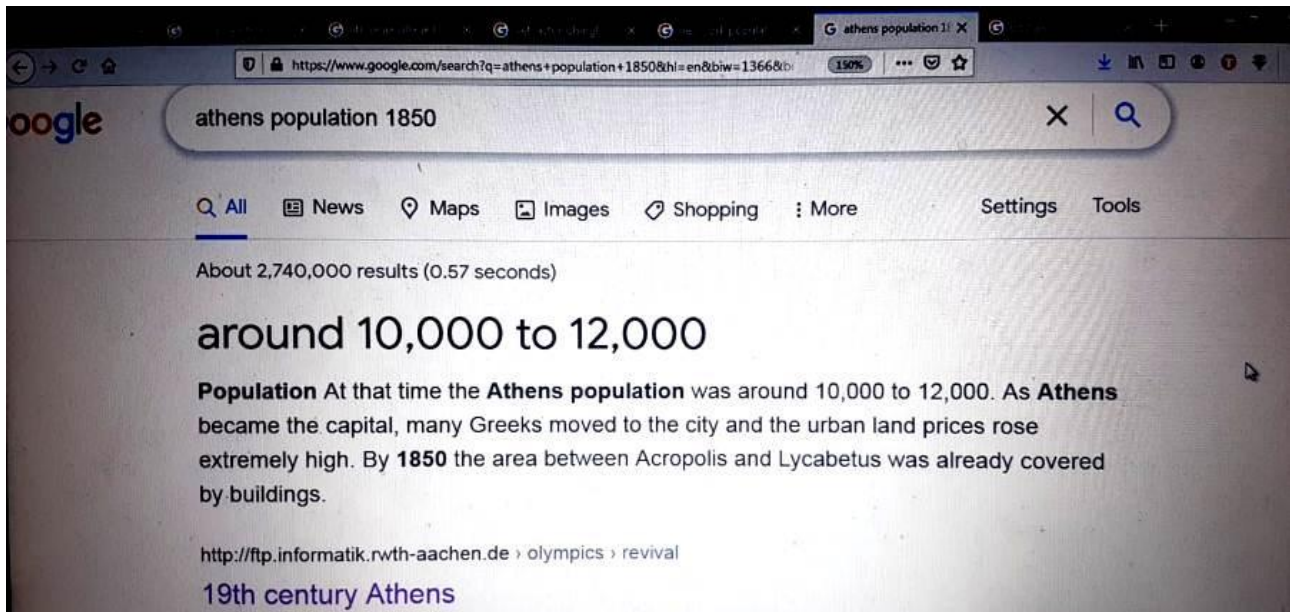

Photo above - orphans in Greece - 1919

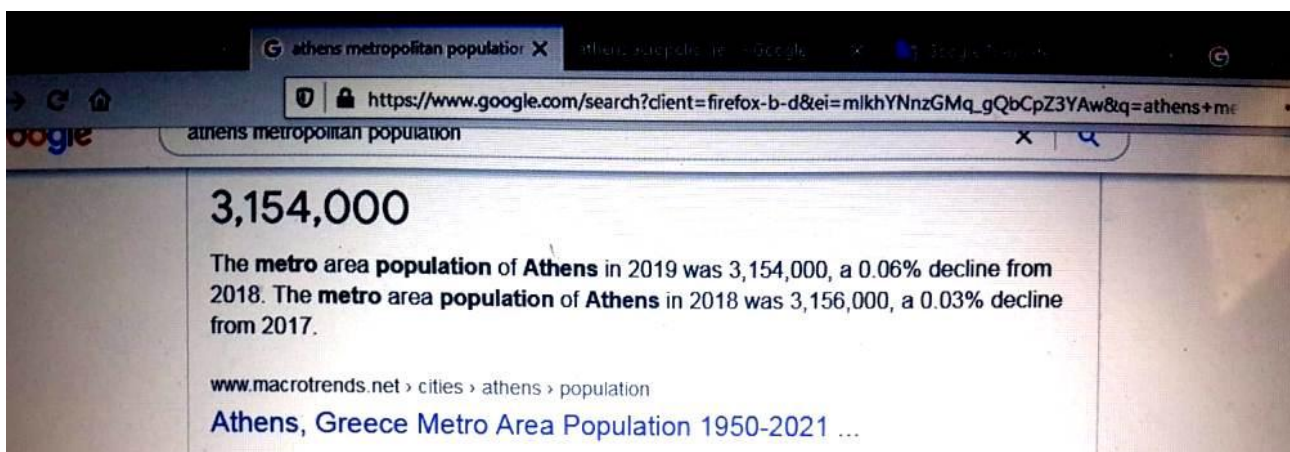

The media and historians in these new nation states will say things like this: - the Greeks will say they are Greek children, the Turks will say they are Turkish children, the Serbs will say they are Serbian children, the Bulgarians will say they are Bulgarian children, the Albanians will say they are Albanian children, the Armenians will say they are Armenian children. The list continues

The truth is that no one really knows whose children they really were. These new modern nation states did not exist before 1700. Most modern languages were created around that time and began to be taught in schools in city areas, the children did not even know these languages before they went to the schools. The

Russians, the British and the French and the Americans and the Germans were heavily involved in the Balkan wars

The population of Athens in 1850 was around 10,000 people

In 2020, greater Athens had around 3 million people

athens acropolis view - Google Search X Google Translate X +

<https://translate.google.com/translate?sl=el&tl=en&u=https://theancientwebgreece.wordpress.com>

Greek To: English

GATE OF HADRIAN

View of Athens from the Acropolis. We see the gate of Hadrian, the columns of the temple of Olympian Zeus, the first houses of the Mets and part of Hymettus, 1880.

Photo above - East Athens from the Acropolis 1880

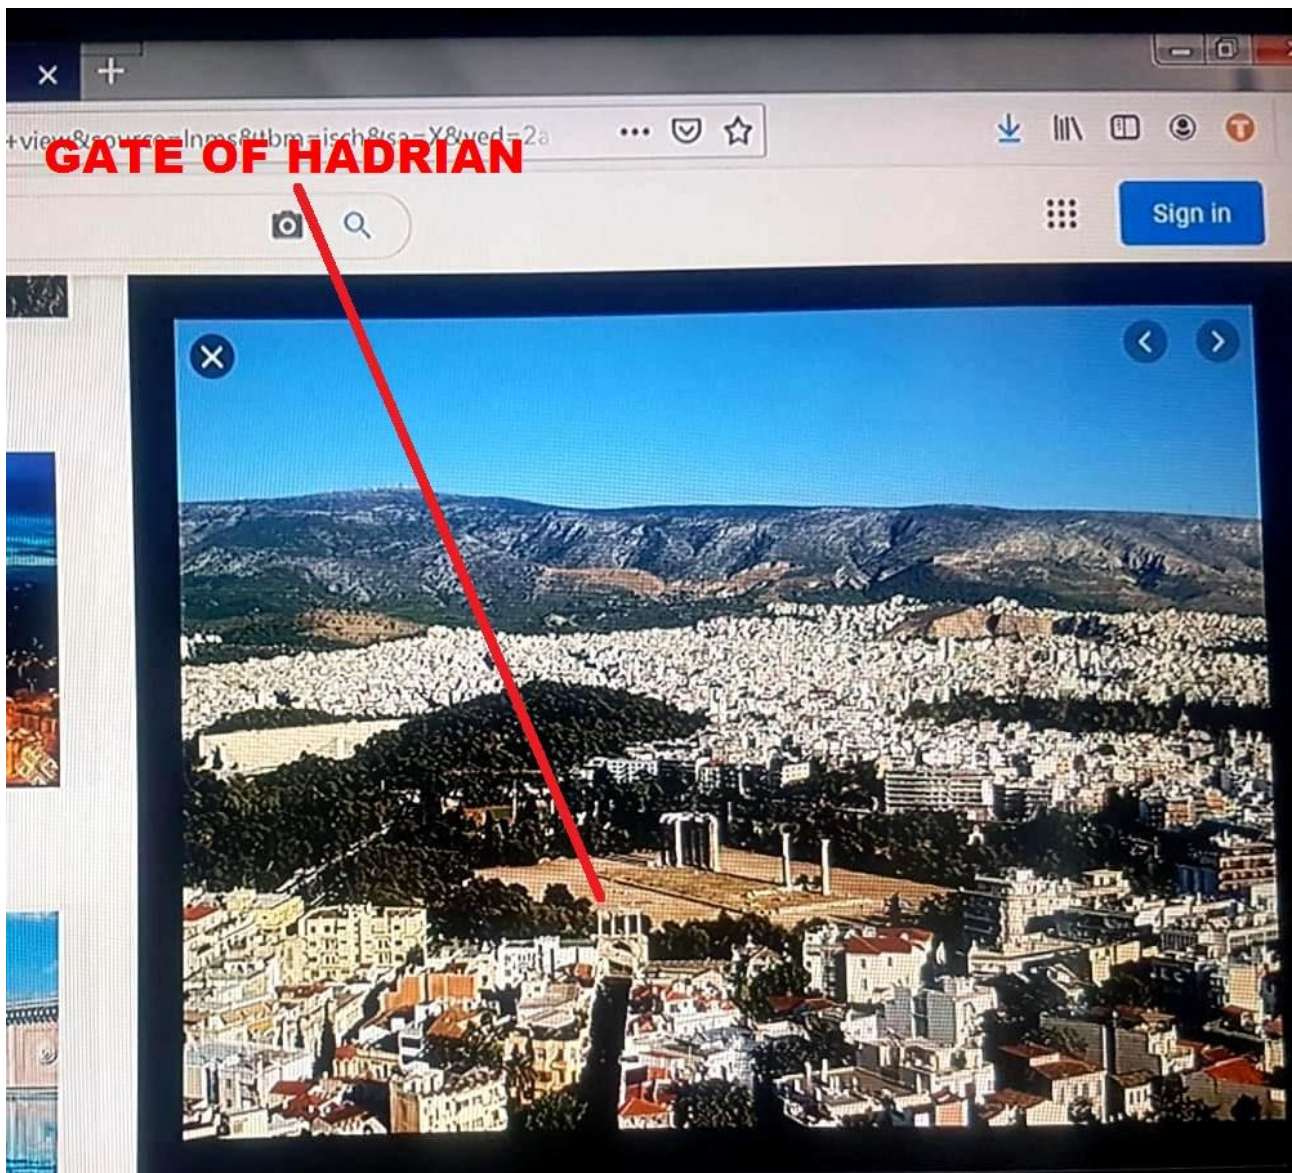

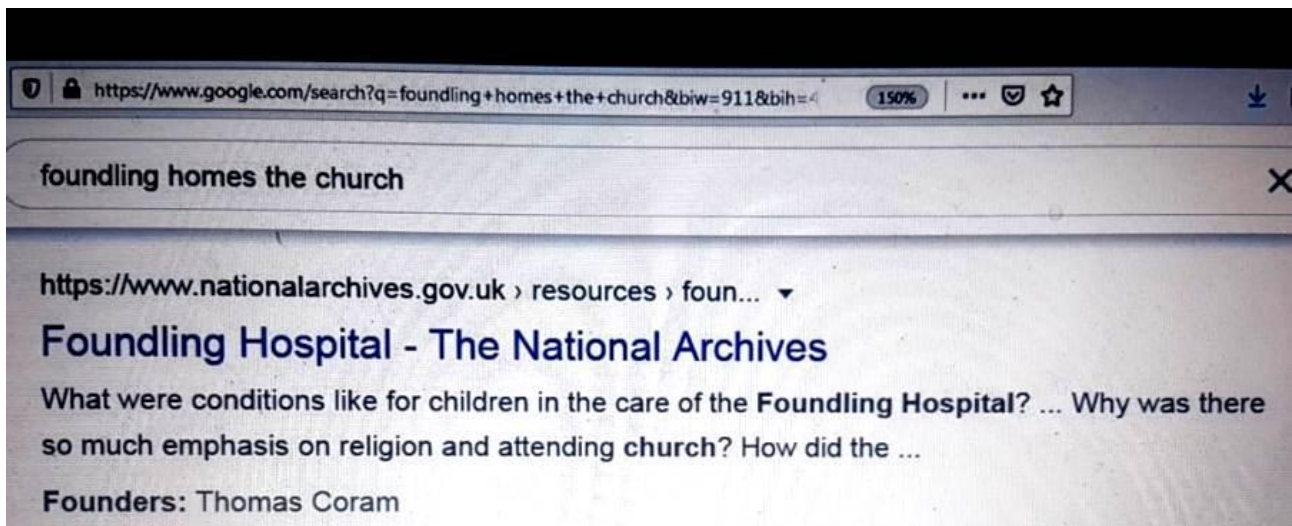

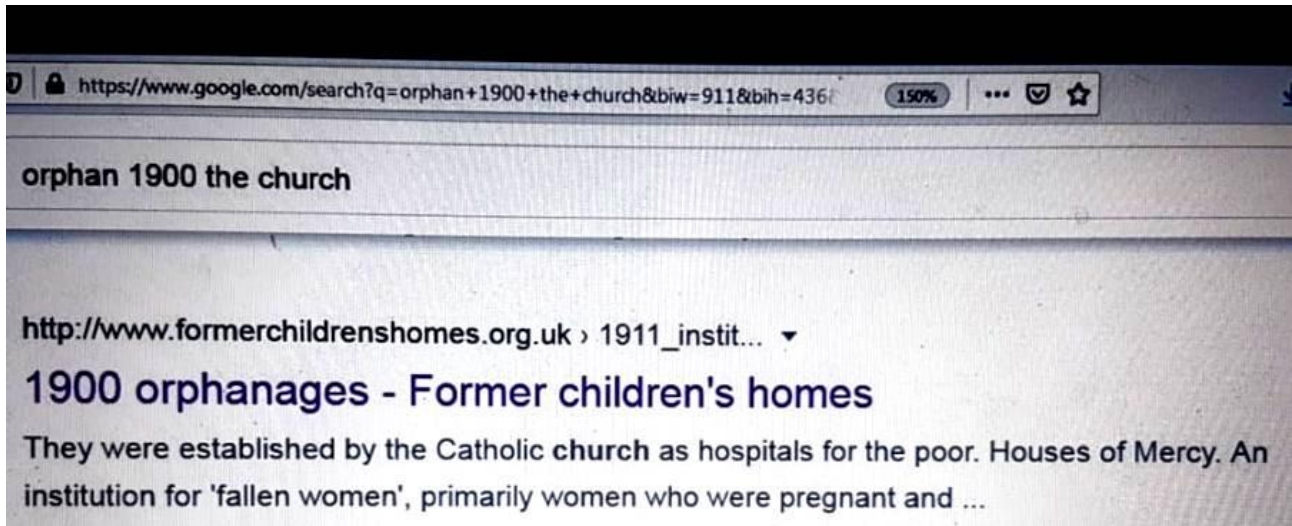

Photo above - East Athens from the Acropolis today

Looking at photo evidence, we can see that Athens has grown bigger and looking at the history, we can see that the countryside in the region was destroyed, which forced people to go to live in the city area. A similar thing was happening all over the world in the last few centuries

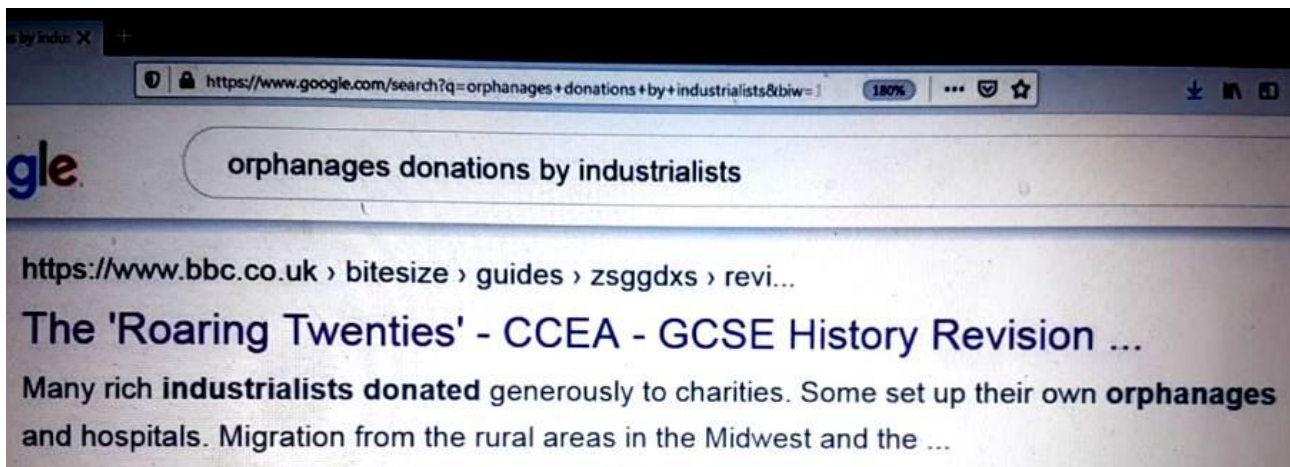

Most of these children in Europe, America, South America and Australia were taught new languages in city areas and they were forced to attend churches and were taught to accept the Christian Bible and were told a new world history. Why the Bible and the Church?

Many of the orphanages were organised by Churches, Catholic, Protestant or Orthodox, in agreement with the nation state that was involved. This was happening all over Europe and America and many other parts of the world

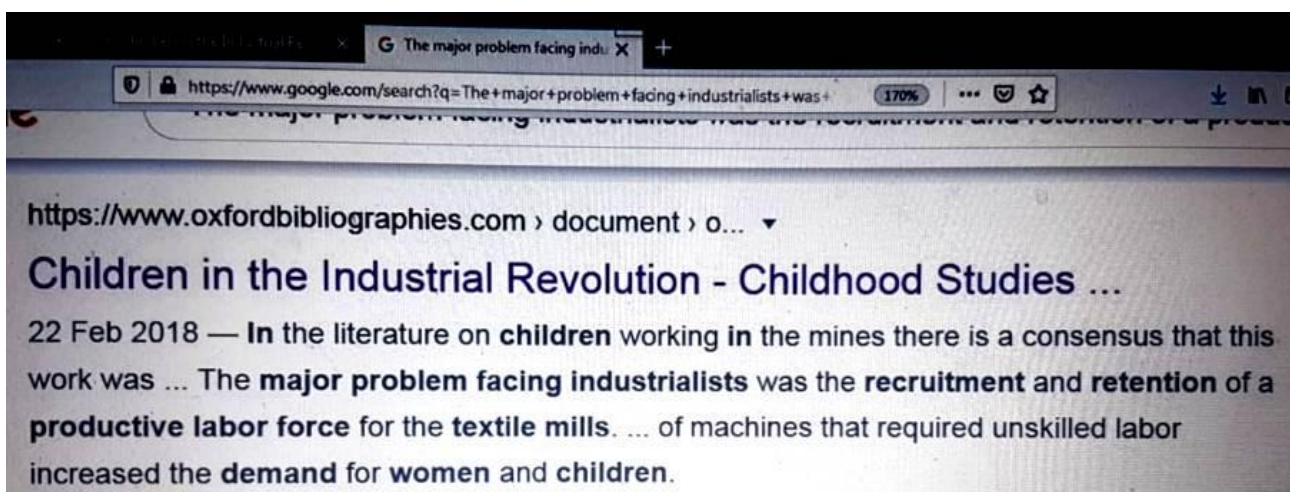

Who paid for it?

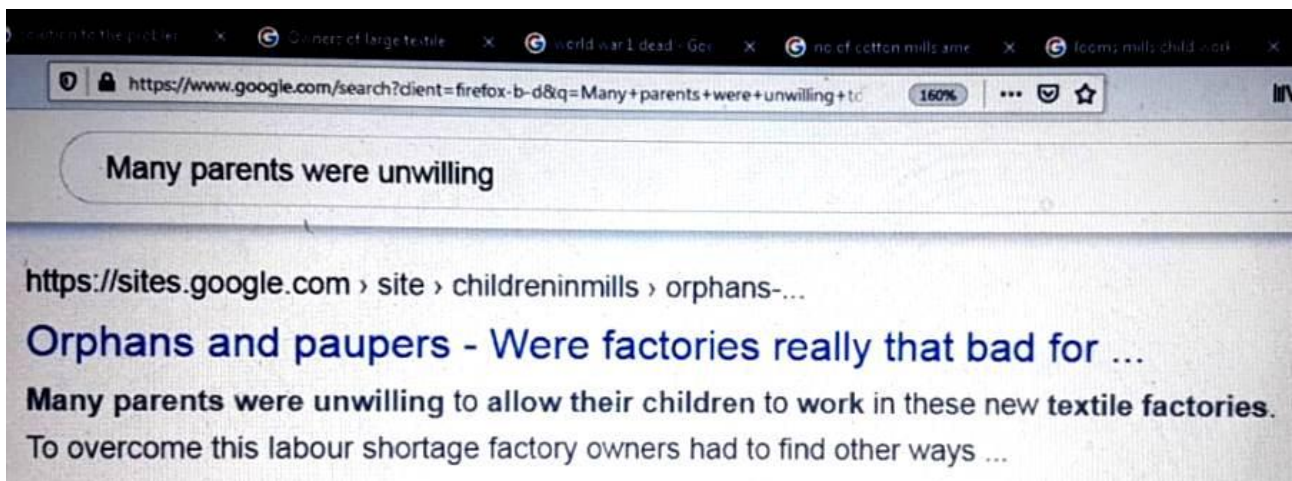

Industrialists and businessmen paid for many of these orphanages. These business men owned factories and organised mining and construction operations, etc.

Many decent people and orphans who grew older, donated to these organisations because they believed in the churches that they went to

Why did these industrialists and business men around the world pay for such things?

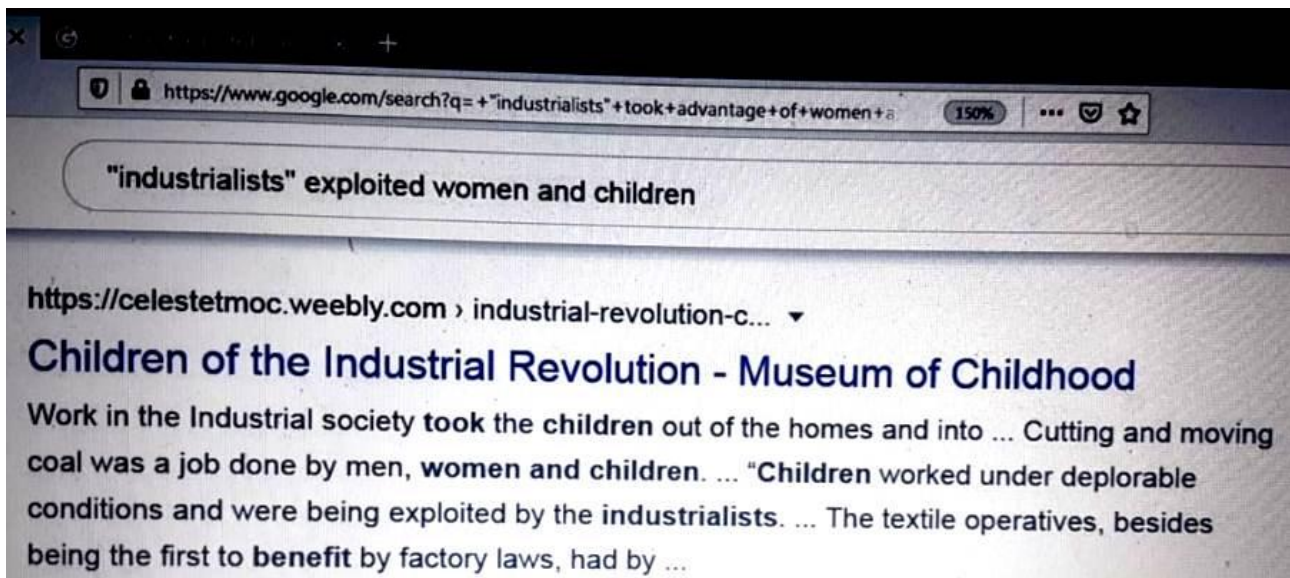

These industrialists and business men had a serious problem at the time, and they needed women and children to work for them in their businesses. Not only did they need children, but women also. They did not wish to pay them a proper salary. If they paid a proper salary, people will be happy to work for them. The industrialists and businessmen worked according to an agenda and timeline. They wanted to make people work more for almost no pay. Basically it was greed

Most parents did not want their children to work in the factories. This means that parents were not going to let go of their children. The people that lived in the villages had a home and farming lifestyle and they had their food supply. Why will they send their children away to become slaves in factories?

If there is war in the countryside and people have to run, then the children can be separated from the families

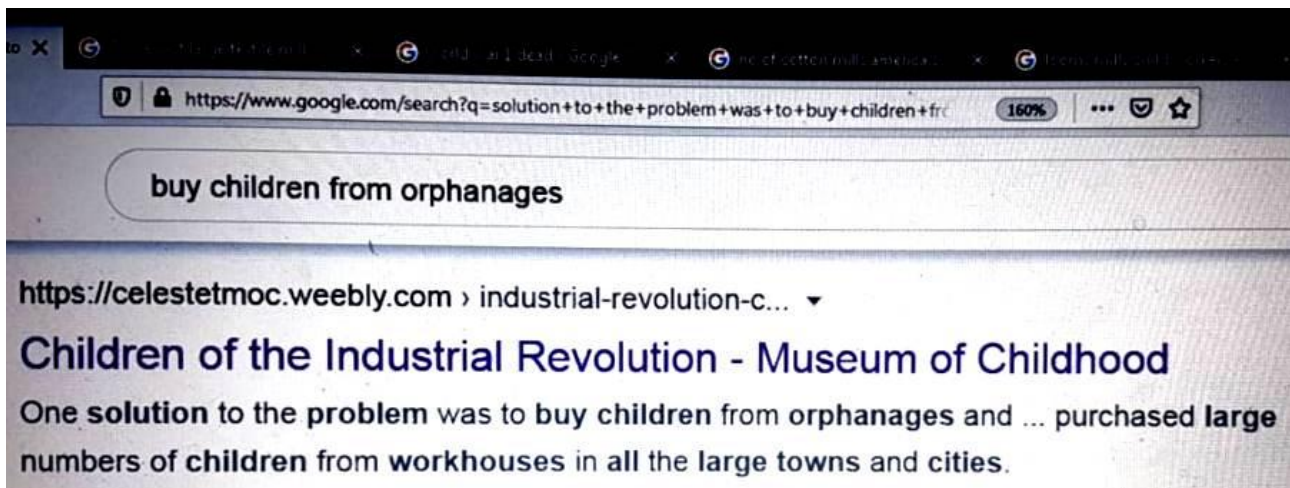

Where did the children go after the orphanages?

As soon as the children were old enough to work, they were taken by the industrialists to work in factories and in mining and construction projects. Most of these children were not paid - it was slave labour. They were given food and accommodation and clothing

How did the industrialists take the children from the orphanages? These orphanages were managed by Church organisations. Did these great Church Christians and missionaries take care of these children because they loved charity and they loved God?

These orphanages were feeding children and teaching them the language of the state and they were teaching them the Bible and the way of the Church. Did they do this because they loved charity and they loved God?

The children were sold.

They were kidnapping children and selling children

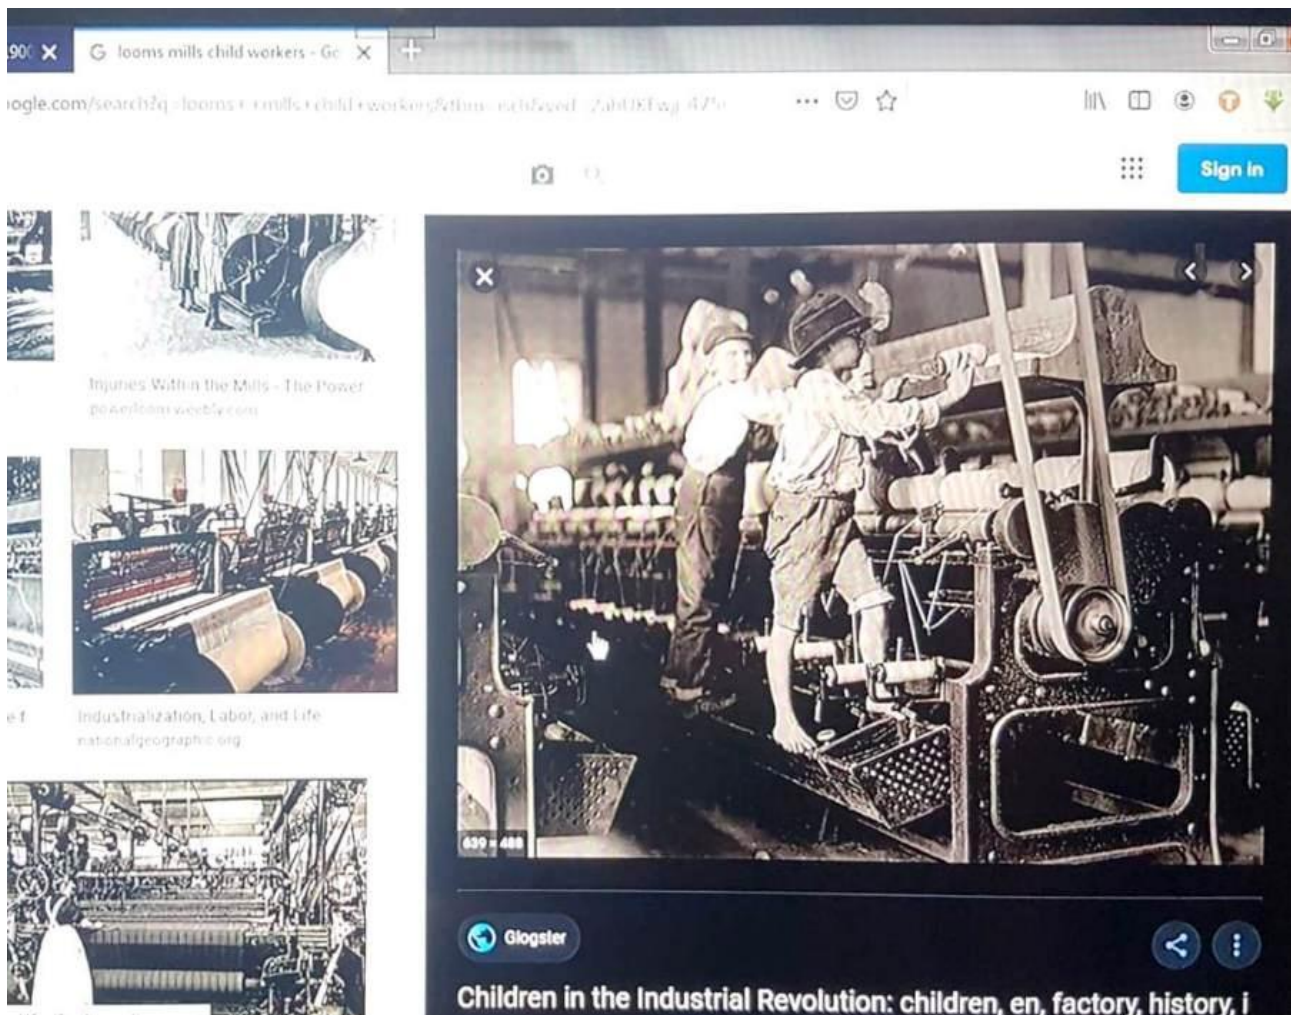

It was a business. It was all a scam

The children were sold when they were ready to work or when the industrial factories needed them. Demand was very high. Millions of children were working in factories and in construction and mining. There was constant demand, because children grew older and realised they were slaves, and they ran away when they were older.

So factories needed new children to replace the children who had gone

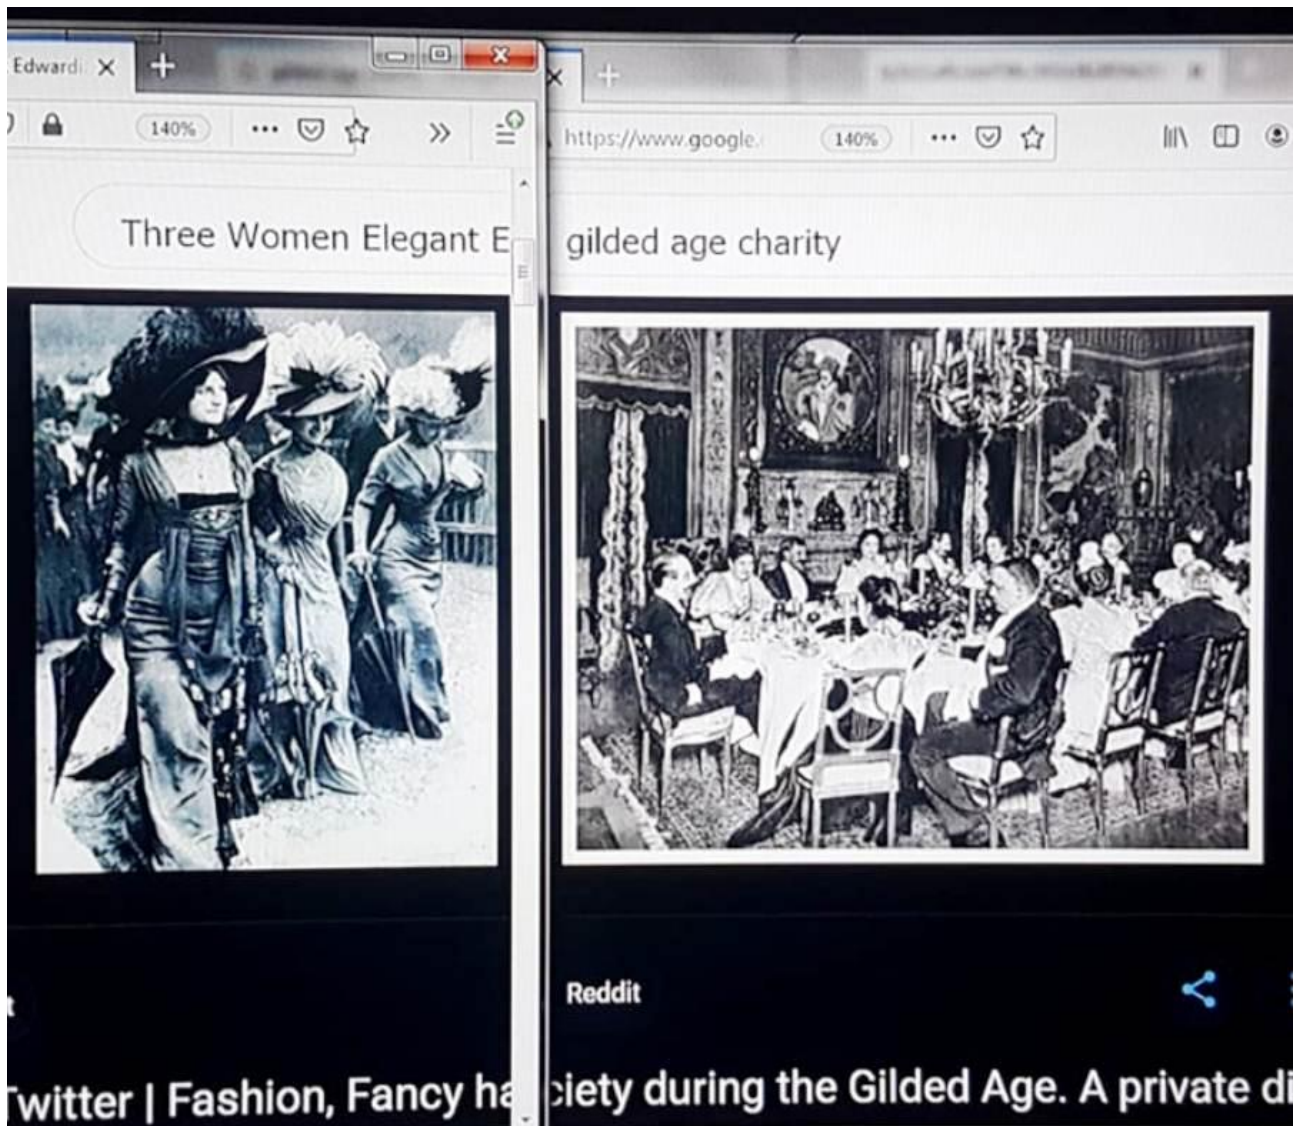

The businessmen went to buy more children from the same Churches that managed the orphanages. The Churches went to war zones as charity people and took the children. The armies burnt the villages and killed their fathers and mothers. It was a sad story of rape, torture and murder. The truth was simple and clear

They were stealing the children and selling them

Many historians say that these children were child workers. They were slaves. It was all organised. The nation states made wars, they sent the armies who burned everything, and caused chaos with gangs that got paid. The Church and missionaries came using the name of God and gave the children food and shelter. We are here to help you, we love God, and we love you! But the truth is they loved money, and their god paid them money for what they were doing

They were selling children

The industrialists and businessmen had amazing beautiful lives. They made so much money and wealth from everything that was taking place

It was clear, that it was a business that had supply and demand. War and conflict were needed to keep alive the supply chain of new children. The parents refused to send their children, is that so? Ok, - destroy them and take their children by force

It was clear that the industrialists and businessmen clearly did not care what happened as long as they got the children and made money. Who cared if their homes were burnt and their families were killed. Who cared if millions suffered, - as long as they made money and had very beautiful lives. Life was a dream to them and a big party

19th century orphans sold to... X Britain's child slaves: New book... X A child sent out to work was... X child slave...

https://www.dailymail.co.uk/news/article-1312764/Britains-child-slaves-New-book-says-mi...

Impoverished: Children who worked were subject to appalling conditions. Many who worked died before they reached 25

NEWLY single star wears VERY sultry outfit to party with 'mysterious' London property scion Jamie Reuben

Jennifer Aniston gushes about 'wonderful' ex-husband Brad Pitt in new interview ahead of the Friends reunion Still Friendly

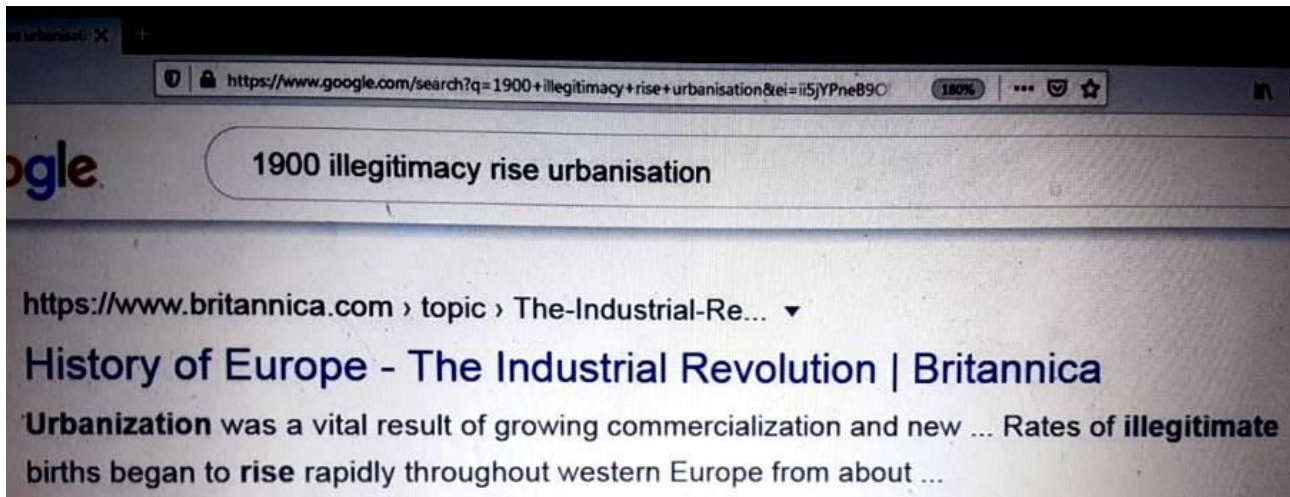

Jennifer Lopez meditates looking fresh as a daisy while Ben Affleck puffs on a cigarette... after the pair were spotted 'kissing' in the gym

SEBASTIAN SHAKESPEARE: How did Goodies star Tim Brooke-Taylor leave only £2,000 in his will? Did much-loved comedian Tim have the last laugh?

Selling Sunset's Christine Quinn unveils first snapshot of newborn son Christian... as she defends returning to work days after giving birth

Millions of children died within a few years after they started work, many died immediately. Some died by the age of 15, some by the age of 20 and some by the age of

25. There was a regular demand for more children by the industrialists and businessmen. Many children were beaten regularly and were not given food properly

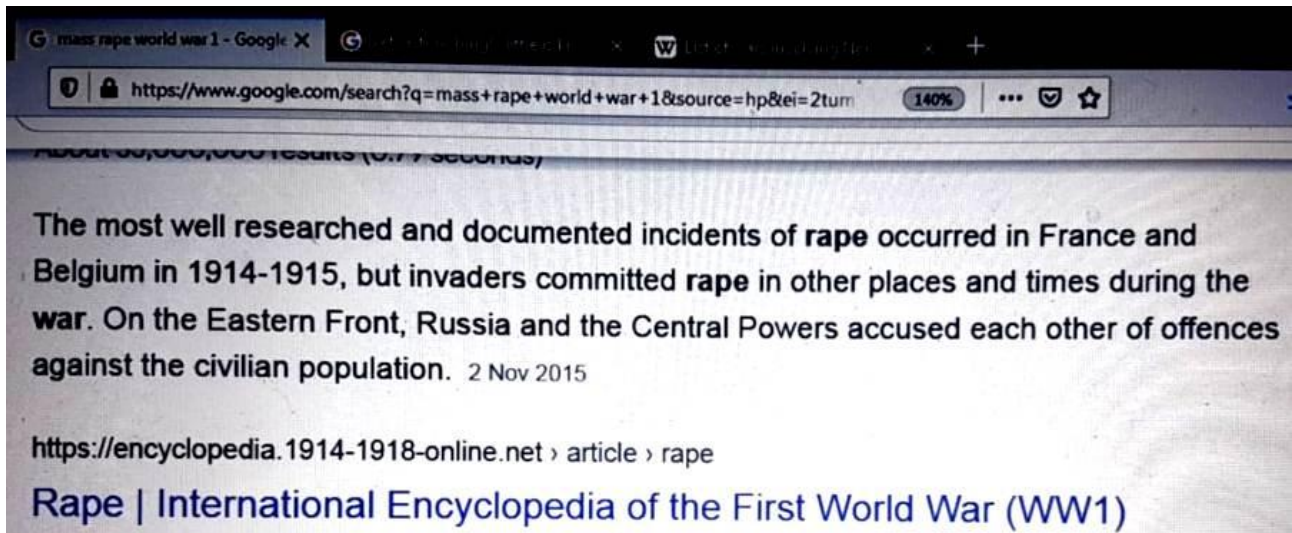

Many of these children started work at age 7 or 8 or 9 or 10. No one really cared about them. The children had no one to look after them and this was one reason why many of the girls became pregnant very young. There was no one to look after the young girls at the age or 13 or 14 or 15 or 16.

They were slaves

Many of them lived in overcrowded housing provided by the businessmen. This was a major reason why the young girls gave up their baby when the child was born.

The babies had nowhere to live. The overcrowded homes were provided by the industrialists and businessmen. They were basically provided so that the workers or slaves had somewhere to sleep.

Also, - the girls were not free. They were slaves who had to work. They had no free time to look after a baby. Their babies were taken by force. These babies were future slaves for the businessmen

Another reason why women gave up their children was because of the mass rape that took place in the 19th century wars and the First and Second world wars. There were many wars in Europe in the 19th century

How did the women get raped? And... where did the industrialists find women who will work for them as slaves?

Many of the women, their homes were destroyed in Europe and Asia. Their families were attacked or murdered during the wars and the women were kidnapped and many of them were raped. Who were these women? What was their language? What was their culture? What was their religion and way of life?

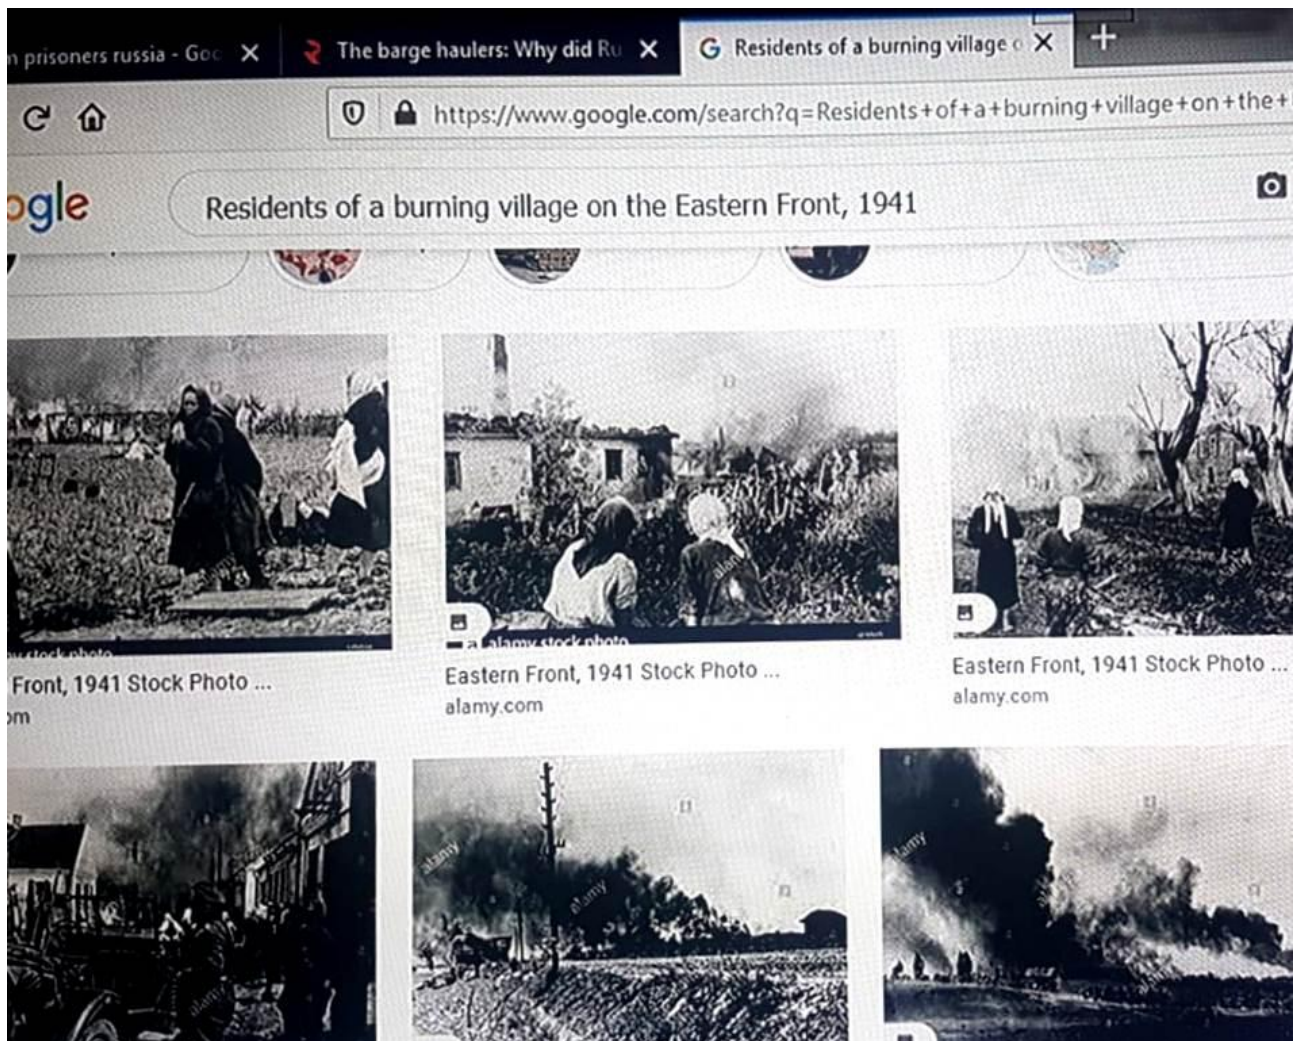

Photo above - homes being burned during the Second World War

Homes were also burnt and destroyed many times in Europe during the many wars and conflicts of the 17th and 18th and 19th centuries. This is why many homes were in a bad condition. The many wars meant that people had to start their life again and again and again

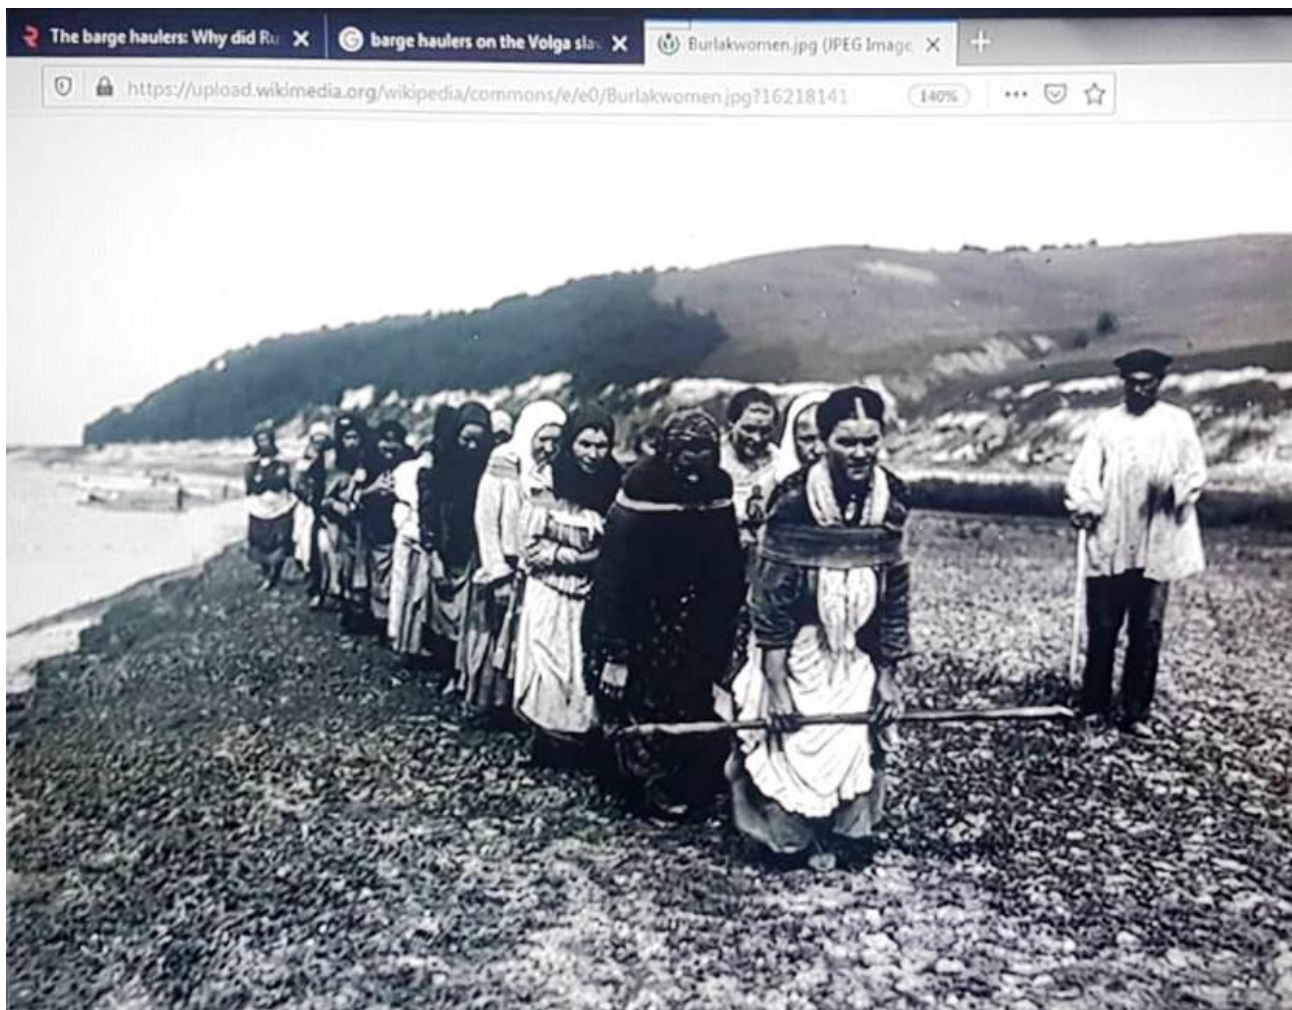

Many of the women and men who survived were sold as slaves. Many of these women had children after being raped, and many of the women naturally did not want these children. Many of the women were forced to become slaves working for the industrialists. They had to work because they were slaves. Many of the women that were raped: - were forced by their masters to give their babies away. They were slaves and had no choice but to give up their babies.

This process happened throughout the 18th and 19th century and into the 20th century. This was not a small thing. It was taking place day and night, - and year and after year. Millions of people were moved around by force and taken from their village homes and their children were removed. The entire family system broke down over the 3 centuries. This is why so little is remembered by the great grandchildren of the orphans today, because so much had happened

Today their great grandchildren are all over the world

Mass trafficking and movement of women was going on throughout the 19th century and 20th century

The photo above shows an example of women who were forced to work in the Volga region. Forcing people to work is slavery.

They were slaves

Many historians call it forced labour

It was clear that they were slaves

When people were moved around from place to place during those times, they were forced to attend Churches and schools and they were forced to learn new languages and new world history. The people learned the new religion, which is known as Christianity today. Different nation states had different Churches, in the same way that they had different business men and different industrialists. Everything was done by agreement, by the people in power at the top

These children were managed by the orphanages and other organisations. The orphanages were financed and managed by churches and businessmen. Some orphanages were financed by charities, but these charities were normally organised by the Churches. It was clear what was going on

Did they get paid money?

The people who organised and managed the children got paid, the churches got paid. These children at that age clearly did not even know what money was

They were selling children to businessmen

They children lived in orphanages and then when they reached the age of 7 to age 10: - they were forced to go to work. In school they were taught the Church religion and the new Bible. This happened in all the countries in Europe and the world where the global powers took over. For example - England, France, Germany, Spain, Italy, Russia, Poland, Bulgaria, Romania, Greece, Portugal... - the list goes on and on Historians generally call them child workers.

Were they workers? They were slaves

The church organisations got paid, not the children. The managers of the organisations forced the children to go to work and of course they were forced to go to church. Within a few decades, the Church became part of society and culture in Europe and America

It was clear that it was all organised. New nation states had formed, and these industrialists and modern nation states and Churches, all worked together for their own objectives. For example, the industrialists were regulated and controlled by the nation states and used the currency and banking system that was created in city areas. The village people were free and did not use such currencies before the 17th and 18th centuries

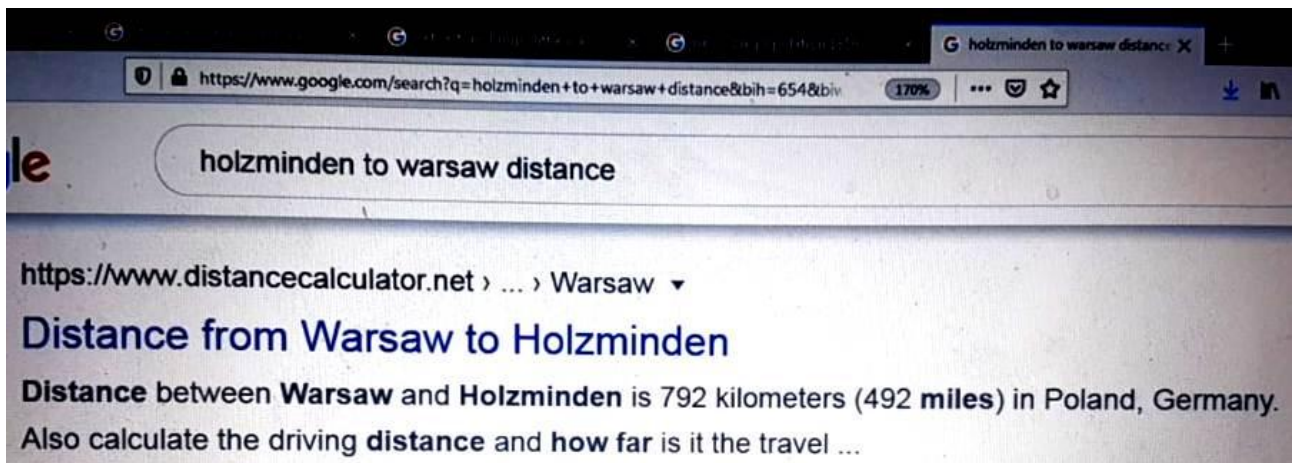

During the First World War, the Germans for example were taking children from Eastern Europe and sending them to other places

In the photo above, are children from Poland.

No one can verify where the children came from before they were found in Poland. The photo above was taken in Holzminden in western Germany in 1919. It is clear from the photos that the children did not look unhealthy.

This means that their families looked after them very well. The Germans and Russians were burning homes, and then they were saving the children, - by taking them away, - and sending them to other places. It was clear what was going on

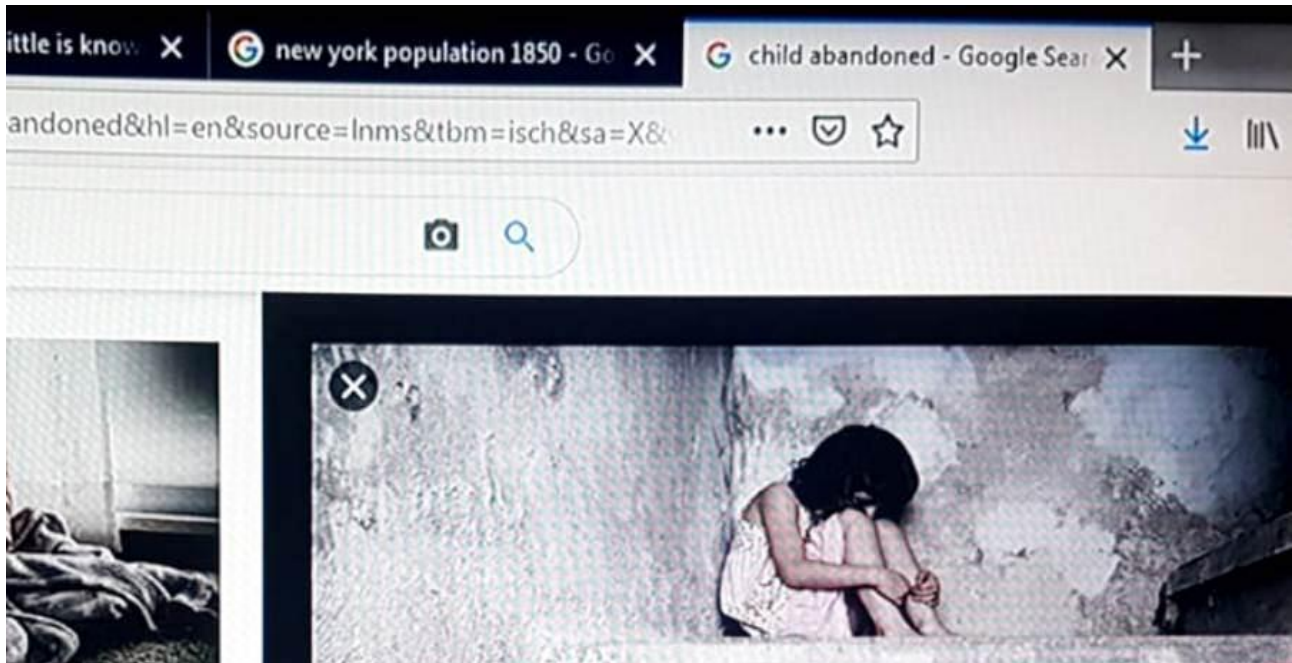

The distance between Holzminden in western Germany and Warsaw in Poland is around 800 kilometres or 500 miles. It is an example showing how big these operations were of sending children to other places. They were very big operations that were carefully organised and also required a lot of finance. Who was paying all this?

What was going on?

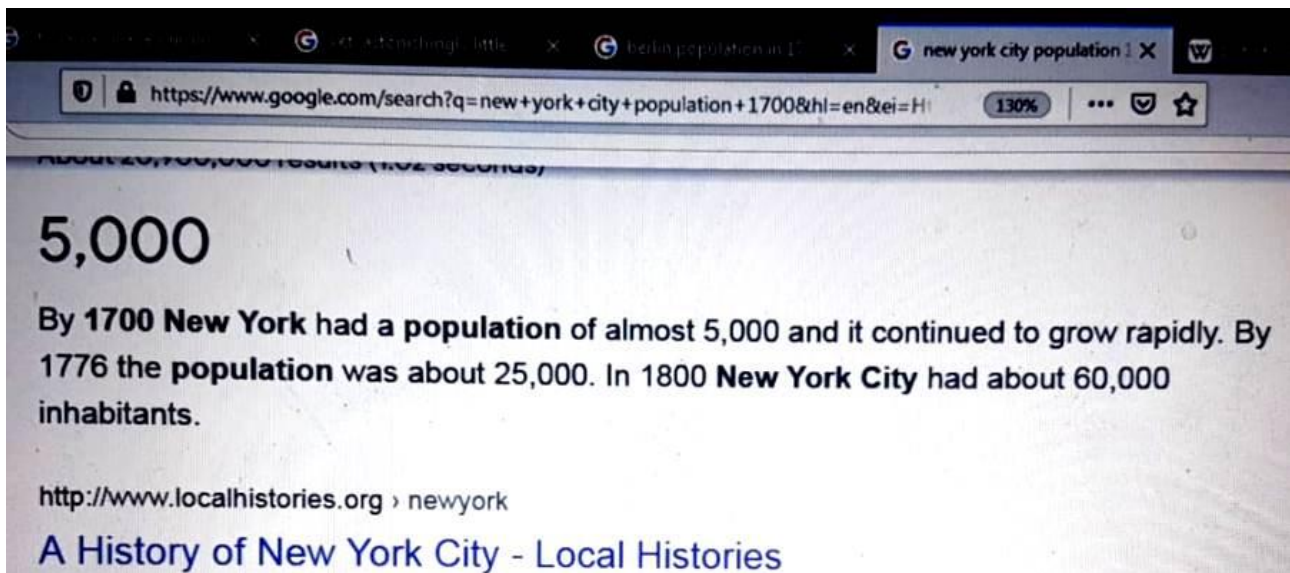

Make wars, make people scared in the countryside and villages and make them run. Anyone who does not run, destroy them. Burn their homes. The men will fight, so kill them as rebels. Then send people to help the women and children. Who do you send? - The state church organisations and charities. They will go and bring the women and children and separate them. This is called helping them. Then the children go to orphanages that are organised by the churches and charities. These churches and charities then get paid by the industrialists and businessmen when they sell the children. Teach the children new languages created by the nation states, so that they understand new languages and teach them new history and give them a new religion controlled by the Churches. When the children are a big enough to work, sell them to the industrialists and businessmen. Children were sold every year, so new children must be stolen every year

The children must have suffered greatly and their families must have suffered also. The non-stop wars in Europe in the last 3 centuries caused huge devastation.

The stealing of children started long before the world wars of the 20th century

For example the population of New York City was 60,000 in 1800 and it was 3,430,000 by the year 1900.

Many of the people in the city were orphan children who grew older, - and of course many of the people were villagers who were forced to leave the countryside because it had been destroyed. Many of the children were born in the city from people who arrived there from other places.

Many villages that were not attacked were affected badly because the entire village economic system was destroyed in many places because of the American Civil War and European wars. New people took over in many of these villages and they used children as slaves to work in their farms. People who survived ran to many different places around the world because their homes and lands were destroyed. Many people ran to South Africa for example, and were known as the Boers.

In Europe and America in 1700, most cities were very small, with a few thousand people

The photos above and below show children in Budapest in Hungary in 1918 - being examined and weighed

The children were given clothes to wear according to the wishes of the people who controlled them

Children around the world were regularly examined to see if they were ready to be sent to work or to another destination. Orphans were given new names

Everything was funded and organised by Churches and industrialists and nation states, - and of course there were genuine donations by ordinary people who had no idea what was going on and they believed they were helping the children

Many parents in city areas gave up their children also because they were worried about the wars. The wars were an excuse to separate children from parents in the city areas. Many orphans did grow up and did establish a normal life and had children. Many village people that migrated to the city areas, because of the wars that destroyed their homes in the 19th century wars, suffered many new problems in the city areas. It was a very hard time for them

Photo above shows children from the country today known as Austria, being sent from Vienna to Budapest in 1918

It was clear that people were being organised and being moved around by these new nation states, according to their agendas. The nation states were showing the public, that they are the master and the protector. Modern nation states did not exist 300 years ago. The people of the world lived in villages and they were able to look after themselves for generations. The nation states created wars and fought each other and destroyed the homes of the people and then became the master and protector of the people. They protected the people, - as long as the people recognised and accepted these nation states as their masters.

Accept means - accept the history they teach in the schools, accept the science, accept the new food and the new culture, accept the rules that they make and accept the money system that they give. You are only allowed to travel where they let you, or you cannot go, because these new nation states created borders, that did not exist before. You cannot travel without the legal papers that they gave. You cannot buy or sell something without the permission of these nation states and you must give them a share of the money. You must recognize them as the master, by getting permission to do trade.

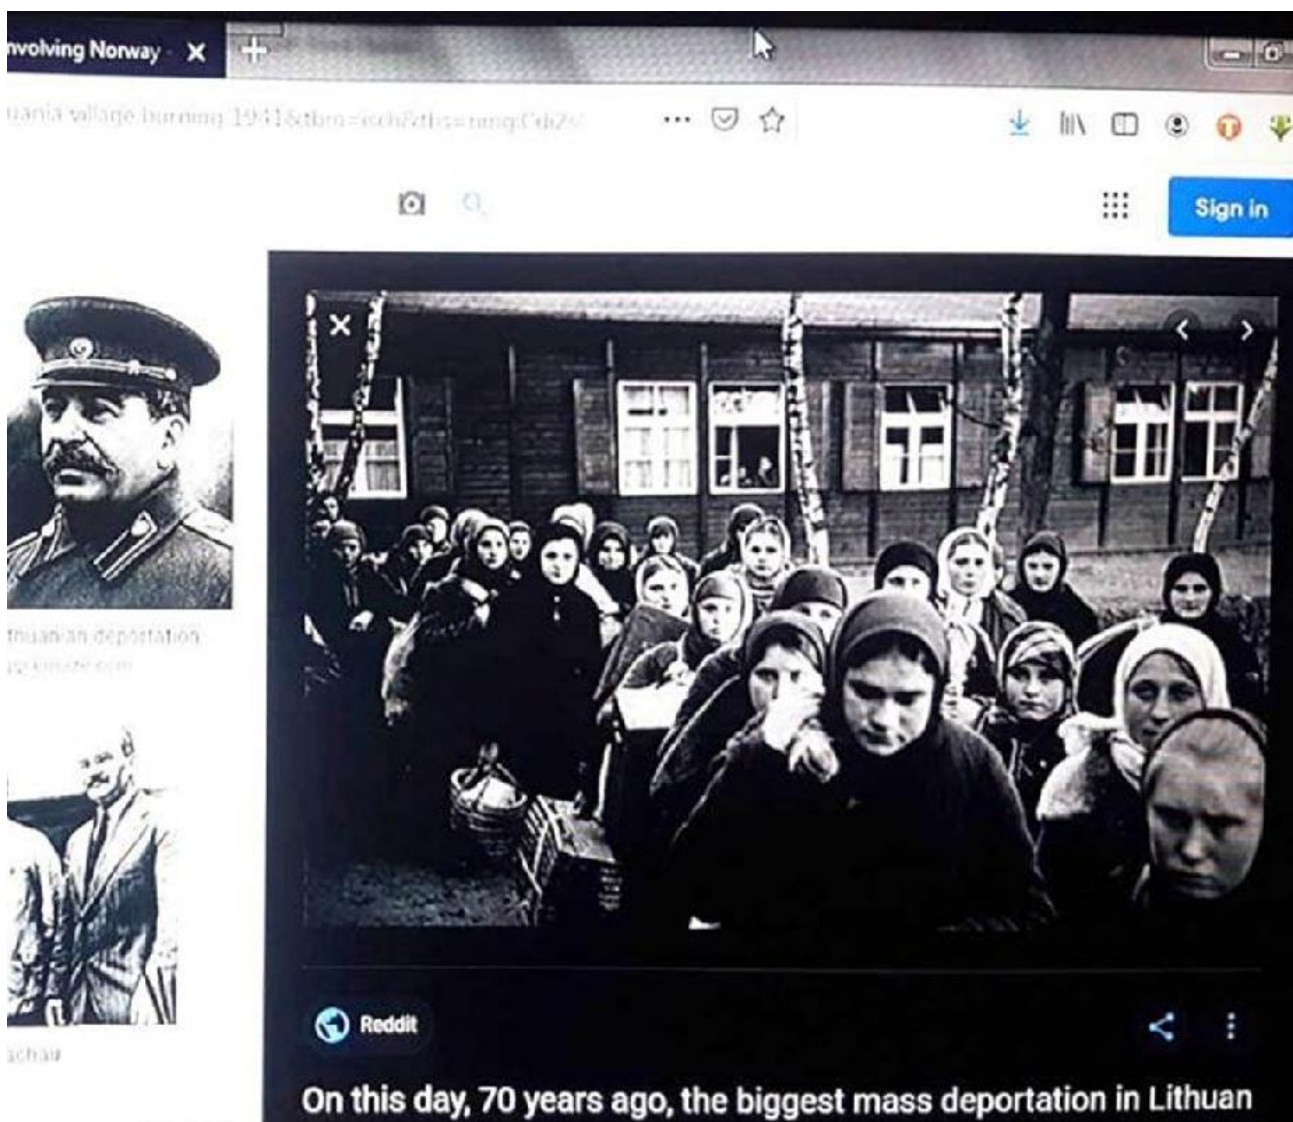

These things did not exist for the village people until they were forced to recognize and accept the nation states. You must learn the language that they have chosen. Anyone who was against the nation states were called rebels or criminals or separatists or insane, etc.

Modern rebels or separatists movements are easily controlled by the global powers. It is very easy to mislead the people with fake history and fake nationalism and with fake protest leaders and fake protest movements.

Every place in the world was claimed by these nation states, so that no one was free anywhere in the world. They called it their land and they made the laws. You cannot build a house anywhere you wish. You can only do the things which they allowed, which is now called freedom

The village people did have their own laws and their own system, which many people call the old world system. Many people imagine that the old world system was more beautiful than our current system because of the many beautiful buildings that can be seen around the world, but that is very questionable. The old world system also had many problems, the story of the old world is too long to mention here

People were moved around from one place to another, in the interest of nation state security. Mass deportations took place and mass separation of families. These things are continuing in many nation states today, and will end when the nation state has control and is accepted by the people

The business of buying and selling children continued throughout the 20th century in many parts of the world and continues today. It was clear that poverty was created by the nation states that created the wars. Everything was planned and organised

Artificial Intelligence (robots and computers) have started replacing humans in many places of work. This is good news in a way, and it means that humans no longer need to work hard in many fields

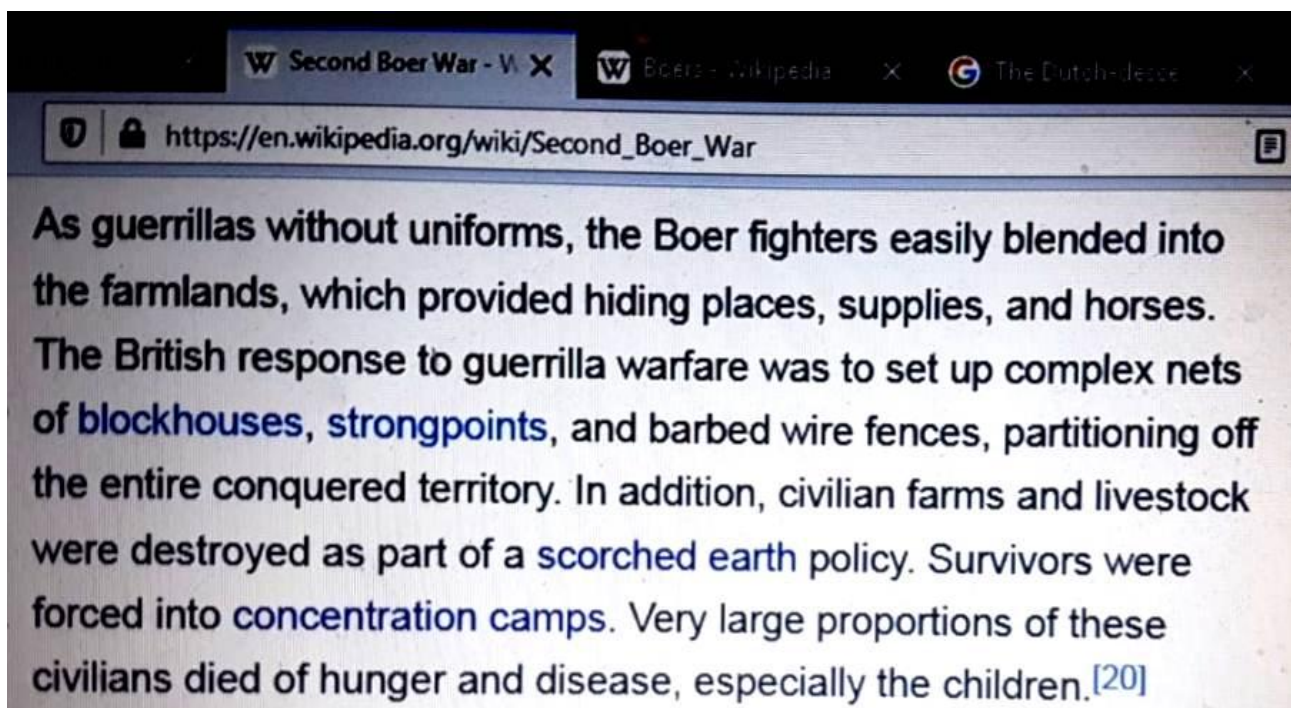

Children are still working in some nations, but in other nations, this has stopped. Now that many nations do not need children, - and do not need many people to work, - many nation states have a new agenda

Reduce the world's population

There are many people in power who now wish to reduce the world's population. There are many ways this can be done. Make war or disease or make health problems. Or make sure that people do not have children.

The Second Boer War 1899 - 1902, was an example of destroying people, - who lived in the countryside in South Africa

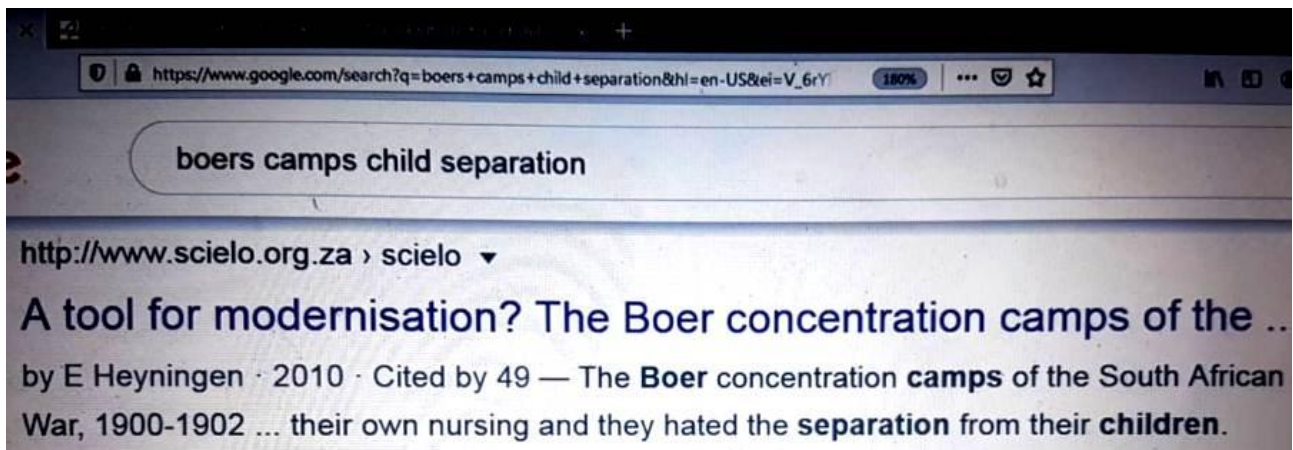

Thousands of people died in the conflict. The British military at the time was carrying out the same policy which was taking place all over the world. They were destroying the countryside

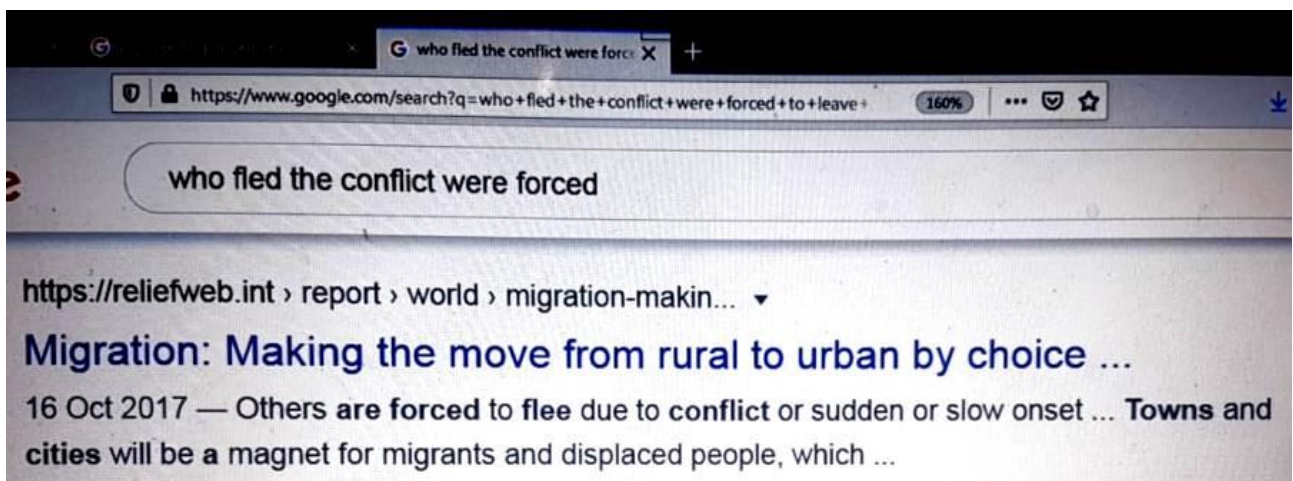

The Boers are a group of European people who live in South Africa, today many people call them “Afrikaner”

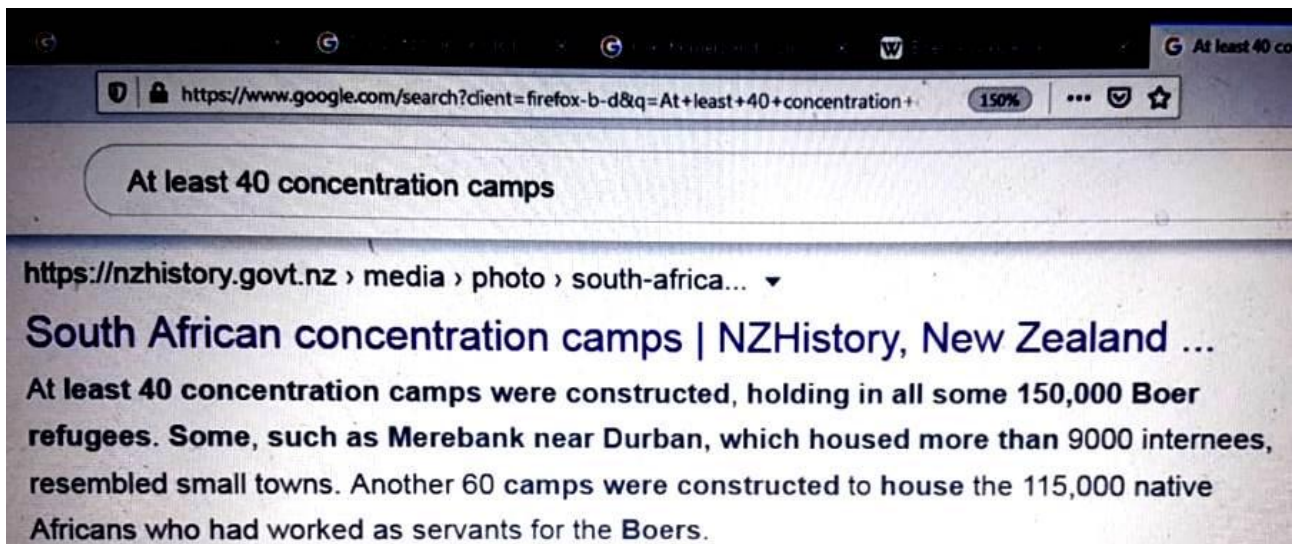

During the Second Boer War 1899 - 1902, thousands of Boer people were taken as prisoners into camps and their homes and land was destroyed. Many people ran away to city areas

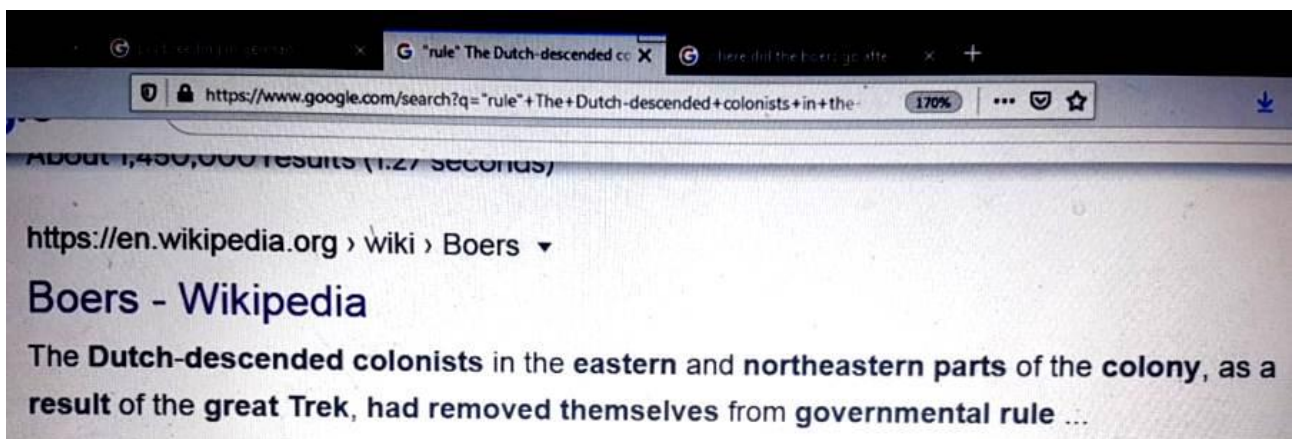

In the camps in South Africa, the children were separated from their mothers. The families were separated. The entire family culture was destroyed. The people who created the camps knew what they were doing. It will destroy the family culture. By burning their homes and land, it will destroy their family way of life and the people will be forced to accept a new way of life

It is well known that people who are running from war zones in the countryside will be forced to run to urban areas. Whoever makes the wars, knows very well that this will be a result of war

Many of these camps resembled villages or small towns. Many people died and the family system broke down

Why would someone destroy the homes of the Boer people and separate their families? Because: - the people were not under the control of the ruling powers. The Boer people were free. They were not under the control of the people who claimed to be the masters

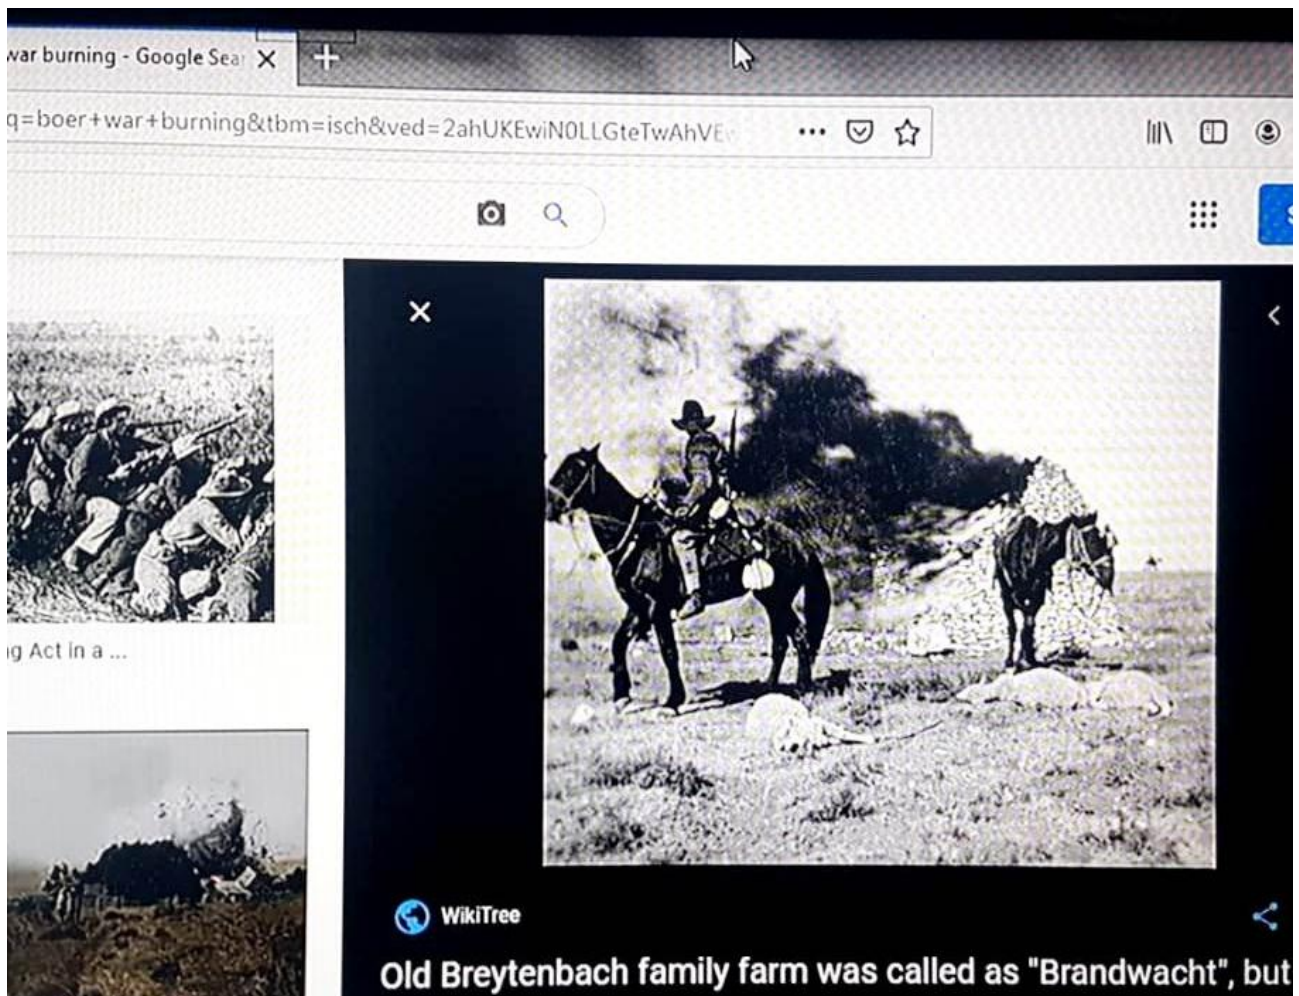

Photo above - burning homes during the Boer War

When the war against the Boers is compared to all the other global conflicts at the time, it can be seen why their homes and lands were destroyed. It was to bring them under control. To make them recognize and accept the laws, set by the people who claimed to be the masters.

A lot of the history of the war has been falsified, which is another long story. History is written by the victors

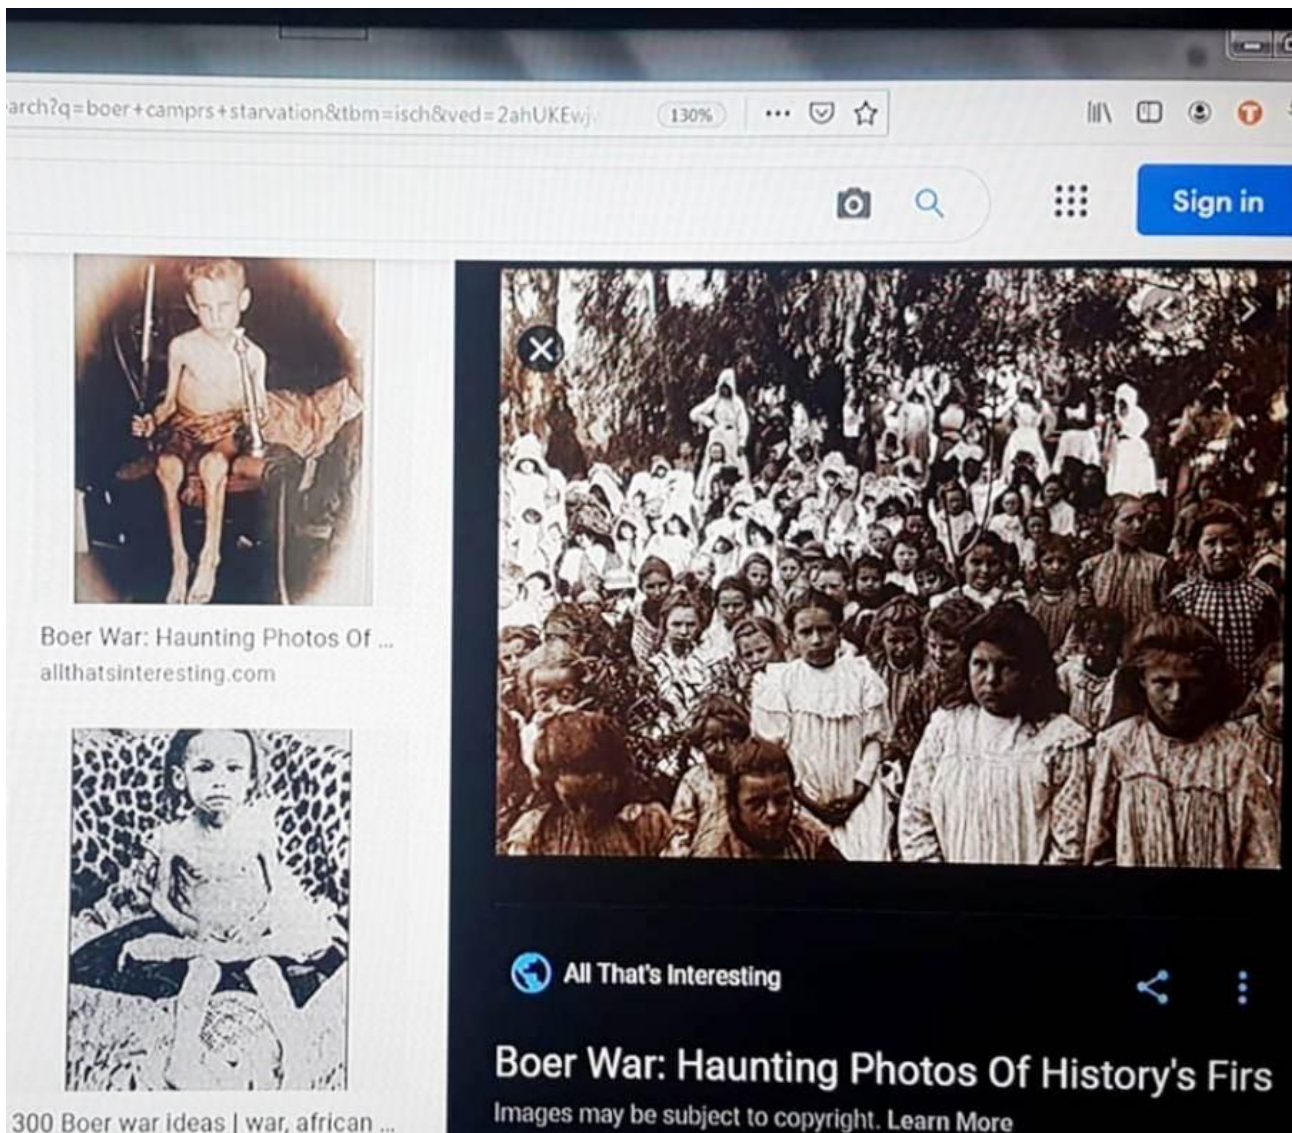

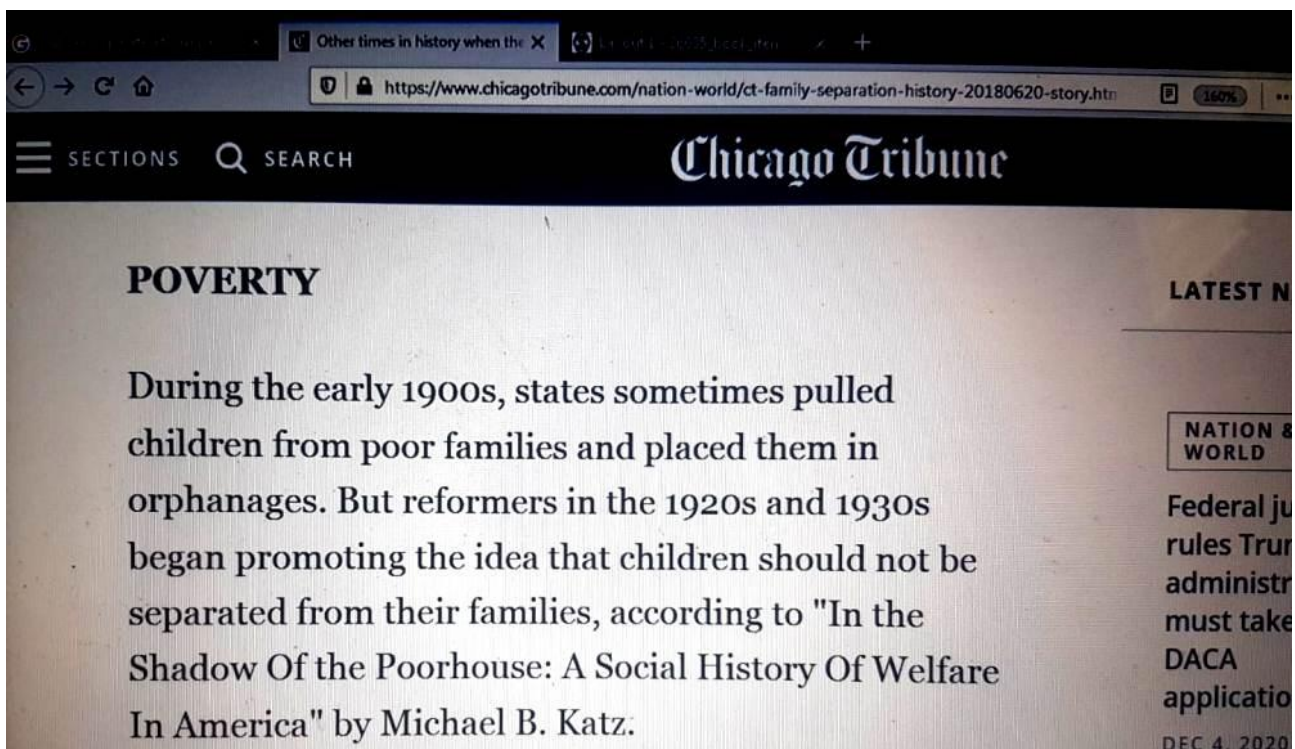

Photo above - Boer War - separating children

The rule of law and order is something which humanity needs. This is not a problem. The problem is the way things are done and who is doing them and what their plans and objectives are. Urbanisation has many advantages and is not a problem. The problem is the way many of these nation states organised their urbanisation. To learn history is a beautiful thing and is not a problem. The problem is when history has many lies and causes conflicts and hatred

The old world system was defeated and today we are in a new world, which is a reality. The old world system had problems and so does the new world we live in today. There were many lies in the old world and the new world today also has many lies. The past cannot be changed, but the people of the world can make the world today more beautiful. Everything depends on the good things that people do.

Separating children from their families was happening all over the world. Many different reasons were used to do such things Around 1900, many children in America were separated from their families. One excuse that was used to separate them from their families was: - to help save them from poverty. This excuse was used in Europe and many other parts of the world

They were taken away and placed in orphanages and taught new religions and new languages and new history. They were then sent to work in factories as slave workers after the age of 10 or 12

Many researchers suspected that these so called orphan schools were created on purpose. The businessmen and industrialists financed these schools. When the children were age 10 or 12, they were working in the factories that were financed by the same businessmen and the same industrialists.

Poverty has always been a serious issue for many centuries, but this was no excuse to take children away from their families by force.

One major fact that historians rarely mention is the economic system that has dominated the world in the last 100 years. It favours bankers and it forces prices to double every 10 or 20 years. Such an economic system will always create poverty. It is well known that historians will not write much against the bankers anyway

Historians show a different picture of what happened. There were many nice genuine people who cared about the children, yes. But looking at everything from a global perspective, it is clear, that good people and bad people were used to create wars and create charities: - for the aims and objectives of the nation states and the industrialists and businessmen

Many of the children in England and Scotland and Ireland and Wales, were sent to work in mining and construction and other places. Many of them refused this slavery when they were older and ran away. To stay alive, many of them had to steal and do other crime.

These people who refused to work in mining and construction were seen as criminals and rebels. They were put on boats and sent far away to lands like Australia. In Australia, they were again sold as slaves

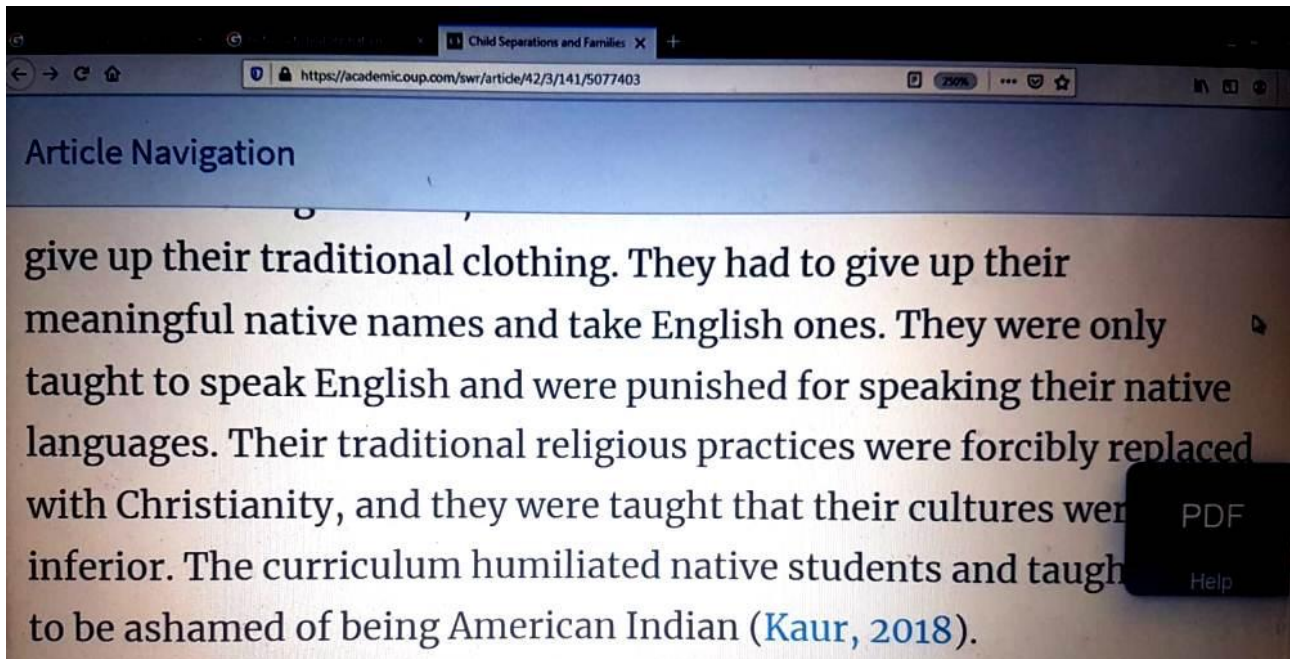

Or, they were forced to join the armies of the ruling powers at the time. They will not work as slaves? Ok, send them far away. Get rid of them, there is no need for these men anymore. Many researchers concluded that wars such as the First World War, were created deliberately in order to send these men away

Not only were white children separated from their families in America, - Native American children were also separated from their families also.

The new clothes that the children are wearing were given to them. This was not the fashion that they wore in the villages

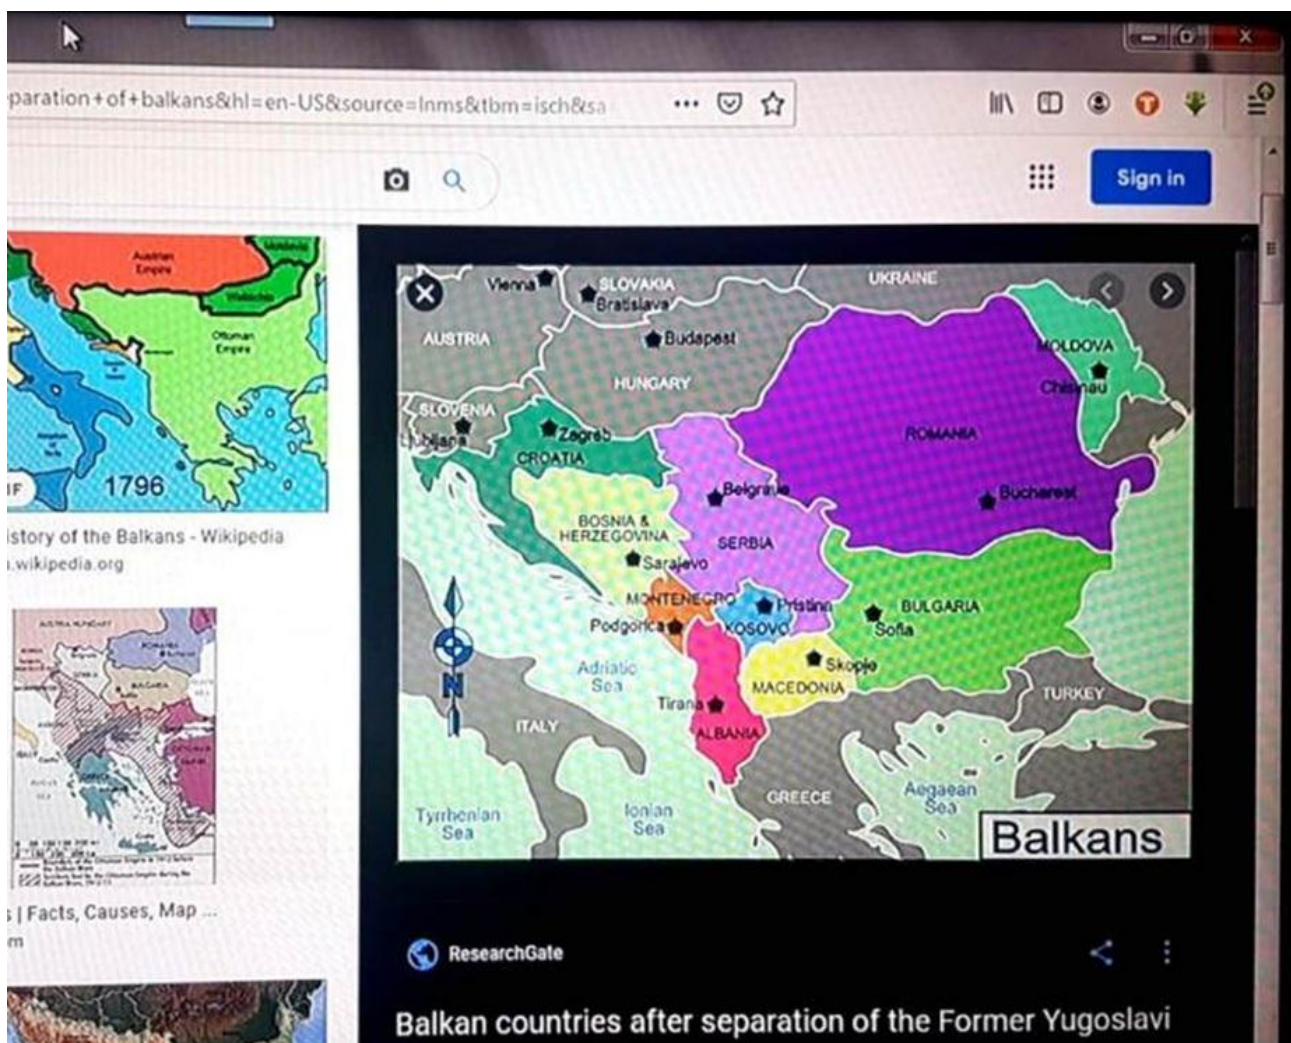

They were also given the new fashion clothes in schools and taught new languages and new history and new religions. They were told that the history that their parents had taught them were myths and legends. They also forgot much of what their parents had taught them regarding history and religion

Many village people who came to live in the city did try to teach their children and grandchildren, what they believed was true history and true religion. But when their children went to school, they were told that their grandparents were superstitious. They were also told that their grandparents believed in myths.

By the year 2000, most people in Europe and America had no memory of what oral history their great grandparents had preserved in the villages.

The process of separating children from families is still carried out by many nation states today in the world.

The children are sent to schools and given new languages and new history. This process will stop when these nation states have taken total control of the people. Those people who refuse to accept are called rebels or separatists. Nations states and borders are created by agreements by the people in power.

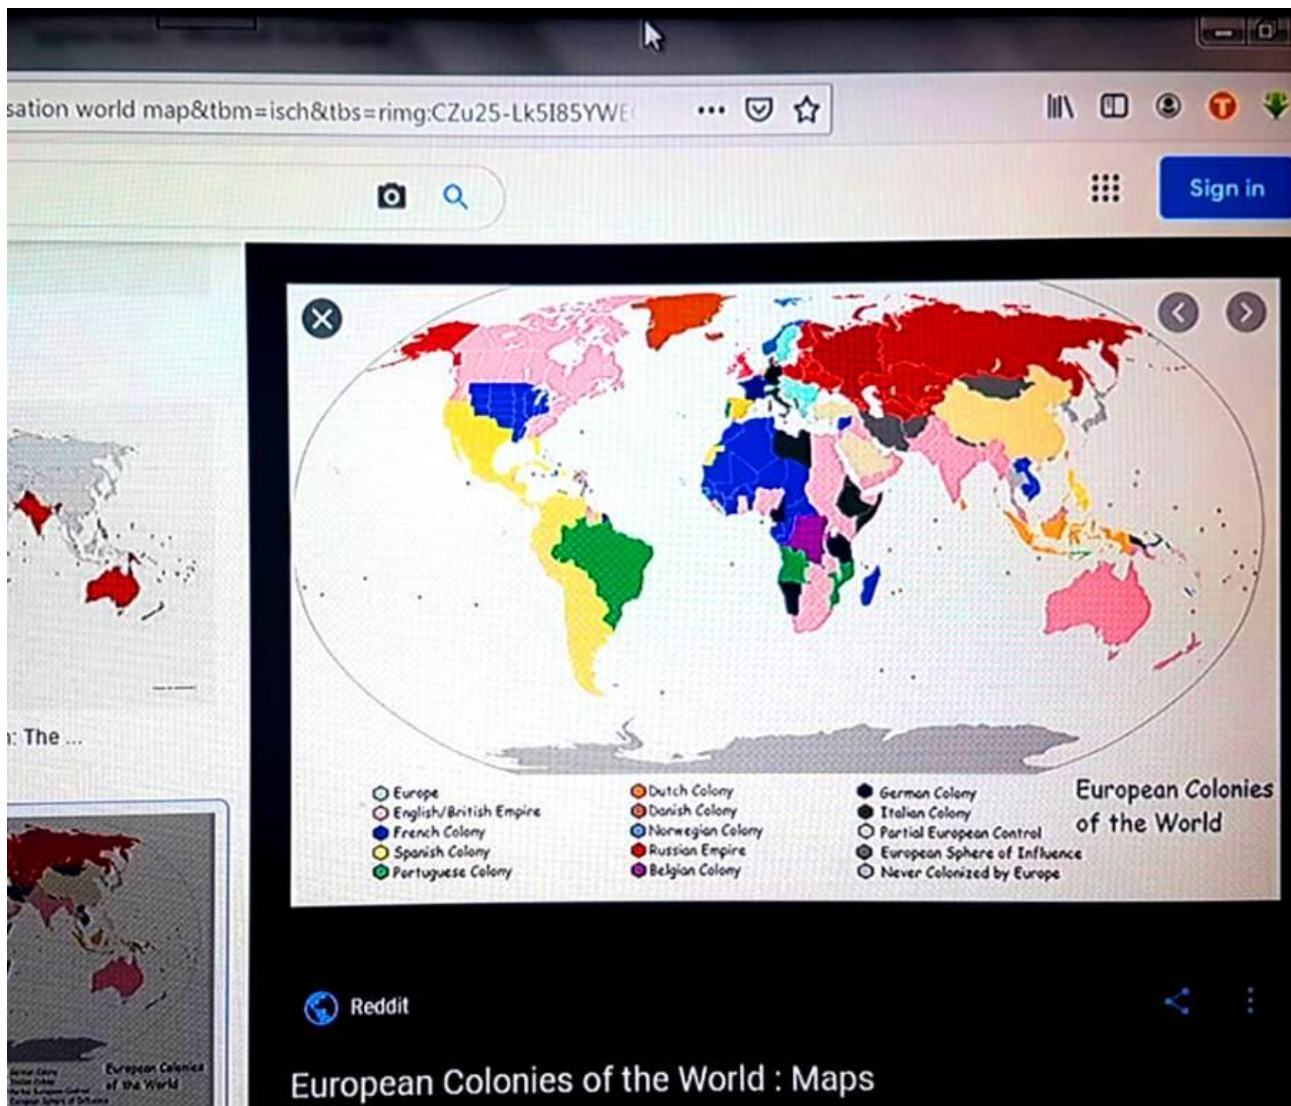

When a nation state fails to control the people, then the state is divided, making it easier to control or the state is placed under new management. This is why revolutions or civil wars happen. Leaders are chosen and selected by agreement with the people in power. The Balkans region in Europe is a perfect example of this in recent history, where new states were created to manage the people

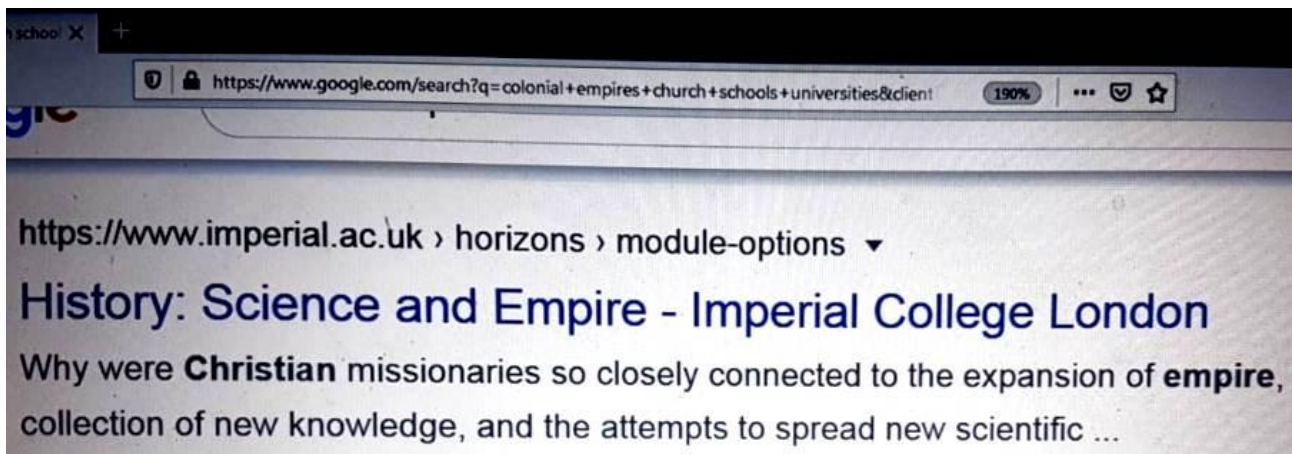

That is why after a new state is formed, mysteriously, the new state carries out the same policies as all other nation states. Tools such as fake history and nationalism and religion are used to make the people believe that they have their own state and have their own independence

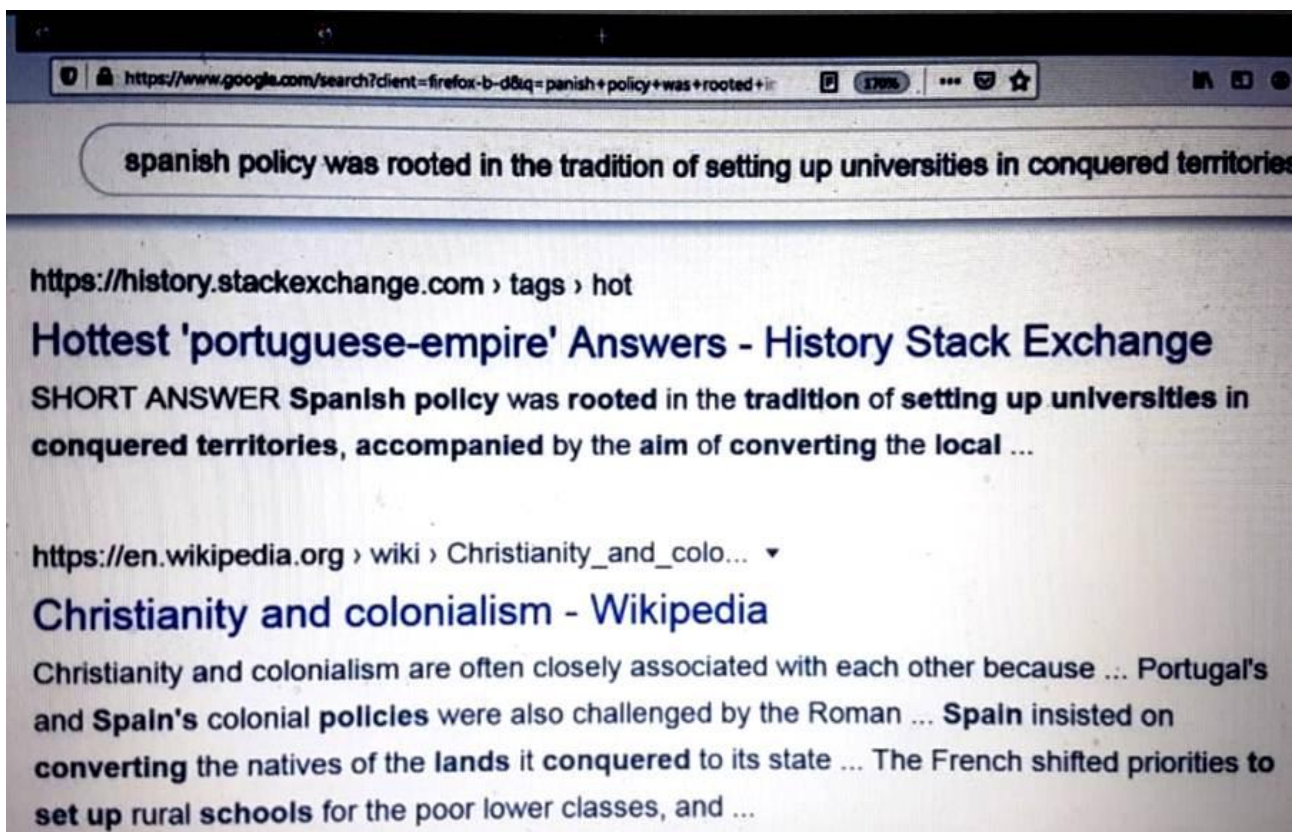

There were hundreds of wars and conflicts all over the world in the 18th century and the 19th century and the 20th century. They were burning the countryside and destroying villages worldwide again and again

Colonial empires were formed by the new global powers all over the world. These empires were made by force, by killing people. Telling people all over the world, i am your master. They burnt and destroyed so many lands belong to ordinary people. Colonial empires were organised by the British - French - Germans - Spanish - Portuguese - Russians - Italians - Dutch - Belgians - etc. These empires worked together by common agreements as if they were a united force

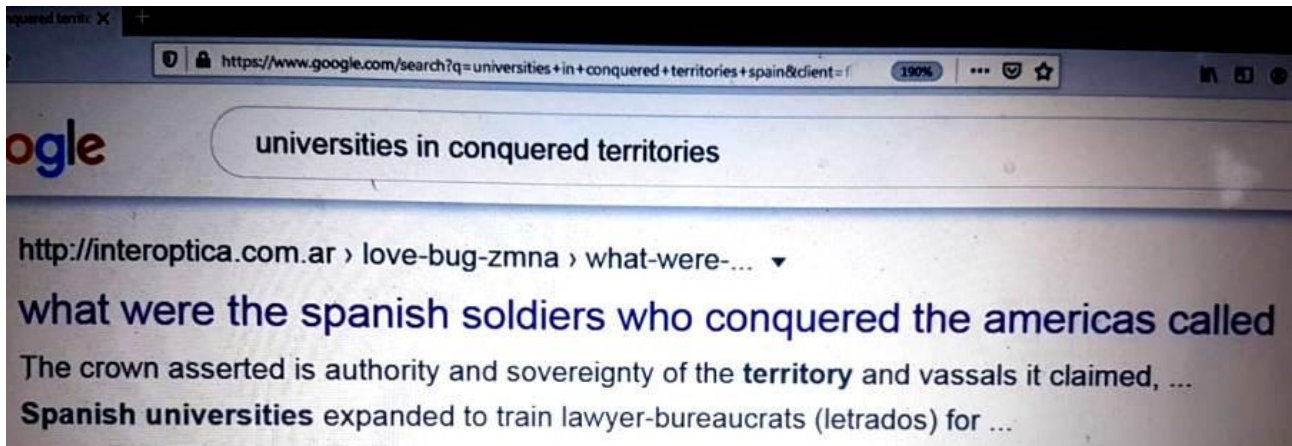

Their armies attacked people all over the world and took over the land and the Churches went with them. The Churches opened schools and universities working together with colonial powers all over the world.

After they established these institutions, they gave the local people new languages and new history. The British - French - Germans - Spanish - Portuguese -

Russians - Italians - Dutch - Belgians, they were all opening schools and universities, either directly by their administrations or through Church organisations

These schools and universities were created to teach and train the children: - new history and new languages and the new global system. When the children grow up, they let the children manage the new system they created. This was called independence for the colonies.

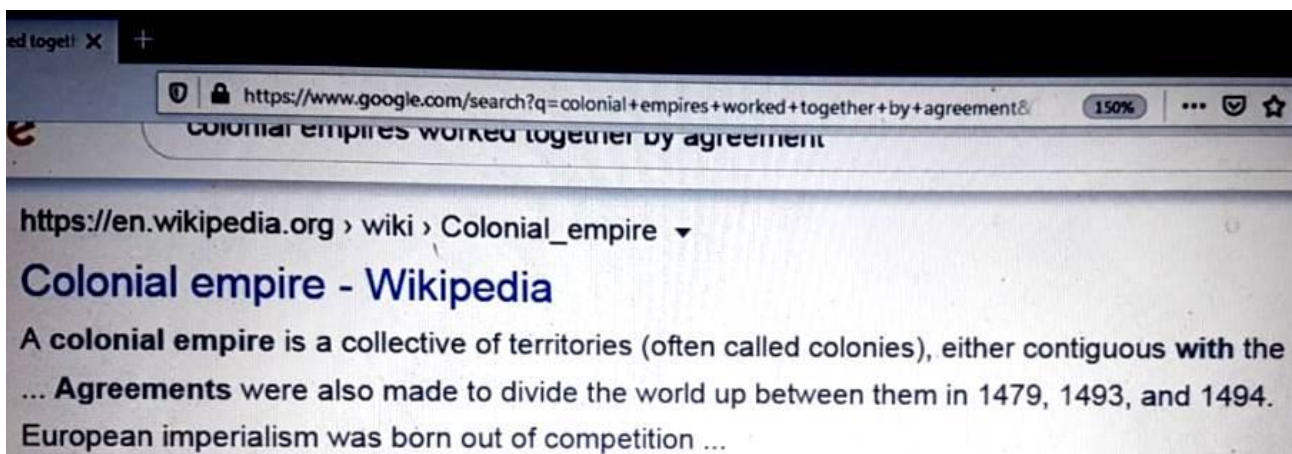

The children and grandchildren managed these new nation states that were created by the global powers

All the European powers and Churches worked together with each other as if they had one master, with different branches. They caused wars and conflicts to fight anyone who refused to obey the new system. The European powers had meetings and conferences and congresses to organise: - who will do what, and how they will do it. Everything was agreed and planned

The evidence clearly shows that most of these conflicts that took place all over the world were created by the great ruling powers and involved the Churches.

Researchers found that the evidence shows that the full history of what really happened during that time has been falsified and changed, but that story is too long to mention here

A serious question is why were the great powers involved in most of the conflicts? Who were the great powers? Who were they working for? What was their objective? Who were they fighting against and why?

These empires were created by secret agreements by a group of people during and after the Renaissance. This is the time when they created new world history, in order to hide the old world system from the people. Everything was planned. Many of these treaties and agreements were hidden - why? Nobody is going to tell anyone their secret plans

Agreements and contracts were modified and updated every few years, depending on how the mission to take over the world was progressing during the 18th and 19th and 20th centuries

Because there has been so much damage and destruction from so many conflicts and so much change has taken place, most people in the world today, no longer remember the old world system and have accepted the new world history that is told to them in schools by the new nation states.

Now that they have taken over many parts of the world, they are carrying out plans to manage the world

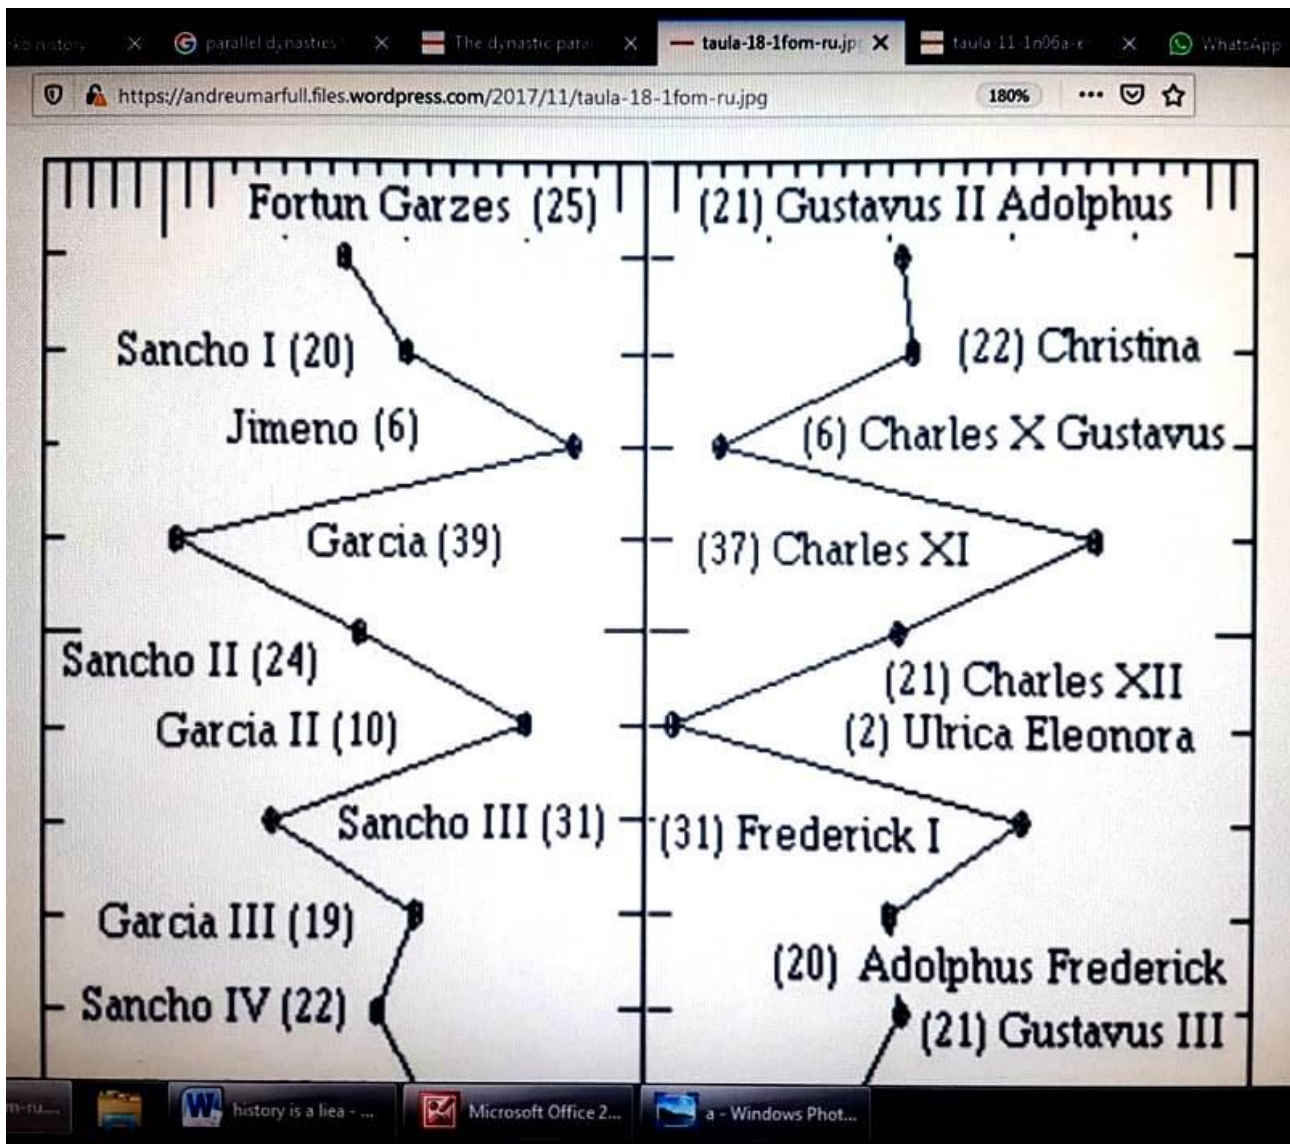

Norway is a country that does not seem to have been in any wars between: - 1814 to 1940

Sweden is also a country that does not seem to have been in any wars between: - 1814 to 1918

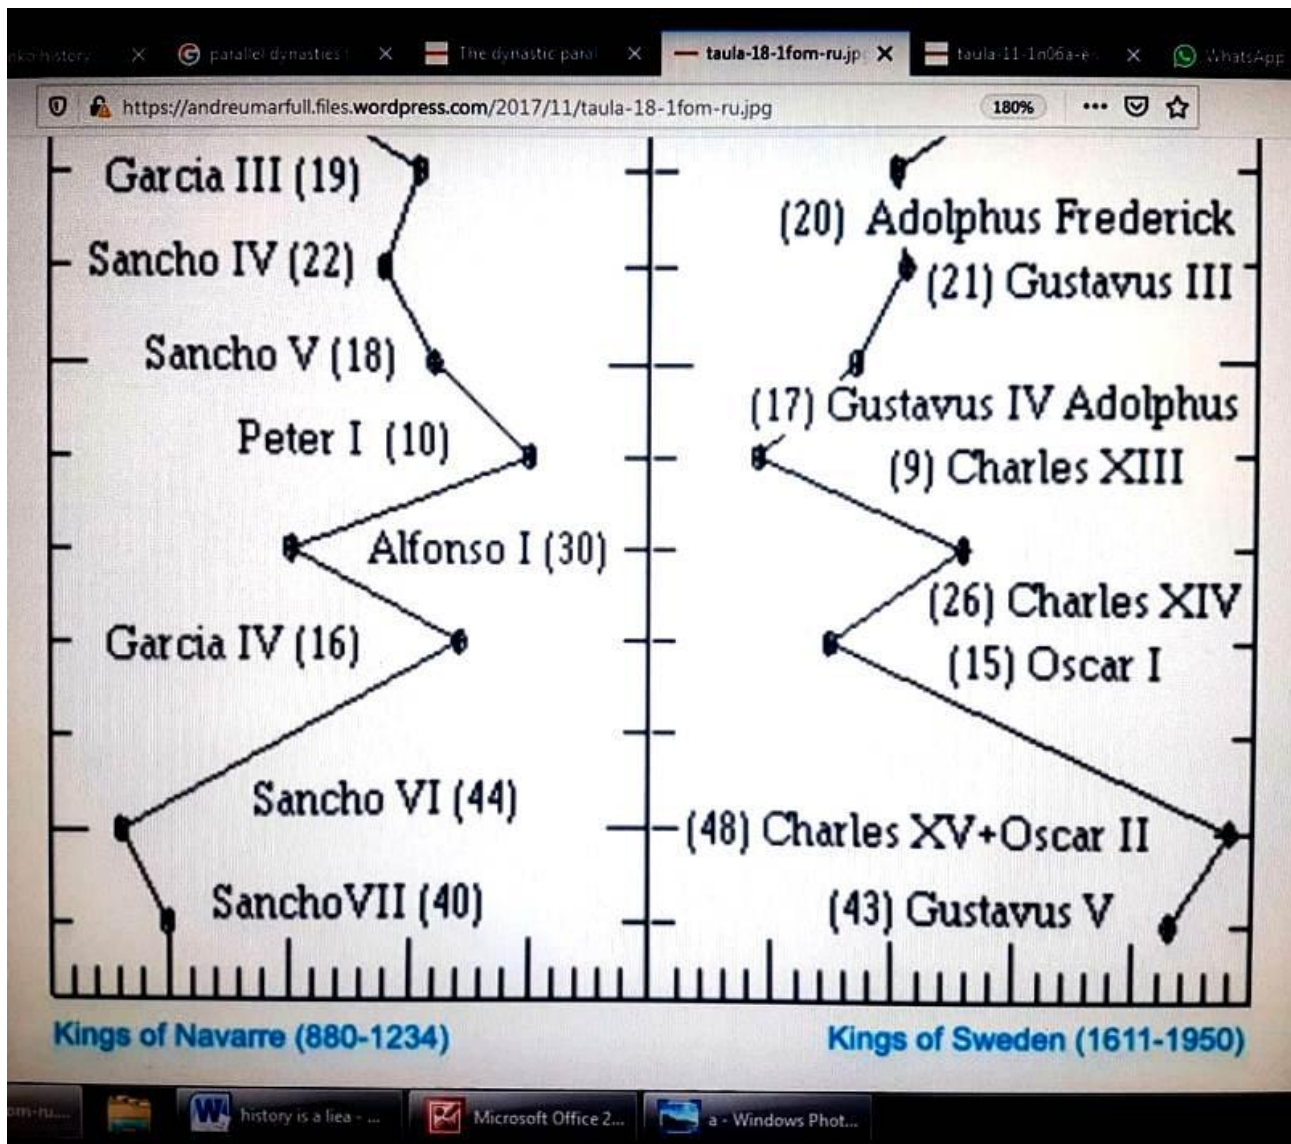

Where do countries such as Norway and Sweden fit into this matter? There is much evidence to show that the history of the world was a lie. There was much evidence to show that history of Norway and Sweden was a total lie

Below is a graph showing the similarity between - the Kings of Navarre in Spain and the Kings of Sweden - and the number of years they supposedly ruled. Notice the distance between these nations and the locations are far from each other.

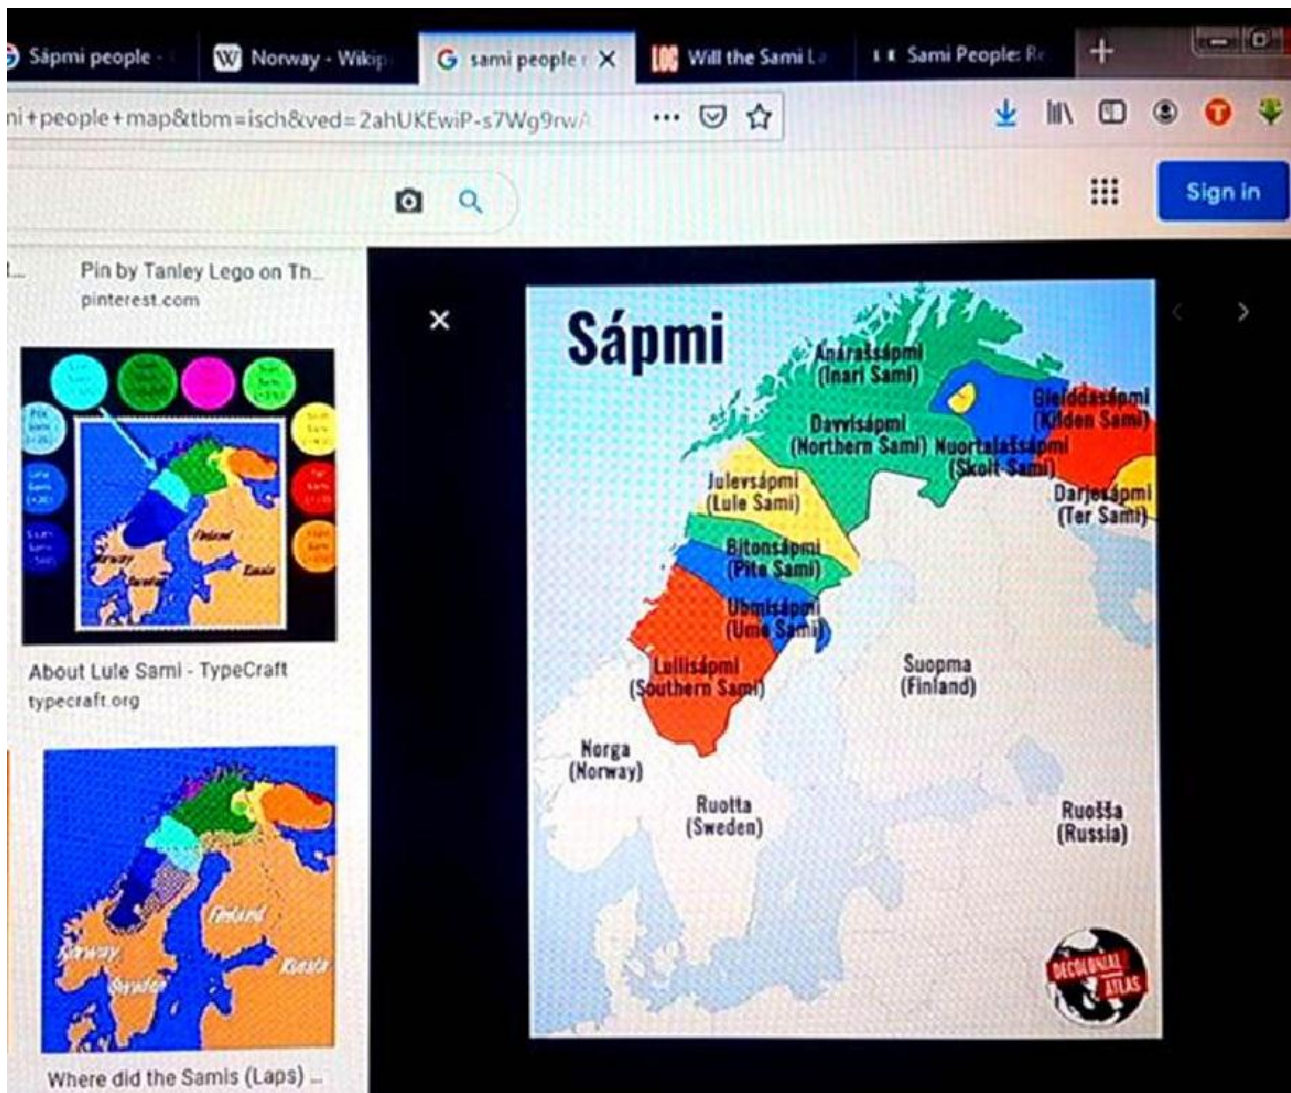

The lines show how many years a king ruled (the number of years are in brackets) - the lines are longer if the king ruled longer.

It can be seen that the timelines of the kings of the 2 different nations - are similar - that they are practically the same kings - except that their names were changed to create fake histories for different countries.

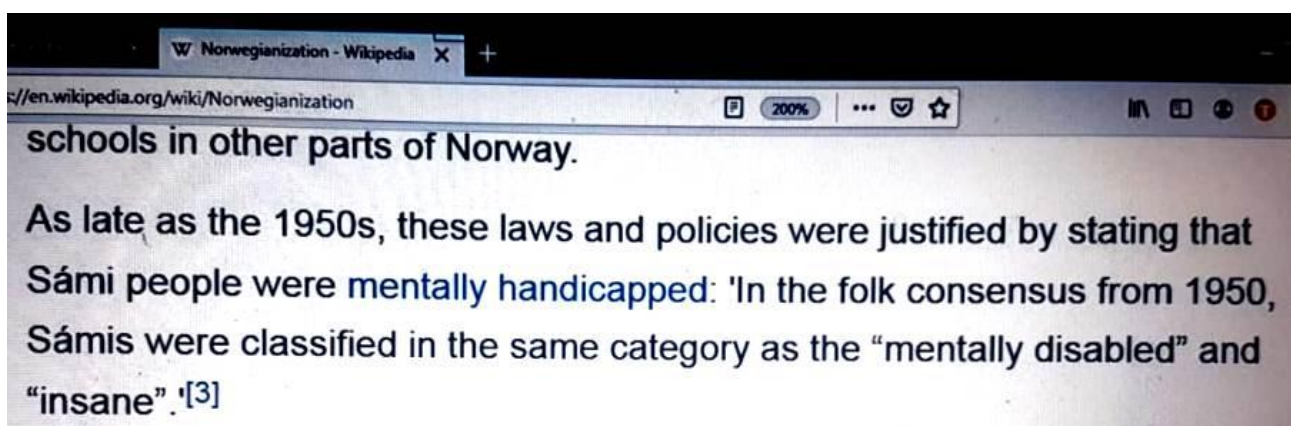

Researchers point out that it can be clearly seen that one nation copied another. Who copied who and why? And which was the original? And was the original one true - or was that falsely created also?

The entire history of Europe is linked to these Kings of Sweden and Navarre, and if the history has been falsified as the evidence shows, then the entire history of the world must have been falsified

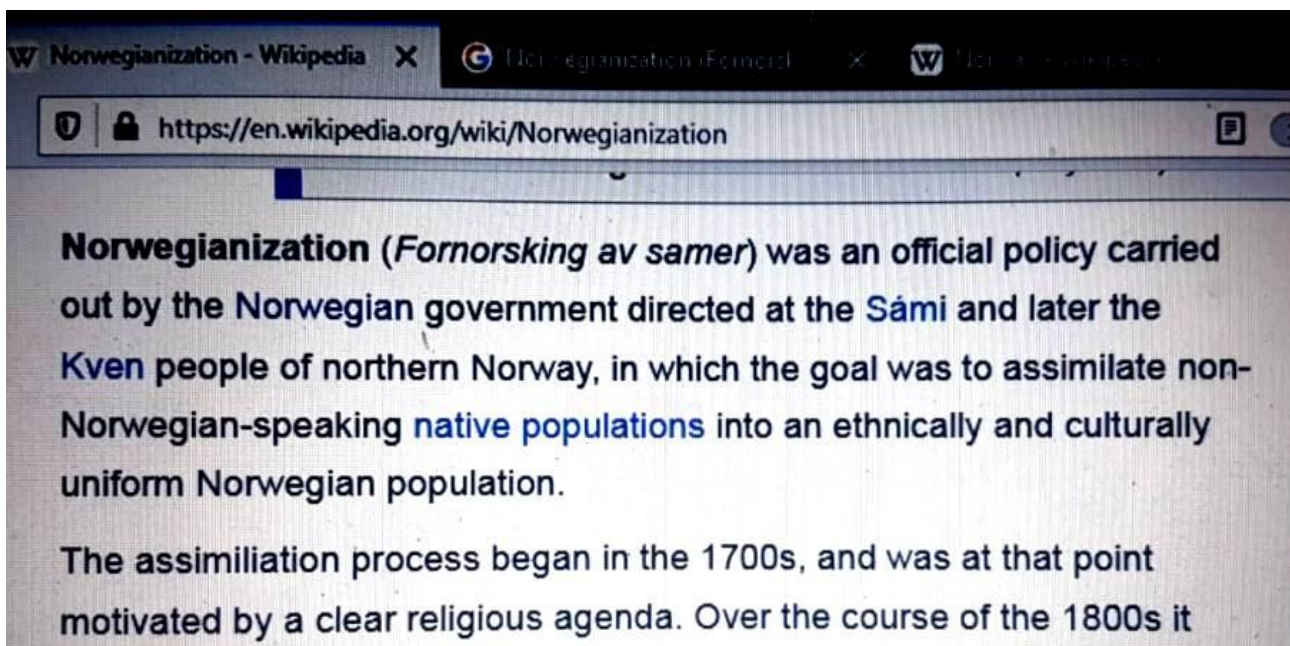

In northern Europe, there is a group of people known as the Sapmi or Sami people. The Sami people are found in Norway and Sweden and Finland and north western Russia

In Norway, the Sami people refused to accept the system that was created by the state of Norway and refused to follow it. They were labelled as mentally disabled and insane. The state of Norway was created by people who claimed to be the masters of that land.

Who are these masters and rulers?

It is my land, you will do what I say, and I will make the laws here. You are only free to do what I say. Who said it is my land? I said so. I am strong and I have power and I will destroy you if you do not accept what I say

What was the system of the Norwegian state? Basically, it was to make all the people living in the land, - the land that the Norwegian state claimed, - to make them all follow and accept the rules created by men, - the men who created the Norwegian state.

The same system is for all the nation states around the world. These men chose the language and the religion and the culture for the people. Anyone who refused, was basically forced to accept these nation states, by their armies or their police

In Norway, the Sami people were targeted with the Christian religion. Religion was used as a tool by the people in power, to get what they wanted. Not only were the Sami people targeted, but everyone who lived in Norway.

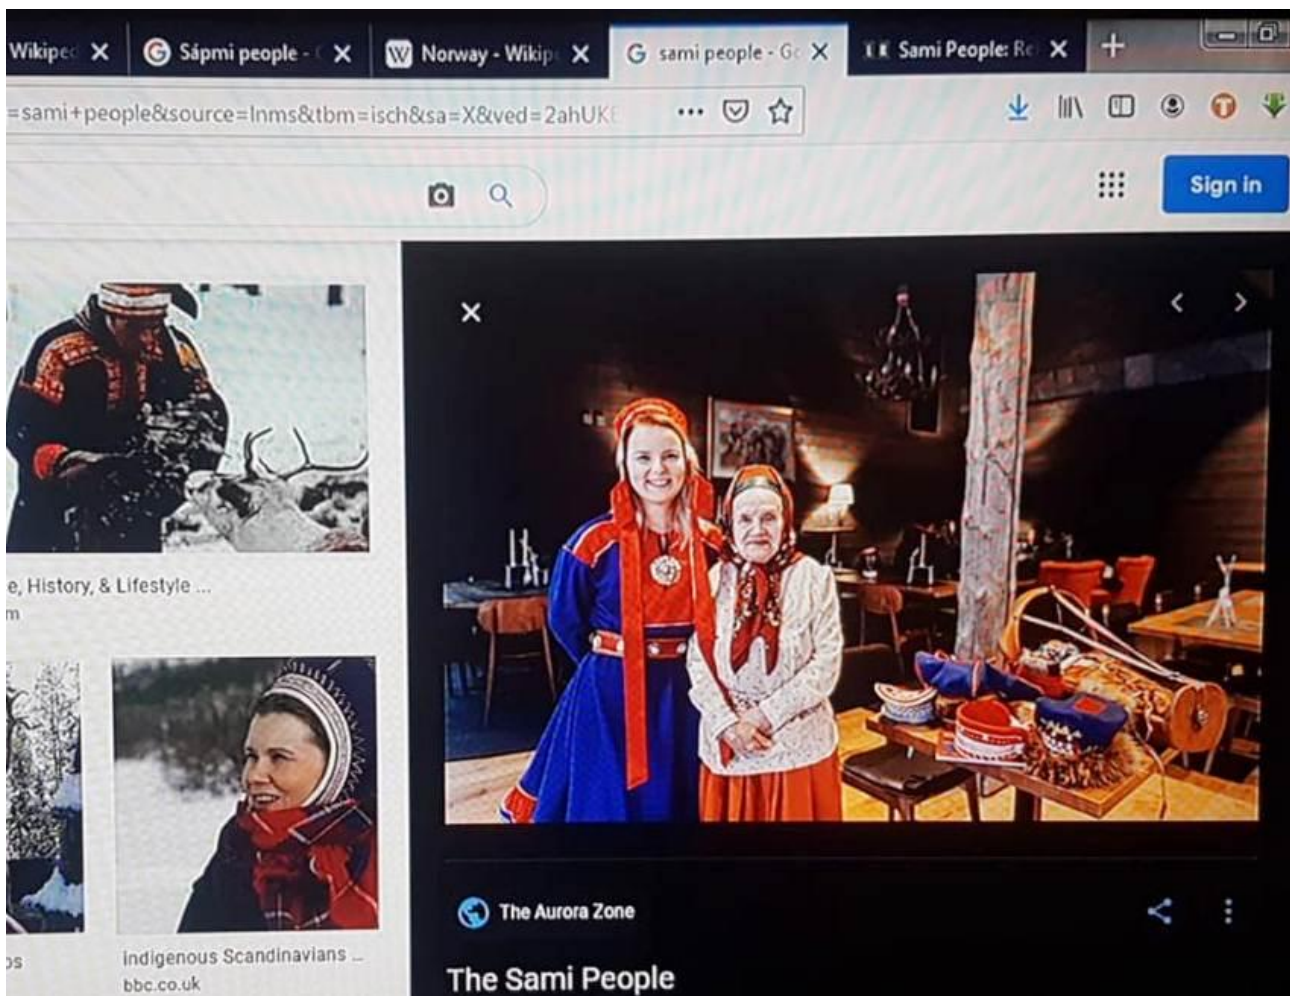

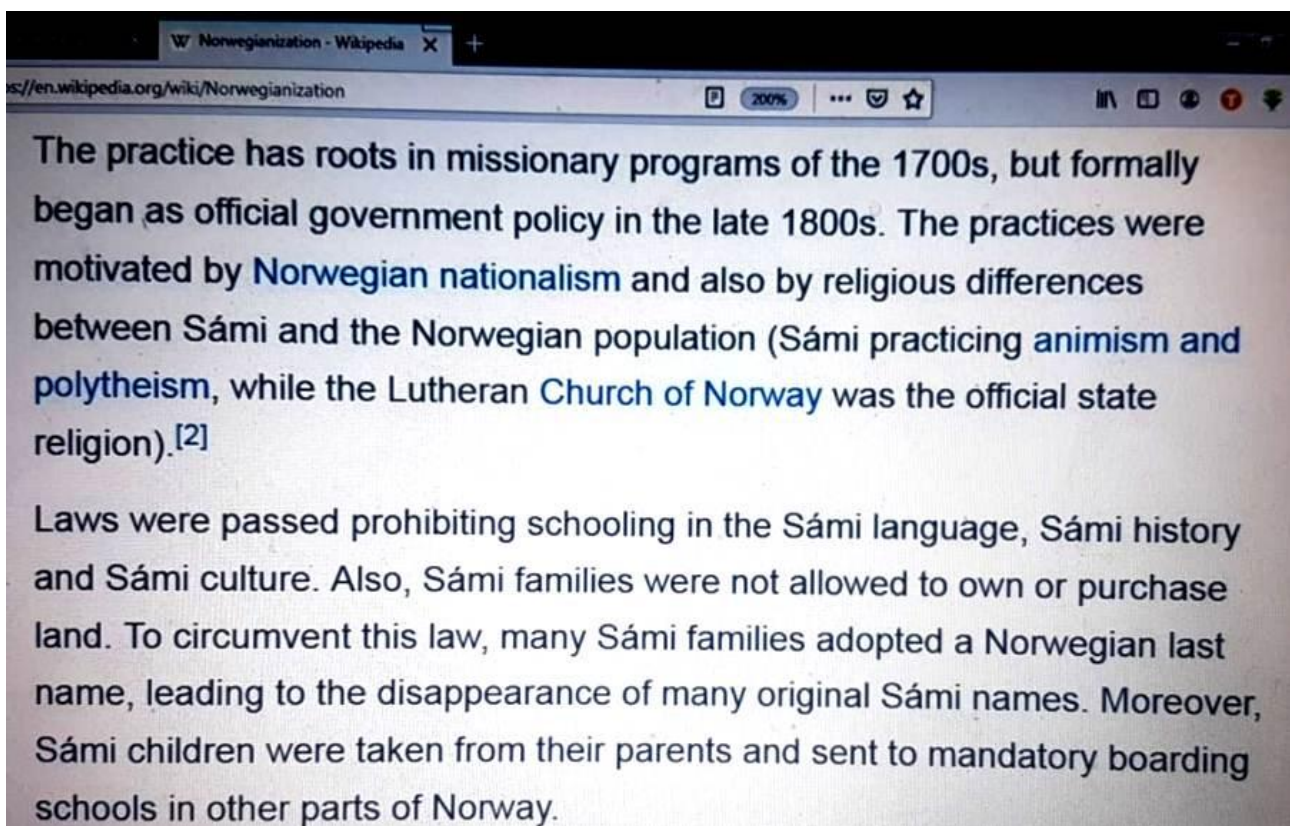

Photo above - an example of the Sami people

Evidence shows that Christian missionaries targeted people in Norway in the 1700's and this became an official policy in the late 1800's. Christian missionaries at that time were not the same like today. The missionaries were men who were paid to do specific jobs for a specific agenda related to colonialism

Laws were made in Norway against the language of the Sami people and their history and their culture.

These people were called: - mental.

These people were called: - insane

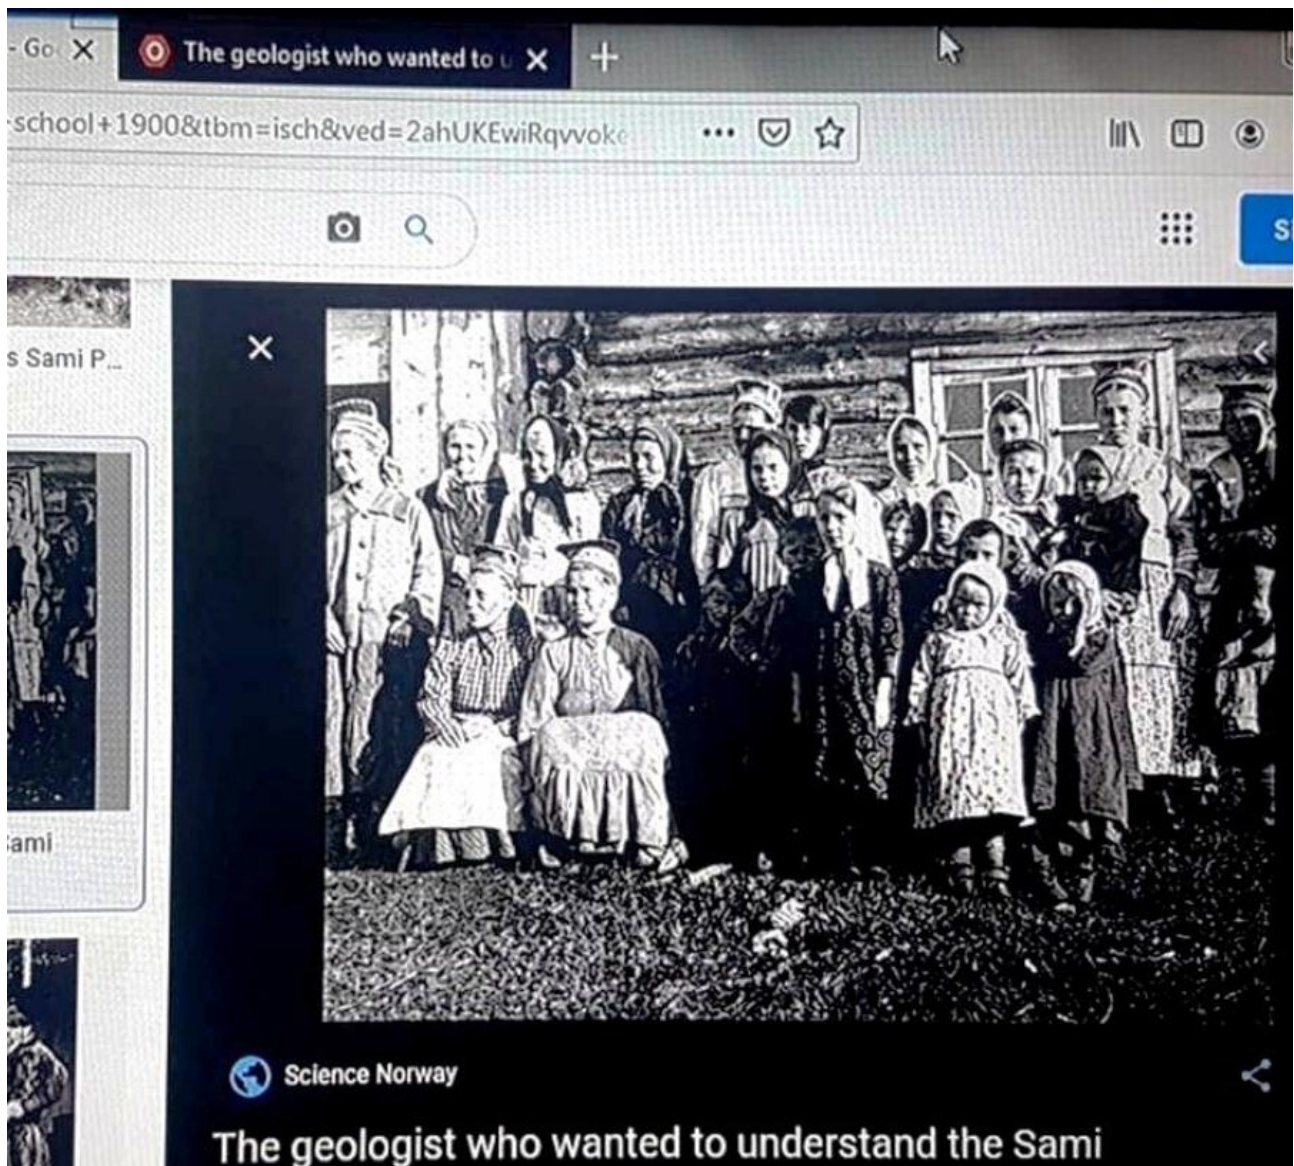

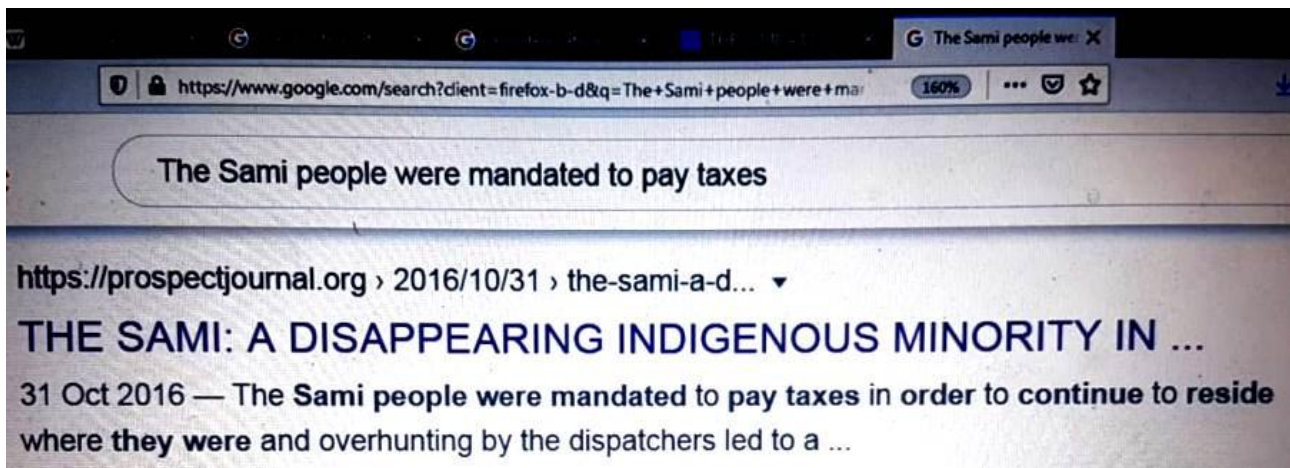

Photo above - Sami people around a hundred years ago

The Sami people were not allowed to own land or buy land. They could buy land, if they changed their names and changed their language, and accepted: - that they had a master called: - Norway

The Sami people were forced to pay money to people to live on their own land.

Who were these people that the Sami people had to pay?

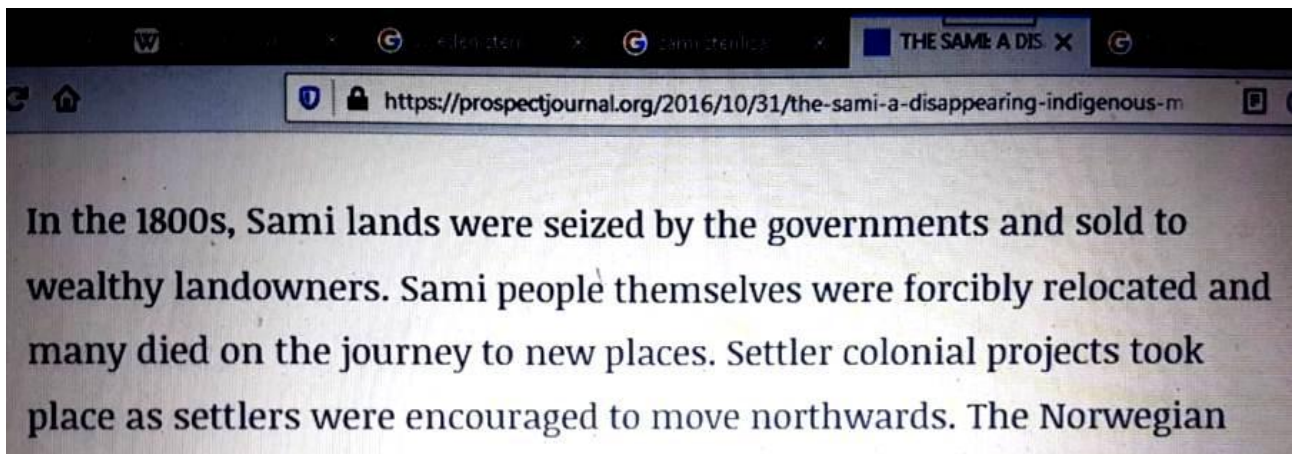

The people called themselves - Norway. This was called taxation. They had to pay taxes so that they could live on their own land.

Pay me money and you can live here. I am called - Norway. I have decided that I am your master. If you pay me money, - I will protect you and allow you to live, - or I will destroy you. How will i destroy you? I will send the boys - my boys are called: - the police and army. No payment? OK, I will destroy you.

No payment? No protection

(Protection money is normally demanded by gangsters - the Sami people saw these people as nothing but gangsters who used violence and murder to get their own way. Many people around the world saw nation states as gangsters)

In the 1800's, many of the lands belonging to the Sami people were stolen by Norway and Sweden and sold. In the same way that organised gangs steal mobile telephones and sell them. Historians normally say the lands were seized. That is why historians have lost their respect.

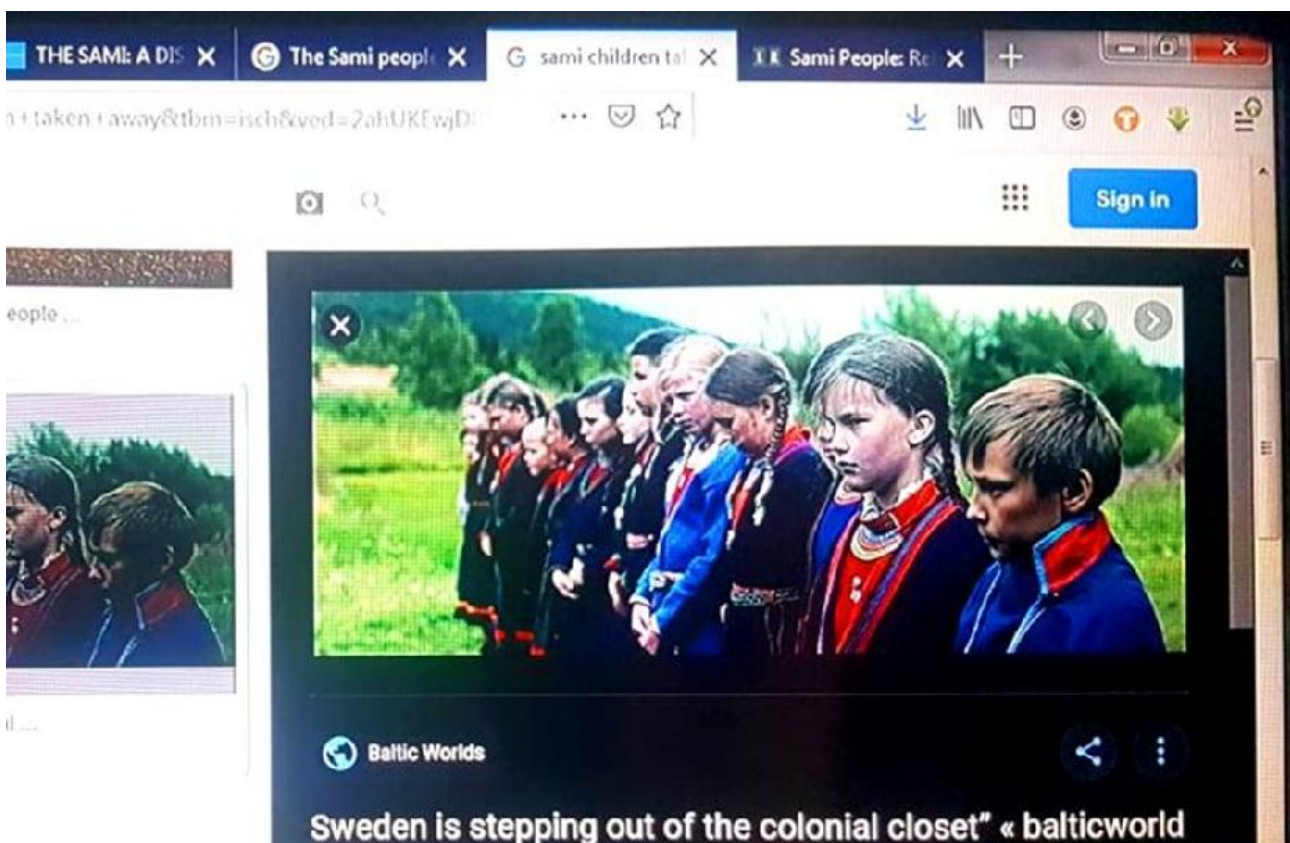

The lands were stolen

Why don't historians use simple easy words? Because:
- historians are controlled by their masters. Norwegian and Swedish settlers came to many of the Sami lands. But where did these Norwegian and Swedish settlers come from? Who were these settlers?

Were they really Norwegian and Swedish people?

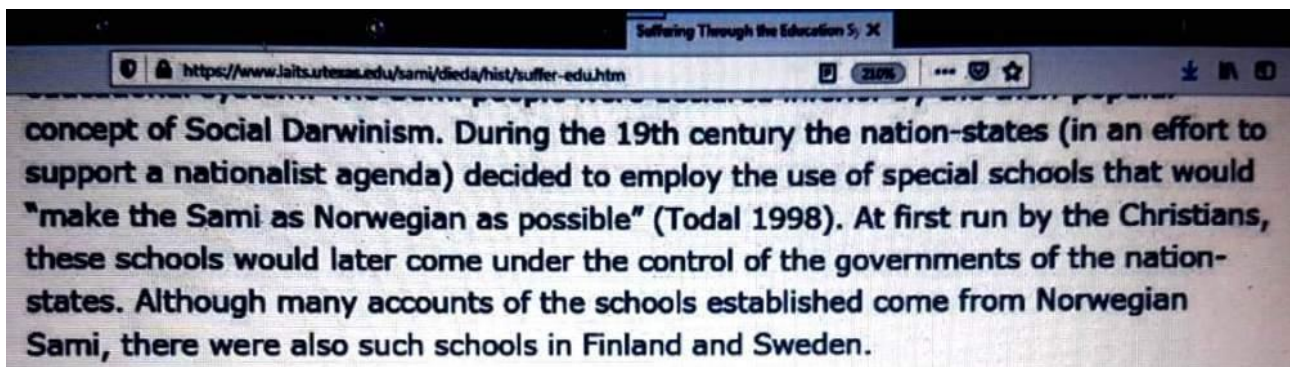

Many Sami people and other native people became Norwegian people or Swedish people. How did they become Norwegian or become Swedish?

Their children were taken away by force. They were kidnapped. They were stolen. The children were given new names and taught new languages and given a new religion and were told a new history of the world. A similar thing happened to all the other native people in that region and around the world. This process took many years. Many Norwegian people or Swedish people, no longer know who their real ancestors are

Because such bad things were happening in the region, many native people ran from the south and went to the north, in order to get away from these gangsters. This is why the Sami people are generally found in the northern regions

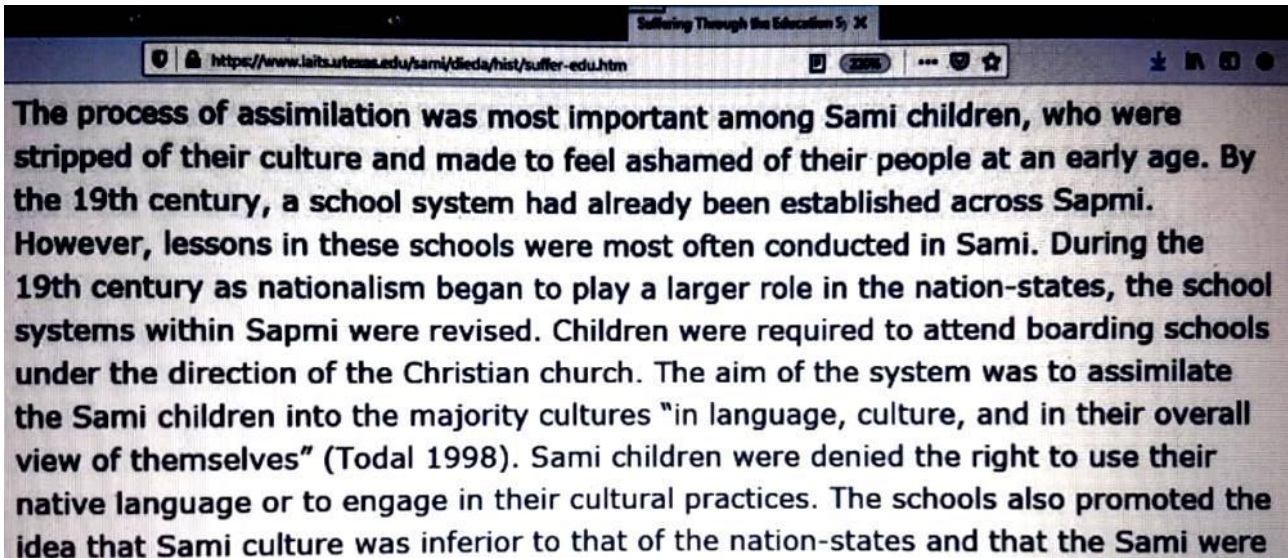

The Sami children were taken to schools that were created by Christian Church organisations. A similar thing was happening in many parts of the world.

Christian organisations were opening schools and universities all around the world after the 17th century.

Who was organising these things and who was paying for them? It was clearly a global operation. These schools then came under new management, called the nation state. Why was the Christian Church opening these schools? The world history that they were teaching was created by the Church during and after the Renaissance and this history is taught today in the nation states. These schools were all over the region, in Sweden and Finland and Norway and Denmark and Russia. They were all over the world

The Sami children were sent to schools in Norway that were controlled by the Christian Church and they were boarding schools. This was demanded by the state of Norway. The state of Norway and the Church worked together as one team.

This meant that the children were sleeping in these schools and eating there. They Sami were forced to accept the Christian eating and drinking system, according to what is accepted by the Churches.

Historians say that these schools in the 19th century were teaching the Sami children in the Sami language for many years, and later they started teaching in the Norwegian language.

This is understandable because the Norwegian language was being created and modified according to the people in power. A similar thing was happening to all languages organised by the new nation states

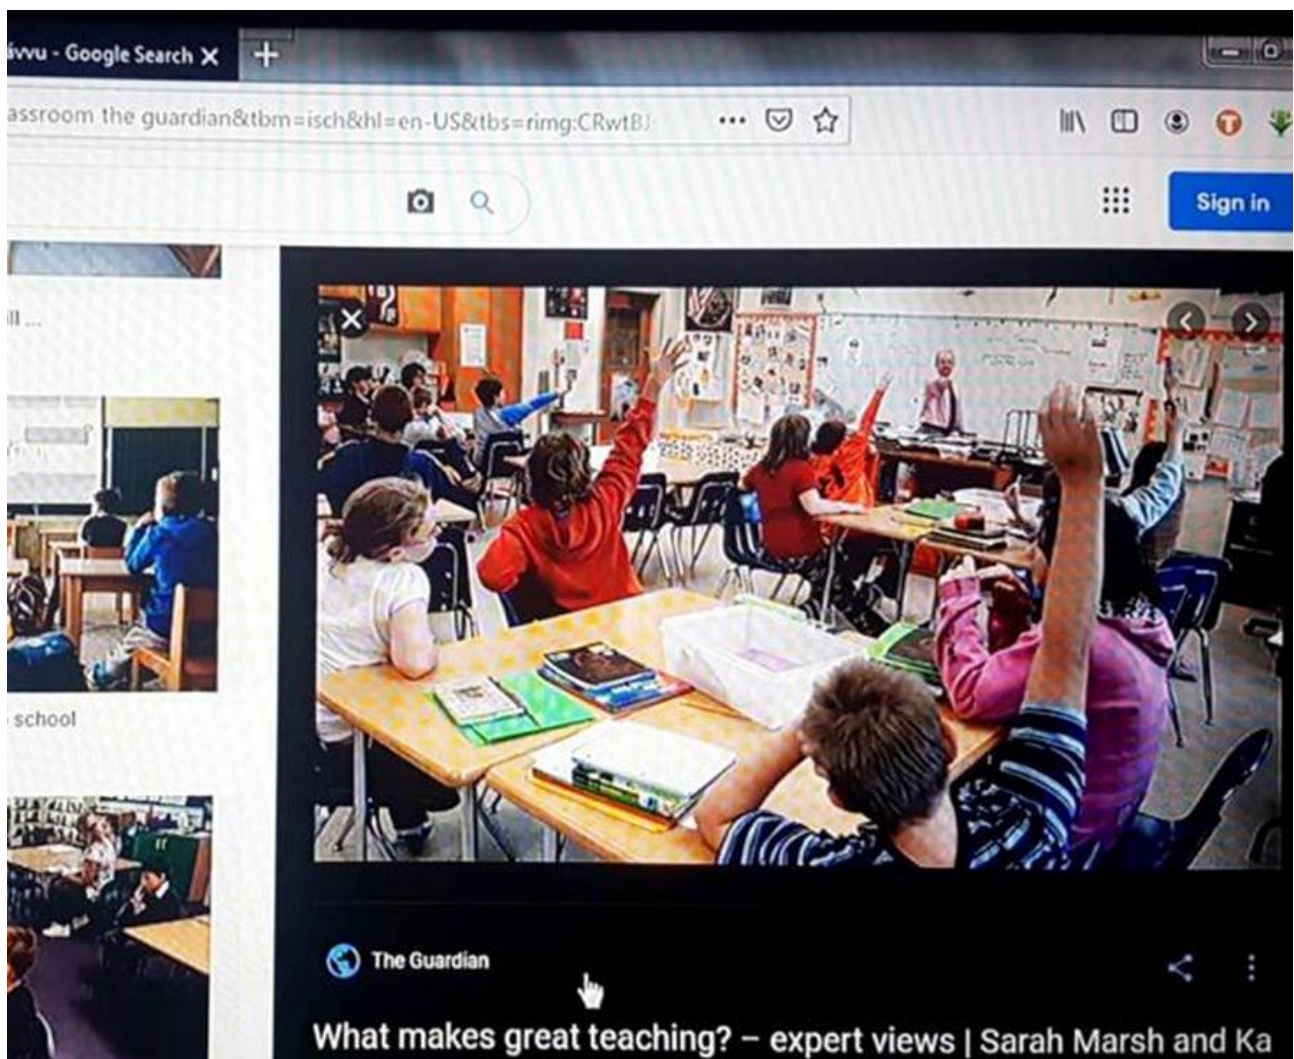

How did these Christian Church schools mysteriously know what was the Sami language was at that time in the 19th century? They were teaching the Sami children in the Sami language

A similar thing was happening all over the world. For example Christian missionaries who ran schools in China mysteriously knew the Chinese language and many other languages around the world, which did not make sense

How did these Church school teachers know native languages all over the world? How did they know the Chinese language? How did they know the Sami language?

In Europe and America today, the teachers are educated to know the language. For example teachers in Germany and trained to know the German language when they go to school. Teachers in England learn the English language when they went to school. Nation states today are organised

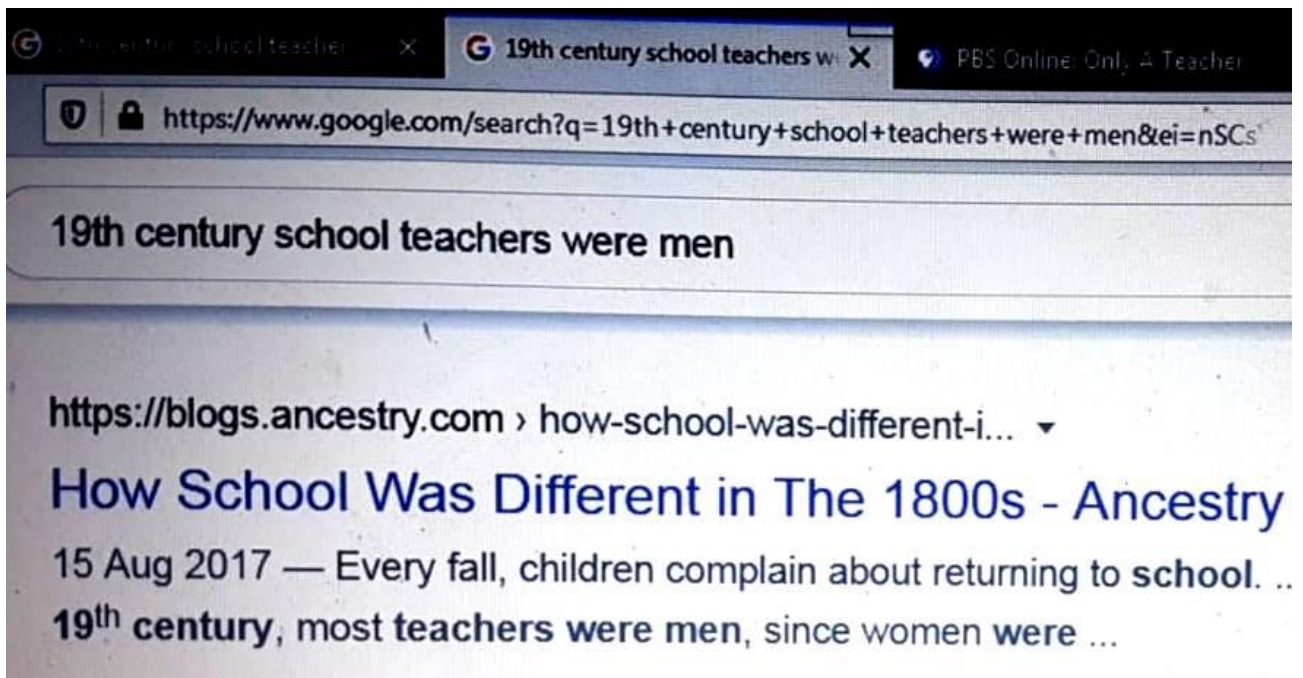

There were no Sami schools in the 19th century, where Church people can learn the Sami language. So how did they know the Sami language?

It was clear that they did not know the Sami language, the history was a lie

Photo above: - shows an example of a boarding school where kidnapped Sami children were taken by the Church. They were not modern schools or professional.
Many children were abused and tortured and even killed. The photo above shows a female teacher, but most teachers were men who were working for the Churches. The abuse that children suffered around the world in these schools is too disgusting to mention here

All over the world, teachers were mostly men in the 19th century

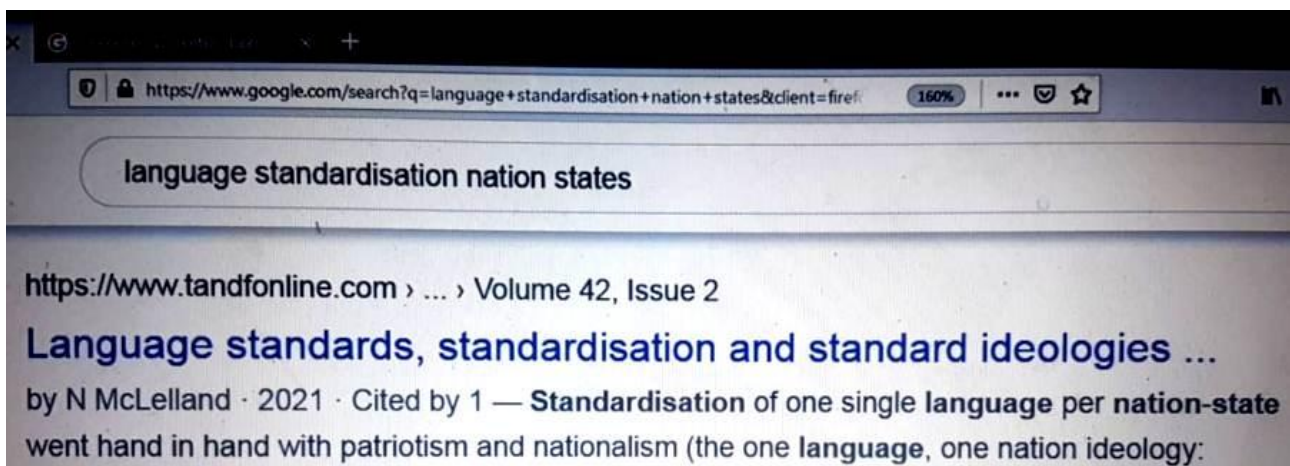

What type of men were teachers in the 19th century?

Most of the teachers were working for the Church organisations. But in many village areas and rural areas, anyone could be a teacher - a farmer or an innkeeper (beer seller)

The Sami children learnt the Sami language in the 19th century in the Church schools and today it is called the Sami language. Researchers concluded that the original Sami language, - before the children were kidnaped and forced to go to these schools, - has now been lost. The current Sami language was taught to the children by force in the schools organised by the Churches. It was clear that the Churches and their allies had created this Sami language

The same thing was done all over the world. Teachers were not professional and they taught the new languages that the Church told them to teach. Because these teachers were not professional, this is why many dialects developed in these new languages. Dialects can be seen in every region of the world.

Throughout the decades of the 19th century, dialects developed into regional dialects. When the nation states took over education, they standardised the languages and united the dialects and modified them according to their own wishes

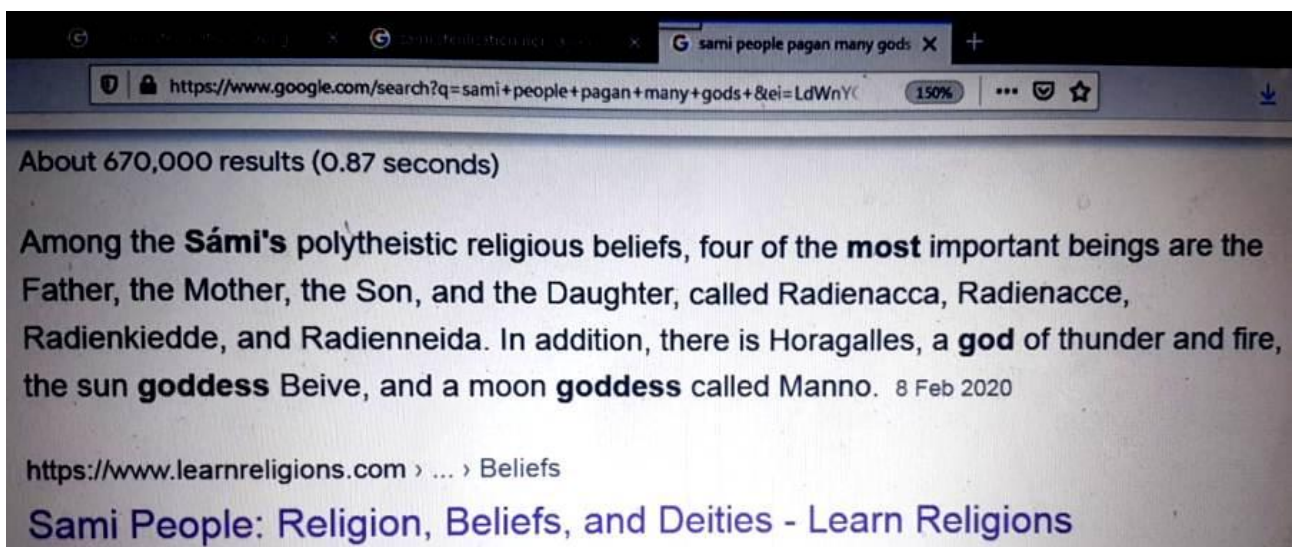

This history can be seen in every nation state.

Language experts worked for the nation states and standardised the dialects. Language was used as a tool for fake nationalism. Fake history was used to show that languages were old and used to make people believe in the new nation states. This is our original old language. This is our old history. This is our nation. Bla - bla - bla

Historians say that the Sami civilisation was pagan and that it was thousands of years old. Researchers such as Anatoly Fomenko from Moscow State University found much evidence to show that similar history was artificially created for other people around the world and was nothing but a lie

Many of the Sami children who went to these schools now became Norwegian citizens and accepted their new masters. Many of them became Christians and many of them now accepted the history that they were told. Many of these new Sami children and their descendants wrote the history of the Sami people and wrote about the culture and religion of the Sami people

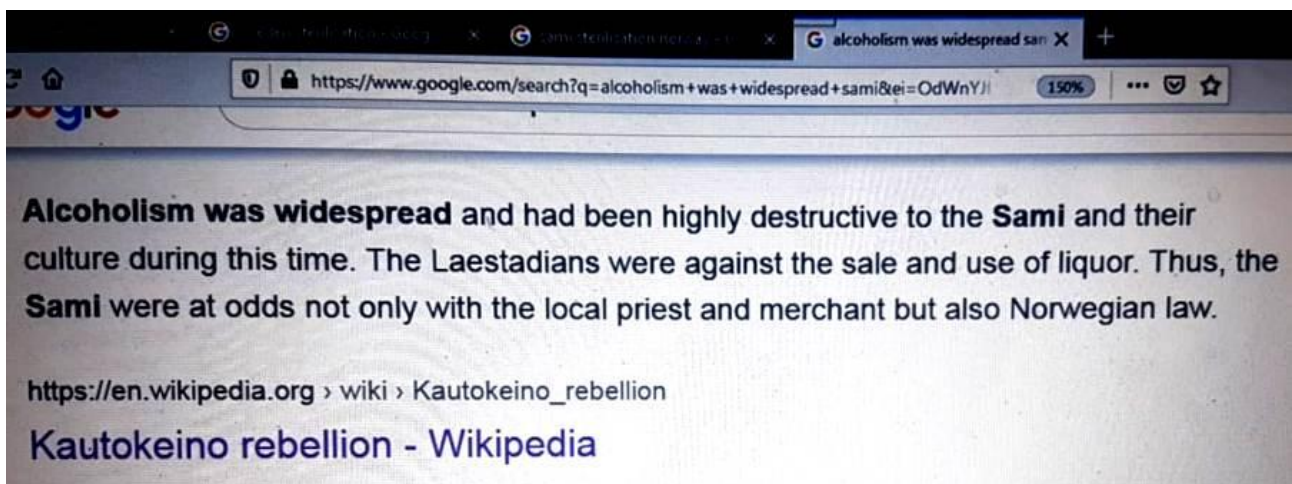

Historians have written that the Sami people were originally pagans and say that the Sami people had many gods and were superstitious people. Historians have verified this, from writings written by Sami people who went to schools organised and controlled by the Churches and the Norwegian state.

Researchers call this history a fraud and say that it is biased and nothing but a lie. The same method of writing history took place in all these new nation states. It was nothing new. This was history according to the people who took power.

The main evidence that historians provide to show that the Sami people were originally pagans: - is from these historical records that were written mainly in the 19th century. These records were written by the Churches and by Sami people who were trained and educated by the Churches, - in schools controlled by the Churches.

Anything that the Churches did not like, - was not accepted and the people were punished. Similar things happened all over the world

What was the Church doing to the children?

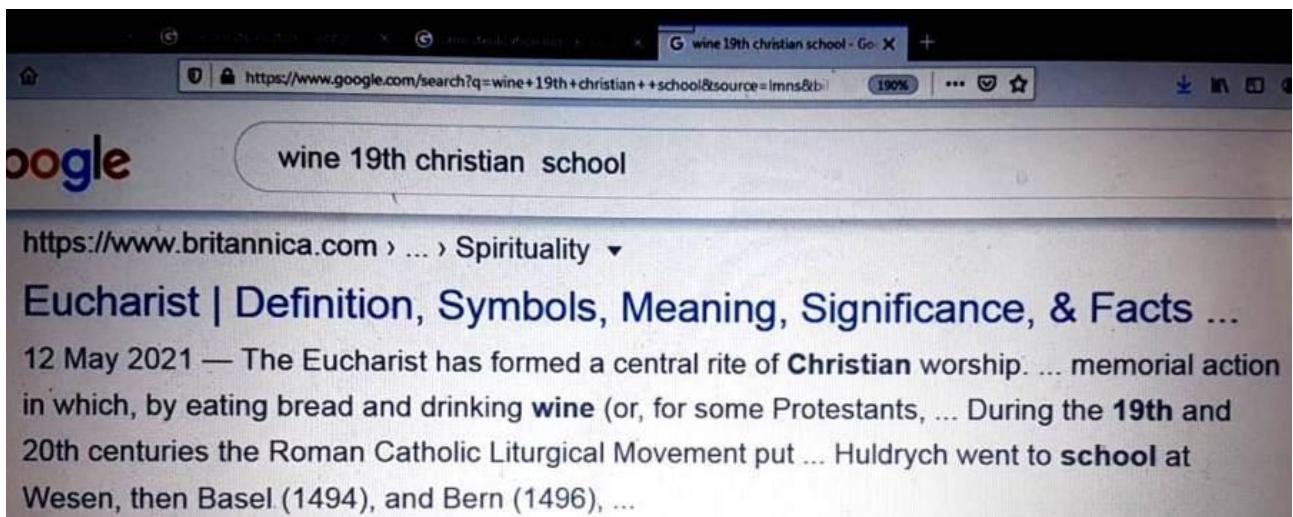

Mysteriously, the drinking of Alcohol became widespread among the Sami people and it was destroying their unified families and their people. A similar thing was taking place all over Europe and America in the 19th century. Drinking was becoming very common. Businessmen and industrialists took advantage of this situation and the alcohol industry began to grow. Growth meant more money for the businessmen.

How did this happen?

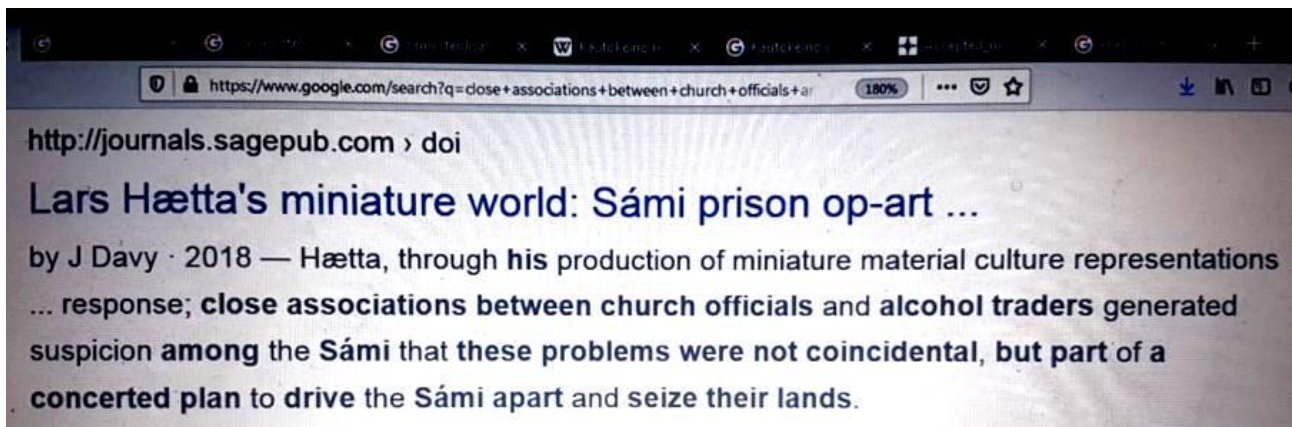

Was it accidental or was it planned?

What was the eating and drinking system of the Church?

Teaching the children to drink alcohol was a common feature in many of these Christian schools around the world. It was called the Eucharist

(Eucharist: - This is my body and this is my blood - eating bread and drinking wine - representing the body and blood of Christ)

The Sami people were not stupid and realised that what was happening to them was part of an organised plan. Their children were taken away by force. Their children were stolen. The Sami realised that there was a union between the Church and the businessmen in the alcohol industry and Norwegian state. They knew that what was taking place was not accidental. They knew it was all a plan

The Church, the Alcohol business and the state, were all together, one team. They were different players of the same team. The state controlled the Church and the state ran the alcohol industry. In different nation states, the state managed the Church and alcohol in different ways. In some nation states, they gave permits and licenses and in other nation states they directly controlled the industry

Historians report this history according to the way of their masters. The Sami were called pagans, they were called mental people, and they were called insane. But the Sami people of that time knew the truth what was going on. It drinking culture was organised and planned

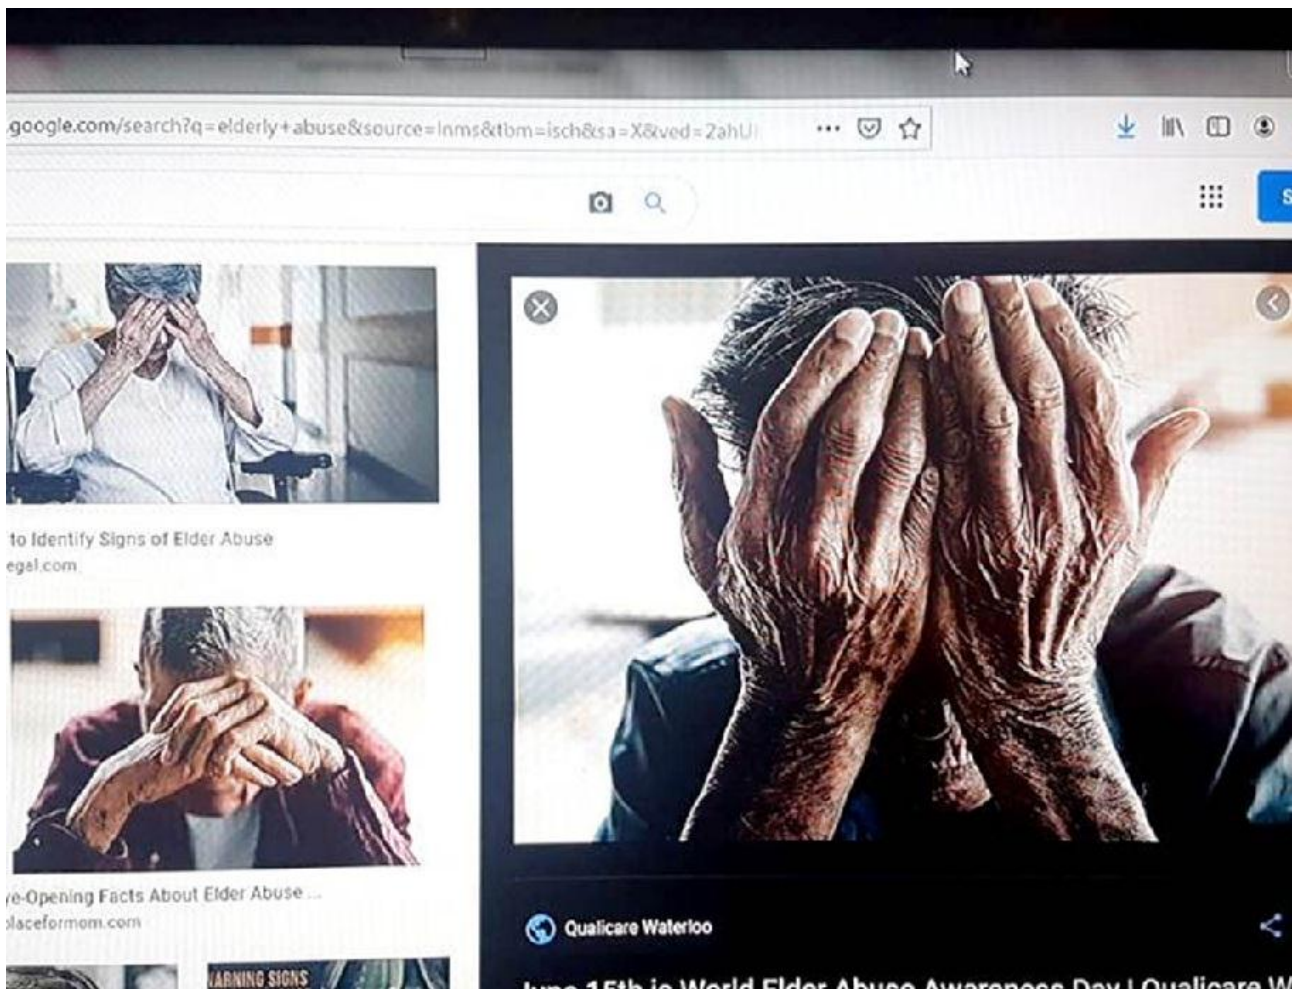

The people of Europe and America have been given a new history. They are told that their ancestors were heavy drinkers - pissheads. They are told that it is part of culture and history

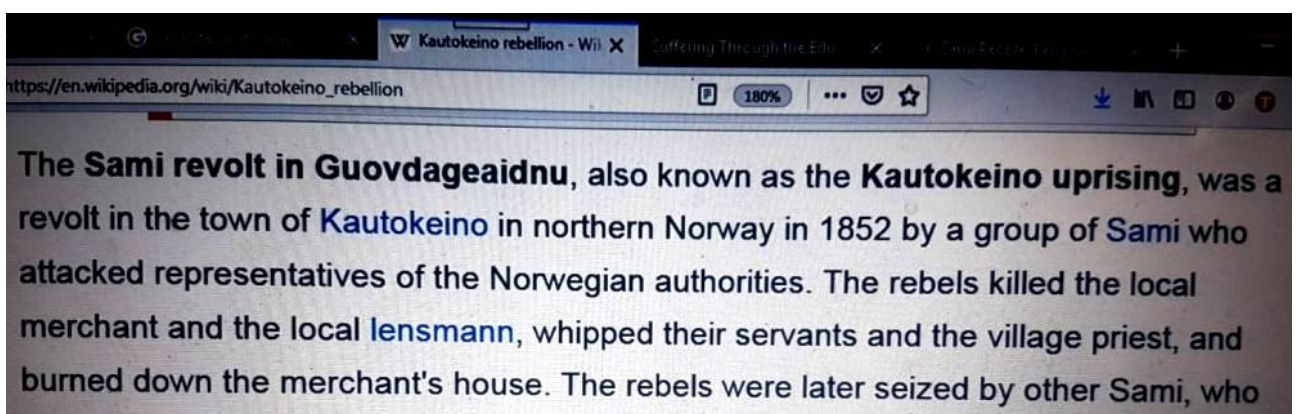

The people today believe the history that they are told and think that it is tradition and culture. Today the people themselves, now organise drinking and beer festivals

Europeans and Americans today have become drinking nations. People are having a great time. Sex and drugs and rock and roll and abortions, and of course violence is very common. The purpose of life to many people is to have a good time. There is huge divorce and a big sexual culture.

Many relationships are full of lies and cheating. The culture of marriage is dying. Many people can see that this was no accident and that it was planned by the ruling powers: - To see the death of marriages and the death of the family system. That story is too long to mention here

After the people have had a great time, they grow old.
Millions of them are abandoned. Nobody wants them.
What did they do when they were younger?

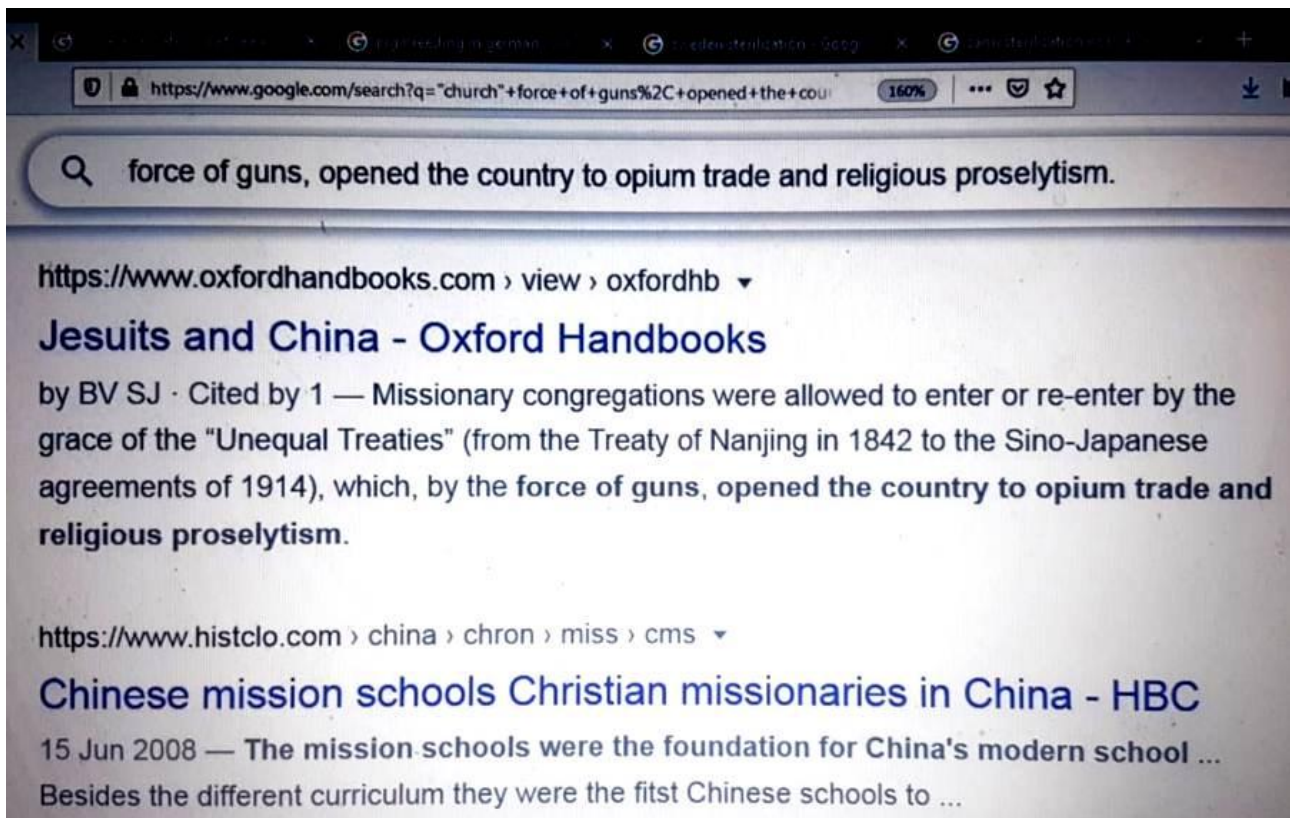

The Sami people did try to fight back many times. No one on earth will accept if an invader comes to them and demands money and takes their children away to teach them a new language and new history and new culture. But they had no chance against the superior forces of the Church and the state of Norway.

One incident is called the Kautokeino rebellion in 1852 by historians. The Sami were called rebels. The Sami were fighting for the right to live in their land and the right to speak their own language and they were fighting for their children. These people are rebels.

Many Sami were bribed and paid money to join the forces of the Church and the Norwegian state. Other Sami people grew up in the Church schools, and were now modern Christians

The same thing was happening to children all over Europe and America. The children became modern Christians

The Church and their allies went to every corner of the world. They tried the same policy everywhere. Of course, in some places they failed or they changed their plans.

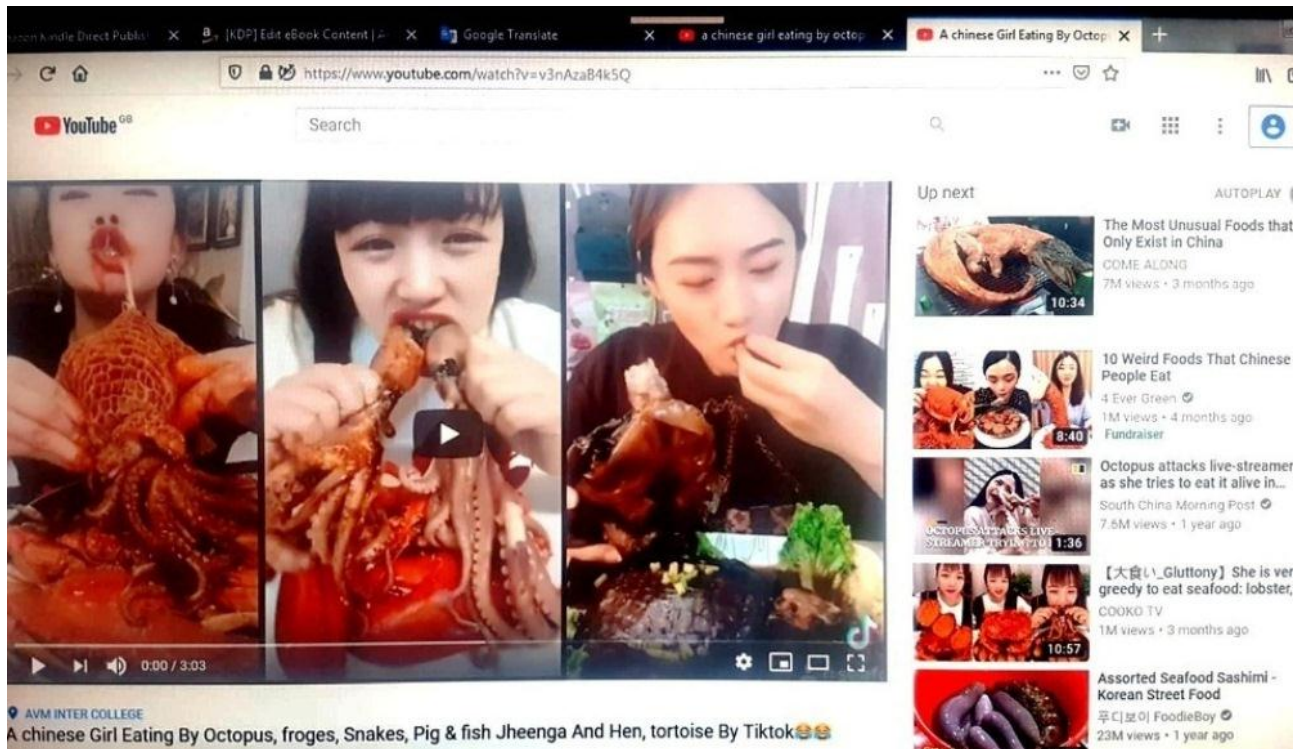

For example, they failed very badly in Central Asia and the Middle East. A major reason for this failure was the climate of the region. They also failed in the Balkans mountain areas and in the Caucasus. In China, they started the policy of Church schools, but then changed plans when their objective had been achieved. When the Church was no longer needed to control the people, new tools were used such as communism and democracy, but that story is too long to mention here

China in the 19th century, was the land of the Tartar Qing Dynasty and its capital was known as Tartar City - which is today known as Beijing

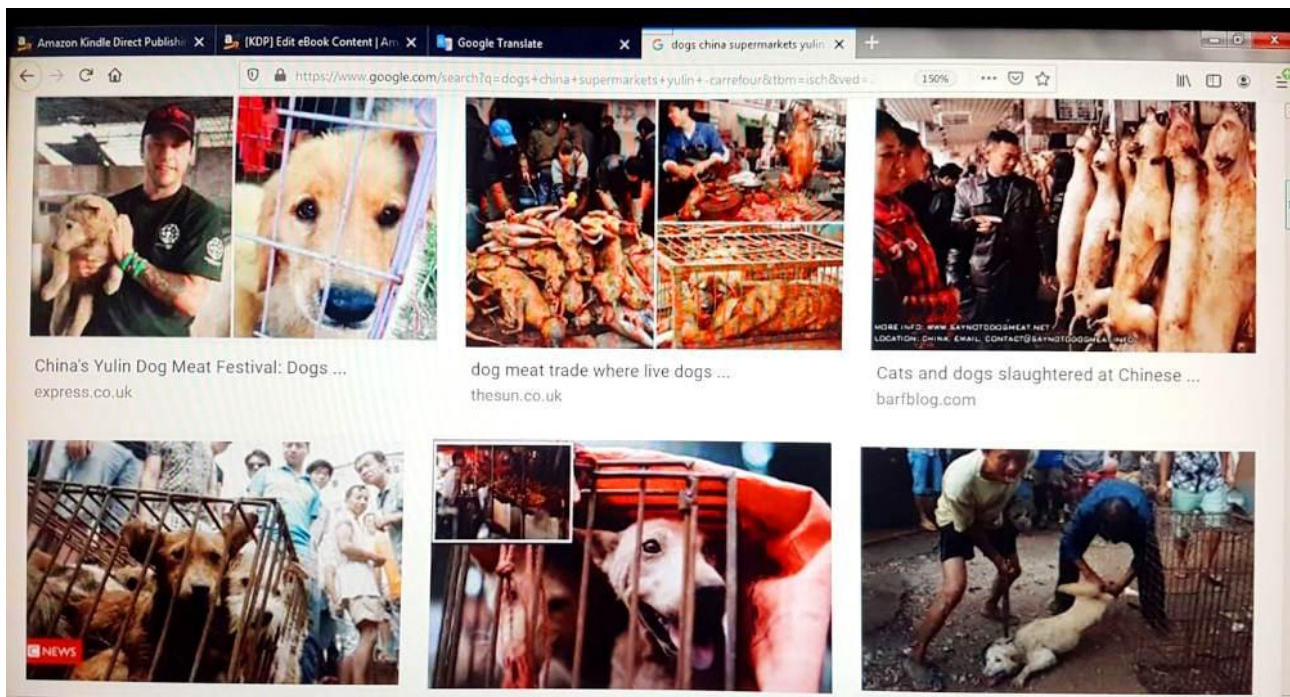

The Church at the time had many military allies around the world such as Colonial Britain and the East India Company which was operating worldwide. Colonial Britain and the East India Company invaded China during the First Opium War, and they forced the Tartar Qing Dynasty, to accept the selling and distribution of drugs and of course: - access for the Church. This led to the selling of drugs in China such as opium and the Church opened many schools.

What happened in China and East Asia at the time was a great disaster. Many reports show that the drugs had a direct influence in society and destroyed the people and increased poverty.

Many reports indicate that because of the destruction of society in China and East Asia, the family system and food production system broke down and people were forced to eat anything they could find, such as strange animals and strange insects

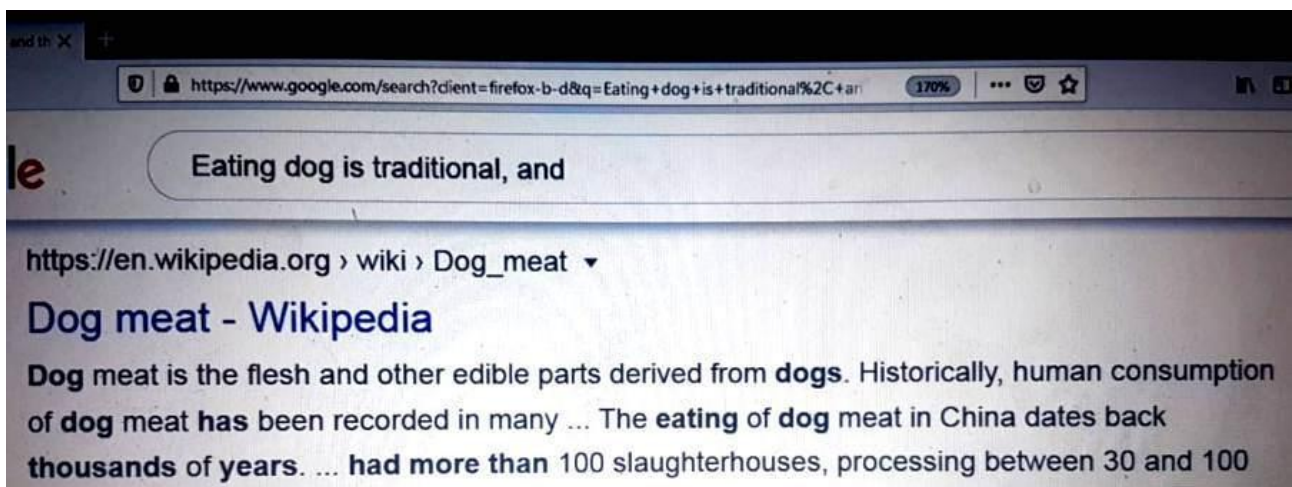

Many people in China and East Asia started eating dogs and cats and rats and monkeys for survival. There was nothing else they could do

Evidence shows that this was not ancient eating culture. People did not do this out of choice, but for survival. The selling and distribution of drugs caused poverty, and this forced people to become like this

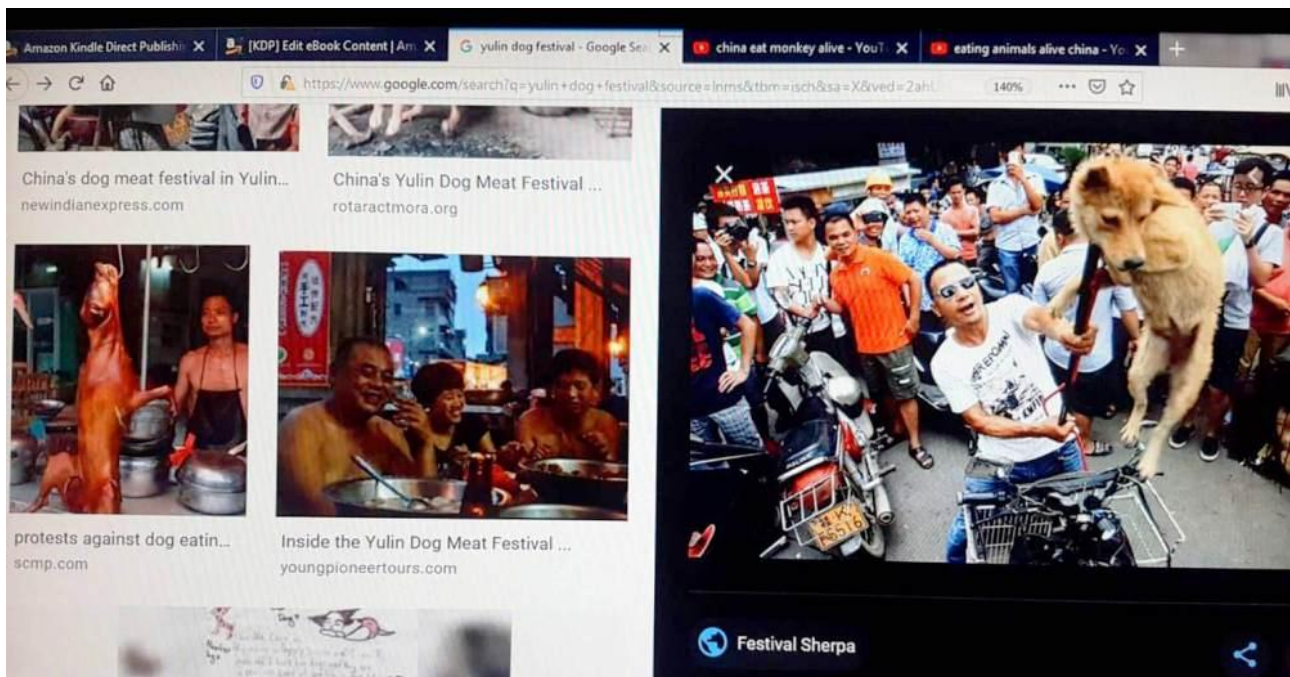

A few decades later, Tartar City (today known as Beijing), was invaded in 1900 by the allies of the Church and the city was destroyed. The allied troops came from all over the world. Such as: - British troops, Japanese troops, and French troops, and Indian troops, and the Americans, the Chinese and the Russians.

This led to the collapse of the Tartar Qing Dynasty and the birth of a new nation state called China, which continued the system that was placed by the Church and its colonial allies, but with new management style. The story of what happened in China is too long to mention here

The people of China and Asia have been given a new history. They are told that their ancestors were dog eaters. Many historians say that it is part of culture and history

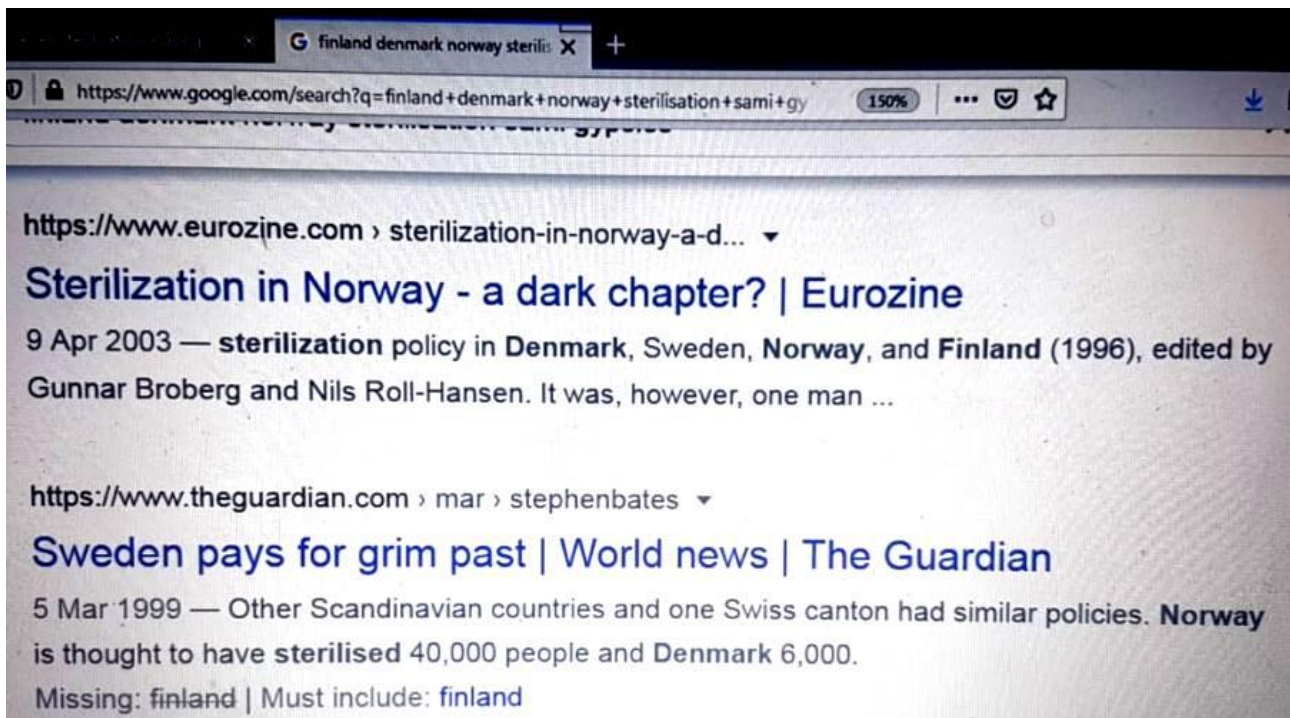

The people today believe the history that they are told and think that it is tradition and culture. The people themselves, they now organise dog eating festivals

Drugs and Alcohol and the Church and businessmen and nation states, - were all part of the tools that were used by the new global powers, - in order to take over the old world, and control the people who were living in the countryside. The rise of alcohol, wine and beer drinking in European and American society was no accident, the evidence shows that it was organised and planned.

Such drinking habits are not seen in societies that the Church and its allies failed to defeat, such as the Middle East. War has been mysteriously taking place in that region for many decades. It was clear that what had happened in Europe and America was now taking place in the Middle East. It was a battle to bring that region and its people under the system and control of the global powers

In the 20th century, thousands of Sami people and other native people, such as the gypsies were sterilized. This meant that they cannot have children.

Thousands of women were sterilised under the false excuse of racial purification. The Sami and other people were seen as animals and were seen as dirty people

When you stop people from having children, you destroy future generations being born. You are killing their babies even before they are born

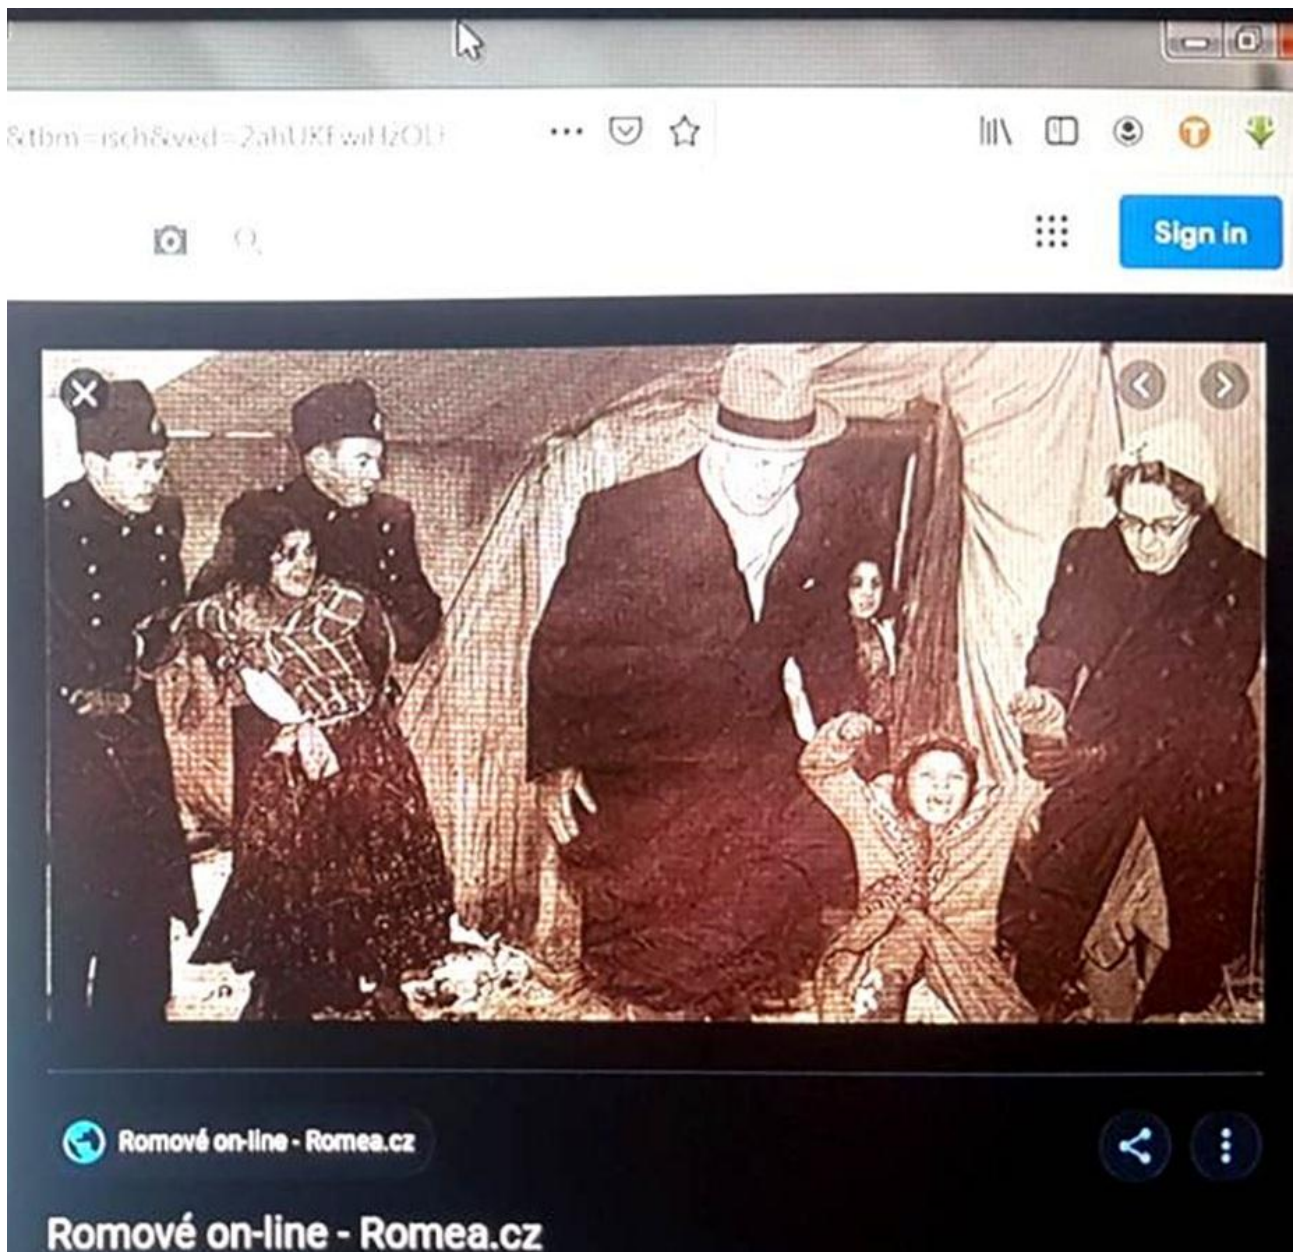

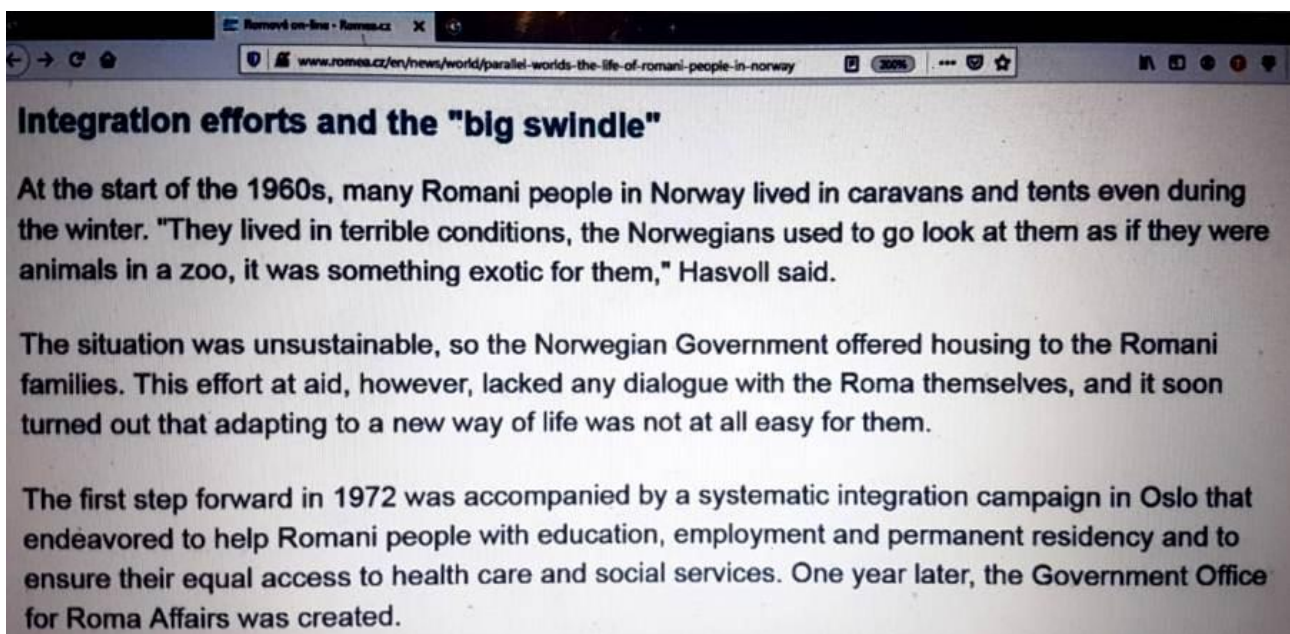

Photo above - state officials in Norway taking Romani children away from their family

Other native people in Norway and Sweden had their children taken by force many times throughout the 19th and 20th century. Their lands were taken and their homes destroyed. After the people were abused, they became poor and helpless. The people where destroyed by the nation states and then the nations states became the masters.

Today we are shown photos to say that the native people were poor and backwards. We are told that the nation states and Churches helped the people. We are told that the nation states took their children, in order to help them

Many native people in Norway such as the Romani remained in the countryside in the 20th century. The nation state did not control these people, so the state went to help them. Help them?

After the nation states destroyed their language and their history and killed their families and destroyed their society and system for the last 300 years: - they are now saying that they are helping the remaining people by giving them housing and education and jobs. They were teaching the people the new world history and new culture. The same process can be seen all over the world. This is called - helping the poor village people

Today there is not many Sami people left. Now that there is hardly anyone left, and since the Sami people have been defeated and destroyed, - the state of Norway and the Church has said sorry. Similar apologies have been made by other nation states

What had happened to the Sami people was very clear to researchers. Imagine the Church coming to your street and taking every child from every house, - and hurting and killing anyone who defended their families. The Church mysteriously knew the Sami language and taught this language to the Sami people. The Sami people who became members of the Church or became Norwegian, wrote the history of the Sami people, and this history says that the Sami people were pagans and were superstitious.

Researchers found much evidence to show that this history was nothing but a lie. Researchers began an investigation into the history of Northern Europe.

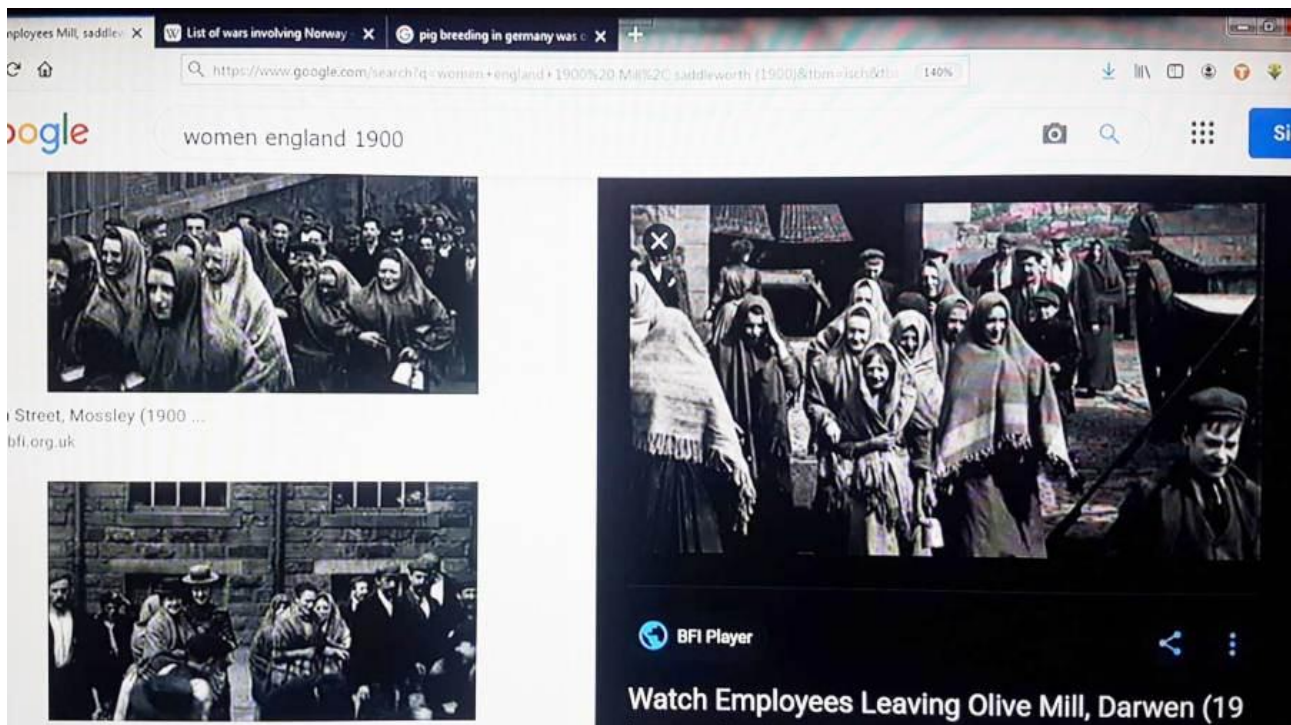

Why did someone wish to destroy the society and system of Europe and America? Why?

The industrialists and businessmen needed children to work as slaves. But why teach the children new languages and new history? Why did they delete and hide the history of the old world? Why? Is there something that the world powers were afraid of?

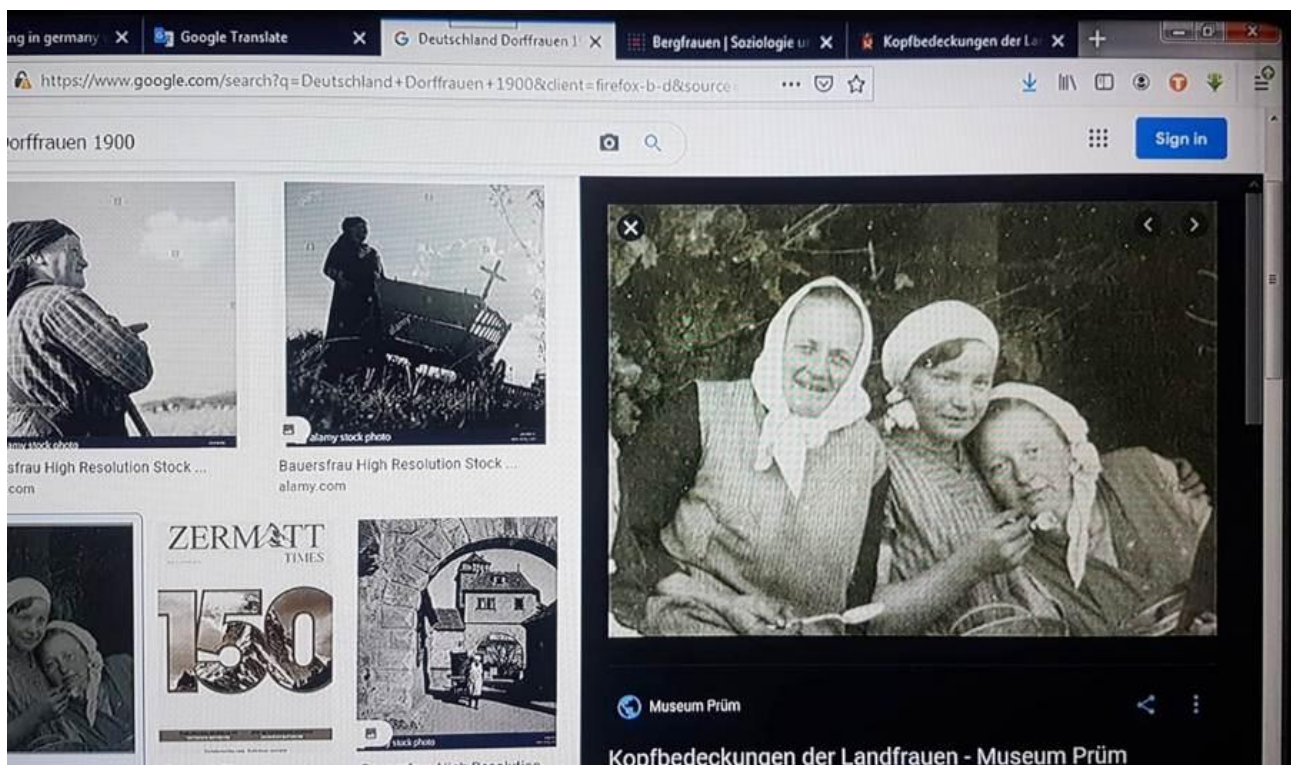

Who were the village people of Europe and America before 1800? What was their way of life? What was their language? What was their history? What was their culture? 90 percent of the people were in the villages. Why did they live in the countryside? Did they always live there? Or did something happen to their cities, which forced them to run to the countryside?

These people in the countryside are the majority. The majority of the people have the history. These people have the true history of Europe and America

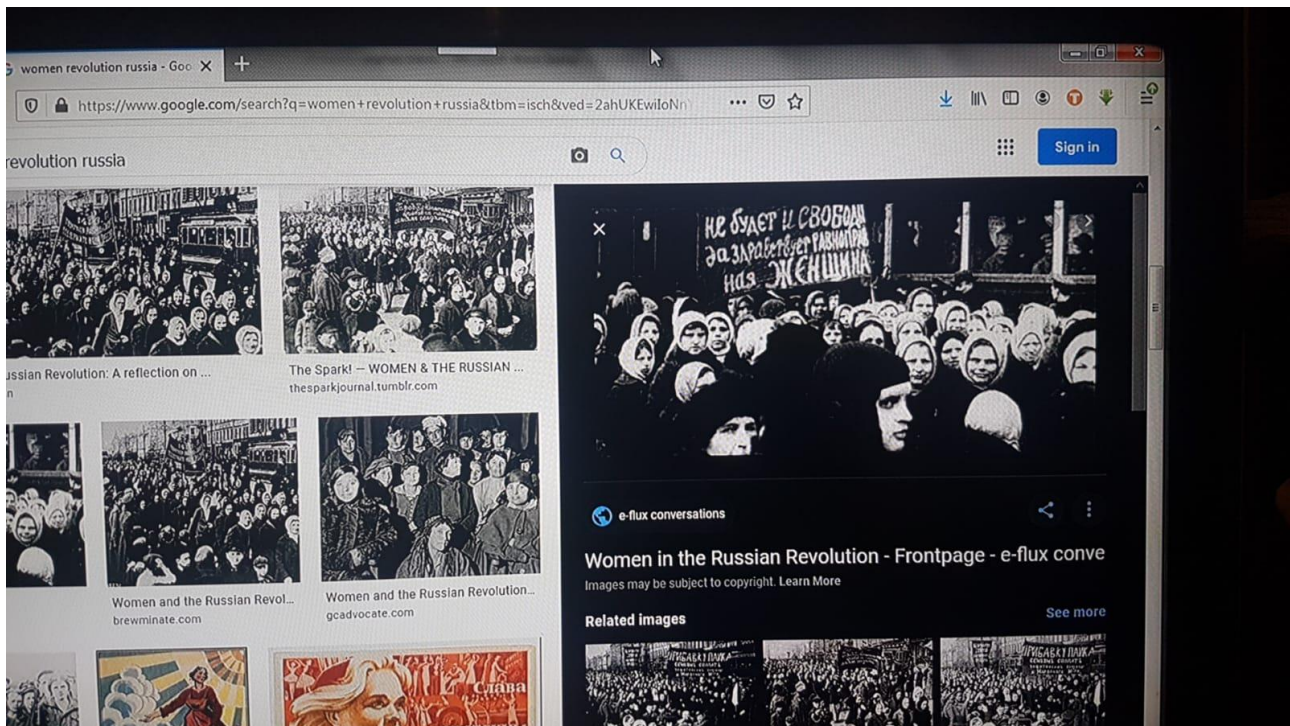

Who were these people?

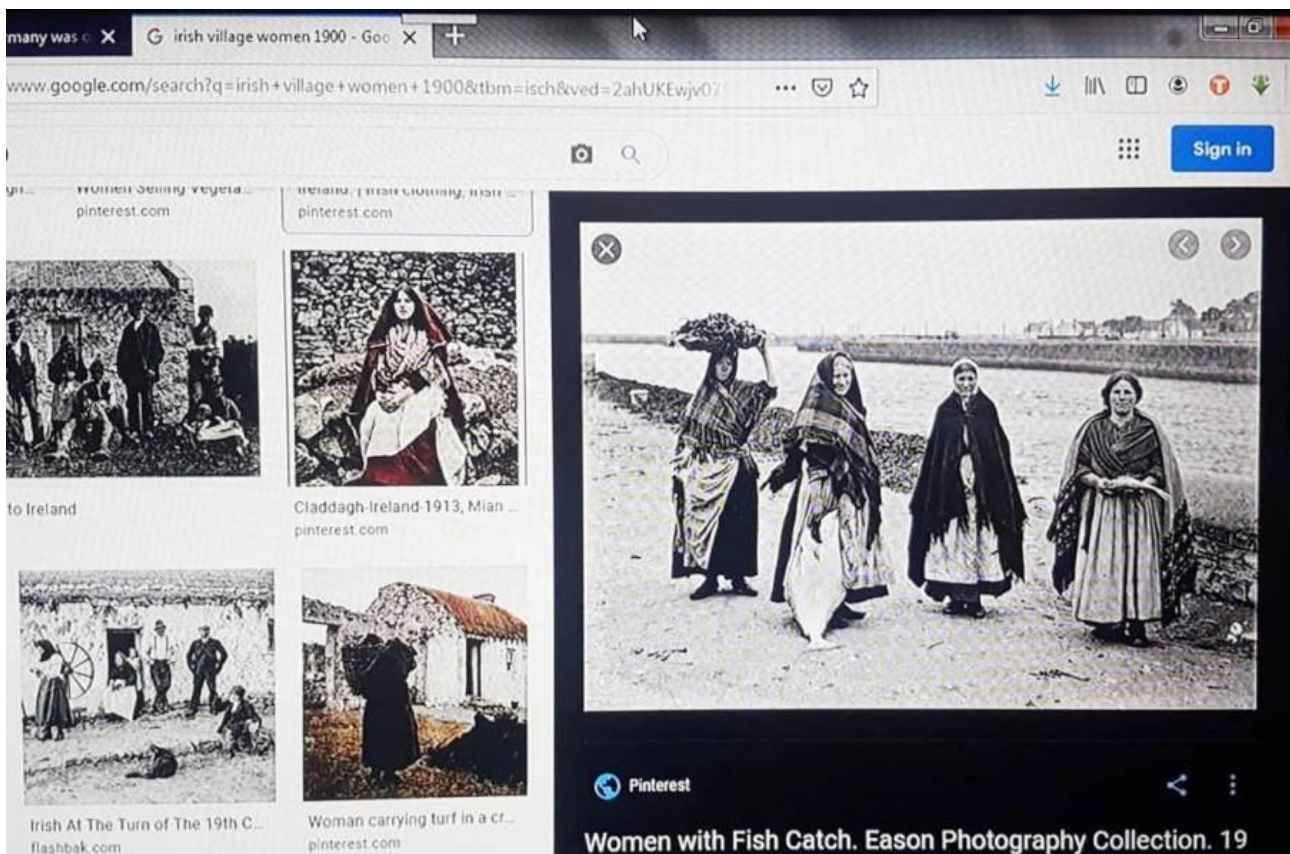

Average people in England before 1900

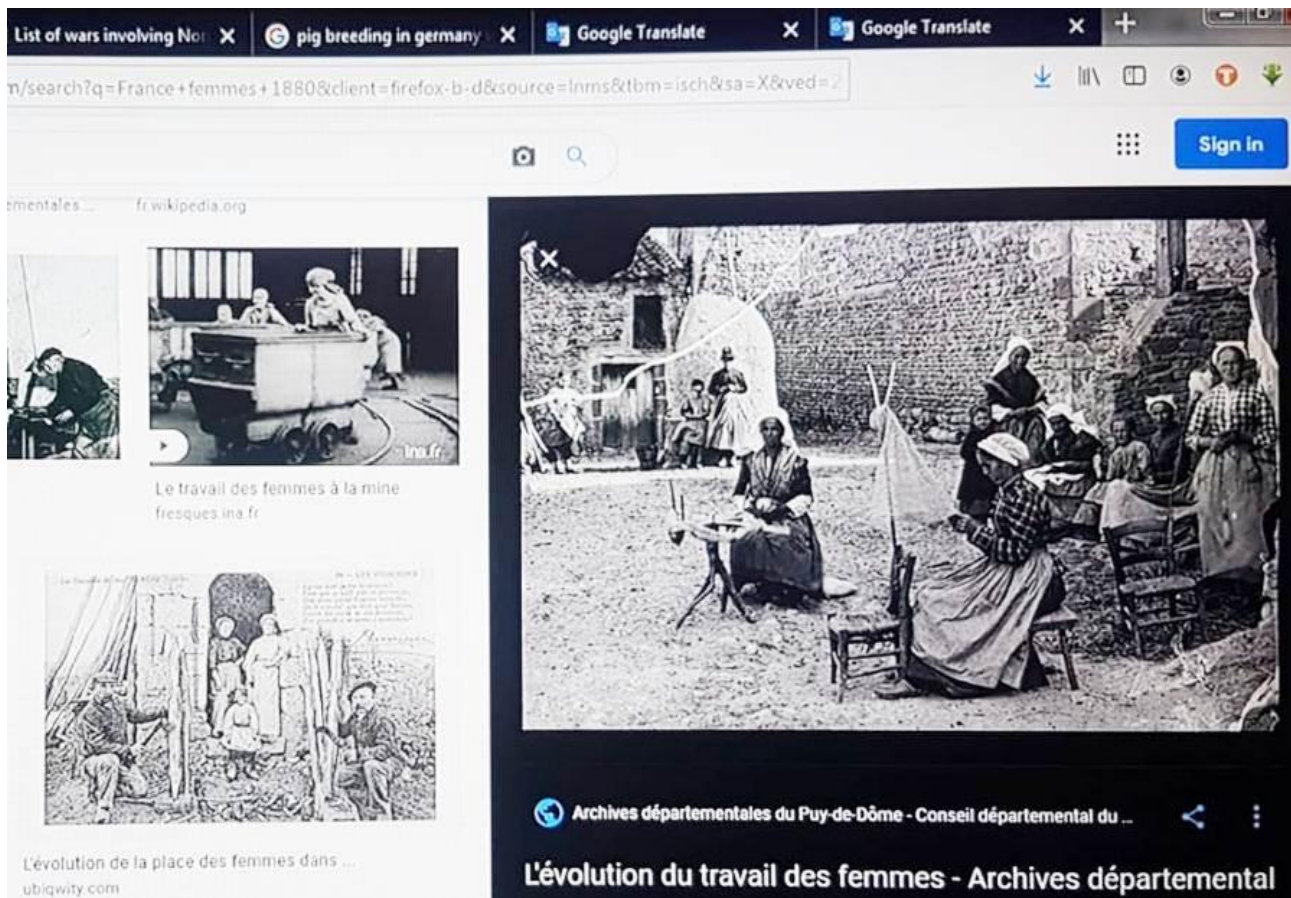

Average German village women before 1900

Women in Russia during the Russian Revolution

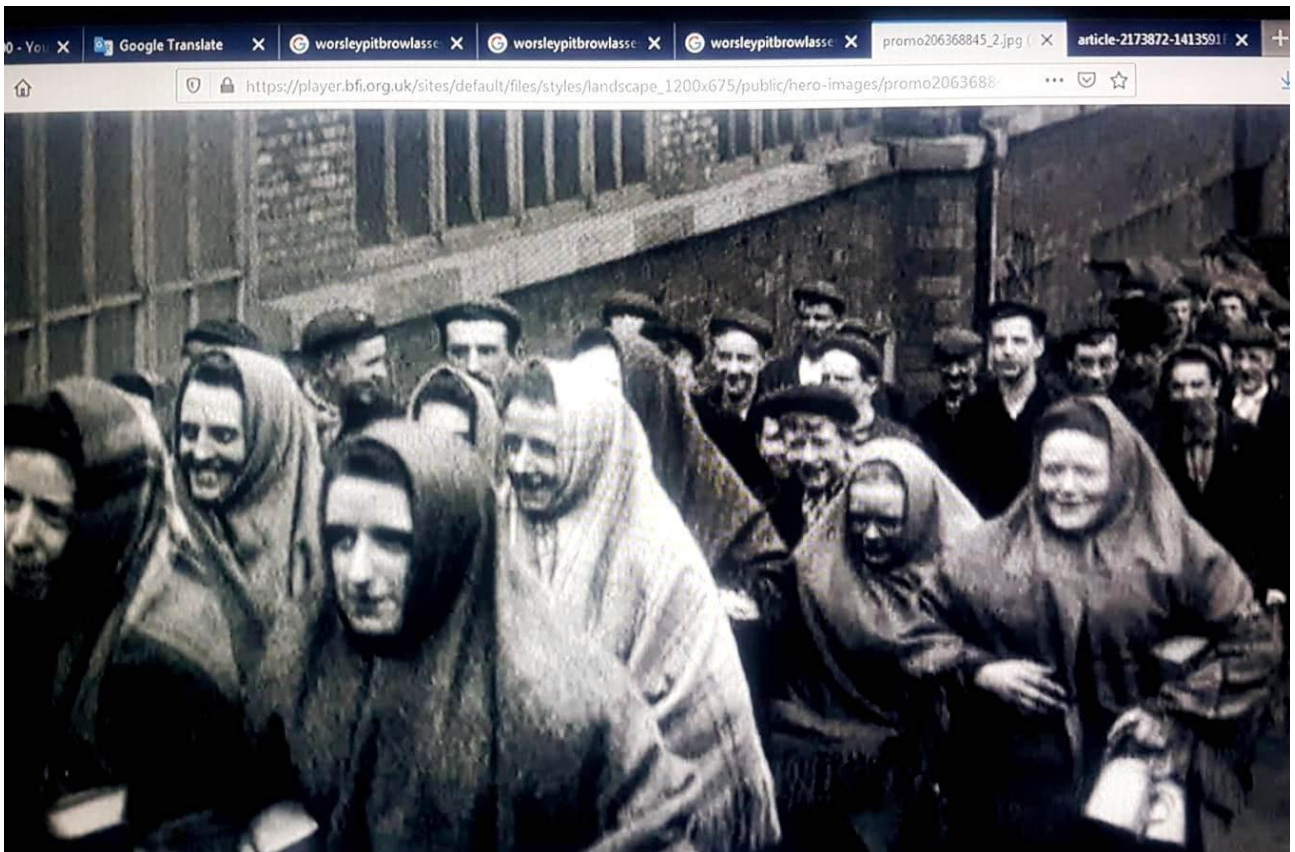

Average women in Ireland - before 1910

Average women in France before 1900

This is an example of what the majority of the people of Europe looked like before 1900

It was clear that the countryside was destroyed to bring the people under the control of the new nation states. It was clear that wars were created for the purpose of bringing the people of the countryside into urban areas and also to resettle them in new village areas controlled by the new nation states

Looking at such pictures, many researchers became confused. Such photos are not widely shown in schools or universities today.

The majority of women in Europe and America dressed like this at the time, but not many people know about it.

It seemed like historians were trying their best to hide this European and American culture and heritage and fashion of the past. Researchers began to investigate why women were dressed like this and how did this fashion end and why do very few people know about it?

The first thing that researchers noticed was that these women looked similar to Muslim women today.

Photo above - Muslim women today

Who were these people of Europe?

Why did they seem to look like Muslims? This was a serious question. Why were there so many wars in Europe that destroyed the countryside and why were so many children removed from their families? Why did these women look like Muslims? Why are there so many wars today in regions of the world that are called Muslim regions?

Why do Muslim women look very similar to the women of Europe whose children were taken away?

Who were the Sami people that lived in Sweden and Norway and Finland and north western Russia?

Where they really pagans in the past?

Anatoly Fomenko from Moscow State University has provided much information regarding the history of northern Europe

According to historians, northern Europe had a grand prince who was called Prince Alexander Nevsky. Alexander Nevsky was the Prince of Novgorod, Russia and the Grand Prince of Kiev, Ukraine and the Grand Prince of Vladimir. Alexander Nevsky had a war against the Swedish and Norwegian and Finnish armies in the 13th century and defeated them.

Alexander Nevsky is seen by millions of Slavic people around the world as a great hero and saint and warrior of God. He was very important in the past and many people still remember him today. Some people in Eastern Europe do not like him based on what they are told by politicians and historians

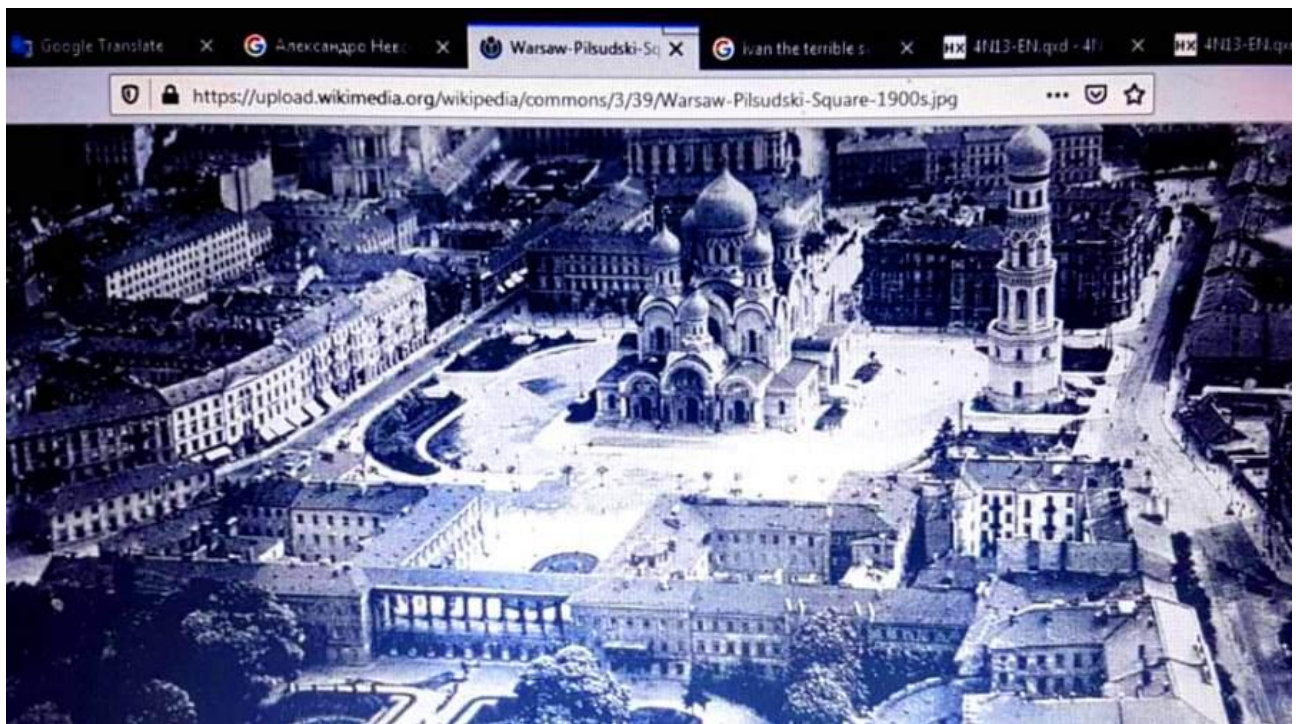

Photo above shows Alexander Nevsky Cathedral (Sobor) in Warsaw, Poland. This building was mysteriously demolished in the 1920's. The history of this building and the destruction of many buildings in Warsaw, - was very suspicious to many researchers

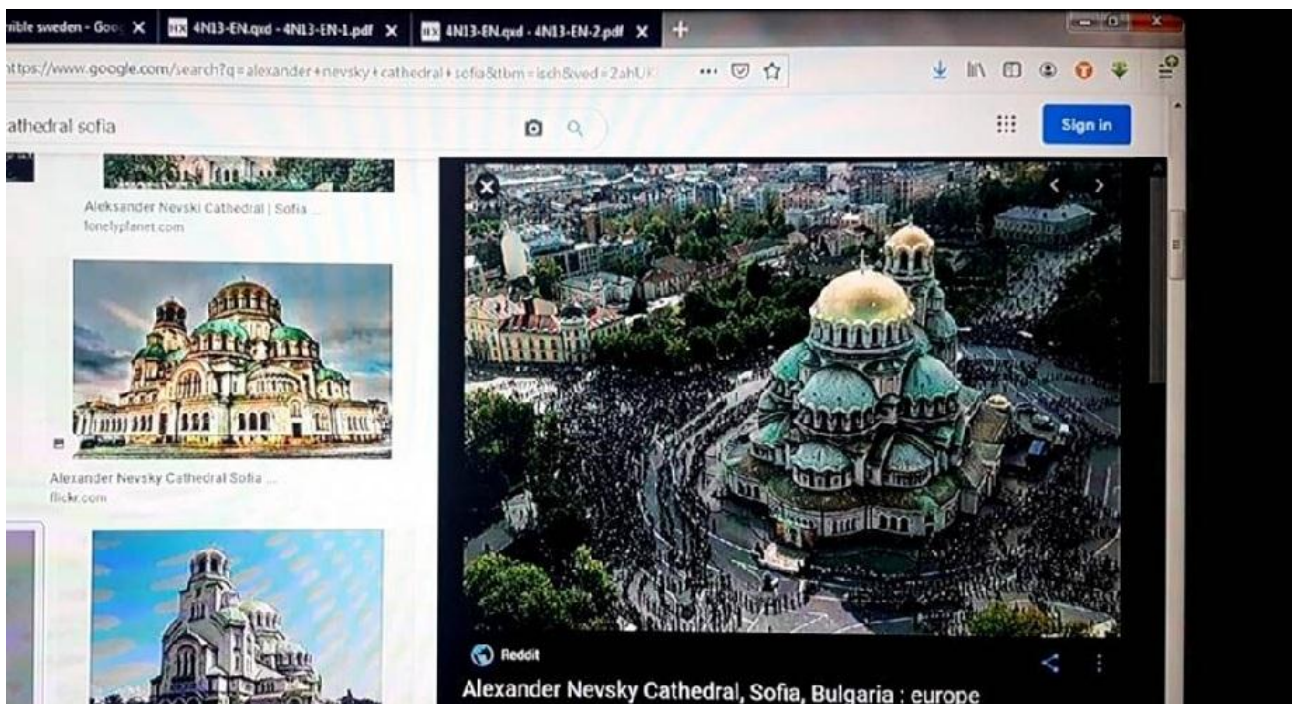

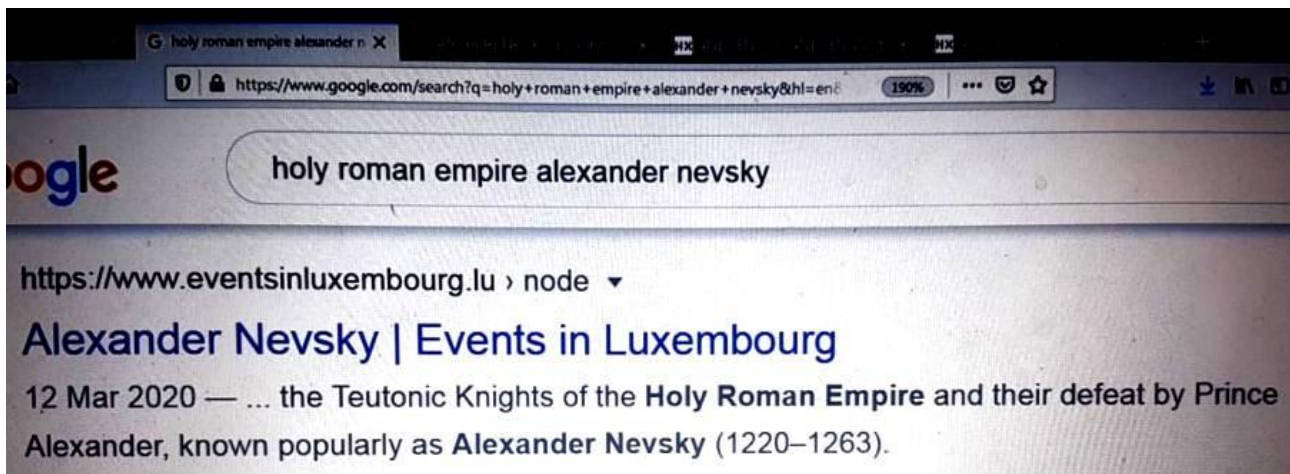

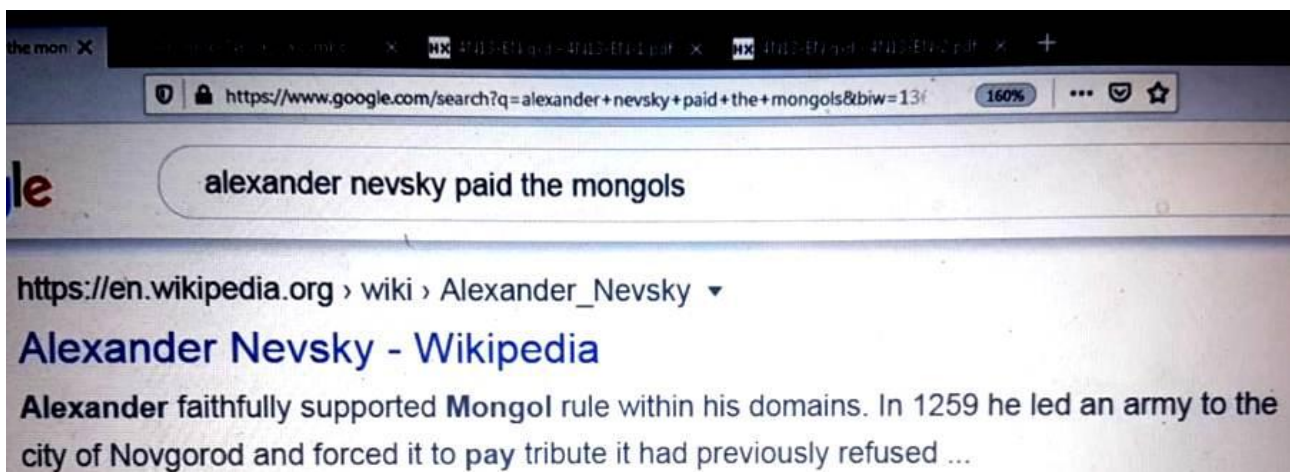

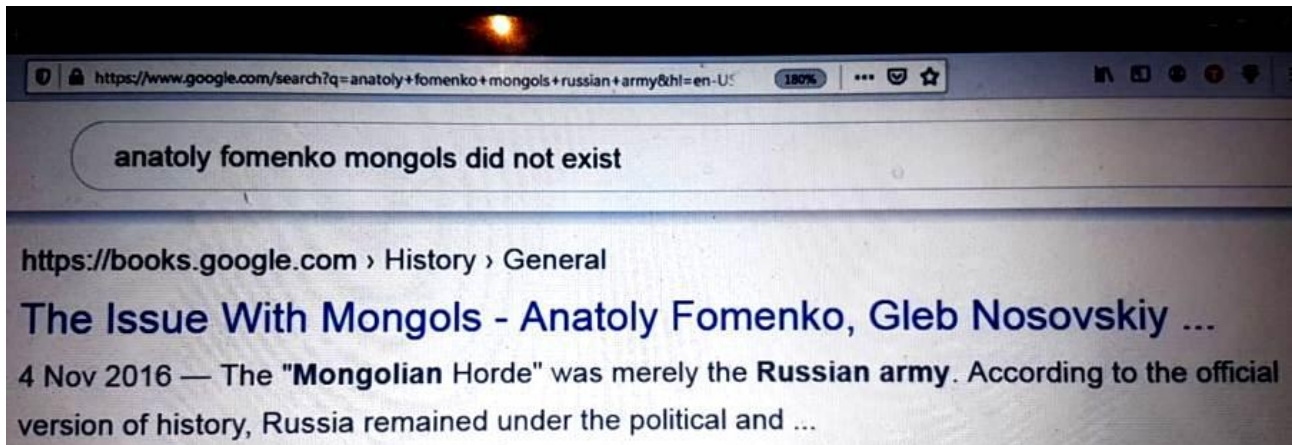

Photo above - Alexander Nevsky Cathedral (Sveti), Sofia, Bulgaria

Historians say that Alexander Nevsky was a great military leader and that he defeated the German Teutonic Knights from the Holy Roman Empire

Historians say that Alexander Nevsky was a great Christian warrior and that he defeated Norway and Sweden and Finland and the Holy Roman Empire, but mysteriously he could not fight the Mongols from Asia and paid them money. Researchers found this history very suspicious

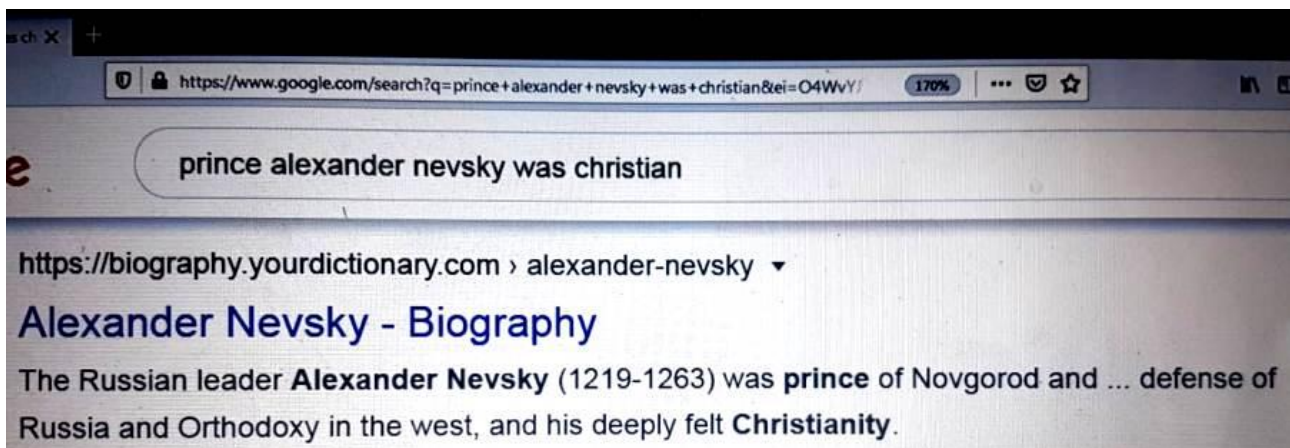

Anatoly Fomenko explains that historians had created a fake story called the Mongolian invasion of Europe by the descendants of Genghis Khan, to hide the true history of Europe. Historians say that these Mongols invaded Europe, Africa, the Middle East, Persia, India, China, South East Asia, and that these Mongols ruled many parts of the world

Researchers say that this history is a lie, and that this empire was not the empire of the Mongols, but the Empire of Tartaria. Evidence clearly shows that Tartaria actually was the dominant power that ruled most of the world before the Renaissance. Some people call this Empire, the Slavic Empire, others call it the Russian Horde, and others call it the Caliphate, or the Biblical Kingdom of Israel or the Kingdom of Jesus Christ. Different people call this empire with different names.

Anatoly Fomenko and other researchers have shown much evidence that Arabic was widely spoken in this empire that ruled most of the world at the time

Historians say that Alexander Nevsky was a great Christian prince

The first problem that researchers found regarding Alexander Nevsky was this: - was he a Christian prince the way that historians describe?

Yapa Hecker X Google Translate X Google Translate X Google Translate

os://translate.google.com/translate?sl=ru&tl=en&u=https://islam-today.ru/islam_v_mire/slem...

To: English

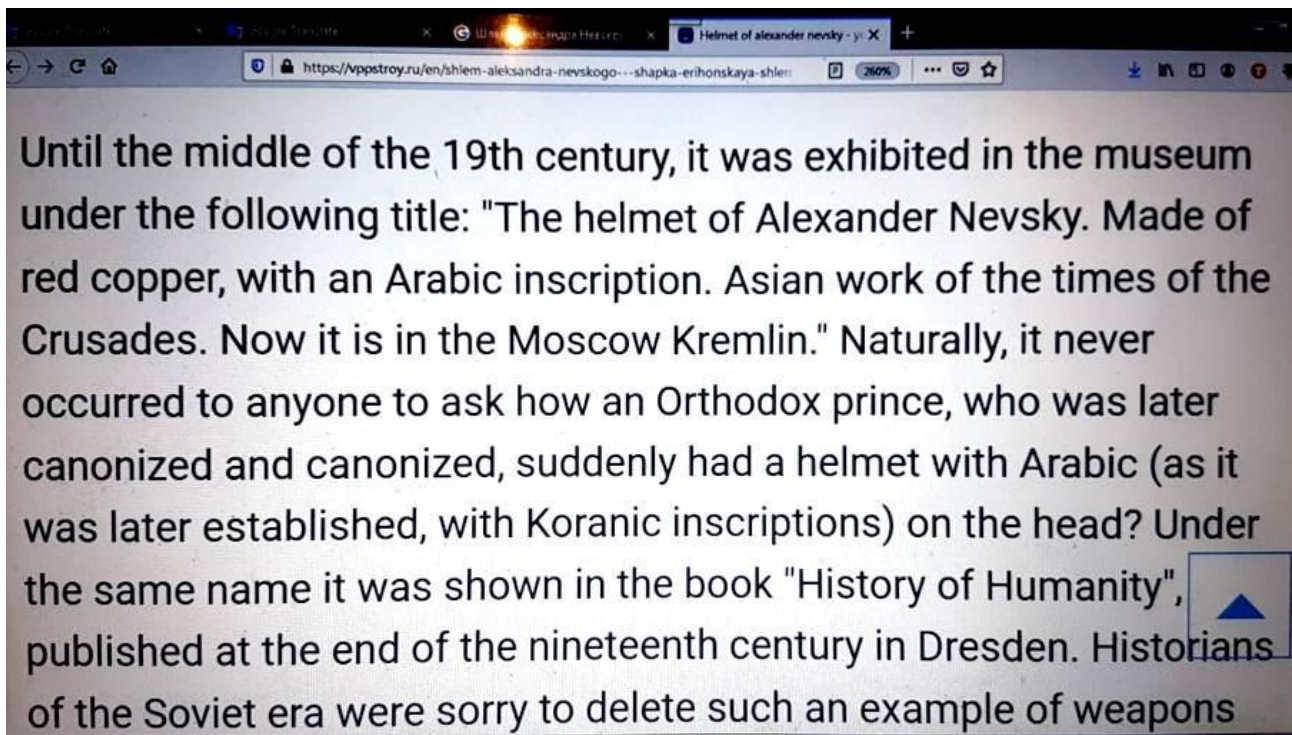

Historians have long been tormented by the question of where the Koranic inscriptions come from on the helmet of Alexander Nevsky. "Rejoice the faithful with the promise of help from Allah and quick victory," read the sacred lines engraved in gold.

The helmet that Alexander Nevsky had became a canon symbol and even adorned the coat of arms of the Russian Empire. It is forged in such a way that arrows cannot pierce it, but only slide over it - due to its oval shape.

After Alexander Nevsky it was worn by Tsar Mikhail Romanov . Also, Ivan the Terrible and Prince Fyodor Mstislavsky had helmets with Arabic script . An amateur reenactor

Helmets and armoury have been found in Eastern Europe which shows that Alexander Nevsky and Prince Fyodor Mstislavsky, the Chairman of the Zemsky Sobor, Tsar Mikhail Romanov and Tsar Ivan Grozny and others, wore helmets with Arabic writing. The writings were not ordinary writings, but had words from the Arabic Koran

The helmets of the kings of Russia and their princes had Arabic writing?

Writing from the Arabic Koran?

Many researchers around the world asked these questions: - What is going on?

Was official history a lie?

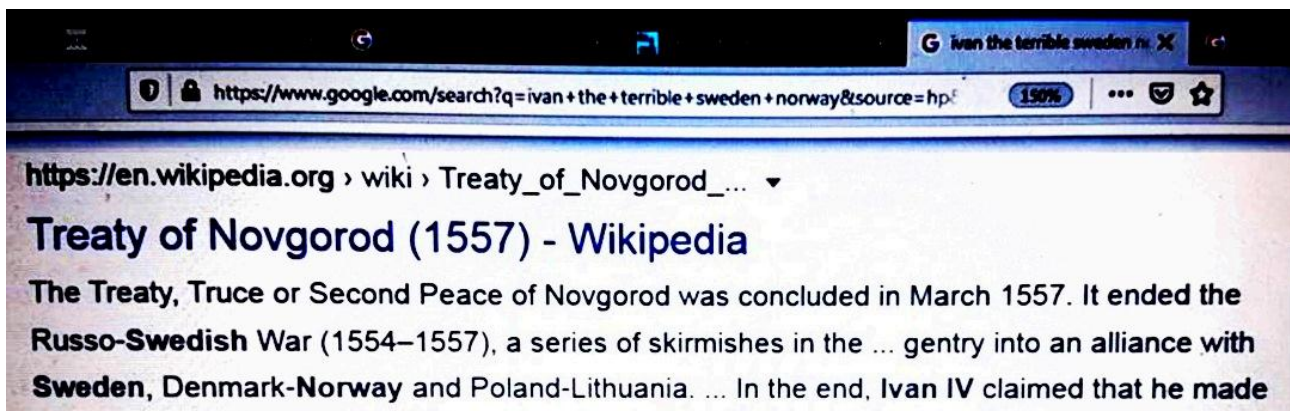

The evidence did not match what historians said

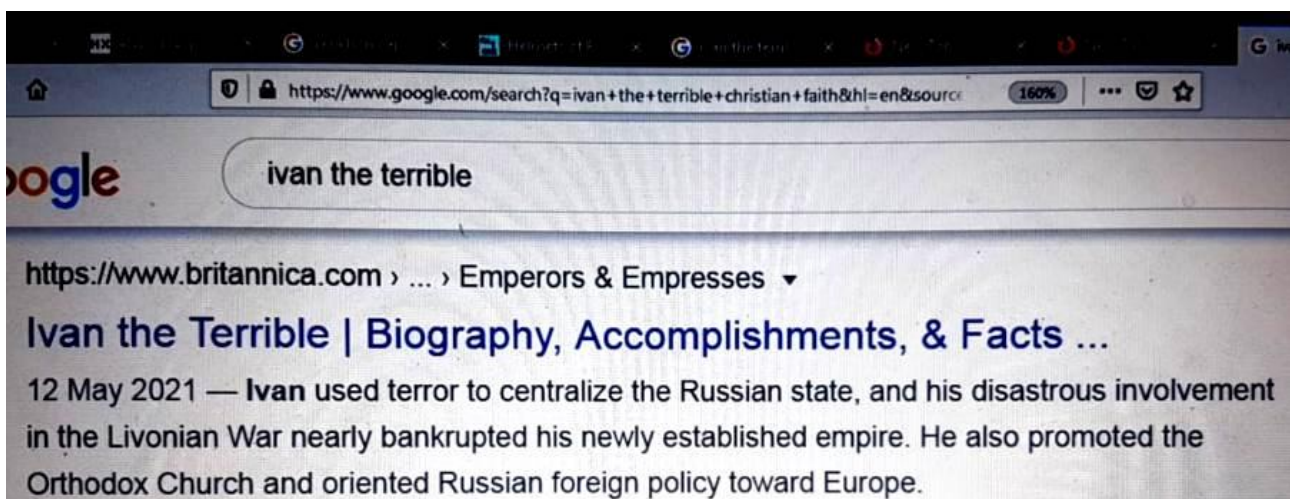

Photo above - a helmet from the Kremlin Armoury, related to Alexander Nevsky and Tsar Mikhail Romanov

Anatoly Fomenko pointed out that it has Arabic writing on it. The writing is from the Arabic Koran and says: -

And yet another (blessing) that you love - help from God and a victory near at hand - give good news to the believers

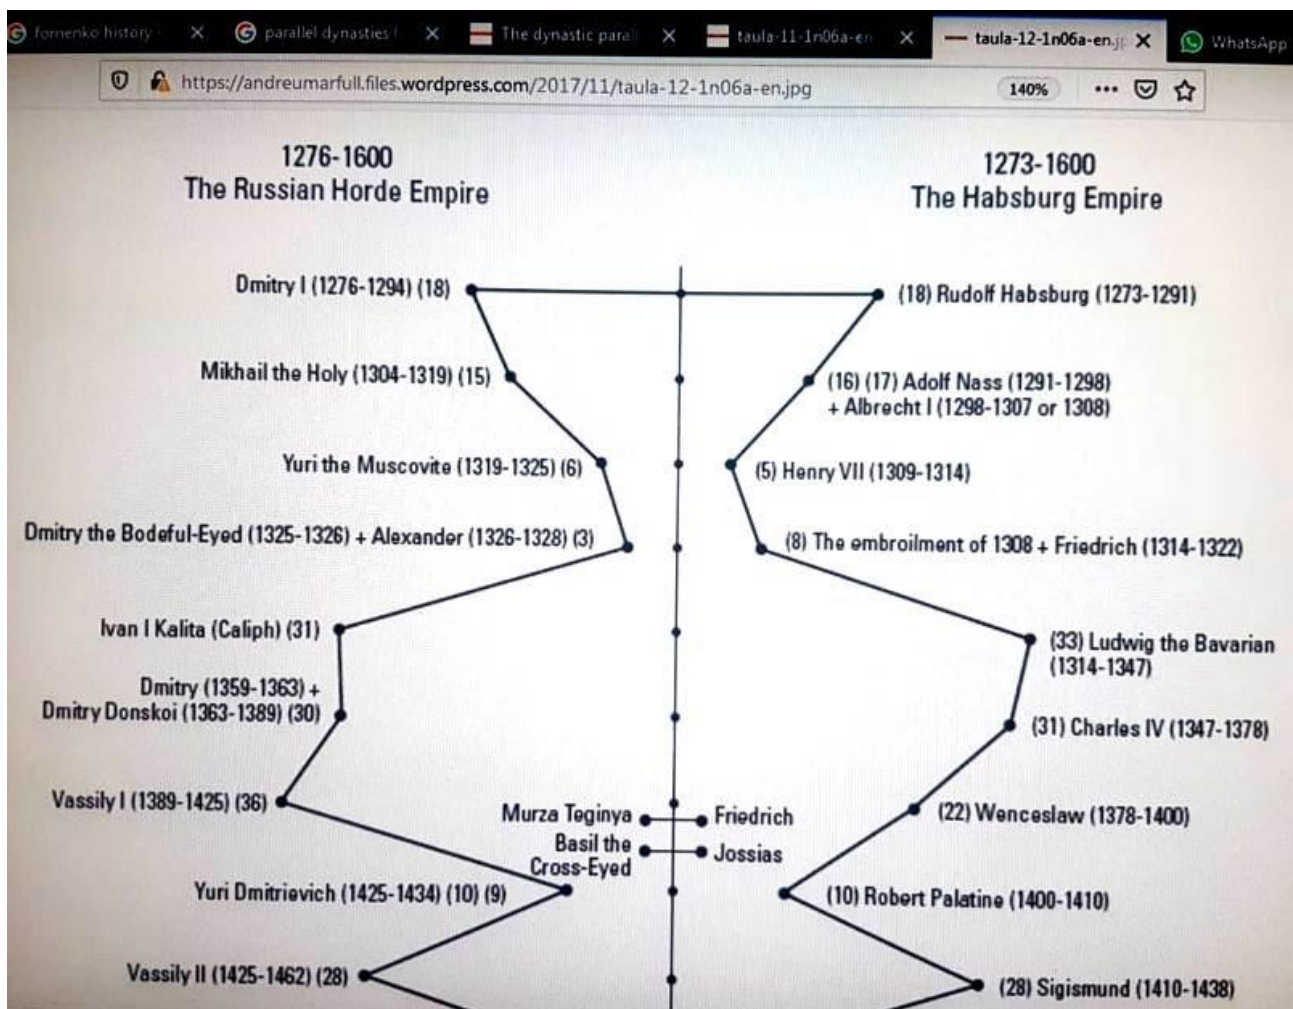

Historians say that Russia had another war in the 16th century with Sweden and conflicts with central European neighbours at the time

Historians say that Russia was ruled by a king called Ivan Grozny at the time known as Ivan the Terrible and they say that he was a Christian king

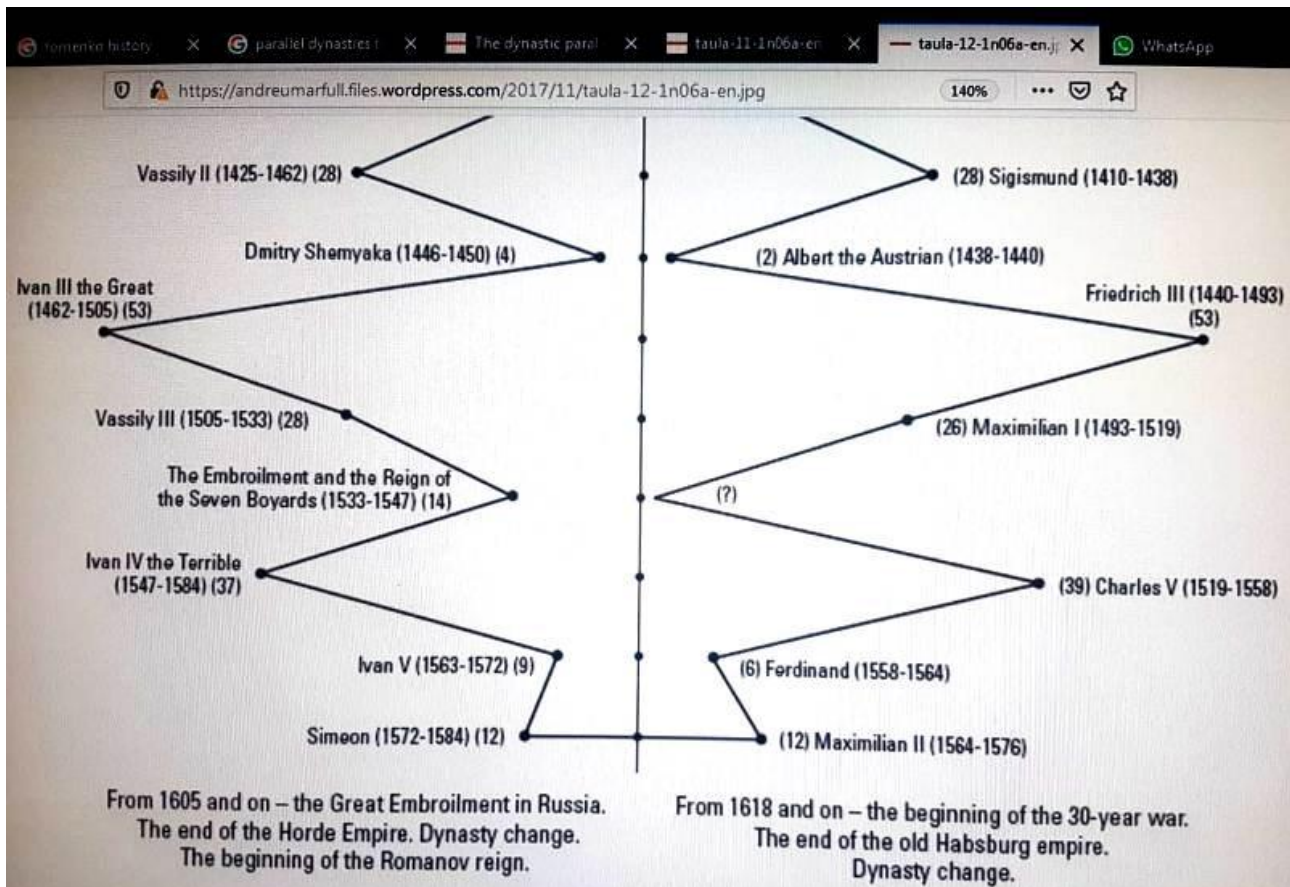

Researchers such as Anatoly Fomenko have presented evidence showing that the history of Europe was a lie

Below is a graph showing the similarity between the Kings of Russia and the Habsburg Kings of Germany and the number of years they supposedly ruled.

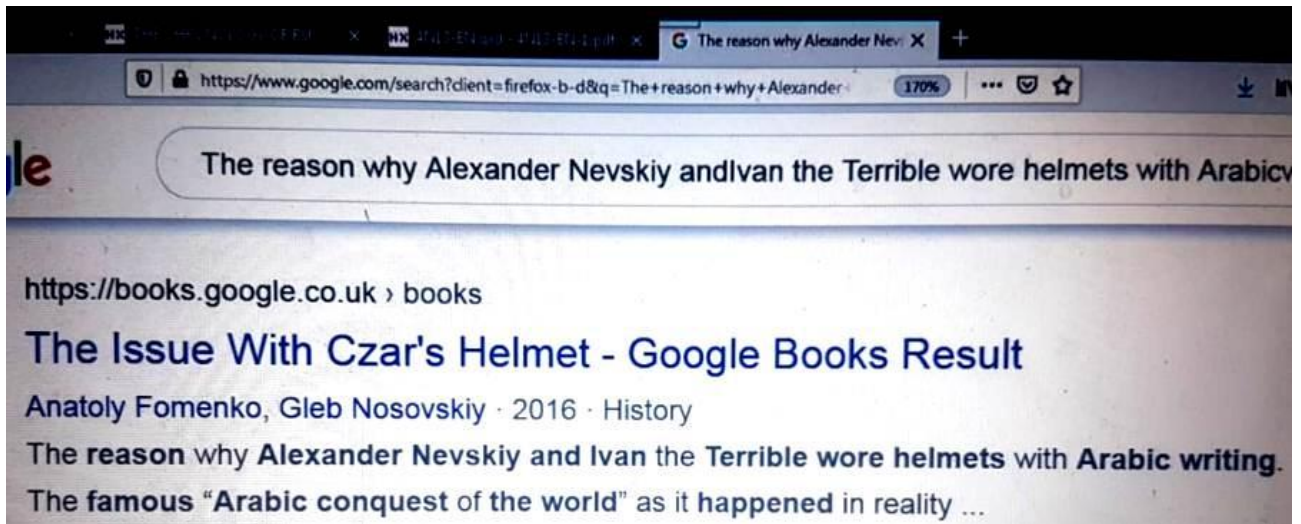

The lines show how many years a king ruled (the number of years are in brackets) - the lines are longer if the king ruled longer. You will notice that the timelines of the kings of the 2 different nations - are similar - that they are practically the same kings - except that their names were changed to create fake histories for different countries.

Researchers point out that it can be clearly seen that one nation copied another. Who copied who and why? And which was the original? And was the original one true - or was that falsely created also?

The entire history of Europe is linked to these Kings of Russia and the Habsburg Kings, and if the history has been falsified as the evidence shows, then the entire history of the world must have been falsified

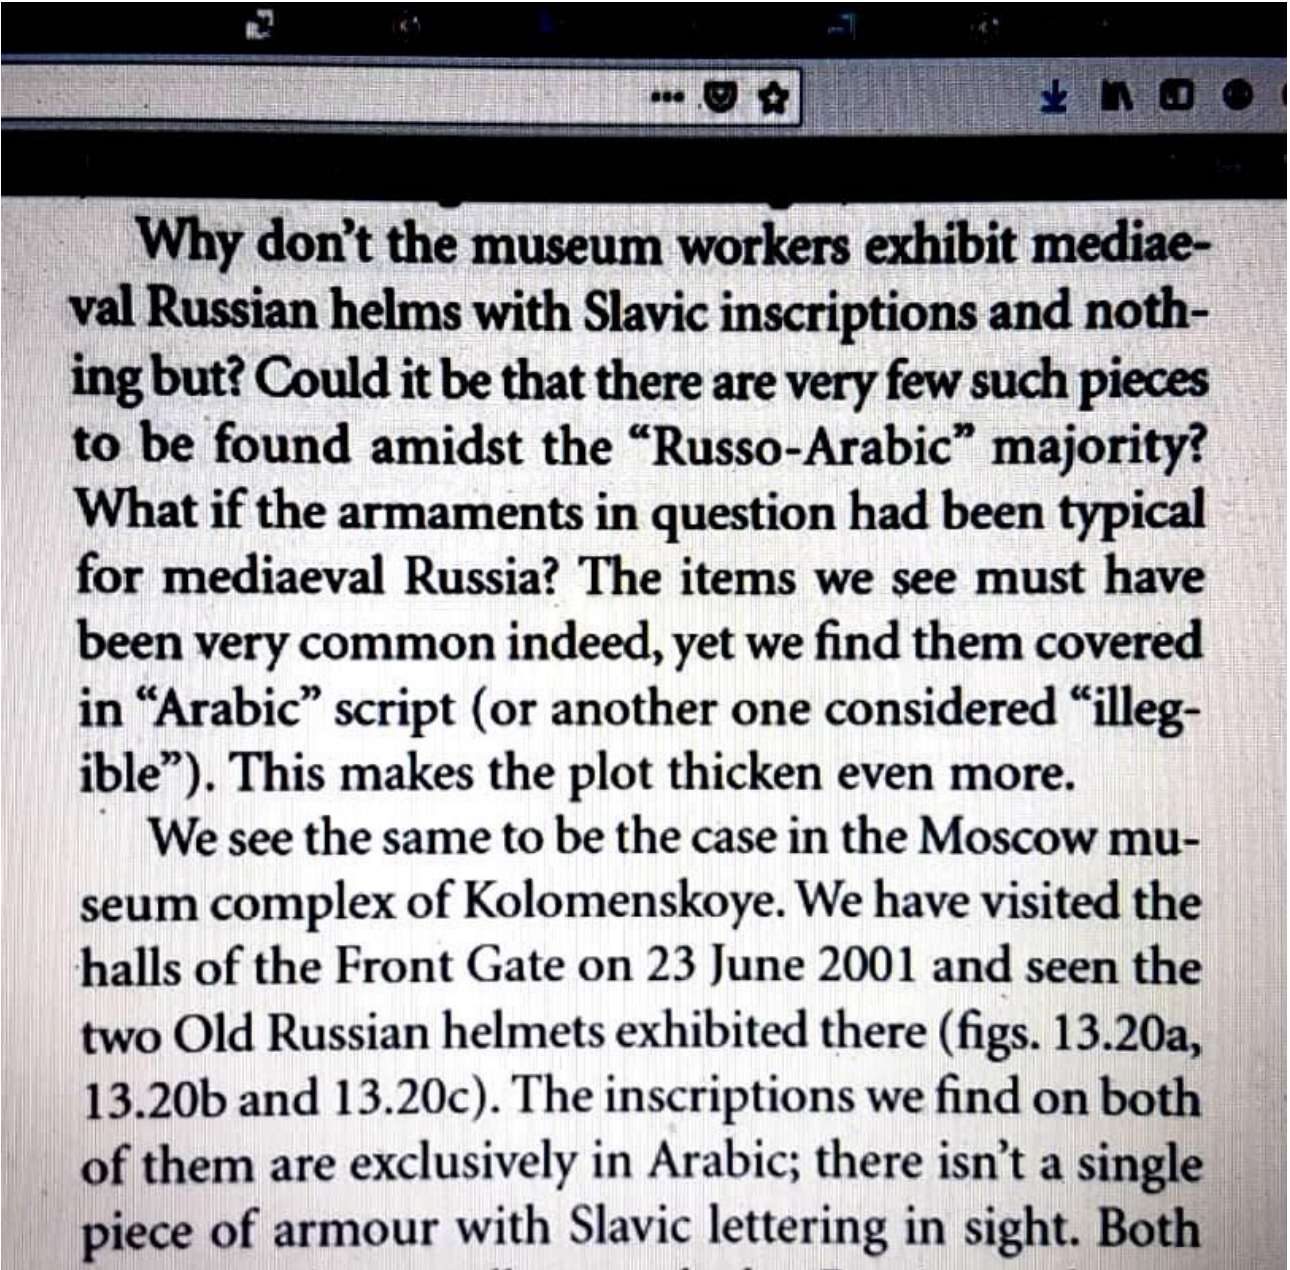

Anatoly Fomenko made a serious investigation regarding Russian weapons from those times and pointed out that they have Arabic writing on them.

Anatoly Fomenko pointed out that there was no Mongol invasion of the world or an Arabic Islamic conquest of the world. This story was created to hide the true history of the world

Anatoly Fomenko also provided much evidence from museums. The evidence showed that Russian weapons at the time had Arabic writing decorations

Anatoly Fomenko made an investigation of Russian weapons in many places such as the Armoury of the Kremlin and the Museum of Alexandrovskaya

A screenshot of a web browser window. The address bar shows a shield icon and a star icon. The main content area displays a text document with two paragraphs. The first paragraph is a rhetorical question about the absence of Slavic inscriptions on medieval Russian helmets, suggesting a 'Russo-Arabic' majority instead. The second paragraph describes a visit to the Moscow museum complex of Kolomenskoye in 2001, noting that two Old Russian helmets exhibited there had exclusively Arabic inscriptions, with no Slavic lettering visible.

Why don't the museum workers exhibit mediaeval Russian helmets with Slavic inscriptions and nothing but? Could it be that there are very few such pieces to be found amidst the "Russo-Arabic" majority? What if the armaments in question had been typical for mediaeval Russia? The items we see must have been very common indeed, yet we find them covered in "Arabic" script (or another one considered "illegible"). This makes the plot thicken even more.

We see the same to be the case in the Moscow museum complex of Kolomenskoye. We have visited the halls of the Front Gate on 23 June 2001 and seen the two Old Russian helmets exhibited there (figs. 13.20a, 13.20b and 13.20c). The inscriptions we find on both of them are exclusively in Arabic; there isn't a single piece of armour with Slavic lettering in sight. Both

And here is what Anatoly Fomenko reported: - Arabic writing was found in the majority of Russian weapons - and many researchers now ask - where are the weapons with Slavic writing? Why Arabic and not Slavic?

Historians normally do not mention such things. Why?

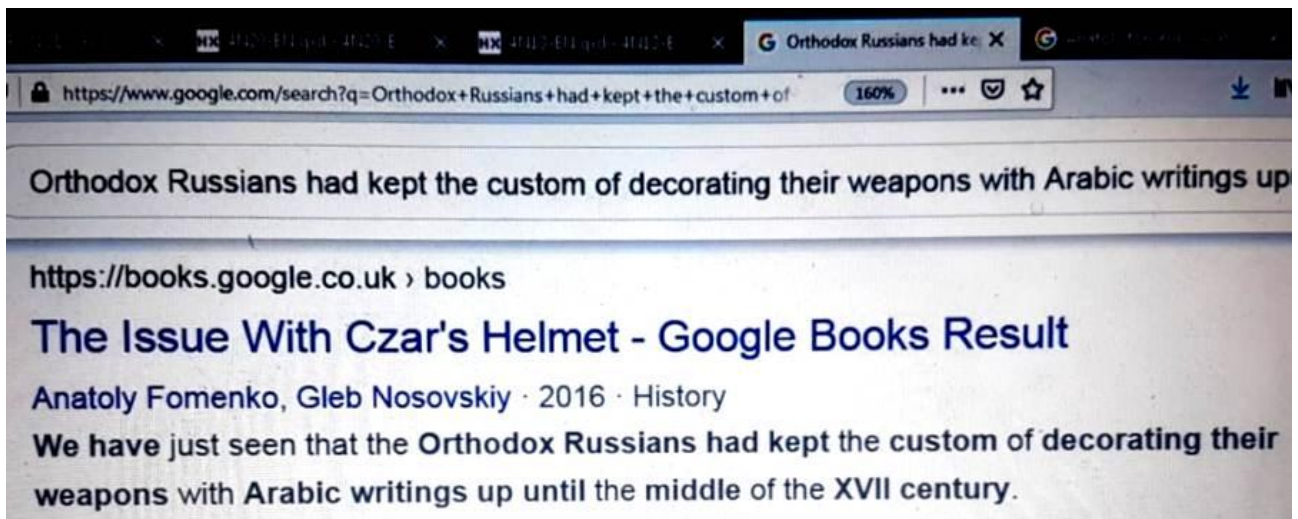

That answer is not hard for anyone to figure out.

Historians did not want to show the history of the Arabic Koran and the true history of “Original Islam” in Europe

Millions of people know that the history of the world is a lie. Millions of people now talk about Tartaria and they speak about Anatoly Fomenko. Mysteriously, many of these people talk about the architecture of historical buildings and advanced technology in the past.

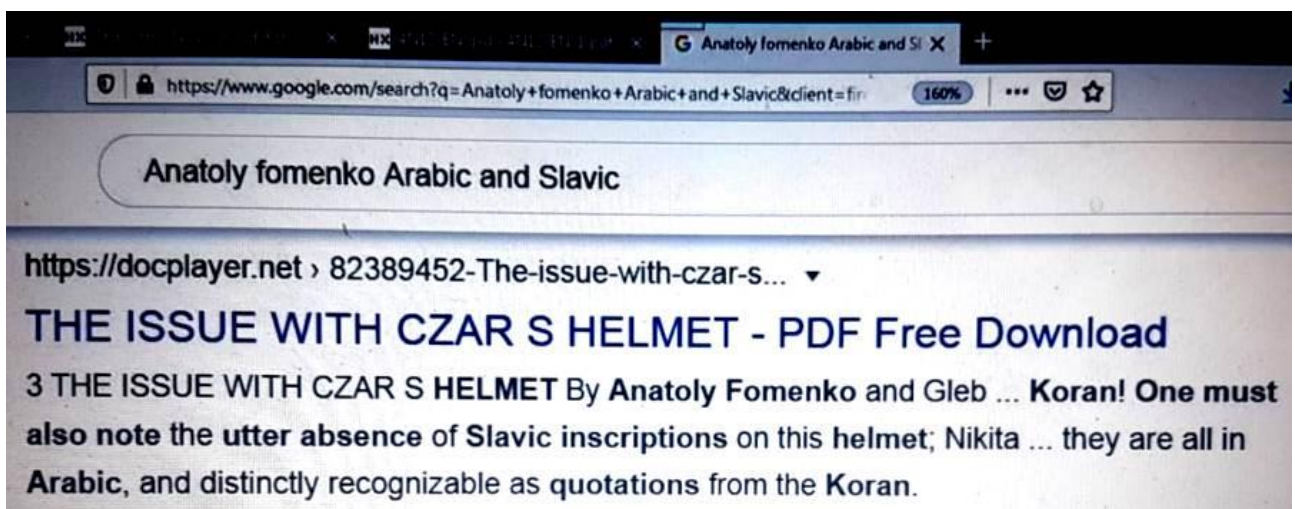

But there is a mysterious great silence about the evidence that Anatoly Fomenko has presented showing the history of the Arabic Koran and the true history of “Original Islam” in Europe. Why is there a great silence? Why?

There was a clear answer. The people who had falsified world history, now were trying to destroy the work of researchers such as Anatoly Fomenko Anatoly Fomenko pointed out that Orthodox Christians in Russian territory had the custom of decorating their weapons with Arabic writing before the 18th century.

Something happened in Europe and Russia, which forced the people to stop using Arabic. This can be seen from the many wars and conflicts organised by the world powers in every corner of the world, which forced people to change languages and to change their history

Anatoly Fomenko showed that many of the Arabic writings were not ordinary words but words from the Arabic Koran

Many researchers that investigated weapons in Russia and Eastern Europe came to the conclusion that Russia or the Slavs must have been entirely Muslim people at one time. Many researchers question why people accept the history that they are told without checking. It seemed like the entire collection of Russian or Slavic weapons at the time in that region had Arabic writing and words from the Arabic Koran.

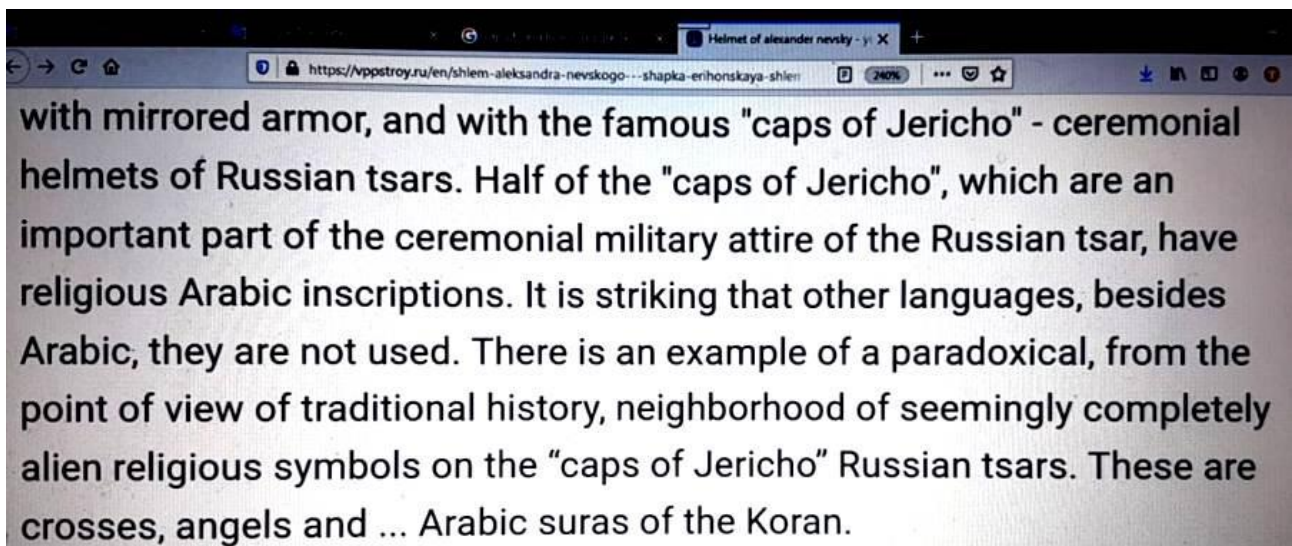

This totally changes the history of Europe that the world is told. Russia was involved in direct conflicts with central Europe for many centuries.

Historians have answers for this. The Russians and Slavs copied Arabic writing. Why will they do that? Did they not have their own writing? Why did they not write words from the Bible? Historians said the Russians and

Slavs hated Muslims and were killing Muslims and were burning the Arabic Koran. The story is clearly a lie

Historians say that Russian and Slavic sword makers did not know what they were writing. Oh, really? Mysteriously they happen to be writing verses of the Arabic Koran. This was clearly not an accident. It was clear that these people were followers of the Arabic Koran. They were Muslims. But of course, no one wishes to say this

Historians say things like: - they were gifts or presents or souvenirs. That does not make sense because items have been found with writings of the Arabic Koran on helmets and armoury that was used by the Princes and the Kings and the Tsars

The Caps of Jericho or the Caps of Yerikhon

These caps were very important in Russia and they were worn at military ceremonies by the rulers of Russia. They are decorated with crosses and angels and verses of the Arabic Koran. The symbol of the cross and Star of David had a different meaning in those days. No other language apart from Arabic was used

Photo above: - an example of writing from the Arabic Koran found in the armour of Russian rulers. In the photo above, the Arabic writing is known as the Verse of the “Throne of God” - Ayat al Kursi which is from the Arabic Koran

“Throne of God”

Which says: - God. There is no god except Him, the Alive and the Eternal. Neither slumber nor sleep can overtake Him. To Him belongs everything in the heavens and everything on earth. Who is he that can intercede with Him except by His permission? He knows what is in front of them, and what is behind them, and they cannot take any of His knowledge, except as He wishes. His Throne extends over the heavens and the earth, and their preservation does not burden Him. He is the Most High, the Most Great

The royal armour of the Romanov Dynasty was in Arabic writing, except for the titles of 2 people which are written in Cyrillic in Russian. The religious writing on the mirrors, - are written entirely in Arabic. Many researchers found that Cyrillic writings in Russian, - was a clear minority.

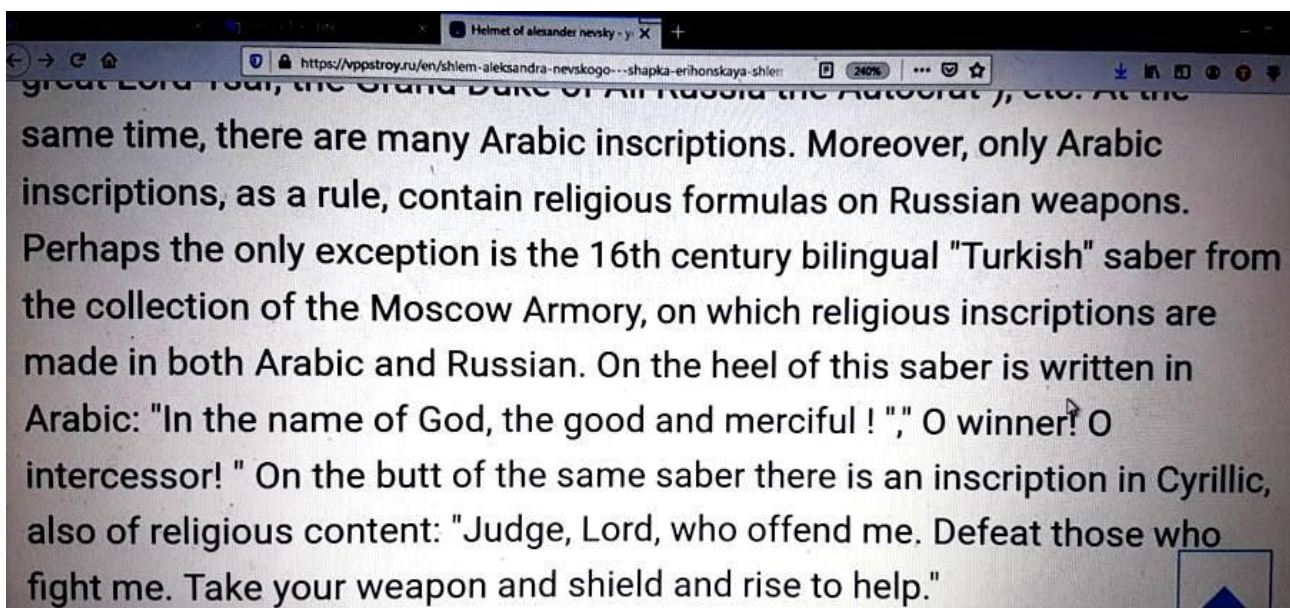

Evidence showed that Cyrillic writing was used later and replaced the Arabic language. Did that happen by accident? Or did it happen by force?

Many researchers noticed that Cyrillic and Russian and other writings in the region, started to come around the 17th century and took over by the 18th century

Researchers pointed out that the ceremonial military armour of Russian rulers and Tsars had Arabic writing and many words from the Arabic Koran. There was an almost complete absence of Slavic words. The Arabic words say things like: - There is no God except Allah and Mohamed is the Prophet of God

The evidence made it clear that the Russian army at the time was a Muslim army. This army was called by many different names such as: - the Slavs, the Tartars, the Russians, the Mongols, the Golden Horde, etc. Call it whatever you want, but one thing was clear, - it was a Muslim army

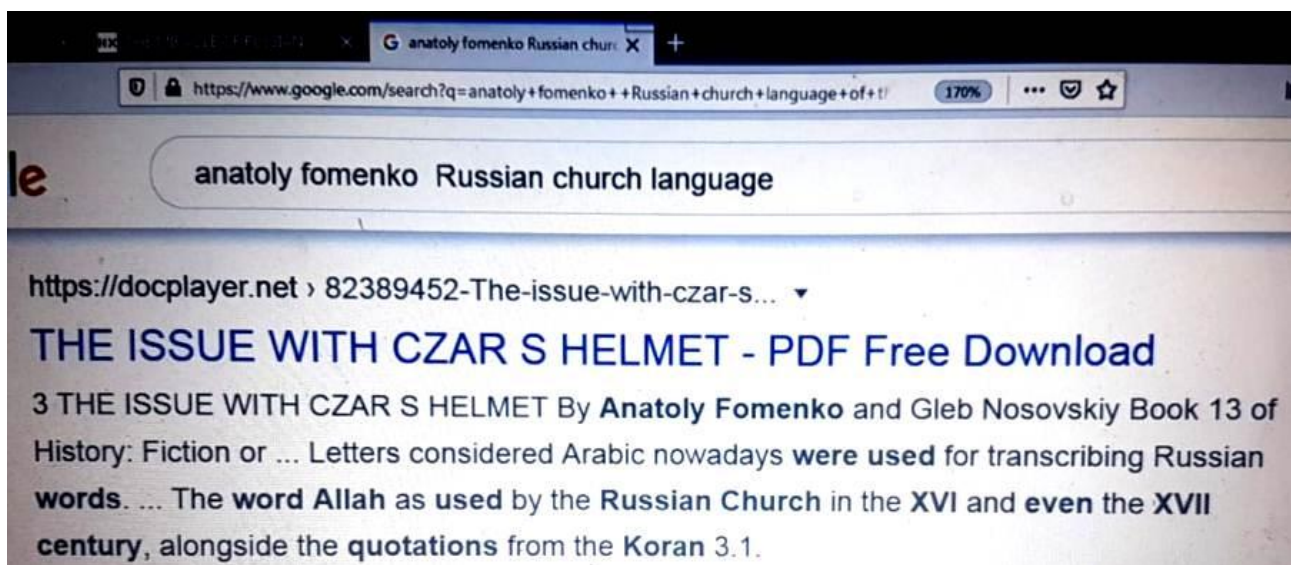

There are many Arabic writings found on Russian weapons. Researchers point out that only the Arabic language was used, as a rule, and mostly consisted of religious words on Russian weapons. These religious words were not from the Bible, but from the Arabic Koran.

There were only a few exceptions where Turkic or Cyrillic words were used. The Arabic writings said words such as: - In the Name of God, the Gracious and the Merciful

There was too much evidence to show that Arabic was probably the language of Russia and the Slavs, and the Arabic Koran was the religious book of Russia and the Slavs

Many researchers found evidence that the word “Allah” was used by churches before the 18th century. For example - Anatoly Fomenko presented evidence that Allah was used by the Russian Church before the 18th century. Anatoly Fomenko also presented evidence that the Arabic Koran was used in churches

Many researchers have shown evidence that the current Christian Bible was created during and after the Renaissance.

Many researchers found evidence that Churches around the world used the word “Allah” and had the Arabic Koran before the new global system took over.

Most churches before the 17th century were not controlled by modern Church organisations. The original churches were taken over by force or were destroyed

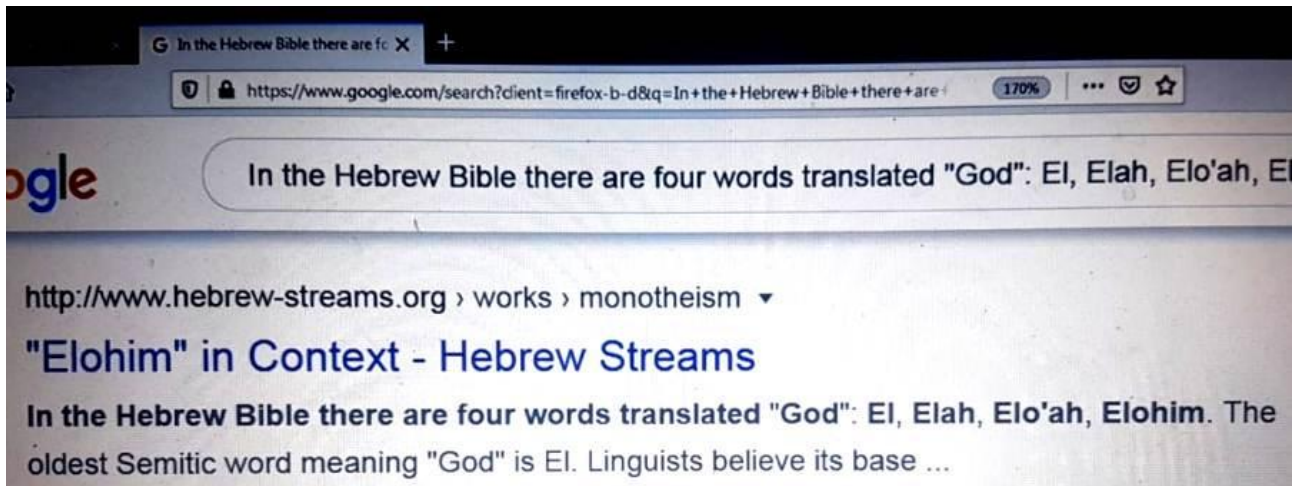

Why would they use the word “Allah”?

Elah ?

Allah ?

What is the name that was originally used for God?

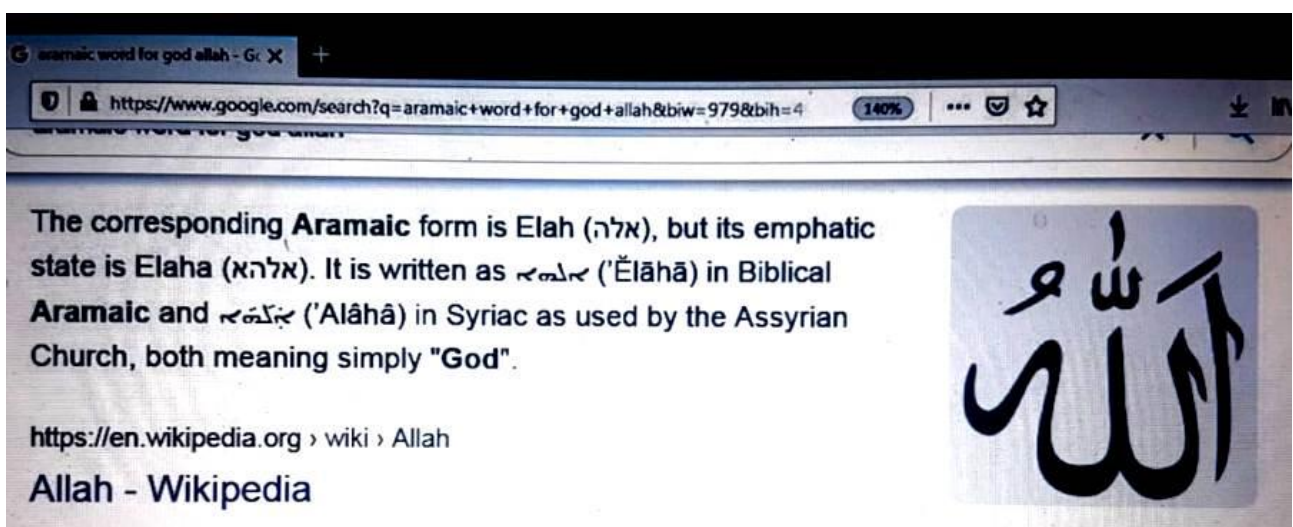

Allah or Elah?

In the Hebrew Bible there are 4 major words used for God - El, Elah, Eloah, and Elohim

In Judaism today, there are many words used for God such as Hashem and the Tetragrammaton

In the Arabic Koran, there are many words used for God, but one word that is known worldwide is Alah or Allah. Another word that is used in Islam is the word Alahum or Allahum

In Aramaic the word for God is - Elah or Alah, depending on how you wish to pronounce it

Researchers noted that different people wrote these words down in different ways in modern languages.

Different people in different parts of the world, pronounce words in different ways

Alah and Elah were the same word that was written and pronounced differently depending on the people

Historians say that Jesus Christ spoke a language called Aramaic

What is clear is that Jesus Christ and his original followers used the word - Elah or Alah. Jesus did not speak English or French or Spanish. Most modern followers of Jesus Christ today, are no longer aware of this because of the changes in history. Many Christians today that use the word Elah or Alah - are normally people who live in the Middle East.

The main groups of people in the world today who call God - Elah or Alah, are the Jewish people and the Muslims

Was the original word for God - Allah or Elah?

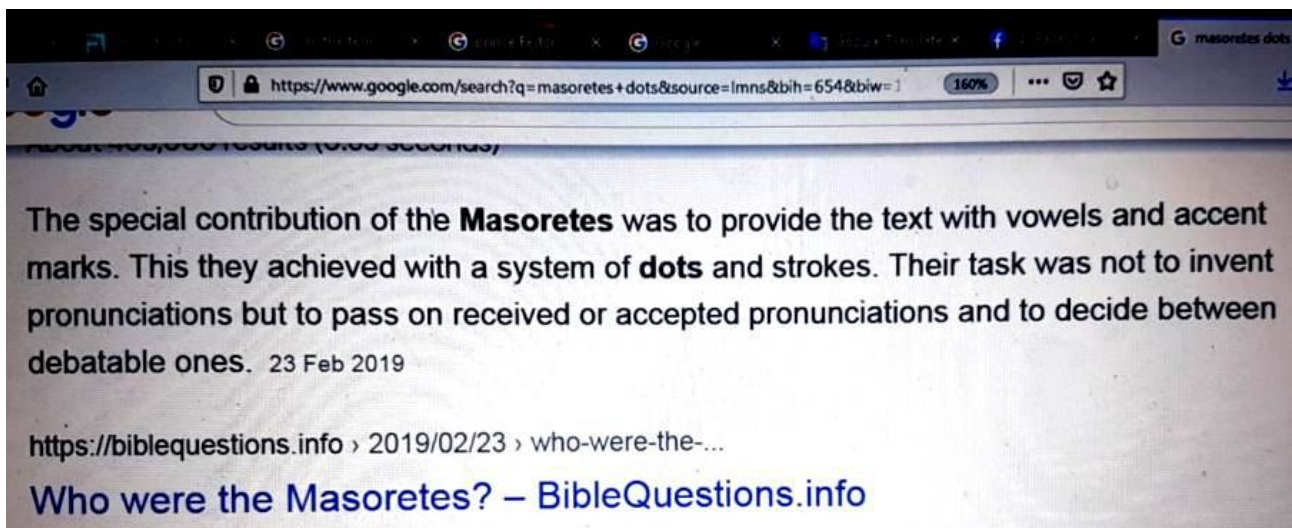

The Hebrew alphabet has no vowels.

So the word for God, is it Elah or Allah?

In the Middle Ages or Dark Ages a groups of scholars decided to create a new system of how to pronounce Hebrew or Aramaic words, according to what they wanted. These groups of people were known as the Masoretes. Many researchers believe that this history has been falsified to match the fake historical timeline. Many researchers believe that these Masoretes took place during and after the Renaissance

What is the Masoretes?

The Masoretes show you how to pronounce a word by adding dots and strokes (circles or lines)

Elah

Allah

Here we can see the Hebrew word for Elah and Allah. The word is exactly the same, but the dots and lines are placed differently. Without the dots and lines, the word for God was originally pronounced Allah, by Jews and Muslims and Christians

These dots and lines were created by a group of men called “scholars” by historians. These men are called the Masoretes. They decided that the word for God - Allah, should now be pronounced Elah. Who were these men and what gave them the right to decide this?

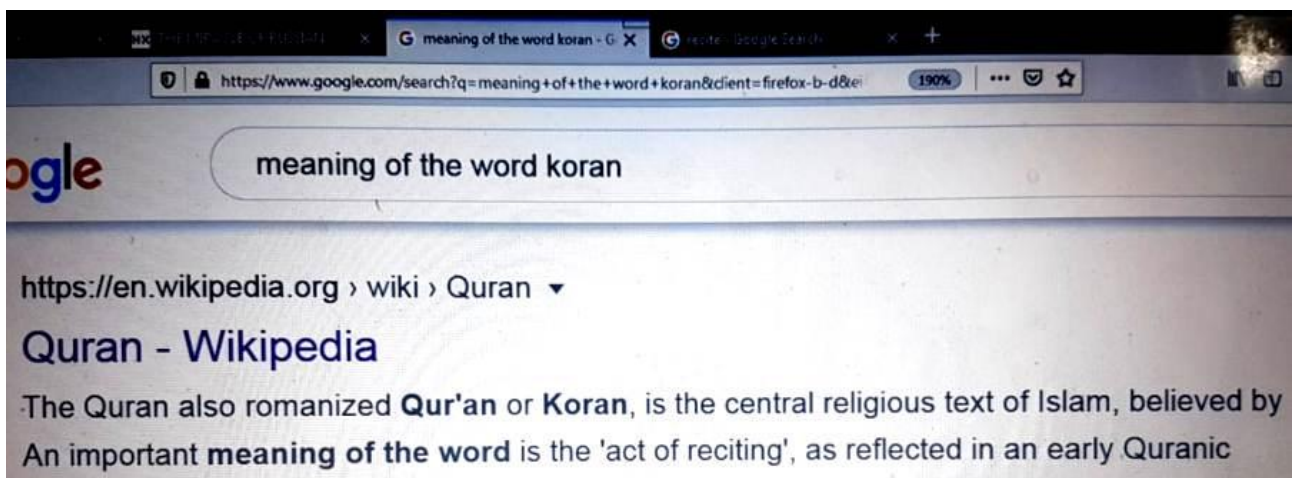

It was clear that the original word for God was Allah

A similar thing happened to the words: - Eropean and Arapean, Eropa and Arapa and Arabe, European and Arabeian. They were clearly the same word, but the way that they were pronounced, was deliberately changed

The Masoretes, what they did was not small. It now meant that people will pronounce words according to how scholars decide and this helped to change and modify the original language that people used

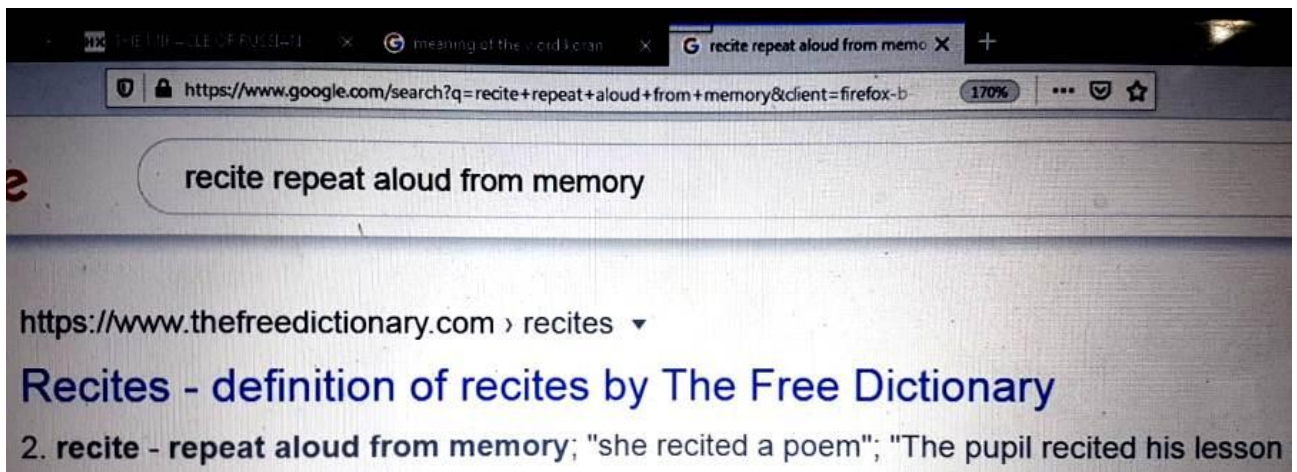

Many other scholars totally changed words and how they were spelt. It meant that original Arabic and Hebrew words became divided and different. A similar thing happened during and after the Renaissance and in recent times, when modern languages were given to people in the nation states

Why were people using the Arabic Koran in Churches?

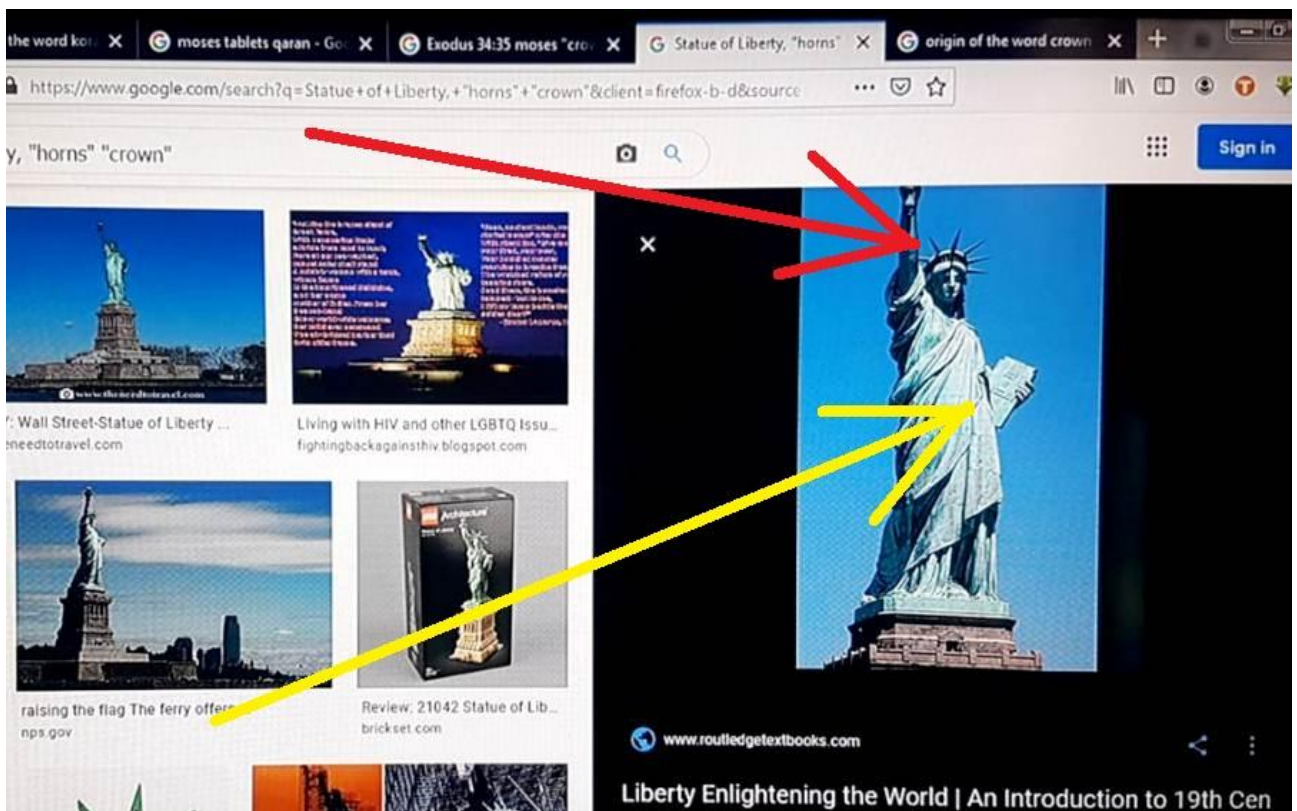

What is the meaning of the word Koran?

Koran basically means: - something to read or to recite,
- something stored in your brain, - from within your head, - from your memory

Recite means: - to read something which is in your memory, in your brain, to read it so people can hear it

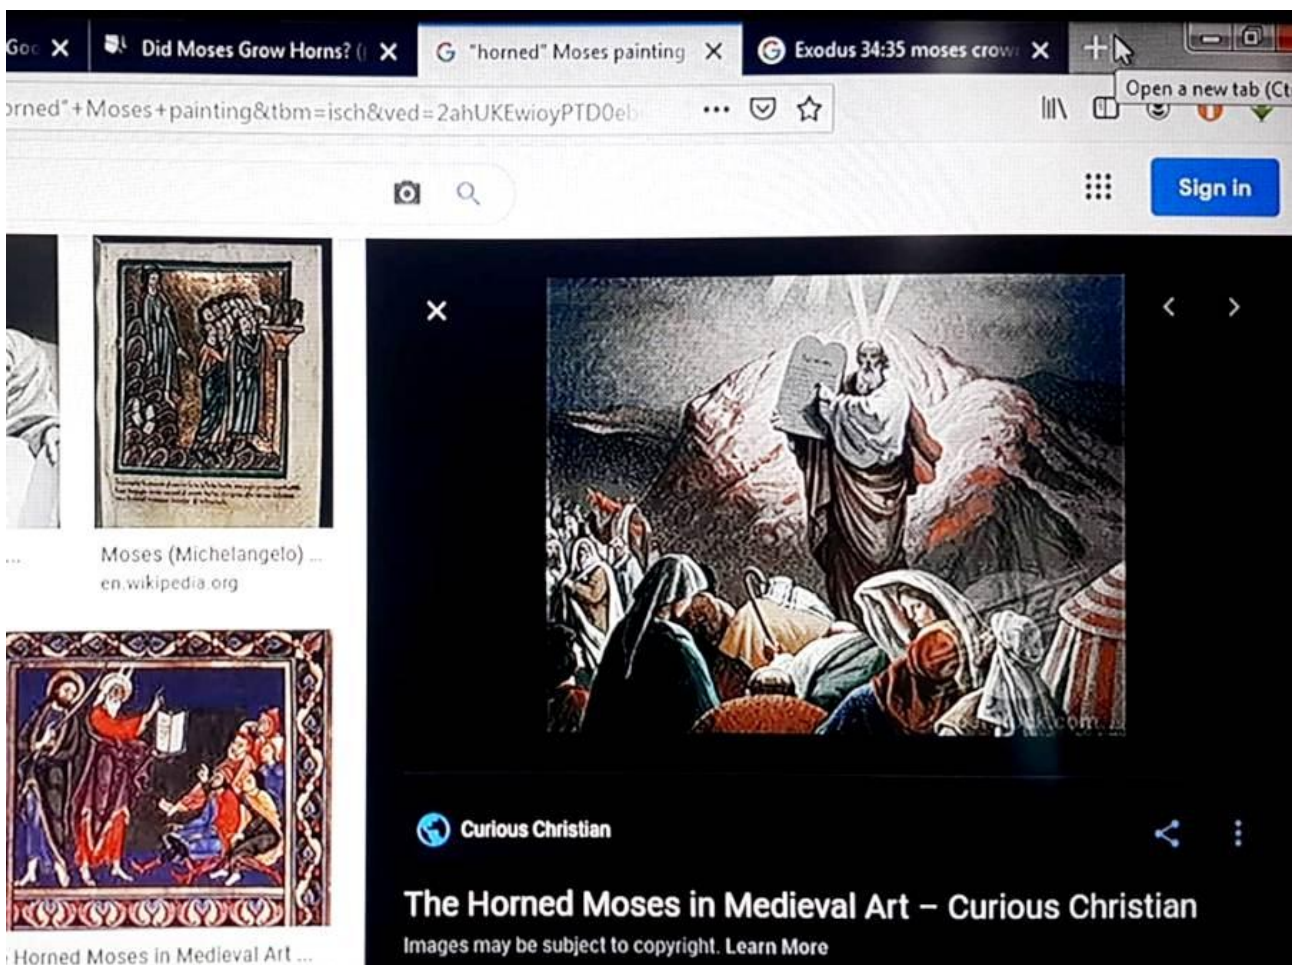

The word Koran and its meaning was known very well by the people of Europe in the past

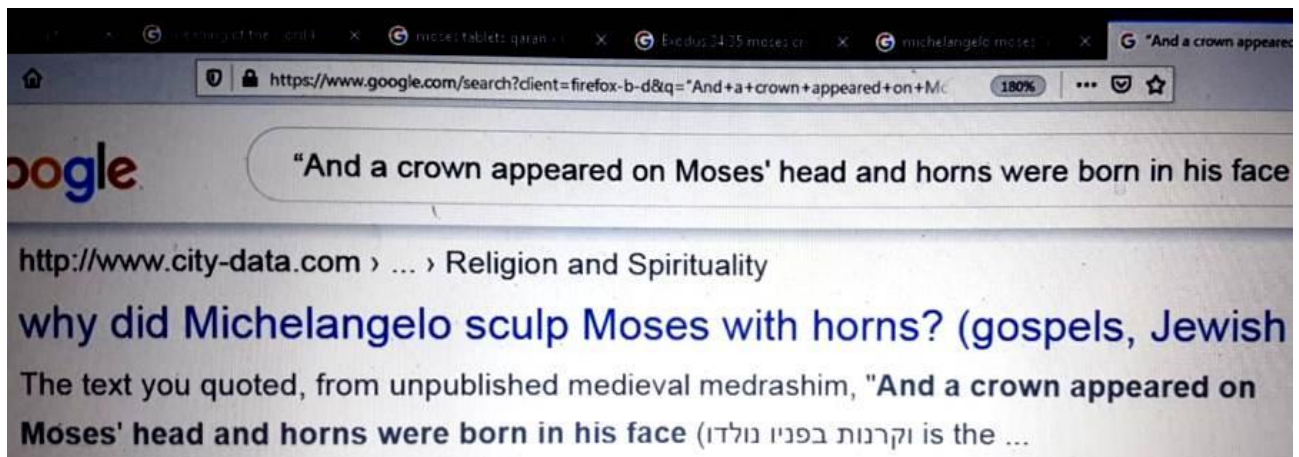

The Statue of Liberty - has a crown on its head that look like horns. There is a “book of law” on the statue also

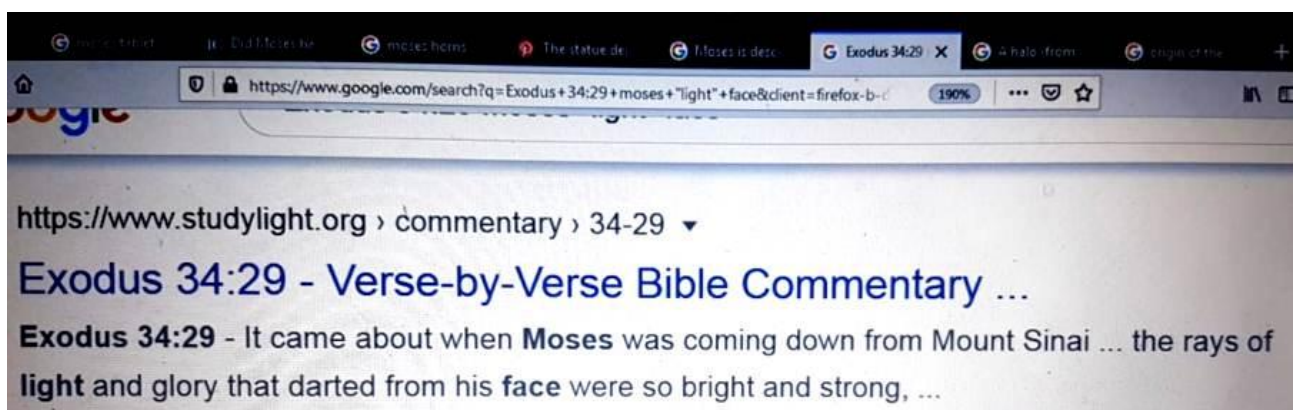

It is generally said that God gave to the Prophet Moses, the Ten Commandments and the Torah at Mount Sinai

In Medieval and Renaissance art, the Prophet Moses is shown with horns on his head at Mount Sinai when he came with the Torah and the Ten Commandments. In some paintings, he is shown with horns coming out of his head holding the Ten Commandments, similar to the Statue of Liberty

Michelangelo, the Renaissance painter also shows the Prophet Moses with horns on his head

The Bible (in Exodus Chapter 34, verse 29) says that when the Prophet Moses came down from Mount Sinai, he had rays of light shining from his face. This is how the story is explained normally to the people of the world

If the Prophet Moses had rays of light shining from his face, why do paintings from Renaissance times show the Prophet Moses with horns on his head?

Did the Prophet Moses come from Mount Sinai with the Light of God or with horns on his head?

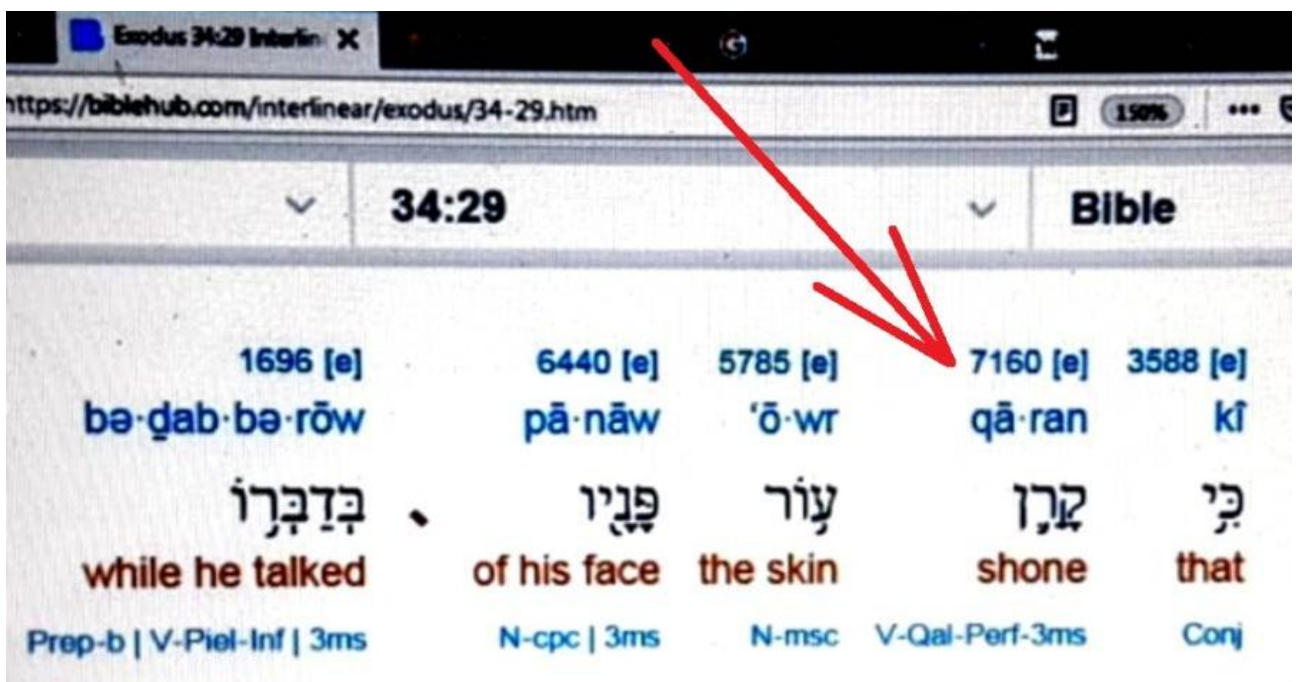

The Prophet Moses did not come with horns coming out of his head. This is clearly a joke. Renaissance painters learned this idea from mistranslations in the Latin Vulgate Bible. Many researchers believe that these mistranslations were created on purpose to destroy the Torah of the Prophet Moses

Many people have used the Renaissance paintings and art to show that the Prophet Moses was connected to Satan or the Devil

Why would someone want “the light” that came with the Prophet Moses at Mount Sinai to be connected to the Devil? What is going on here? What is this light?

In the Hebrew language, Exodus Chapter 34, verse 29, it says that the Prophet Moses came with the Qaran on his face or his head. The Hebrew word is Qaran.

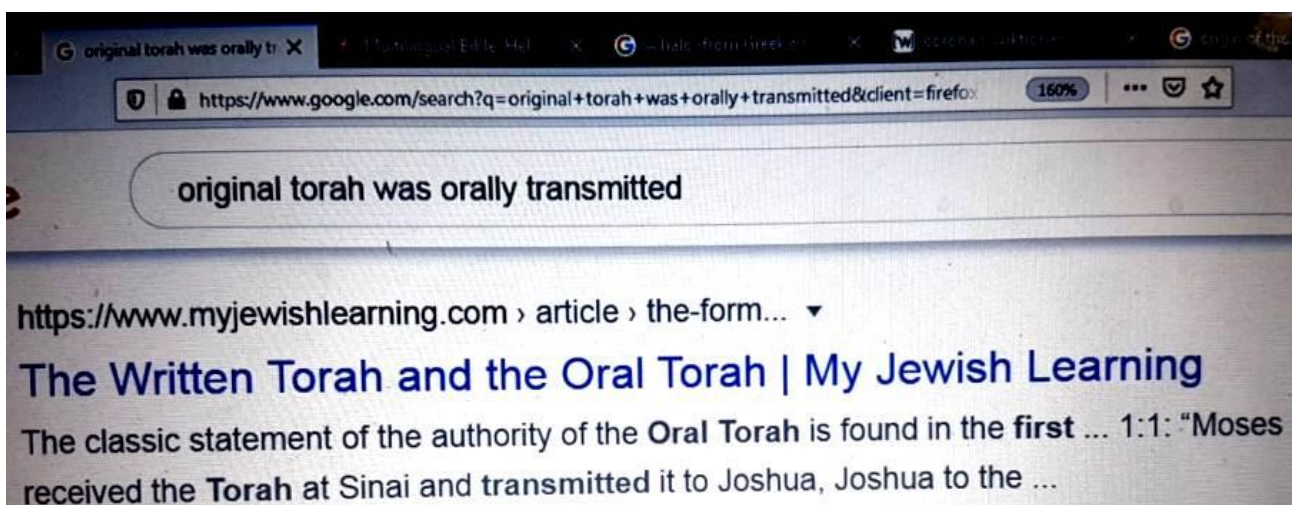

The light was the Qaran or the Koran

The Hebrew language has no vowels, so this word is Quran or Koran or Kuran. Spell it however you wish in modern languages. The light was clearly the Koran.

The Prophet Moses came from Mount Sinai with a Koran or recital called the Torah. Koran means something to recite from memory

It is clear why the Bible was mistranslated and why the Prophet Moses was shown with horns, like the Devil.

The people who falsified the translations, wanted to destroy the meaning of the original word. The original word was: - Koran or Qaran

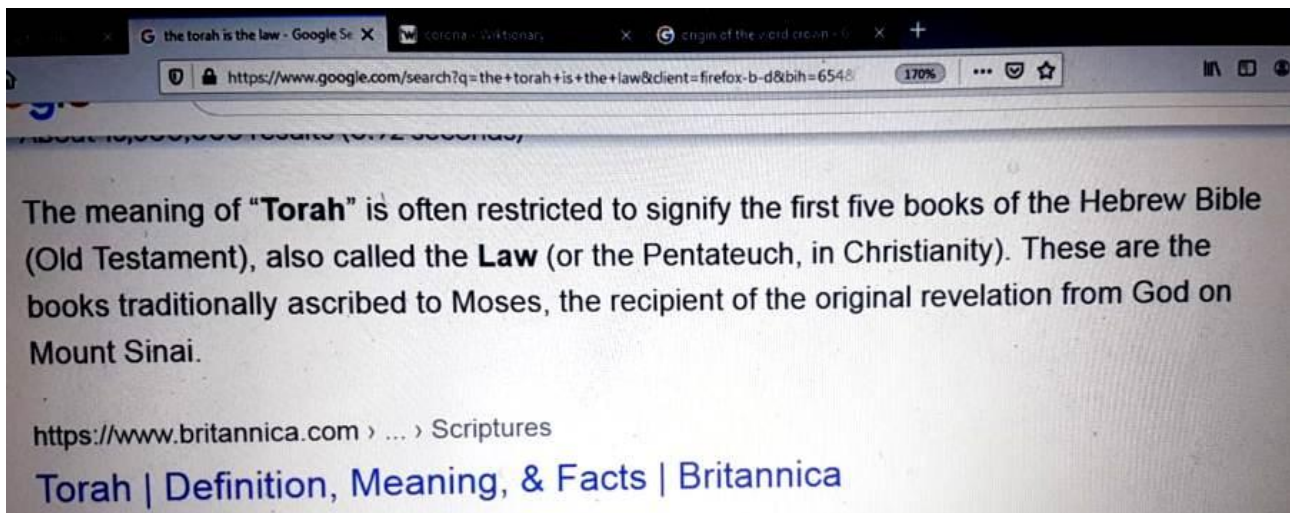

It is well known that the original Torah of the Prophet Moses was orally transmitted. People memorised the Torah. The Torah was something to read or to recite, - something stored in your brain, - inside your head, - inside your memory

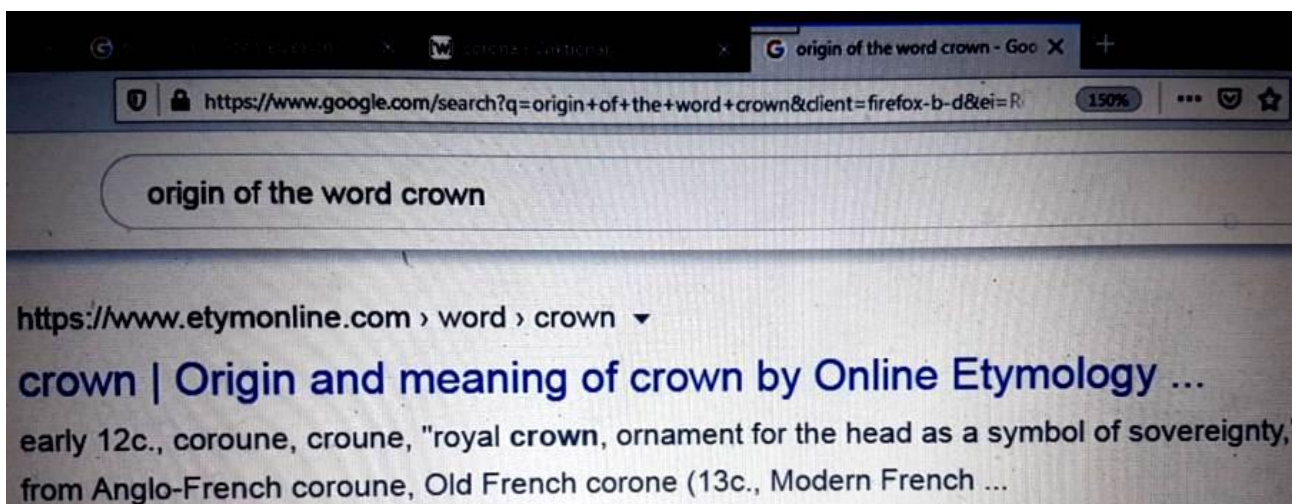

It was clear that the people who mistranslated Exodus Chapter 34, verse 29, wanted to hide that the Prophet Moses came from Mount Sinai with a Koran or recital called the Torah

Once again this changes history

Historians say that the original language of the Torah was Hebrew, but many researchers found that the original language of the Rabbis, - was Arabi. It was the Arabeian language or Arapean or Eropean or European. This language was not the Hebrew language that we know today, but that story is too long to mention here

The Torah was memorised by people in their brain. The Torah was known as the Law. The Torah was inside the brain, inside your head. The Torah was the Koran of the Prophet Moses. The Prophet Moses came with the Koran of that time called the Torah. The light on his face or his head was called the Koran or Qoran in Hebrew

Languages created during and after the Renaissance, changed the meaning of the word Koran. It became the Crown of authority or Crown law. It became the law created by men. They replaced the law of the Koran

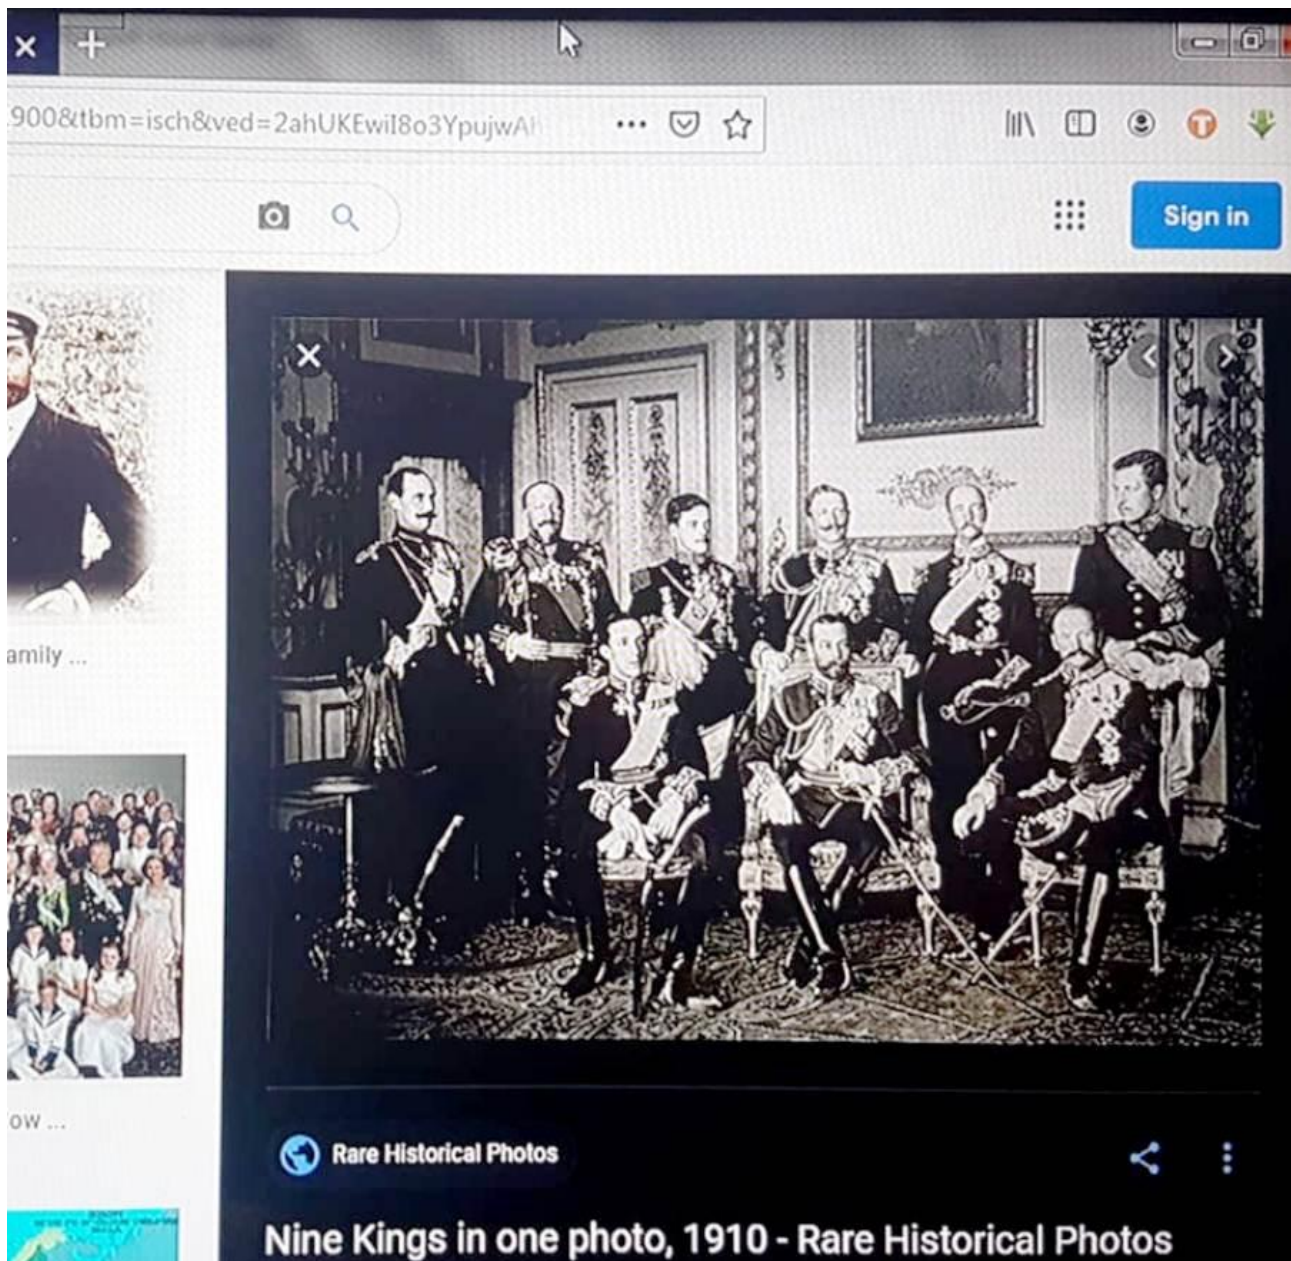

Photo above in 1910 - the Kings of: - Norway, Bulgaria, Portugal, Greece, Belgium, Spain, England and Denmark.

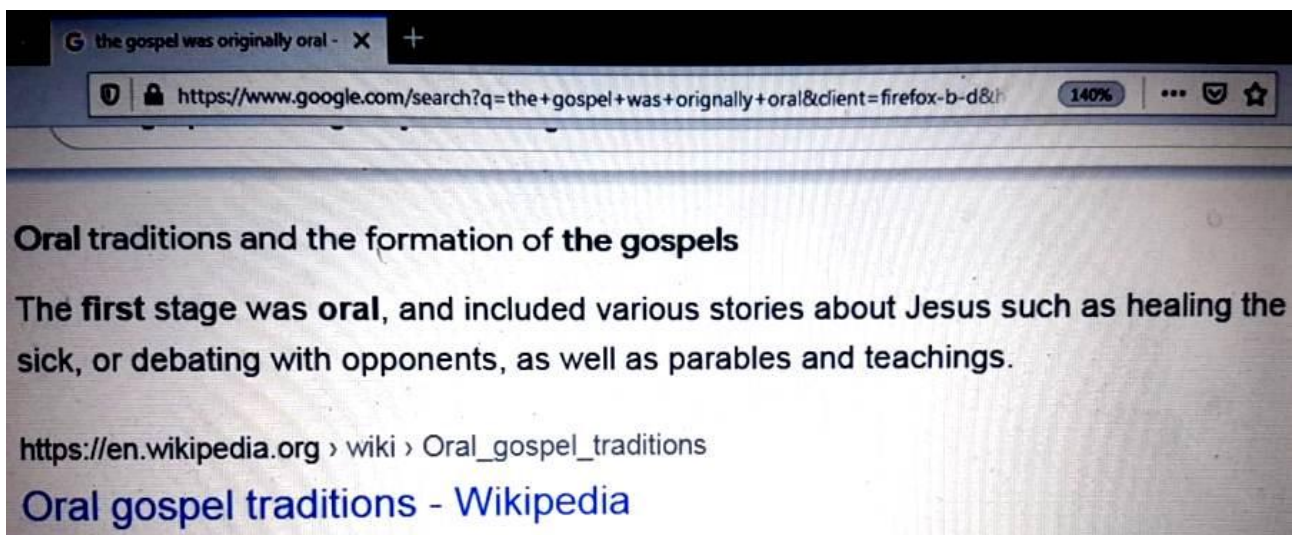

Many other photos are available of these kings together with other kings and princes. They were all related according to historians, but evidence shows that their true history and identity has been falsified

Fake kings and queens made their own crowns and made their own laws to replace the laws of God. These people took power by force in Europe, and made their own laws and created their own states and made the people into slaves. It was clear that they were all together and part of one team working for the same masters

It was clear that they mistranslated Exodus Chapter 34, verse 29, so the world will not know the original meaning of the word Koran. The people in the villages in Europe followed the laws in the Koran from God. It was clear that the people in power did not like the word “Koran”.

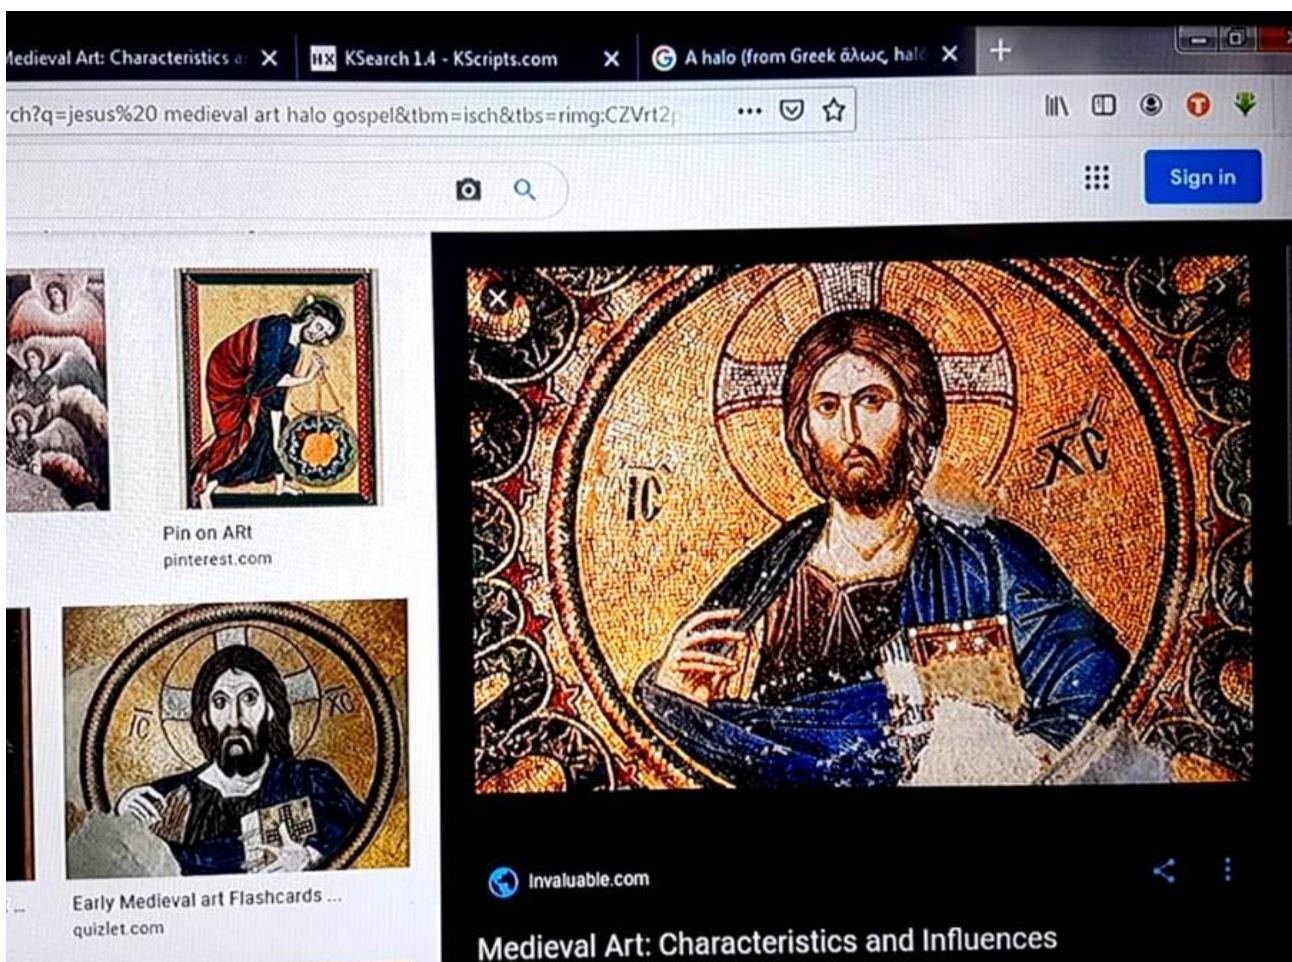

The word Koran or corona or crown was deliberately used for the coronavirus. That story is too long to mention here

The Koran or recital of Prophet Moses was known as the Torah

The original book of Jesus Christ was also an oral recital. The book was called the Angel or Evangel or Gospel, and it was memorised by the people in their head and kept in their brains. It was known as a crown.

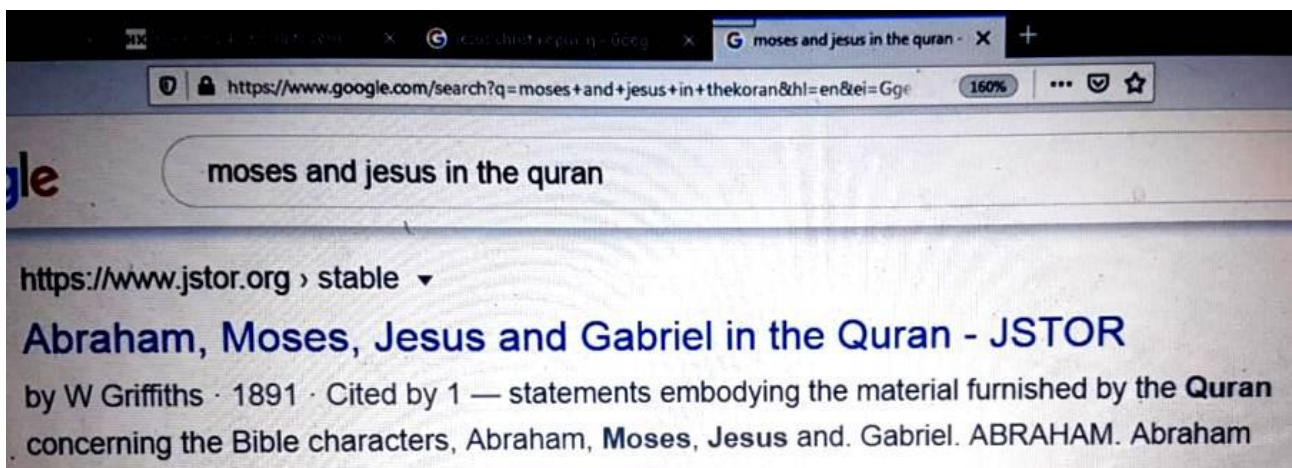

The Koran or crown or recital of Jesus Christ was known as the Angel or Evangel or Gospel

In Medieval and Renaissance art, Jesus Christ is seen holding the Angel or Evangel or Gospel with a “halo” around his head

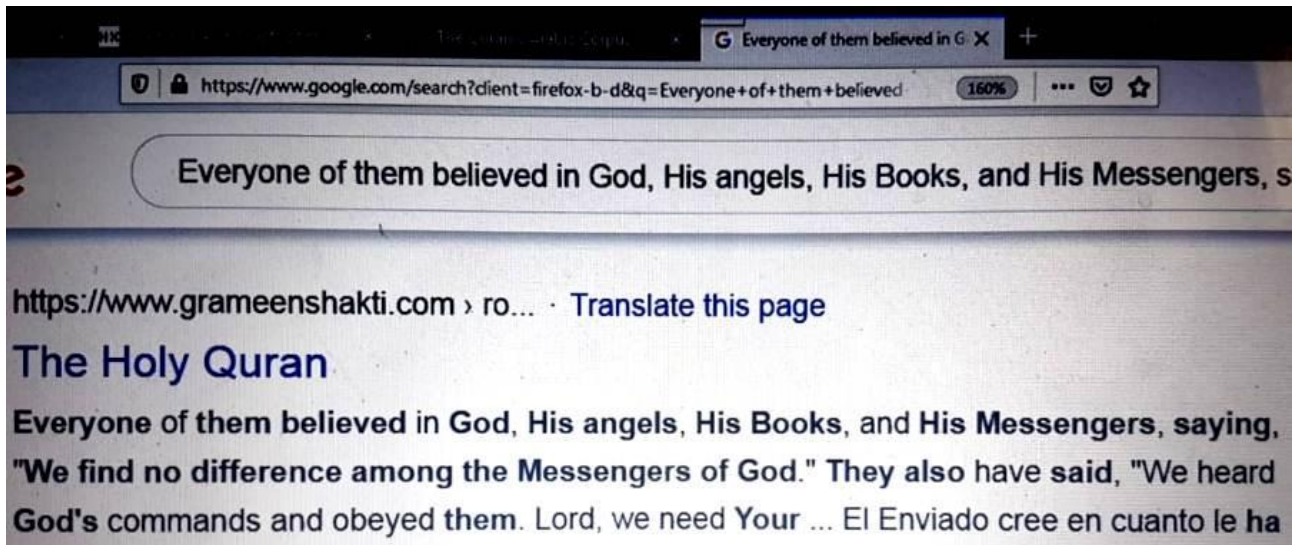

A “halo” is a crown of light. The crown of light or the Koran or recital of Jesus Christ was known as the Angel or Evangel or Gospel

The Arabic Koran that we have today is the Koran or recital given by the Prophet Mohamed to the people, and it mentions the story of the Prophet Moses and the story of Jesus Christ.

The Arabic Koran is an oral book which people recite and memorise. Thousands of people around the world have memorised the Arabic Koran

The Arabic Koran says that the Prophet Moses and Jesus Christ were messengers of God. The Arabic Koran says that the people who believe in God do not make any difference between any of the messengers of God

The Arabic Koran says that the believing people are those that believe in God, His Angels, His Books, and His Messengers, and they will say: - "We make no difference among the Messengers of God. We heard the commands of God and we obeyed.

The oral law was kept by many people in the villages of Europe. The oral law was the original crown law or law of the Koran. When the villages were attacked and people were killed and the lifestyle and culture was destroyed, the oral law was lost by many people. If you separate families and children, it is hard to keep the oral system alive. The village people had the oral law and did not have the Bible as we have it today

Between 1700 and 1950, there were too many conflicts that changed Europe and America. So many original churches were destroyed and many were modified by the new nation states that took over.

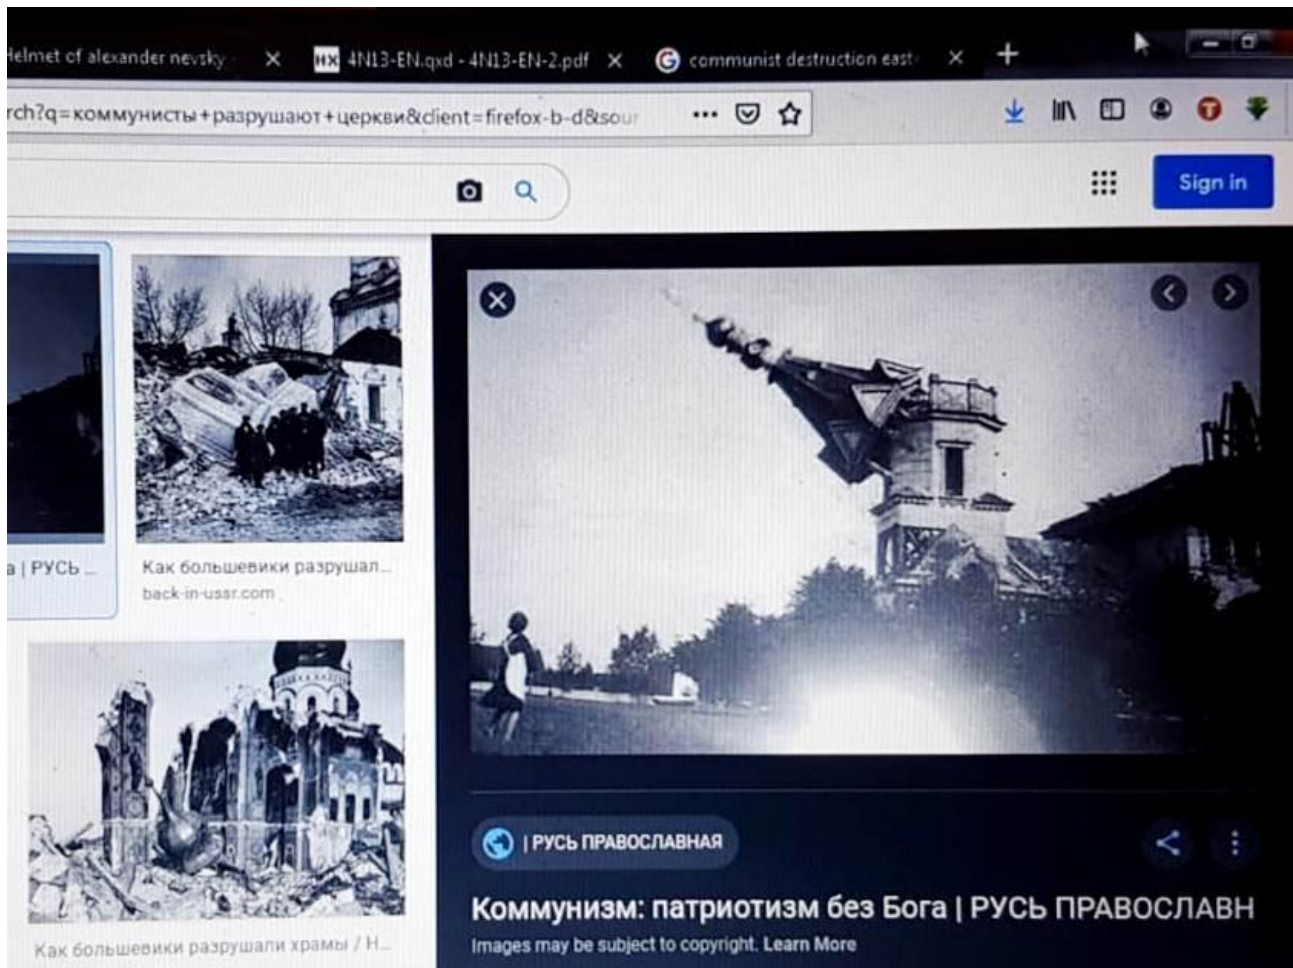

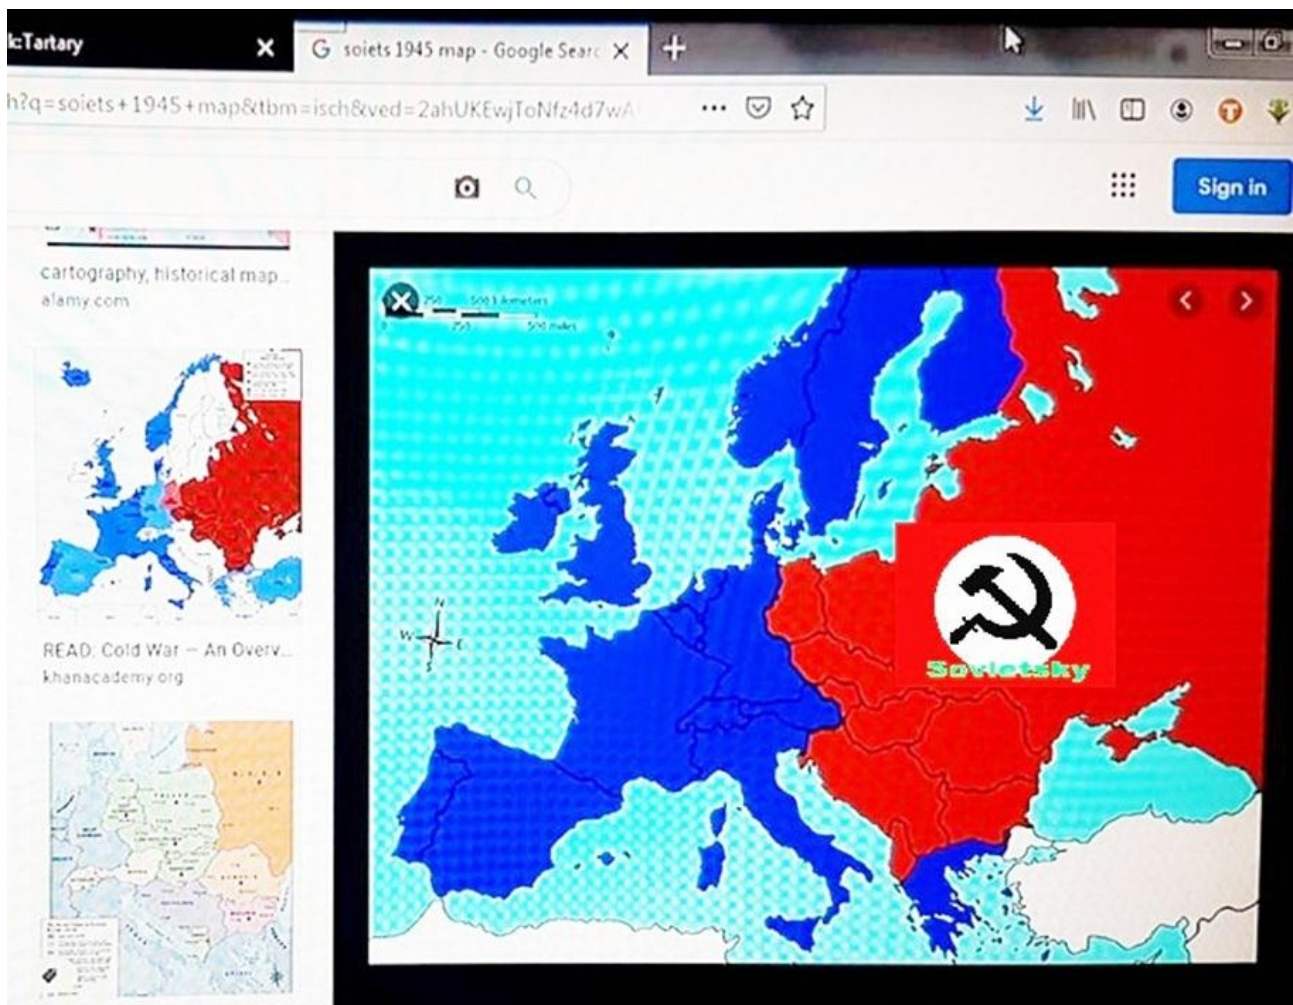

Photo above: - communists destroy a church in Eastern Europe

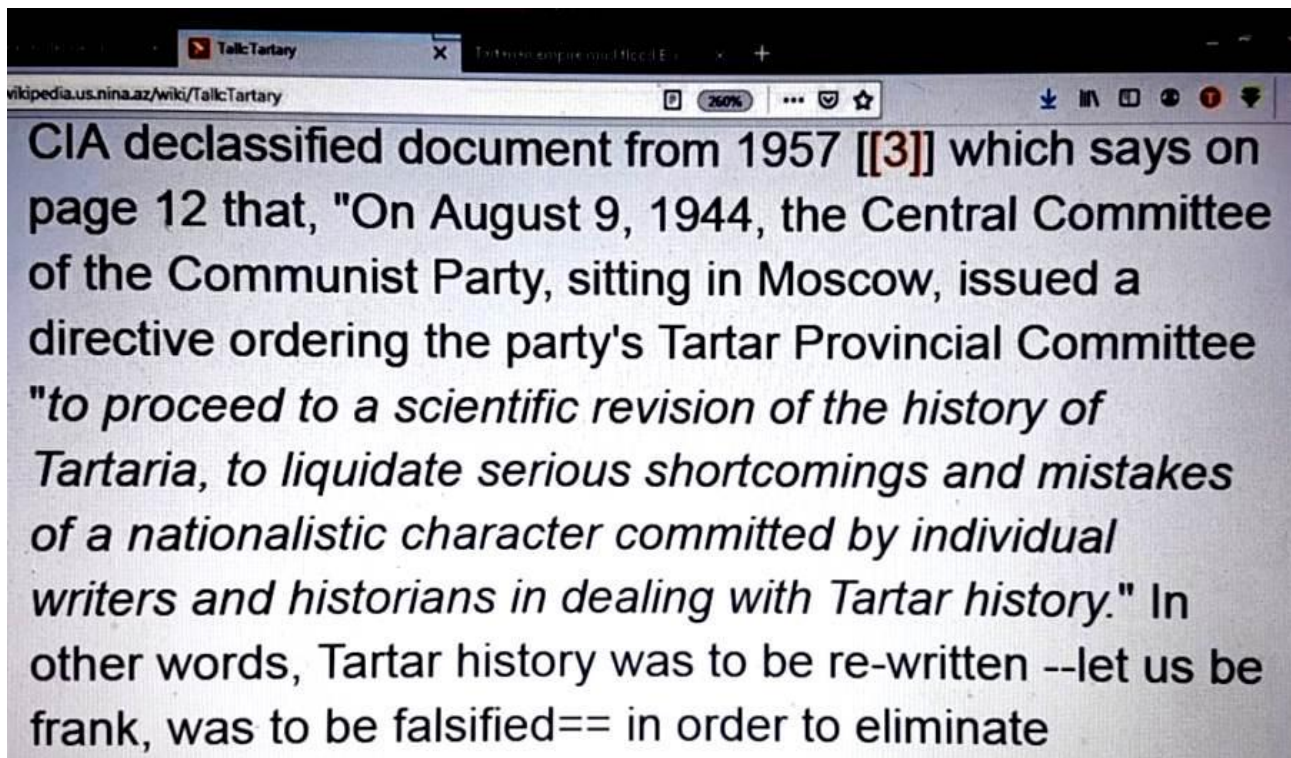

The Communists in Eastern Europe in the 20th century destroyed so much history, and this can be seen because photographs are available. Many of the photographs were created by communist actors and this is why many of them have falsified information. But it was clear that Eastern Europe was totally changed.

A similar thing happened in Western Europe after the Renaissance. History was changed and the churches had new management. Even with such widespread destruction, many items of the past have survived

In the 1950's for example, the Communists controlled almost half of Europe, the area in red shows an example of which areas they controlled. Not only in Europe, but the Communists controlled large parts of Asia also

There are reports which show that the Communists made sure that they changed the history of Russia and Tartaria. CIA reports recorded that:

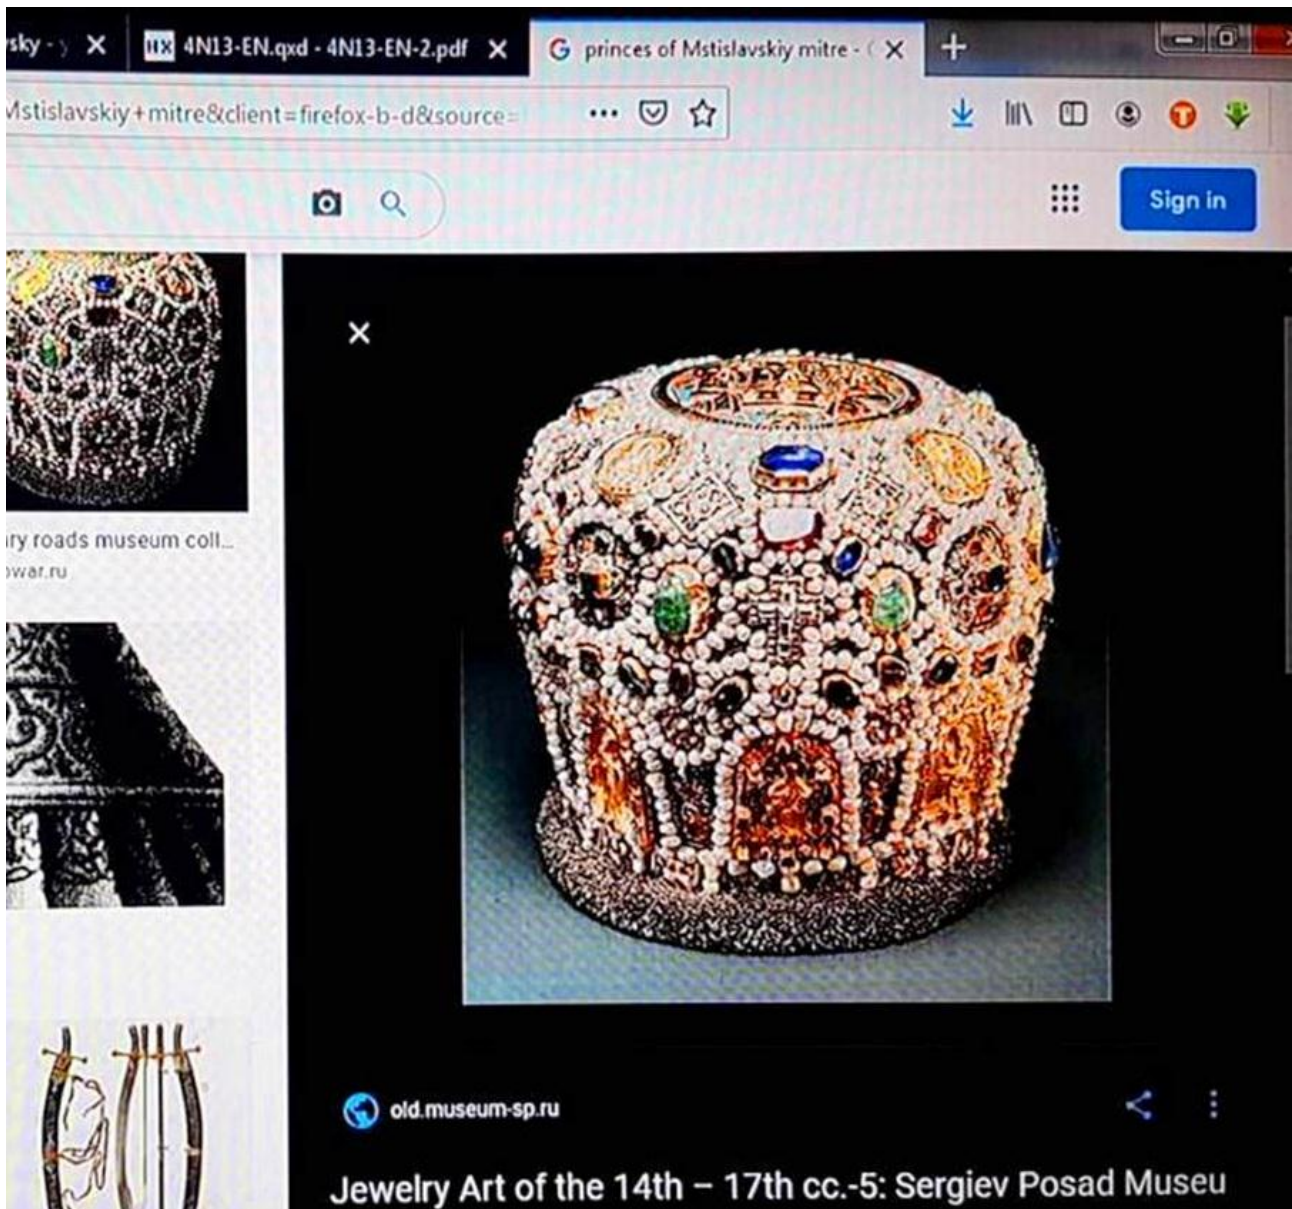

On August 9, 1944, the Central Committee of the Communist Party, sitting in Moscow, issued a directive ordering the party's Tartar Provincial Committee - to proceed to a scientific revision of the history of Tartaria

This was nothing new: - the changing of the history in Russia started a long time before the Communists got involved. The Communists destroyed much history in Eastern Europe and Asia and created a new history in the lands that they ruled.

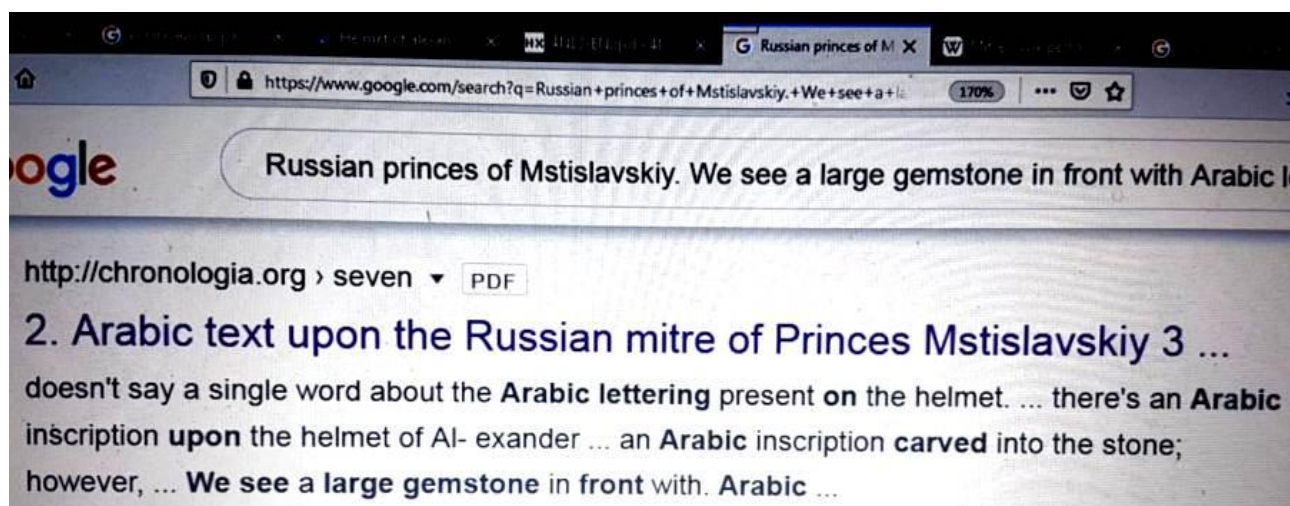

Why did they want to change history? Why did they not like the previous civilisation?

The answers were clear. They were at war against Original Islam and the Arabic Koran.

It is not hard to figure out why they changed history. It is not hard to figure out why they caused so many wars.
It is not hard to see who they were really fighting. It is not hard to figure out why they were separating families. It is not hard to figure out why they were destroying the countryside

The photo above shows a hat that was worn by Russian bishops in the 17th century. These hats are known as “mitre”. The Mitre in the photo above is known as the Mitre of Prince Mstislavsky

Researchers such as Anatoly Fomenko pointed out that the Mitre of the Prince of Mstislavsky had a cross and had Arabic writing on it. Even after so much history was falsified and so much was destroyed, Arabic writing was found. Arabic writing was found in too many places

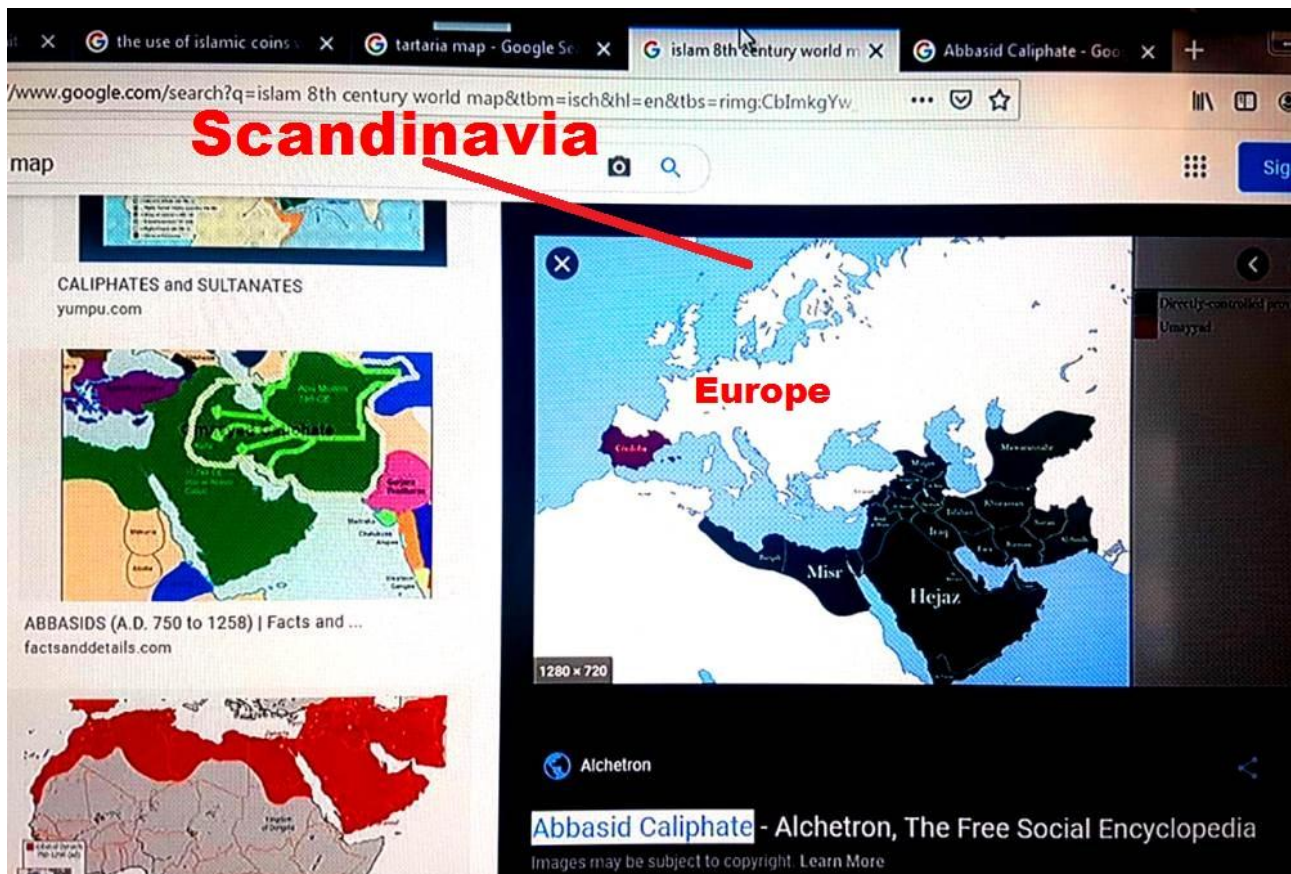

It was totally clear that Arabic was the language of religion for the Russians and the Slavs. Arabic was their language, not the language of their enemy. The Arabic Koran was part of their religion and their way of life

Evidence shows that the Arabic language was the main global language before the Renaissance.

Anatoly Fomenko has pointed out that it is “not” correct to say that the Arabic writing on these weapons came from the Middle East. There was too much evidence which showed that the Arabic language and the Arabic Koran was part of Europe

Many researchers have pointed out that the words: - Arabeian and European were originally the same word, but today they are pronounced differently. Arapeian is actually Erapeian or Eropeian or European

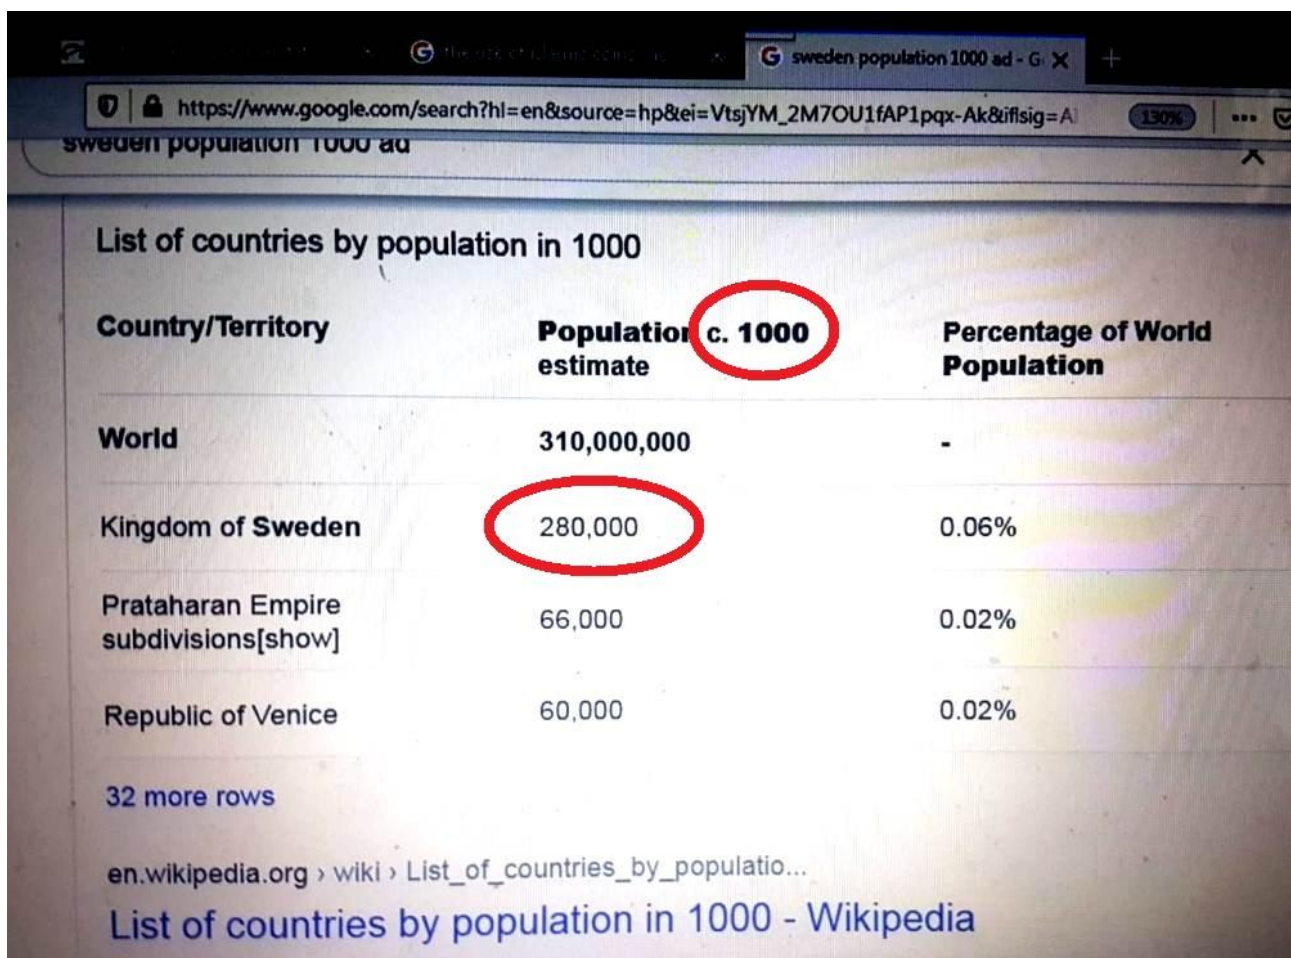

According to historians, during the Dark Ages or Middle Ages, the Muslims or Arabs lived mainly in the Middle East region.

Countries like Norway and Sweden were very far away from that region. This was the Dark Ages, when Northern Europe was not developed, and to ride by horse to the Middle East would take a long time. It seemed unrealistic because there were supposedly no proper roads at the time and the countryside was not modern like it is today

During and after the Renaissance, books in the language of the Arabic Koran were being destroyed in Europe and in many places throughout the world.

Anything in the language of the Arabic was being destroyed. Any writing on walls and buildings and engravings and coins were being destroyed. Even with all this destruction, a lot of evidence survived. History was being fraudulently invented. Fake world history was created along with fake artefacts for museums as well as fake coins

sweden population 1000 ad

https://www.google.com/search?hl=en&source=hp&ei=VtsjYM_2M7OU1fAP1pqx-Ak&tiffsig=Al

sweden population 1000 ad

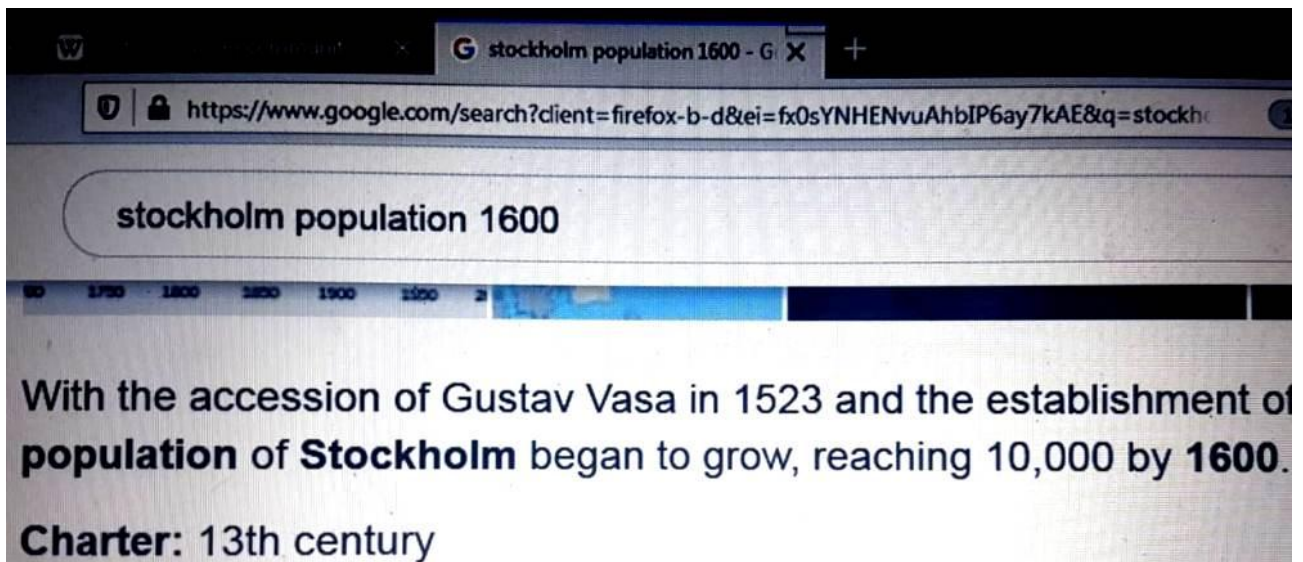

List of countries by population in 1000

Country/Territory	Population estimate c. 1000	Percentage of World Population
World	310,000,000	-
Kingdom of Sweden	280,000	0.06%
Prataharan Empire subdivisions[show]	66,000	0.02%
Republic of Venice	60,000	0.02%

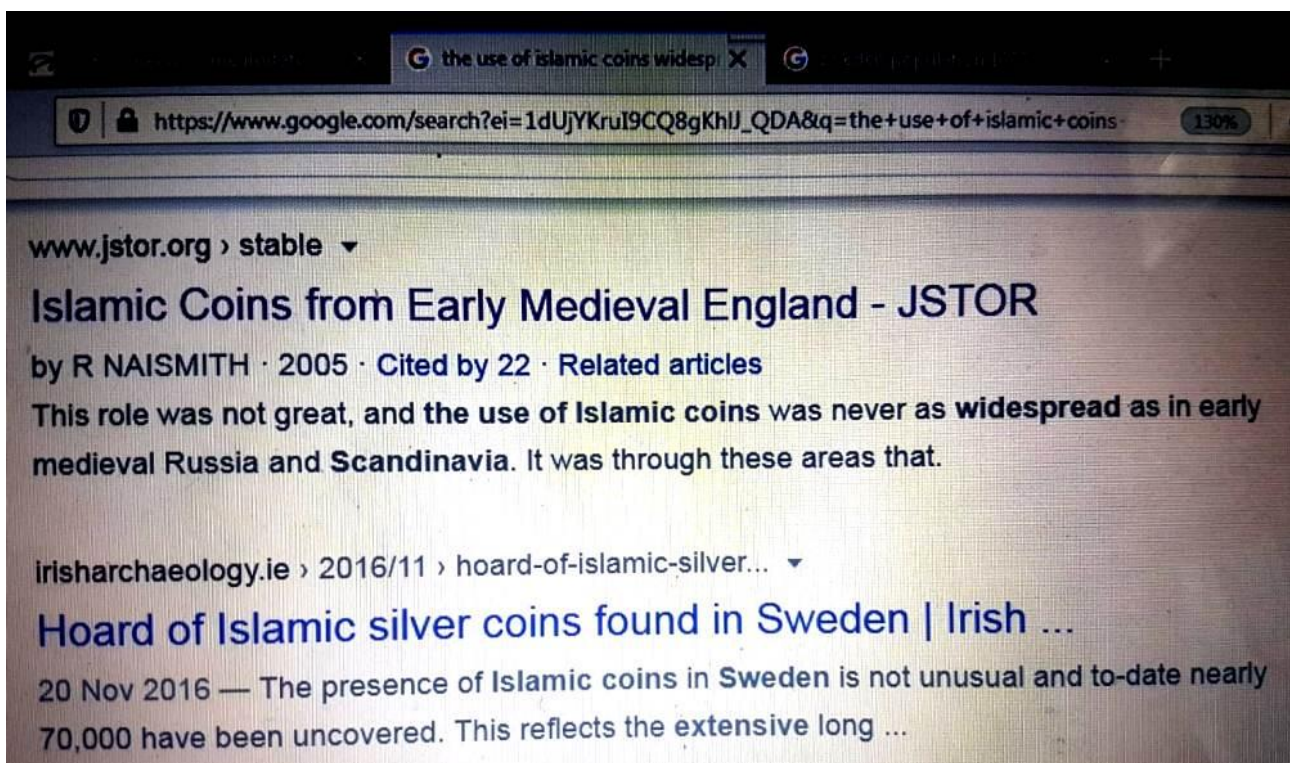

32 more rows

en.wikipedia.org › wiki › List_of_countries_by_populatio...
List of countries by population in 1000 - Wikipedia

The population of Sweden according to historians in the year 1000 AD was only 280,000 people and they lived mostly in the countryside

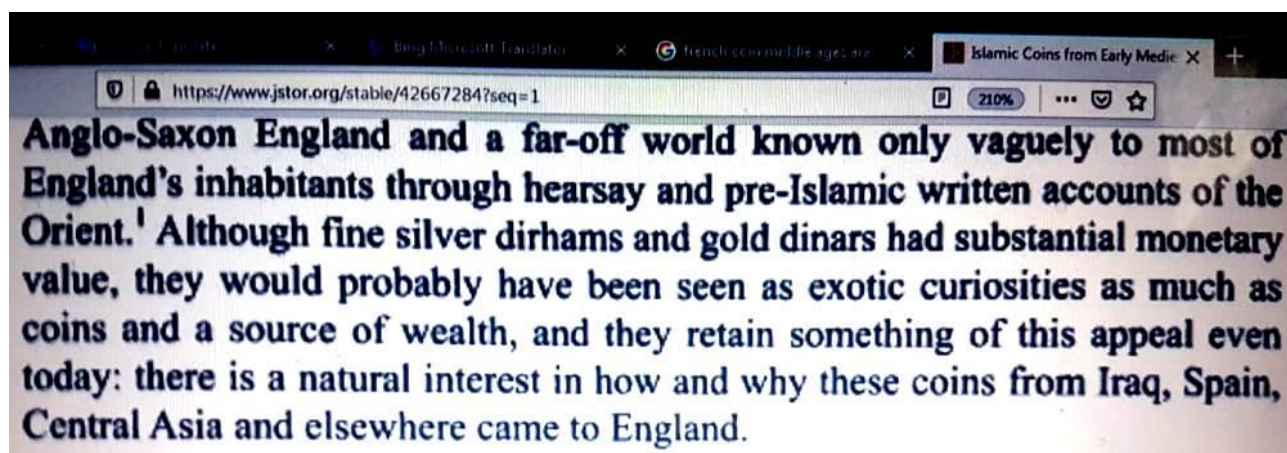

In 1600, during the Renaissance, Stockholm was a village with around 10,000 people. In the year 1200, it is estimated that a few hundred people lived in the city, maybe 1000 or 2000 or 3000 people

Although not many people lived in Sweden, around 70,000 Arabic coins have been found there. Many more have been found in Norway and Denmark and England. In fact, thousands of Arabic coins have been found all over Europe. With all the destruction of anything with Arabic writing, yet much evidence still remains today. This region is so far from the Middle East, and with very few people living there at the time. To find so many Arabic coins in that region made no sense, because not many people lived there. The story that historians told the world, seemed to be a fraud

Historians claim it was just trade or they were kept as souvenirs or as items of interest or decoration. Did not historians state that the Arabic Koran was the enemy of Europe at the time of the Middle Ages? Was there not Crusades and killing of people who followed the Arabic Koran during this time, according to historians? If you hate something, you normally do not keep it as a souvenir or decoration. This does not make sense

Historians claim that these coins with writing in the language of the Arabic Koran, came from far away. They came from the Middle East, at a time, when it was the Dark Ages. The story did not seem to make sense. Were these actually European coins? Were they local coins that local people used? The language of the Arabic Koran was the language of education, it is clear that people knew it. The world history that was created during and after the Renaissance did not make sense to researchers Coins with writing in the language of the Arabic Koran were found in France for example in 2017. There are many Arabic coins throughout France and Northern Europe.

Above is an example of an Arabic dirham found in Russia.

Many researchers have discovered that this was probably the most common coin found throughout Russia and many parts of North Eastern Europe. One thing that was clear, was that it had writing in the language of the Arabic Koran. Most coins state the words - In the Name of Allah (In the name of God) - or -

There is no God but Allah - and - other words such as: - Mohamed is the Messenger of God

Researchers pointed out that many coins with Arabic writing were found not only in European Russia but in Siberia also Coins with writing in the language of the Arabic Koran were very common in Northern Europe. This was very clear from the evidence, even though much evidence has been hidden or destroyed

Before the Renaissance, during the Dark Ages or Middle Ages, many people in Northern Europe were called Vikings by historians.

These people were Germanic people who were mostly located in Sweden, Norway, England, Scotland, Northern France, Denmark, Holland and Northern Germany. The evidence showed that these Vikings had coins which had writing in the language of the Arabic Koran

Historians called them barbarians

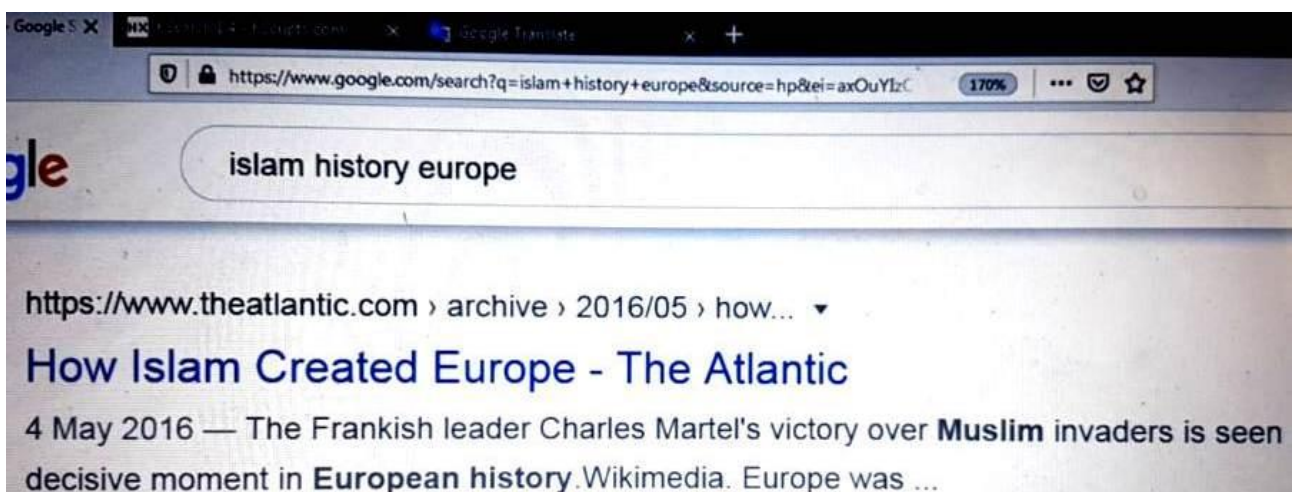

Researchers found evidence to show that the Vikings not only used coins with Arabic writing, but the word “Allah” was written on their clothes. Historians and their allies dispute this. This is not strange, because

Islamic fashion can be seen all over Europe before fashion was changed

The history of Northern Europe was clearly a lie and the original history of the Sami people has been destroyed, in the same way that the history of all Europe has been destroyed. Today, some Sami people believe the history that is told to them, that their ancestors were pagan and uneducated.

Some Sami people may have become pagan after their people were abused and destroyed, but there is no proper evidence which shows that their original civilisation was pagan. The history that we have today about the Sami people was produced and written after the 18th century, by the people who took power by force

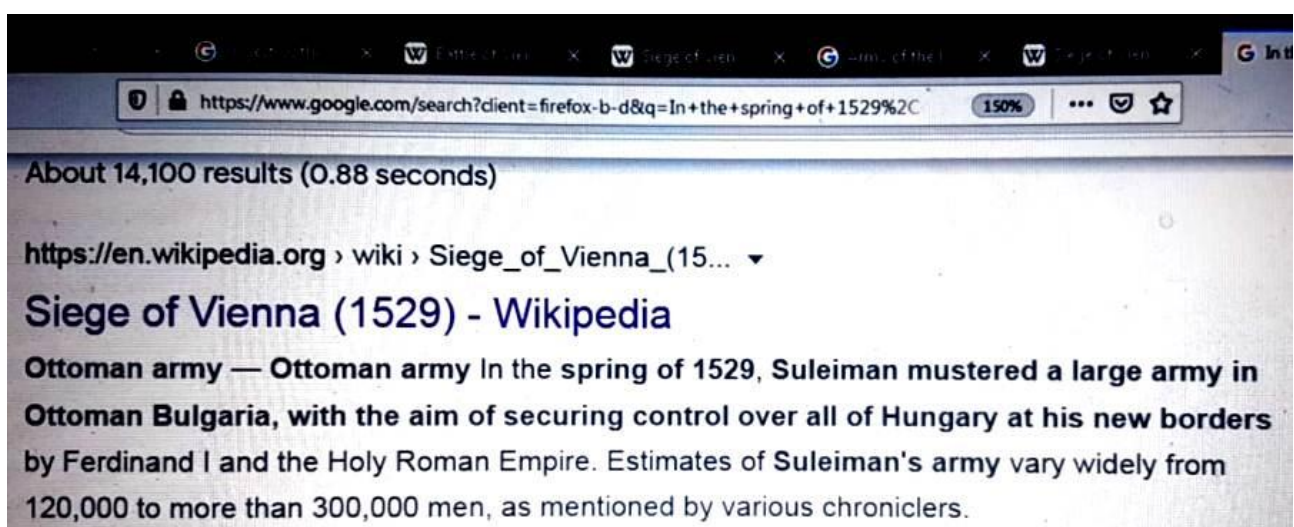

Historians try to show the world that Islam was not in Europe except for a few places such as Spain and the Mediterranean and the Balkans. They try to show the world that Muslims were invaders that were making Holy Wars against the European people, in order to force the people to convert to Muslim.

The world is not told about the true history of Islam in Europe. It was clear that Europe was part of Tartaria, and it was clear that Islam was part of Europe. So what if Islam was in Europe? The past is the past. The real question is this: - Why do they need to hide this history? Why? Is there something within Islam or the Arabic Koran that they are afraid of?

Historians mention many wars between the Ottoman Empire and the Holy Roman Empire. Researchers such as Anatoly Fomenko investigated what historians said and found that it was a forgery and a lie. The full history of Europe was full of lies and was created by the people in power, but that story is too long to mention here. Below is an example showing the lies of war between the Ottoman Empire and the Holy Roman Empire

Historians tell the world that the Muslim Ottoman Army invaded the Holy Roman Empire and the Siege of Vienna took place in 1529

Historians generally show the world that Muslims fighters wanted to make holy war against the Christians. Historians tell the people of the world that Vienna and the Holy Roman Empire in Central Europe was Christian at the time. Historians show many wars in this way: - Christianity fighting against Islam

Is this really true?

Many researchers pointed out that the evidence from old drawings show that what historians say is not true. The drawings clearly show that Christians and Muslims fighting together. They were one people. They were fighting together as a united force. Who were these “Original Christians” and “Original Muslims”?

Photo above: - Vienna during the siege of 1529, by Nikolaus Meldemann allegedly in 1530

In the centre of the picture is Stephansdom Cathedral, Vienna. On the outside of the city, can be seen an army that has come to attack the city

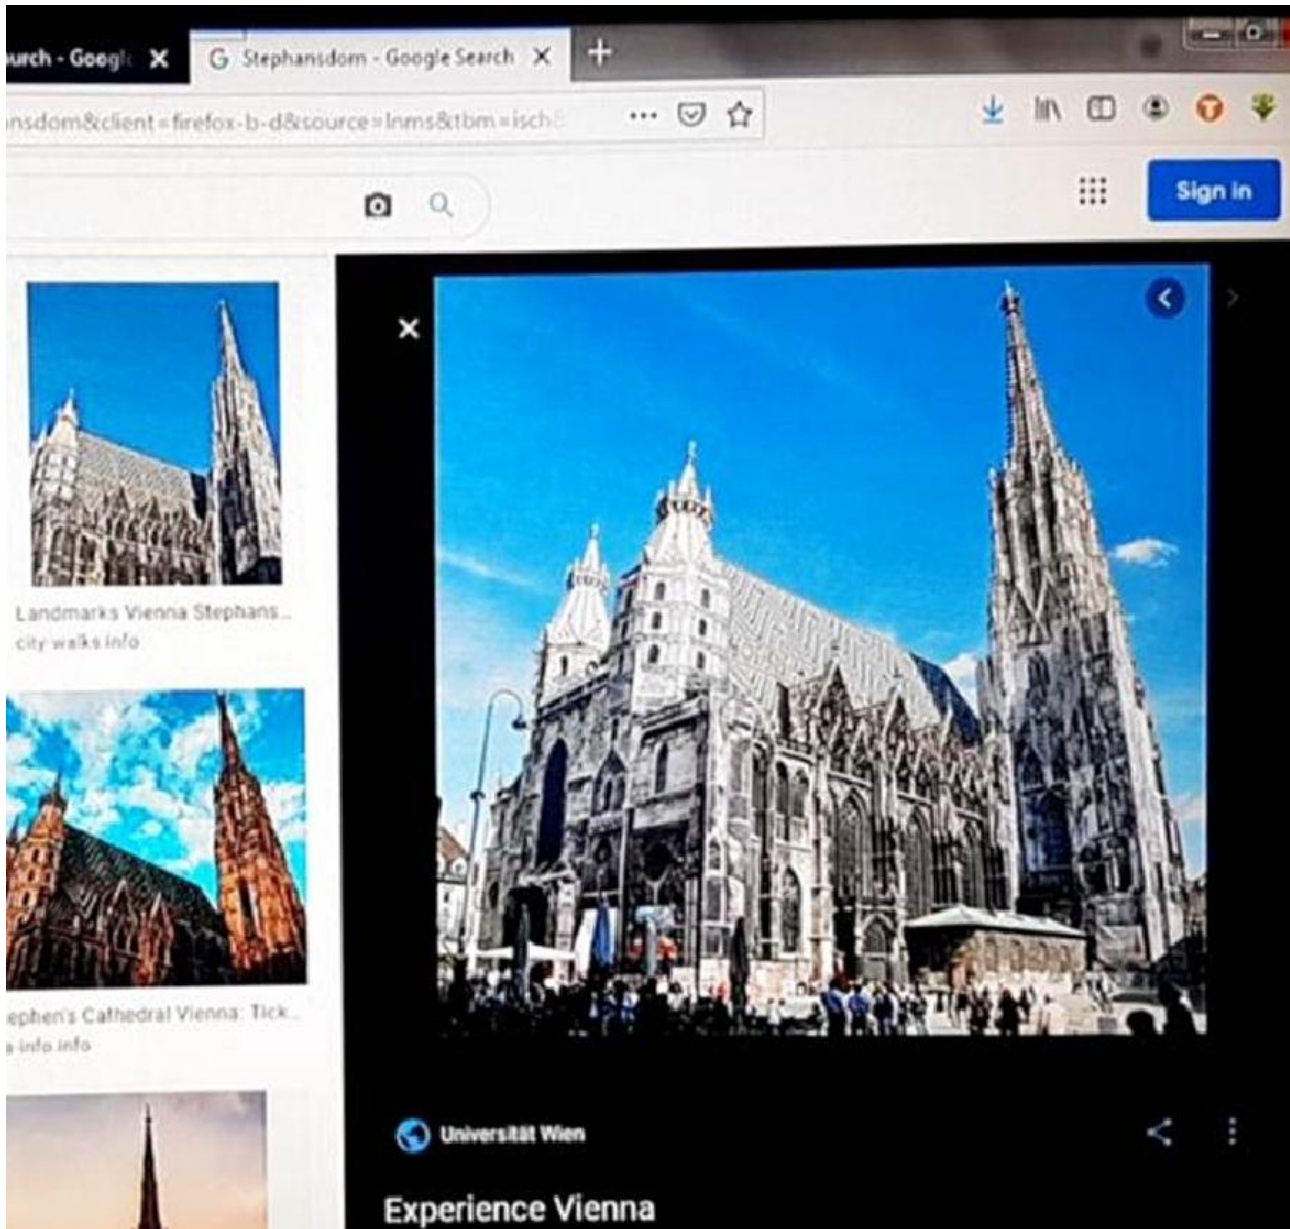

Photo above - Stephansdom Cathedral, Vienna

Stephansdom Cathedral is a Gothic Cathedral.
Historians say that it is a Christian building, that was built during the Middle Ages

Photo above - enlarged area of the Cathedral of Vienna
during siege of 1529, by Nikolaus Meldemann in 1530

In the photo above we can clearly see a star and moon is on top of the Gothic Cathedral in Vienna. This is a Christian Gothic Cathedral? Or was it originally a Christian Gothic Mosque?

Photo above - enlarged area of the army that came to attack Vienna during siege of 1529, by Nikolaus Meldemann in 1530

In the photo above we can clearly see that the army who came to attack Vienna had flags with crosses and the star and moon. This is a Muslim army or a Christian army? Historians said that it was a Muslim army which came to make a holy war against the Christians. The evidence did not match what historians said “Original Christians” and “Original Islam” must have been totally different from what we are told. The original meaning of these symbols must also be totally different from what we are told.

Historians make many excuses and say that the moon and star was placed on the Cathedral to insult the Muslim Ottomans. This was clearly a lie because the Ottoman army had flags with crosses and stars and moons. Many researchers believe that this story was fraudulently invented and fake inscriptions were added to the moon and the star that was on top on top of the Gothic Cathedral in Vienna

The history of who was fighting and why they were fighting was clearly a lie

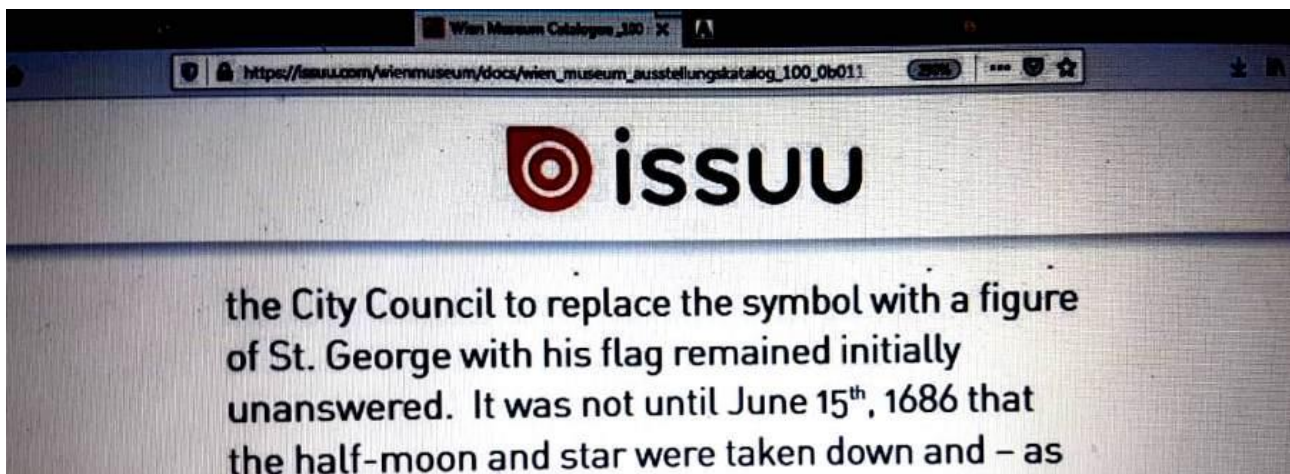

Historians say different stories. They say that the star and moon on the Gothic Cathedral of Vienna was there to insult the Muslim Ottomans. But evidence shows that the star and moon were specifically designed to be placed on top of the cathedral. It was placed on the cathedral, a long time before the Ottoman army attacked.

It was made of copper and the moon and star were created in a way so that they can rotate. Objects made of copper and found on top of many buildings all over the world. Historians say that the original meaning of the moon and star is unclear. It was clear to researchers that historians did not wish to say what it really was.

They say the meaning is not known? But then they say that it was there to insult the Muslim Ottomans. But the star and moon was placed on the cathedral many years before the Muslim Ottomans even came to Vienna. It was clear that the historians were telling lies

The Muslim flags had crosses and the Gothic Cathedral had a star and a moon?

Mysteriously the star and moon on Vienna Cathedral stayed there for over a 150 years and was removed in the 17th century. It was clear something was wrong with the history of the Gothic Cathedral of Vienna. Regarding the exact dates of what happened in Vienna: - many researchers could not verify what historians were saying, because the history was clearly a lie

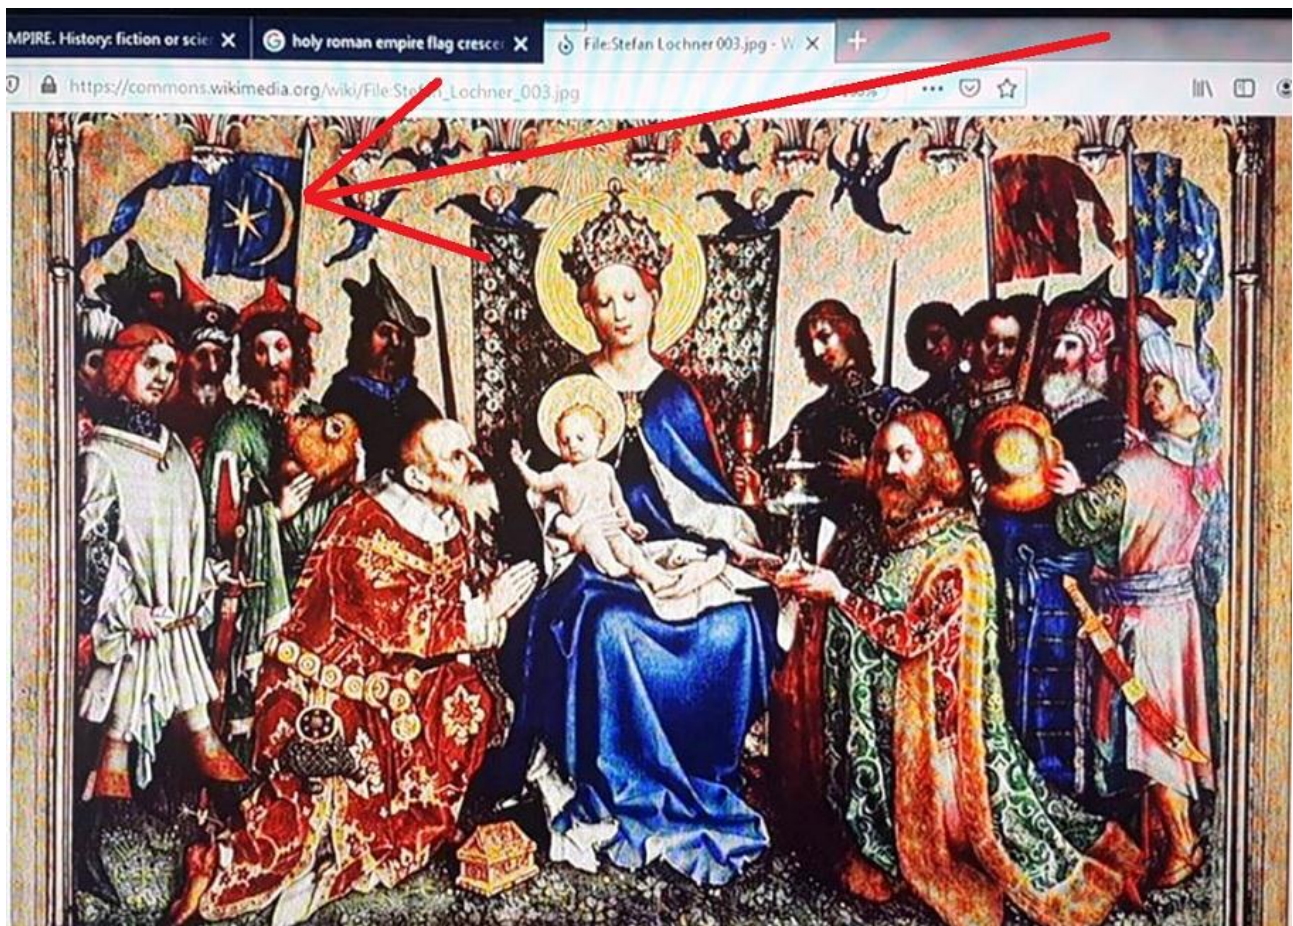

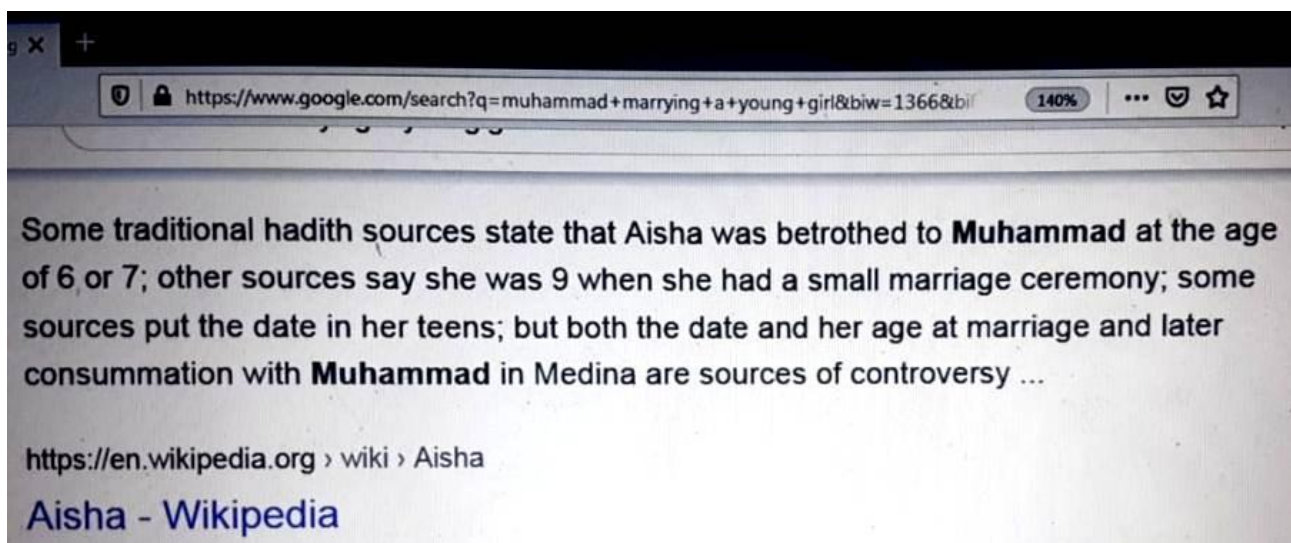

Photo above - a painting from the 15th century by Stefan Lochner

The painting is known as the Adoration of the Magi. The painting shows people who came to visit the Virgin Mary at the time of the birth of Jesus Christ and their flag had the star and moon. It is clear that the moon and the star was a symbol of the original followers of Jesus Christ. It was clearly a symbol that was used by “Original Christianity”

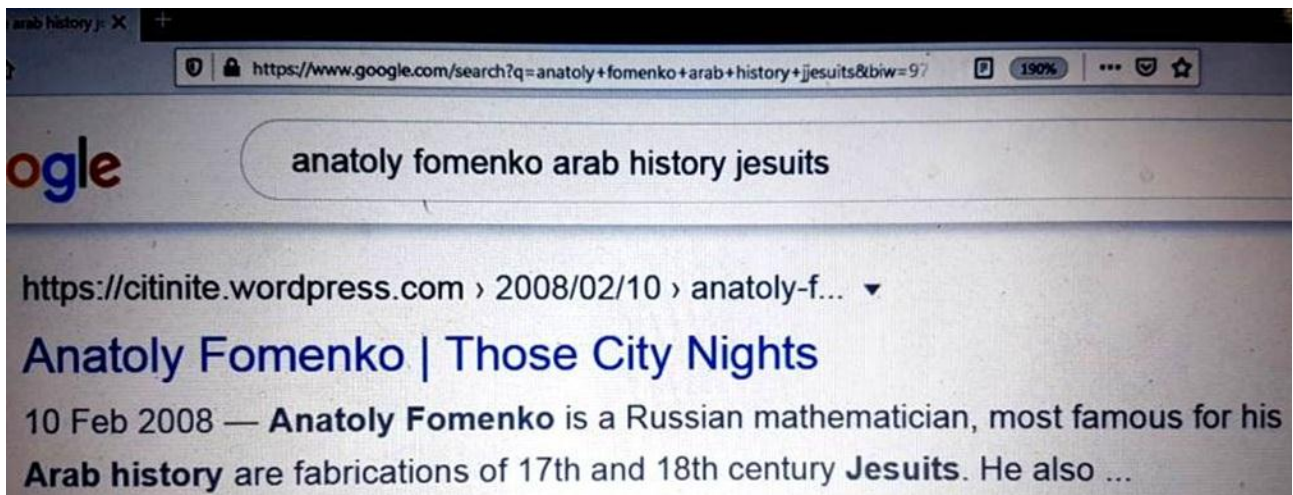

The people with the moon and star are seen on the left side of the painting or the west, and the men with turbans are seen on the right hand side or the east

Historians have created false stories regarding the origins of the symbol of the cross and star and moon, but that story is too long to mention here. Researchers found that the original followers of Jesus Christ kept these flags and the Prophet Mohamed became the leader of the “Original Christians” while the new world powers were fighting against “Original Christianity”.

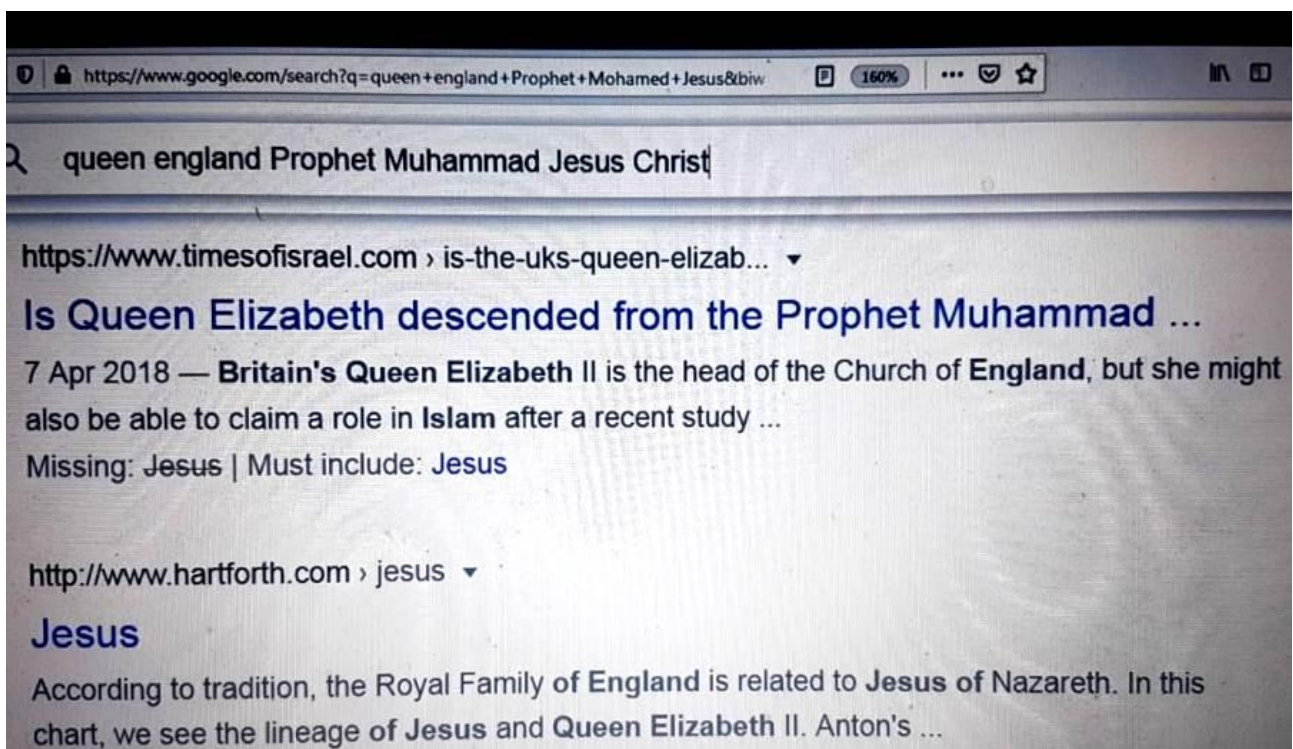

The Arabic Koran mentions the war against the “Original Christianity” and the war against the original followers of Jesus Christ, but that story is too long to mention here

False history was created to fight the new leader of the resistance against the new world system. The Church and their allies created false stories claiming that the Prophet Mohamed had married a child.

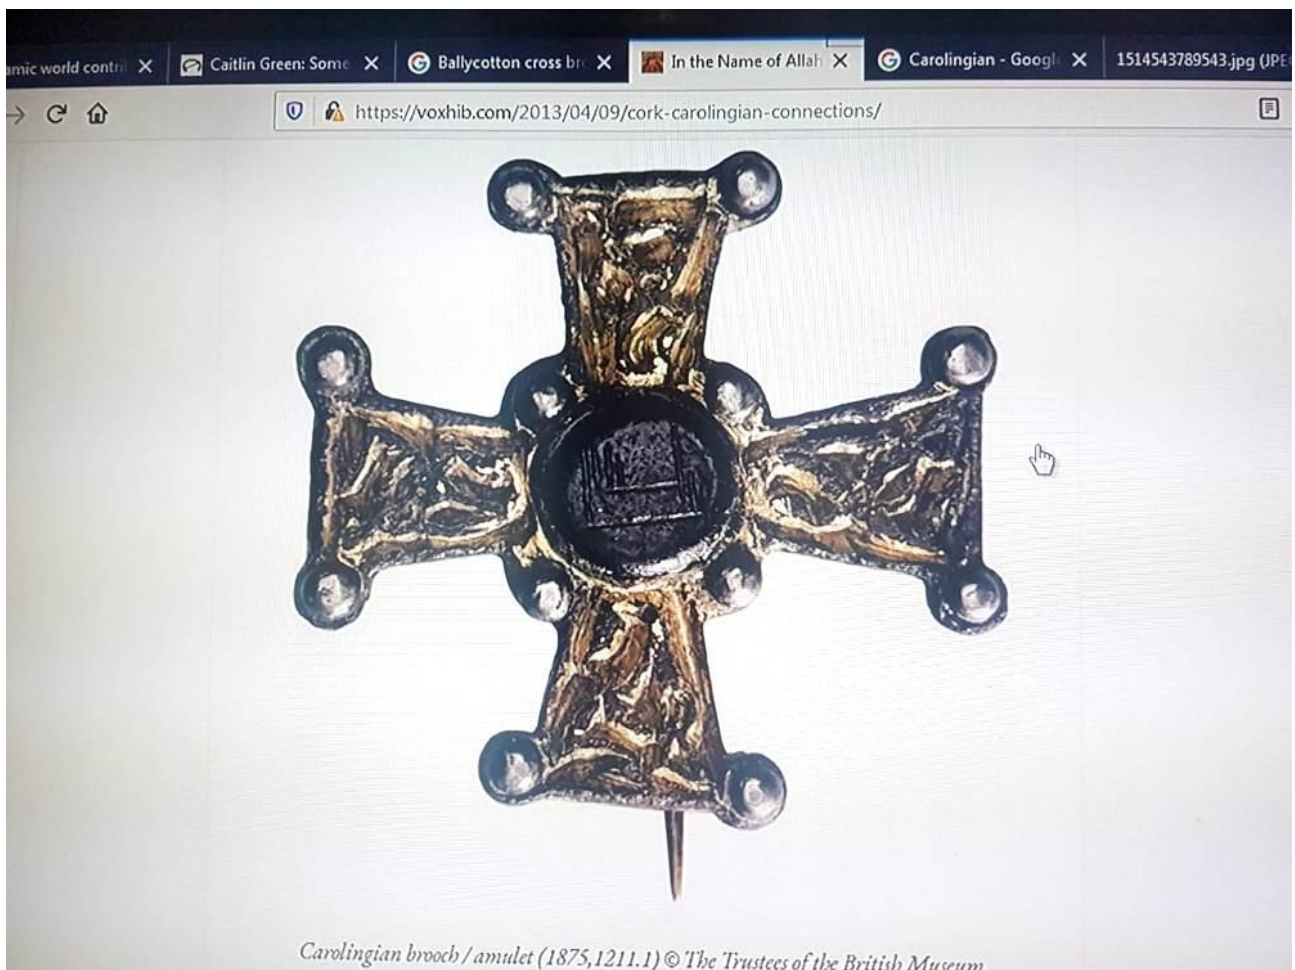

Researchers such as Anatoly Fomenko have shown evidence that lies about Arab history were created and invented by the Church and the Jesuits in the 17th and 18th century

Many researchers have started an investigation into the identity of Jesus Christ and the Prophet Mohamed. Many people have said that the Prophet Mohamed was a descendant of Jesus Christ. Other people have said that Jesus Christ and the Prophet Mohamed are related to all the royal families of Europe. That story is too long to mention here

Was the new world system created by people who were rebels in the old world order? Did the rebels of the old world order destroy the system that is now known as Tartaria? Researchers are currently investigating this matter.

The photo above is a cross that was found in Cork, Ireland. (Anglo - Carolingian Cross, Ballycotton, Ireland)

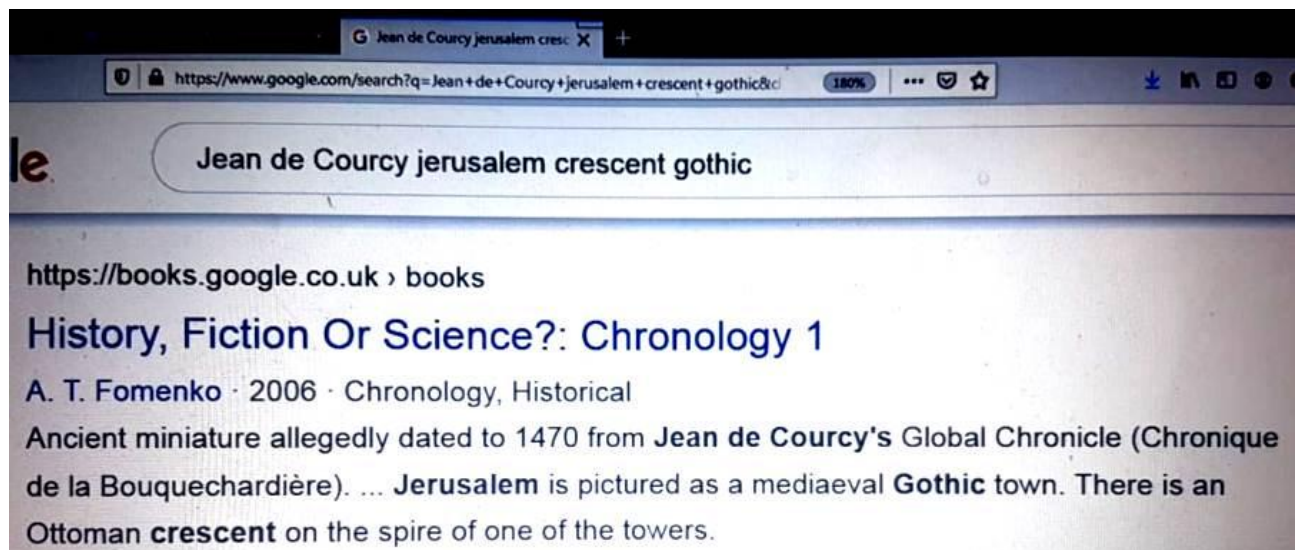

The cross has the name Allah in Arabic written in the centre with some other words. The original meaning of the symbol known as the cross seems to have been lost or hidden.

The Muslim Ottoman army had flags with crosses and stars and moons. It was clear to historians that the symbol of the cross and moon and star had a totally different meaning before the 18th century

Picture above - by Jean de Courcy of France in the 15th century, known as: - Prise de Jerusalem - the Capture of Jerusalem

Medieval and Renaissance writings and drawings was organised and controlled by the Church. Because the Church controlled such things, the dating and information regarding Jean de Courcy, could not be verified Anatoly Fomenko pointed out that the city of Jerusalem, - that was seen in the work of Jean de Courcy, - looked like a European Gothic town. And there is a Muslim Ottoman crescent moon on one of the towers.

The evidence showed that the moon and star and cross had a different meaning in the past. This also raised serious questions regarding the meaning of the word Jerusalem and also the location of Jerusalem. Was it in Europe? Was Jerusalem a Gothic town? Where was Jerusalem?

Photo above - Seville Cathedral, Spain

Seville cathedral is the largest Gothic cathedral in the world

But this building was originally a Muslim mosque that was allegedly partly destroyed and modified. The history of Spain had many lies, but that story is too long to mention here.

The moon and star being used on the Cathedral in Vienna and the history of the Cathedral in Seville was questionable. This raised the question of the true origin of Gothic churches and their original function.

Historians say that these amazing Gothic cathedrals were built by people who had little or no technology. Historians also say that people at the time used horses and donkeys to help them in construction work. Researchers are currently investigating this matter

Researchers concluded that the wars in Europe after the Renaissance were created deliberately to destroy the people and their homes in the countryside.

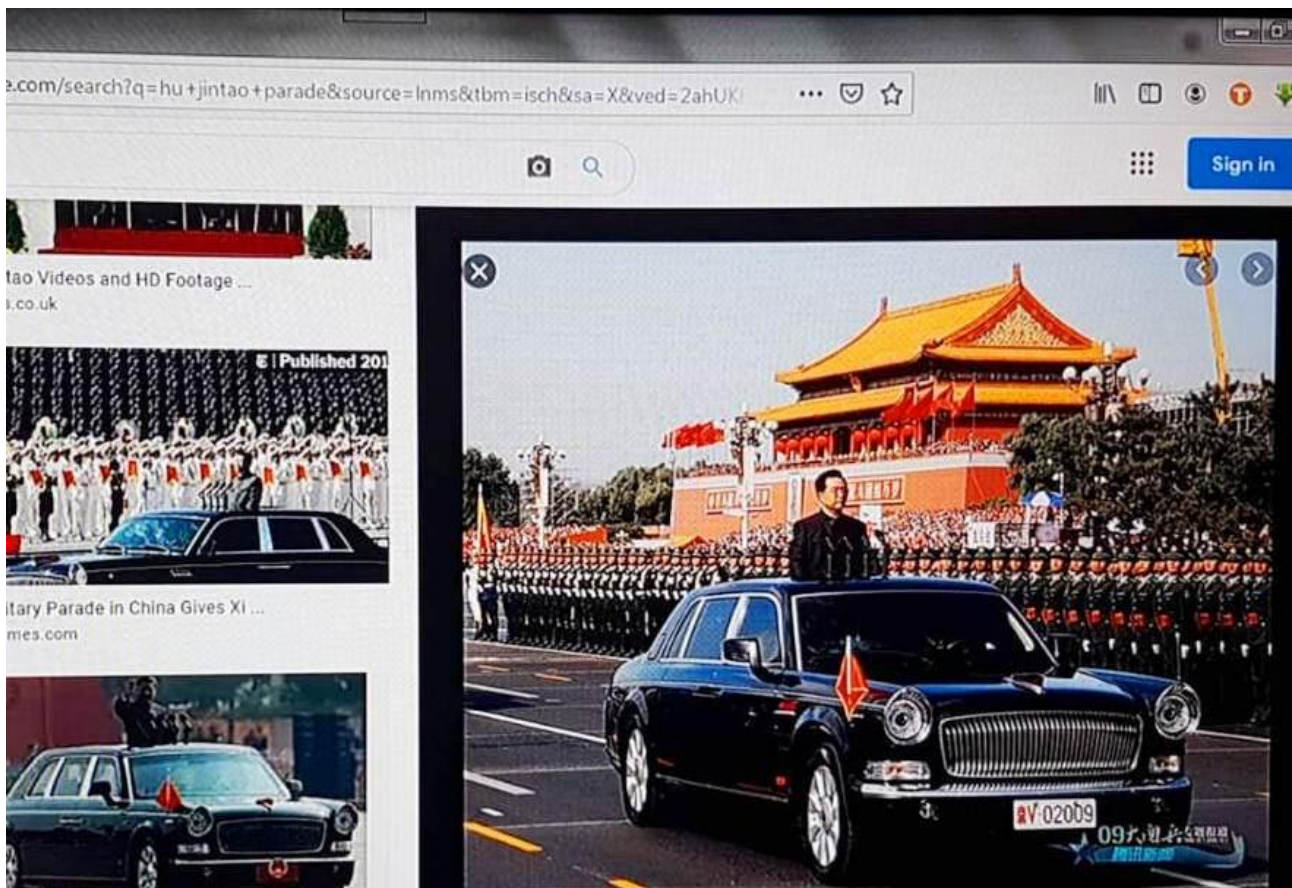

Many fathers and brothers died defending their homes and children. They were murdered. Their children were taken away to city areas or sent to new places. Many of their grandchildren were born to underage girls who were slaves that were working in factories. These girls were forced to give away their children.

The children were given a new way of life and told new world history in the schools. The children were given a new religion by the Church and a new book called the Bible.

The children were given new style food and drink according the Church and were used as slaves to work for the industrialists. Future generations were born in Europe and America.

The new generations do not know that their great grandfathers were murdered in the fields and many of their great grandmothers were raped in the wars. Today, many Europeans and Americans have accepted their new masters in the new global system and have changed their lifestyle according to the normality that was being promoted by the new global system

Imagine if the Chinese language replaced the English language in Europe and America and Canada and Australia? That would be impossible. The only way to do this is by force. You must invade and destroy the people until they accept a new language and new writing system

A short war is when you invade and then go. To change languages by force, you need to invade Europe, and this is not easy. It will take lots of planning and many battles. Many people will run to the countryside from the cities. After you invade Europe, you then need to make war against the people who run to the countryside. The war in the countryside will take a long time. The people will fight back.

Is this not what happened in Europe after the Renaissance? The wars and devastation and the change of language and the change of culture in Europe, - What were they about? This was clearly an invasion of Europe. Europe was defeated and taken over. It took a few hundred years. The new masters of Europe replaced the languages and changed the culture and changed the history

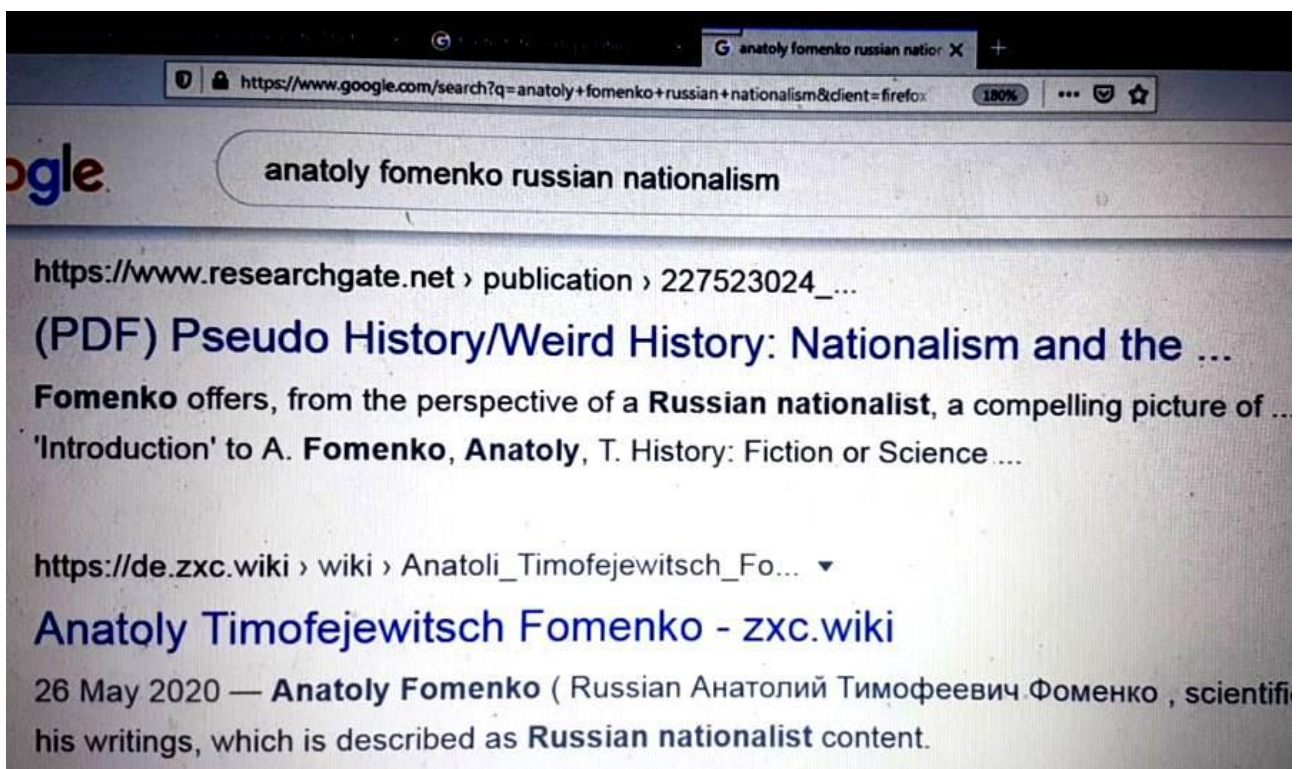

The same thing happened to the Tartarians in China and in India and in America, - the process took a few hundred years to complete. After you take over, you rebuild the cities with new management

The first step in liquidating a people is to erase its memory. Destroy its books, its culture, its history. Then have somebody write new books, manufacture a new culture, invent a new history. Before long that nation will begin to forget what it is and what it was.

Words from the Czech writer Milan Kundera: - The first step in liquidating a people is to erase its memory. Destroy its books, its culture, and its history. Then have somebody write new books, manufacture a new culture, invent a new history. Before long that nation will begin to forget what it is and what it was

When you change the history of the people, you need to make sure that they will hate anything related to their true history. Is this not what happened in Europe and America? Millions of people hate anything to do with Islam or Muslims or the Arabic Koran

Many people have said many bad and negative things about Anatoly Fomenko. It was clear that people did not like the evidence he presented. They accused him of being a Russian nationalist. A Russian nationalist...? A researcher who shows that the Arabic language and the Arabic Koran was in Europe, - is a Russian nationalist?

People can say what they want, but the evidence was all over Europe. The evidence was clear. The Arabic language and the Arabic Koran was a part of Europe. “Original Islam” was part of Europe in the past

Even after all these centuries of war in Europe, millions of European Muslims who ran to the mountain areas survived. In the photo above, their great grandchildren pray to the one God called Allah in the old language of Europe, and they also pray for the dead people of the past.

Maybe many of the great grandchildren of the people of Europe who now live in America and Canada and South Africa and Australia have forgotten that their great grandmothers were raped and murdered in the fields of Europe, but there are some people who remember the past. These people pray for all those who died. They pray in the same way as their ancestors. They do not pray in the new way that was created by the new global system

Photo above: - European Muslim women in a mosque, reading the Arabic Koran.

They are not Asian women and they are not women from the Middle East. They are European Muslim women. It is very clear that the women in the photo above are dressed similar to the women seen in Europe and America before 1900.

What do people really do in mosques today?

They pray? What is this pray? They repeat the words of the Arabic Koran. What is the Arabic Koran? The Arabic Koran tells the history of the old world, which is totally different to the history that is told by historians. The Arabic Koran mentions the history of the war against the original followers of Jesus Christ

So in simple terms, people in mosques are learning and repeating the history of the world, - which is totally different to the world history that is told by historians. It is clear why the world order is against this book called the Arabic Koran

Every record has been destroyed or falsified
every book rewritten, every picture has been repainted
every statue and street building has been renamed
every date has been altered
And the process is continuing day by day and minute by minute

Words from the English writer George Orwell: - Every record has been destroyed or falsified, every book rewritten, every picture has been repainted, every statue and street building has been renamed, every date has been altered. And the process is continuing day by day and minute by minute

Anatoly Fomenko showed the world that historians are telling lies and a few million people have now seen these lies, The Arabic Koran is a much greater threat to historians because billions of people have already accepted it today and in the past. Researchers have come and gone. Their messages do not always last for long. But the Arabic Koran that was here centuries ago is here today and will be here tomorrow.

No matter how many wars and conflicts they caused, the Arabic Koran is still here. It is the only book that has survived, from generation to generation, by oral transmission in Europe through all these wars. Every other book seems to have been written by the new global powers or they have been rewritten or modified. Not even the original Gospel of Jesus Christ or the original Torah of the Prophet Moses is available today

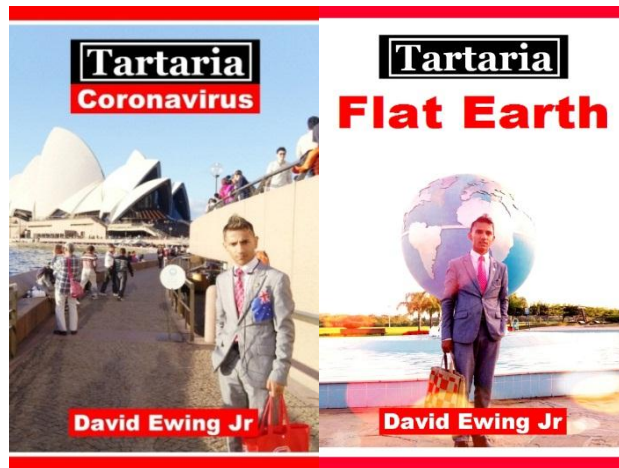

There was too much evidence all over Europe, that Europe was probably Muslim and the people followed the Arabic Koran. Europe was invaded and slowly taken over, city by city and region by region. This process took a few hundred years. The languages were replaced and the history was changed. So much of European history was destroyed during that time, but still, there is too much evidence to be found. This evidence shows that “Original Islam” was part of Europe

There are many other questions that people are asking about world history.

Good luck if you wish to know more about these subjects. Below are books about these topics

- 1 - Tartaria - Mud Flood
- 2 - Tartaria - History is a Lie
- 3 - Tartaria - Ancient Egypt
- 4 - Tartaria - Hitler
- 5 - Tartaria - Coronavirus
- 6 - Tartaria - Atlantis
- 7 - Tartaria - Transvestigation
- 8 - Tartaria - the Renaissance
- 9 - Tartaria - Flat Earth
- 10 - Tartaria - Tartar City
- 11 - Orphan Trains

© David Ewing Jr 2018